Eugene Furlong Dies Suddenly

James Eugene Furlong of 170 Lakeside Avenue, died suddenly Tuesday afternoon, after being stricken while in a store on St. Peter Avenue. He had been in indifferent health for a about a year and was 51.

Born at Jacquet River, he was a son of the late John and Gertrude (Doucet) Furlong.

Mr. Furlong was employed at Brunswick Mining and Smelting Corp. Ltd., Mining Division, as an industrial mechanic for the past 12 years and had moved to Bathurst with his family about 10 years ago. He had earlier been engaged in the plumbing and heating trade at Dalhousie.

Mr. Furlong served overseas during the Second World War. He was a member of Herman J. Good VC Branch No. 18 Royal Canadian Legion and was active in the Legion and community work.

Surviving are his wife, the former Audrey Hickey; three sons, Cpl. Anthony "Tony" Furlong, with the Canadian Armed Forces at Baden-Baden, Germany, and Gabriel and Grant, both at home.

Two brothers, Sylvester of Noranda, Que. and Hinsley of Saskatchewan; two sisters, Mrs. Walter Gavin (Freda) of Jacquet River and Mrs. Margaret Doiron, Campbellton; two half-brothers, Joseph and Harry Ehliger, both of Hamilton, Ont.; and two half-sisters, Mrs. Joseph Savoie (Malvina) of Pembroke, Ont. and Genevieve Ehliger of Montreal as well as one grandchild, survive.

Mr. Furlong is resting at Elhatton's Funeral Home. The funeral will be held at 4 p.m. Sat. at Holy Family Church with burial to follow in the parish cemetery.

Minister Addresses Northern Purchasers

A system of central purchasing introduced by the provincial government two years ago has put an end to political patronage and assured competitive prices, according to George E. Horton, minister of supply and services for New Brunswick.

Mr. Horton, speaking at the first fall meeting of the Northern Branch of the New Brunswick District, Purchasing Management Association of Canada Sept. 21, estimated the Public Purchasing Act, under which the new system operates, has resulted in a saving of 2½-3 million dollars.

Accompanying the minster to the meeting at Danny's Colonial House was J. H. Fowler, executive director of purchasing with the supply and services department.

"I can honestly say political pressure is not applied in the purchase of government supplies", declared Mr. Horton.

"We are concerned with the taxpayers' dollar so we want to get the best product at the lowest possible price."

He explained the Act requires that all provincial government purchases must go through central purchasing. He said this means purchases are made above board, are subject to public disclosure and are without political interference.

In giving other highlights of the new act, the supply and services minister explained that three tenders are required for purchases in excess of $1500.

A vendors' list is maintained and kept up to date and is made available for public inspection at any time. Potential vendors must fill out a registration form listing the commodities they supply among other pertinent information.

For purchases of $20,000 or more, tenders are called publicly through advertisements in the four provincial dailies. All tenders are opened publicly.

Mr. Horton said preference was given to New Brunswick suppliers, and then to those in the Maritimes, in Canada and offshore in that order. He said the system has resulted in an increase in clerical staff but felt in was a "small price to pay."

Asked during the question period as to how much money the supply and services department spends during the year, Mr. Horton gave a "ball park" figure of $50 to $55 million.

To another query, Mr. Fowler said there was sufficient competition locally in smaller items, the bidding is restricted to the local areas.

The minister mentioned some of the problems experienced, one being the lack of detailed specifications relating to some items. He said efforts were being made to resolve this stumbling block.

want everything on a silver platter, he said. Not today, tomorrow, but yesterday, as it were.

Later, during a radio-television interview, the PM was questioned by none other than Jim Munson, former Bathurst newsman with whom he had altercations in Ottawa not too long ago. The exchange of conversation, however, indicated a buried hatchet.

CHANGE OF PACE

While in Bristol, a small, quiet and pretty community in the St. John River Valley, during the weekend, we dropped in to say hello to Mal Hutchison, a former popular Bathurst resident.

Mal, who manages Marsh's Country Store, a comparatively new acquisition of the Ian Tower organization, has his hands full, but it is apparent that he has the situation well in hand. Rather than a jewelry outlet, like he's been used to all these years, Mal now controls a department store complex, much like Kent's in Bathurst.

One whole floor is devoted to china and it is acknowledged fact that Marsh's carries the largest collection and selection of the leading brands of dinnerware in the province.

Who buys all this merchandise, we naturally asked, since the population of the area is very much on the moderate size. As Mal explained, Bristol is half-way between Edmundston and Fredericton and there is a steady flow of customers from both centres as well as from the U.S. the border being merely miles away.

The Hutchisons who have been residing in Central N.B. since July very much miss Bathurst and their many friends here. Nevertheless they have become assimilated into their new environment and acclimatized to a somewhat different but still pleasant way of life.

SMALL WORLD

In the course of our jaunt to the other side of the province, we had a chance meeting with a prominent N.B. figure, onetime N.B. Premier Hugh John Flemming and his charming wife Aida.

Now residing permanently in Fredericton, rather than Juniper, both appeared healthy and the years have been kind as well.

Hugh John asked to be remembered to all his Bathurst area friends. He particularly mentioned Ralph Burns, who once ran as one of his Gloucester PC candidates, and Mrs. Albany Robichaud.

Strangely enough, Mr. Flemming also inquired about Albert Burraglia, who was closely associated with him during his active political days. We could not have done without Albert, the ex-premier commented.

Little did either of us know at the time that the former Bathurst engineer, inventor and promoter, had died in California only two days previously.

Mrs. Flemming remains very actively associated with the Kindness Club, a provincial organization she founded and which is aimed at the preservation of wildlife and the humane treatment of domestic animals.

PRIME MINISTERIAL VISIT IS COMMEMORATED

Conforming with a request from the Bathurst Tree Commission, and as a first official act since her appointment as minister of National Revenue, Hon. Monique Begin planted trees in Bathurst last week. These included two sugar maples in Coronation Park and ten of the same specimen in Centennial Park, Parkwood Heights.

Among the ten cabinet ministers who accompanied Prime Minister Trudeau to the city, Miss Begin is shown here performing the task. Assisting her is Mrs. Florence Rutledge, Tree Commission chairwoman, while looking on, from left, are Irwin Tribe, City Councillor Jean-Paul Lavoie, Rev. T.H. Drillen, of NRDC, Herb Breau, MP, and Marvin Bolder.

To formulate plans for and to supervise the planting, setting out, maintenance and care of trees on the streets and lands of the city.

To protect trees within the city from injury or destruction by insect pests or disease and to provide for the spraying of trees with insecticides and fungicides.

To encourage proper pruning, protection and replacing of all trees within the city.

To enter upon any lands within the city for the purpose of inspecting trees to determine they are hazardous to persons or property or affected by disease or insect infestation.

To determine whether a tree or limb thereof within the city is hazardous to persons or property or so affected by disease or insect infestation as to endanger the life or health of other trees.

To order the removal of a tree or limb found to be hazardous to persons or property or so affected by disease or insect infestation as to endanger to life of other trees.

Limited Manufacturing Seen As Major Problem

Specific problems encountered by the Chaleur Regional Industrial Commission as well as its objectives were outlined Thursday to Prime Minister Trudeau and nine members of the federal cabinet.

He described the region with a population of 42,000 as two-thirds urban and including the City of Bathurst with a trade area in a radius of approximately 30 miles.

Zeroing in on the problems, Mr. Lenihan said a majority of local business entrepreneurs in the region lacked even the basic knowledge required to successfully operate a business venture.

Secondly, development opportunities and growth potential in the areas of manufacturing should be clearly identified, stated the brief, if the Chaleur Region is to present comparative advantages that would make it a "least-cost location" for certain types of industries.

The Chaleur Commission is concerned about the availability of venture capital for businessmen due to the lack of confidence in the region's growth potential and the negative response, both shown by the chartered banks.

"Development programs have emphasized the expansion and manufacturing and neglected the service function as a major component of the economic base," stated the brief in outlining fourth impediment.

Development outside the incorporated areas when it is not accompanied by planning is another concern.

"Ex-urban sprawl, a very acute problem in the Greater Bathurst area, which is to a certain extent fostered by DREE grants without locational strings attached, should not go unchecked," the Commission told the Prime Minister and his Cabinet.

"We hope that federal assistance to upgrade the Bathurst Municipal Airport to Class 2 will be forthcoming," stated the ninth point in the brief.

"A natural deep-water winter port at Belledune awaits completion, only one-third of the investment initially planned having been made at Belledune."

"Contrary to the conclusions of the Northeast Transportation Study that there is an advantage for regional commodities to be handled through further facilities outside the region, nothing has been done to take advantage of existing facilities," the Chaleur Commission charged.

Another problem cited was a manufacturing base which is "too narrow and lacks diversification". Thus the economy of the region is seriously affected by fluctuations in the market for primary products.

"The Chaleur Industrial Commission believes the limited manufacturing base of the region is the single most important problem to be dealt with and that the proposed GDA sub-agreement on the Northeast should make provision for improvements in this area."

"The commission firmly believes that the export of semi-processed minerals for Northeastern New Brunswick should not be allowed to continue indefinitely while our rate of unemployment is among the highest in Canada."

Therefore, the Commission feels the federal government should review existing policies relating to industrial incentives to make possible the establishment of additional smelting and refining facilities at Belledune if such a venture is shown to be technically feasible but not economically attractive.

The brief by the Economic Expansion Commission of the Gloucester County Peninsula, as presented by its president, Fernand Lanteigne, had four main points.

Since the fishing industry in that region represents 30 per cent of all the fish caught in the province, the Commission feels it is justified in asking for help in carrying out necessary maintenance and repair of ports in the region.

With respect to the peat moss industry, the Commission sees its full development as a major step towards reducing high unemployment in the region. Mr. Lanteigne said the peat moss industry here represented the second largest production of its kind in Canada and the largest in New Brunswick.

Especially valuable, the Commission submitted, would be the finishing of the product right in the region.

Turning to tourism, the brief referred to attractive projects underway which cannot be completed due to lack of funds.

Judiciary Will Debate Issue

The common law is the foundation of our legal system – but for how long? Does judge-made law still have a major role to play, or does the future belong entirely to legislation and administrative tribunals?

Judges, academics and members of the bar from Canada and the United States will debate the issue – "Is common law dead?" during an international conference Oct. 1 and 2 at the Weldon Law Building, Dalhousie University.

Co-sponsoring the event are Dalhousie's Faculty of Law and the University of Maine Law School. This establishes a link between the academic communities as well as the various sectors of the legal profession.

The role of the judge in common law, the evolving concept of common law, and the directions being taken by current caselaw will be analyzed and criticized. All lawyers are invited to participate.

Kappas Designated Three-Star Chapter

The meeting was a "model" meeting for guests; each committee chairman explained the purpose and duties of their committee for the benefit of the guests.

The "rushing party" held at the home of Betty Lou Whitehead was reported as successful, with seven guests and the chapter's social sponsor Mrs. Louise Leger being present.

Correspondence from Beta Sigma Phi's international headquarters revealed that Kappa has been designated a "Three-Star" chapter this year.

A report was given by Ann Crozier on the executive co-ordinating council meeting held at the home of Jill White. It was announced that a Valentine ball will be held at Danny's Feb. 12 with music by Mystics. It will include a buffet meal followed by a dance. It was also revealed the next Theatre New Brunswick production in Bathurst, "Daughters-In-Law", will be taken care of by Kappa Chapter.

The cultural program for the evening was on literature and poetry, and was given by Lexie Martin.

Mrs. Martin enlightened the group by presenting various poems from the early nursing-song period to modern times. A definition of poetry and its various forms were given.

This was followed by a short quiz in which the definition of figurative was offered, and next, a song written by a popular singer, Barbra Lee.

The final portion of the program dealt with poems relating to children and finally, everyone was given a poem entitled, "Where A Smile Begins". It is as follows:

Would you like to know where a smile begins
Before it comes out on your Face?
Deep down in a thankful and happy heart,
It has its dwelling place.
A happy thought or a pleasant word
Will always draw it out.
But a selfish thought or a word unkind
Will frighten it back no doubt.
It starts in the heart and runs to the lips,
It twinkles the eyes and lights the face,
Making it sunny and fair.
If you doubt my word, just watch, for a day
The way you are feeling within,
And see a thankful and happy heart
Is where your smile begins.

(By M. Lucille Ford)

The chapter's meeting concluded with lunch served by the hostess Mrs. St. George and Ann Crozier.

Trudeau Trailings

From Prime Minister Trudeau's visit to this area last week, two messages have emerged:

1. New Brunswickers have never had it so good, even with wage and price controls. The past three years in New Brunswick have seen the greatest investment boom in Canada, with the exception of Alberta. The people of the North Shore no longer have to leave the region to find work; they have a chance to stay home and live with their families.

2. The federal wage and price control system is working. It is not popular, but it is getting the edge on inflation. Wage settlements are higher in spite of restraints. A year ago the rate of inflation was 11 per cent. Today it has faded to six per cent. By 1978 - he trusts - it will have fallen to four per cent, which is the goal of the anti-inflation program. Everything is looking good.

Well, not quite.

With the first message, there will be disagreement, and justifiably so in terms of relative prosperity.

New Brunswickers are still dickering for dollars at the same old stand, their unemployment the highest in Canada and their per-capita incomes far below the national average.

In terms of investment, the federal Foreign Review Act has interposed itself between this province and its potential. The cutback in national investment has affected New Brunswick, a province which needs every type of investment, foreign and otherwise, and capital, particularly risk capital.

With his second message, the Prime Minister was on more solid ground.

Wage and price controls were essential. Price gouging by business and exorbitant demands by labor had us on the skids. There had to be discipline. And the Prime Minister imposed it.

Wage controls came first. They were the easier to handle. And, to the fury and frustration of labor in general, they have taken effect.

Price controls were another matter, and there is great doubt that they have been effective.

The federal government's current propaganda about the value of the anti-inflation board's control of prices brings skepticism. It speaks of price rollbacks; it says nothing specific about price controls at the top.

The general feeling is that labor has been the fall guy for the business culprit. That is not a fair assessment, but the government has done little to correct the misunderstanding. Belatedly, it is trying to show that its controls apply to both wages and prices.

Only action will suffice. It has to prove conclusively that prices are being held in check to the same extent as wages.

But the principle is right, and controls have to be maintained in the face of all opposition. Mr. Trudeau summed up the issue very aptly. Asked if unions would control wage demands and if business would hold the price line were the controls lifted, his answer was no. "A hell of a lot of little people would be the victims," he said.

So discipline is the watchword. But it has to be applied without discrimination. And to date this has not been done.

Anyone over eighty years of age to be welcomed into our clubs as honorary members.

I understand that the patrons of Bathurst Curling Club have unofficially encouraged this practice with certain elderly persons to the benefit of all.

Well-Aged.

Viewpoints Two Political Visits

Shippegan, N.B.
September 27, 1976

The mayor of Shippegan accompanied the minister of transportation on the Island last week and seems to be well determined in the creation of political capital for himself and the Progressive-Conservative Party in the next provincial general election in 1978. It is understood the chief magistrate will, at that time, be a PC standard-bearer for the Electoral District of Shippegan.

The mayor seems to be fading into oblivion by not directing his political capacities towards the next civic election, which is less than a year away, or in May or June, 1977.

It is well-known that the citizens and ratepayers of the Town of Shippegan are well-aware of the necessity of bringing new blood into the composition of the next town council, not only by the change of the mayor but also a change of all the councillors of the municipality.

Premier Pierre Elliot Trudeau, on his short visit to the Maritime Provinces, did have a very poor reception in Prince Edward Island and in the City of Saint John, N.B.

A statement previously issued from the federal capital said that the object of the trip to the Maritimes was to come in contact with the farmers, fishermen and fishermen's associations. One would just wonder that the only place in the fishing County of Gloucester, where he visited, that he found no fishermen, fishermen's associations, but rather a home for senior citizens.

Hon. Mr. Trudeau should have visited Shippegan, Caraquet and Lamegue. He would have found fishermen organized into cooperatives in Lamegue; the third most important seaport in the Maritimes in Shippegan, with its over 80 modern fishing craft, and its five large fish plants employing hundreds of workers.

Apparently the federal member for Gloucester is little interested in the fishing industry, if he acted as the guide for his political chief in the County of Gloucester.

Less Idleness Less Mischief

Bathurst, N.B.
September 27, 1976

We hear the public and our city councillors crying about how mischievous or bad our children are today and keep talking about curfews! How about having things going in this city to keep them busy!

For example our only swimming pool at the High School sits idle till after Xmas because our city fathers say they probably can't afford to run it all year through.

We have a bunch of energetic, willing and competitive youngsters who can and would use the pool "right now". We have qualified teens who are just as "willing and anxious" to help them.

These young people were required or asked to compete with other cities and with only a few weeks of practise, came out all right, but they could do much much better if they have the use of the pool all year round.

So, Mr. Mayor and city councillors, since we have no recreation director, please get on the ball and try to do this little for our citizens of tomorrow.

Concerned Parent.

Some Impressions Of Trudeau Tour

Bathurst, N.B.
September 27, 1976

The Prime Minister and his mini-cabinet have visited the Atlantic Provinces during the past week and left some impressions, some good some bad!

It matters not from which angle we look. One fact emerges and that is the real reason for the drop in Liberal popularity in recent polls. Is not due entirely to wage and price controls. On the contrary, it has become quite apparent that Ottawa's bilingualism program has done more to arouse the man on the street than any other legislation introduced.

The sailing was smooth in the Northern part of N.B. where there is a large French population. On the other hand the Southern part of N.B. and the people of P.E.I. were very hostile to the Prime Minister and his group. Had there been more open line radio shows and more open discussions with the press, we may have heard more of the real reason for public concern.

At any rate Mr. Trudeau will always be remembered as the Prime Minister who successfully dug the political grave for future French speaking leaders. His attitude will totally determine their fate!

Mr. Trudeau forgets that English Canada elected him and his party to put the Quebec problem at rest, but this has not occurred. As a matter of fact the Quebec problem is much worse now than it was a decade ago, and there is nothing good in sight. What with Bill 22? The Quebec National Assembly, "What Nation?", the Prime Minister of Quebec? One former Prime Minister of Canada was taken to Quebec City to lie-in-state rather than Ottawa, the only government that he was ever elected to serve! And so on and on we could go with absurd and bellicose behavior by Quebec!

In national elections to come voters will break party ranks simply to ensure that another Quebec prime minister is not elected to protect the remainder of Canada, as the Western Provinces have demonstrated in the past two elections!

CHIEF FRANK BRENNAN

Urges Caution Against Fires

Inspecting schools and conducting fire drills are part of the program planned in observance of Fire Prevention Week, October 3 to 9, according to Chief Frank Brennan of Bathurst Fire Department.

While noting that this annual concentration on fire prevention extends for only 6 days, Chief Brennan and members of his brigade remind the public that fire prevention should be a constant program the year around.

"Fire, do you really think it can't happen to you? the chief asks in a special Fire Prevention Week message.

Mr. Brennan then goes on to say:

"Traditionally, basements and attics are gathering places for a family's junk - old clothes, papers, half-empty paint cans, along with oily rags.

"Please check these areas for possible hazards. Have heating appliances inspected and cleaned regularly. Do not over load electric circuits.

"In case fire does occur, have an escape plan for your family."

ALBERT BURAGLIA

Engineer Had Notable Career

The death of a former Bathurst man, Albert Buraglia, of Covina, California, occurred there Sept. 24. He was 72.

Born at Vallecorsa, Italy, near Rome, he came to Canada with his parents in 1907. The family lived in Woodstock before moving to Bathurst in 1913.

Mr. Buraglia completed his elementary and secondary school education and was awarded the Lieutenant Governor Josiah Wood medal and the silver medal for highest scholastic standing upon graduation. He was an accomplished pianist.

Graduating with honors from the University of New Brunswick in civil engineering in 1924, Mr. Buraglia then completed post graduate work at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Mr. Buraglia was engaged as town engineer in Bathurst, Chatham and Woodstock until he moved to Quebec in 1928. He became a chief engineer and construction supervisor for Dufferin Paving Company in Ontario and as such was engaged in bridge and road construction in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario. He designed the boulevard in the New Brunswick centre of Grand Falls.

Returning to his native province in 1950, Mr. Buraglia obtained a patent the following year for ice-free roads, an achievement which was recorded in various news publications including Time Magazine.

Prior to taking up residence in California, Mr. Buraglia directed the 1952 byelection campaign which saw the late Aubany M. Robichaud win the Gloucester constituency for the Progressive Conservative Party that year. He was also active on the provincial political scene at the time Hugh John Flemming was elected premier.

In California, he was a consulting engineer in various road construction projects and in 1964, was obliged to become semi-retired due to ill health. His latest undertaking was the designing, drafting and preparation for a patent of a new concept to combat coastal soil erosion.

Mr. Buraglia remained a Canadian citizen and always wanted to return to Bathurst.

His first wife, the former Elizabeth "Betty" (Deveraeux) McKenna, died previously.

Surviving are his wife, the former Mary Brutosou; three daughters, Mrs. James Browning (Natalie "Sally" and Mrs. George White (Barbara "Bobby"), both of Windsor, Ont. and Mrs. Robert Bresser (Marina) of Susenvelt, Calif.

One sister, Mrs. Tecla Sosea of Bathurst; one brother, Herman Buraglia of Pompano Beach, Fla.; 16 grandchildren and one great-grandchild also survive.

Mr. Buraglia arrives today (Wednesday) and will rest this evening at Elhatton's Funeral Home. The funeral will be held at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church Thursday at 10 a.m. with interment to follow in the parish cemetery, St. Mary Avenue.

No Inquest Necessary

Grand Anse Coroner Gilbert Landry has ruled no inquest or autopsy necessary into the death September 22 of a 45-year-old Anse Bleu resident.

Joseph Raymond Paradis was pronounced dead on arrival at Caraquet hospital after being struck by a car driven by Leon Landry, also of Anse Bleu.

The victim had been walking along Highway 320 near his home when the accident occurred. Mr. Landry said the lights from an oncoming vehicle had blinded him, and he didn't see the victim until it was too late.

The mishap, which occurred at approximately 7:45 p.m., was investigated by Caraquet RCMP.

ironic, or an accident of life. I never expected to be a politician and a minister one day, listening to briefs."

Miss Begin's work in Bathurst consisted of studying "various possibilities for development". She spent three years working as a consultant for regional development from 1963 to 1966.

Commented Miss Begin: "When I first came here I was struck by the poverty and the complete isolation and I do not recognize that anymore.

"I see people in the community who are very alive. Bathurst has always been better off than the rest of the coast but I see happiness here that I did not come across before."

ART EXHIBIT UNDERWAY AT LIBRARY

Art lovers from Bathurst and surrounding area will be pleased to learn of an exhibit at the Nepisiguit Centennial Library by Bathurst artist Stu Gowan. The exhibition, to be on display until October 8, consists of 45 oil paintings depicting scenes from in and around the city, still life, etc. The top photo, portraying Christ's walk to Calvary, is entitled "On The Road Without End". The bottom, "Should I or Shouldn't I", was one of a series of paintings on human life and experiences.

Book Review

A Tribute To Canadian Art

By CHRIS YANEFF

No art lovers, the renowned McMichael Canadian Collection at Kleinburg, Ont., represents the most important period of Canadian art.

A tribute to that collection has recently appeared in the form of a book, entitled A Heritage of Canadian Art (Clarke, Irwin and Co. Ltd.; 196 pages; $15.95)., with text by Paul Duval.

In some ways, however, the book comes as a disappointment.

It is described as an enlarged and revised edition of A Vision of Canada, produced by Clarke, Irwin in 1973.

Anyone who has that original 1973 edition will undoubtedly be disappointed if he turns to A Heritage of Canadian Art on the assumption that it is a new work on the subject.

Granted, in this new edition, there have been added 32 full-color illustrations and more than 200 black-and-white reproductions (a total of 136 and 1,076 respectively) - but a new book it is not. To be fair to book-buyers, the publisher ought to have retained the original title.

GROUP INFLUENCE

On the positive side, A Heritage of Canadian Art does contain a broad cross-section of the unique output of the Group of Seven.

To that has been added representative works of associates and contemporaries of theirs—plus, in this edition, a greatly expanded representation of art produced by Canadian Indians and Inuit.

Students of art history will see the clear influence of the Art Nouveau movement that flourished just before World War I.

It was an exhibition of Art Nouveau works by Scandinavian painters, staged in Buffalo, N.Y., in 1913, that proved to be the catalyst for the Toronto-based Group.

Some of the seven were commercial artists and Saturday painters, when the group traveled the 100 miles to Buffalo to see the "new art" from Europe.

There were profoundly influenced by the use of pure colors as practised by Gustaf A. Fjaestad and Otto Hesselbom, especially, as well as the other Scandinavian artists represented in the exhibition.

NORTHERN MYSTIQUE

It was only natural, perhaps, that Scandinavia—an area so similar to Canada in geographical terms—should provide the inspiration for a school of art that has come to be regarded as quintessentially Canadian.

Like the Scandinavians, the Group of Seven—and the other Canadians whom they were to influence—found their inspiration in Nature. The portraits and the figure studies were, for the most part, left to the non-Scandinavian Europeans.

But whatever the Canadians may have lacked in sophistication and originality, they made up for in their talent for conveying to canvas the unique feeling of our northland.

Represented in the pages of A Heritage Of Canadian Art are not only the Group of Seven, and their associate Edwin Holgate, but also such outstanding twentieth-century Canadian artists as Clarence Gagnon, Emily Carr, J. W. Morrice, Albert H. Robinson and David Milne, as well as the Woodland Indians, the West Coast Indians and the Inuit.

The excellent introductory comment that Paul Duval supplied for A Vision of Canada in 1973 has, unfortunately, been cut down in this revised and enlarged edition.

COLOR STANDARDS

A more serious shortcoming of this edition is the publisher's failure to take the opportunity to improve upon the rather poor standard of color reproductions apparent in the original 1973 edition.

The black-and-white reproductions in A Heritage of Canadian Art are 20 per cent lighter than in A Vision of Canada.

In the color reproductions, much of the contrast has been lost, and the variations in tune are disturbing.

It's regrettable, since the entire collection is contained in only easily accessible art gallery, that the publisher didn't take the extra time and effort required to color-correct each painting.

Whatever its faults, however, A Heritage of Canadian Art belongs in any Canadian art-book collection that doesn't already contain A Vision of Canada.

The illustrations, the background text and the individual biographies do provide an excellent introduction to the superb McMichael Collection. And the price is reasonable.

YOUR BUSINESS

Labour's Idea: Social Partners

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

What's good for other people isn't necessarily good for Canadians.

A number of European countries have had some success with "Tripartism"—a system in which the so-called social partners, big labor and big business, are not only consulted by the government about the directions of economic and social policy but actually help to administer it.

Last May, the constitutional convention of the Canadian labor Congress in Quebec City approved "labor's manifesto for Canada," which urged business and government to "share their power with labor."

For the past 15 years or so, the three parties have comprised the Economic Council of Canada.

The EOC, however, is not an administrative body but rather an advisory group, turning out well researched studies such as the just-released report on efficiency in, and regulation of, banks and other financial institutions.

Big labor withdrew from its membership on other government advisory bodies last winter in a huff because the federal government had placed a ceiling—a high ceiling—on wage increases.

Now on another front it is pushing for a share of the real authority over the economic destinies of all Canadians—not just the one unionized worker out of every four or five employed Canadians.

CONCEPT VARIES

Nearly every industrialized Western European country has experimented, with such mechanisms, but there's little similarity in the approaches that each has used.

In a study of consensus policies (just published by the Conference Board in Canada), Prof. Paul Malles—a former senior EOC staff member—observes that Canada doesn't provide an ideal setting for the creation of consultation arrangements or for the attainment of consensus policies.

Canada's regions also have widely different geography, climate, and resources—unlike most European countries.

And Canadian business and labor organizations have a much more limited base and a much weaker mandate from their constituents than, say their counterparts in Sweden—where, incidentally, Prof. Malles found no central consultative mechanism nor an over-all economic planning body directly and formally associated with the main economic - interest organizations, despite a widespread impression to the contrary.

BUREAUCRACY'S SPREAD

There's another reason to reject the concept of tri-partite direction of Canadian society and the economy:

Canadians are reacting strongly against interventionist measures, Prof. Malles notes. They would welcome relief from bureaucratic processes rather than a broadening of the government apparatus. And they won't be willingly bound by measures that don't command a broad base of support among the major interest groups.

Evidence? On the labor side, there's the CLC's own plan for a national day of protest against economic policies they have helped to cut the inflation rate almost in half.

And on the business side, General Motors of Canada - while announcing that the introductory prices of 1977 models will remain unchanged from 1976 - called for a return "to the self-regulating discipline of a free marketplace" if continued economic growth is to be assured.

Consultation and consensus are necessary, as Prof. Malles contends.

But let's be sure they are broad enough to represent Canada's diversity, and that they supplement - not restrict - the market system and the political process.

CATASTROPHE

A digression is when you are down in a hole without a ladder, and a boom is when you are up in the air without wings.

Ford of Canada proudly announces

THE FORD DURAGUARD SYSTEM.

Including a new, 36 month, unlimited mileage warranty against rust perforation.

THE FORD DURAGUARD SYSTEM.

Here's what it's all about.

The new DURAGUARD SYSTEM is what goes into every 1977 North American built Ford and Mercury car to give you more corrosion resistance measures than ever before.

Read how new anti-rust processes and the increased use of other measures have enabled Ford of Canada to offer an unprecedented 36 month, unlimited mileage warranty against rust perforation.

Then read the warranty. And believe.

The average use per car of precoated steel for the 1977 cars built by Ford is more than doubled over 1976.

Precoated steel is a well-recognized rust inhibiting technique. You'll find it in many key areas of our cars, providing an effective defence against the moisture and other corrosive elements with which every Canadian car must contend.

New protective vinyl coating.

For the first time, all Ford and Mercury cars will feature a newly developed vinyl coating behind the wheel house openings. Look for it. It's a special, resilient coating that goes on under the paint to reduce the effect of stone chipping and road abrasives kicked up by the tires.

It's standard equipment. And, of all North American manufacturers, only Ford of Canada has it on all models.

Every car gets vinyl sealer.

On seams between panels. Inside wheel housings. On the underbody. Strong vinyl sealer creates a plasticized barrier against rust in many important areas on each and every 1977 North American built Ford and Mercury car.

It works.

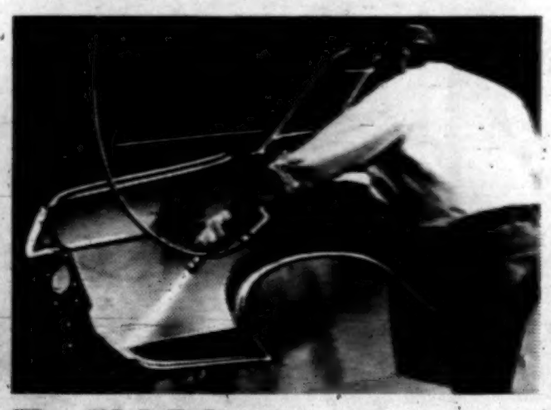
It's tough. Tough enough to help protect your car. That's why all 1977 models have a specially formulated asphalt coating on the rear wheel house areas.

You can depend on it.

Galvanized steel.

Ford and Mercury cars have this well-known rust inhibitor where it matters most. In rocker panels, critical underbody parts and other extra-vulnerable spots.



Zinc Rich Primer.

Think of Zinc Rich Primer as an undercoat of protection. It gets hand-sprayed onto key surfaces of all North American Ford and Mercury cars during assembly to assist in rust prevention with its well known protective qualities.

Aluminized wax.

Aluminized wax is a protective compound that goes into places where moisture may accumulate, such as inside the lower portions of doors and tailgates.

It goes on thick and stays on to isolate the steel from corrosive elements in the moisture.

The finishing touch.

The finish of Ford and Mercury cars plays an important part in the total corrosion control system. But it starts long before the final coat is baked on. The bare sheet metal of each car body is dipped in a phosphate bath that cleans it and leaves a treatment that enhances paint adhesion. Then the body is covered with a strong epoxy primer, either by dipping or spraying.

Three full coats of acrylic enamel are then sprayed and baked into a tough, durable, weather-resistant and glossy finish.

And there's testing. Tough testing.

The effectiveness of these rust resistance processes is determined at Ford's leading North American proving ground. Typically, the car to be tested is sprayed with a salt solution, driven through salt baths and muddy roads such as the one you see here, and placed in a heated humidity chamber for 22 hours. This grueling process is repeated 60 times to simulate prolonged exposure to the kinds of conditions we experience in Canada.

In addition, car bodies are selected at random from every North American plant, including Oakville and St. Thomas, and subjected to other rigorous salt tests.

Only Ford of Canada offers a warranty like this.

To reflect our pride and confidence in the quality, durability and anti-corrosion measures that are built into every 1977 Ford of Canada automobile, we are proud to present this warranty. It goes along with every 1977 car we build, including taxis and police cars. And it goes to show just how good the DURAGUARD SYSTEM really is.

WARRANTY

This warranty, transferable to succeeding owners, covers the cost of both labour and materials for repair of perforation of parts caused by corrosion. The basic 12 month/12,000 mile warranty covers corrosion, other than perforations, that is due to defective factory materials or workmanship. Ask your Ford or Mercury dealer for details.

THE FORD DURAGUARD SYSTEM

See your Ford or Mercury dealer for the cars with the DURAGUARD SYSTEM.

All Ford North American built 1977 cars receive all of these processes in the DURAGUARD SYSTEM. Every car receives a combination of anti-corrosion processes which is appropriate to its design, although not all cars receive the same processes in corresponding areas. Every car has the DURAGUARD SYSTEM.

Quality. Reliability. Durability.
At Ford of Canada, it's a lasting commitment.

THE WORLD OF GILBERT AND SULLIVAN OPENS CONCERT SEASON

Coming to Bathurst from England next week is "The World of Gilbert and Sullivan", a unique band of Savoyards which has enchanted audiences in many parts of the world.

Members of the Bathurst Community Concert Association, G and S buffs, and music lovers generally will not want to miss this musical event slated for Monday, October 4, at 8:30 o'clock, in the spacious auditorium of Nepisiguit High School, on Ste. Anne Street.

Six stylish and witty artists - Ann Cooper, Marilyn Smith, Donald Adams, John Cartier, Ian Kennedy, and Thomas Round - will present a potpourri of songs, sketches, patter and repartee from the full repertoire of these two masters.

The group was formed to present informally a delightful anthology of the incomparable Gilbert and Sullivan scores and lyrics, brought to life with true flair and style by experienced artists, in modern dress, without props or scenery, and with piano accompaniment.

Their first concert was in the Leas Cliff Hall in August 1963, and it was immediately obvious that this way of presenting Gilbert and Sullivan excerpts in concert would appeal to the vast Gilbert and Sullivan public.

And so it has proved. They have now given over 1000 performances in leading theatres, concert halls, large auditoriums and small village and school halls, throughout the length and breadth of the British Isles, in America and Canada, in New Zealand and Australia, etc.

Everywhere this company had had tremendous receptions from enthusiastic audiences. Their eighth tour of North America in 1976 is from coast to coast, of eleven weeks duration and is arranged by Columbia Artists Management Incorporated of New York as part of the American Bicentennial celebrations.

The Bathurst Community Concert Association, which sponsors the local performance is a non-profit organization which for more than twenty years has been bringing to Bathurst and the North Shore the best in cultural entertainment.

Company President Union Man For Day

(By Frederick Rose in The Montreal Gazette

September 23)

Despite their frequent failing at union-bosses, there is a cussedness in many executives that would make them just as effective down at the local as up in the boardroom.

An example emerged yesterday when the sometimes staid William Turner, president of Consolidated-Bathurst Ltd., took on a public challenge to play the role of a union president.

In answer to an audience request that Turner represent an absent Dennis McDermott, Canadian director of the United Auto Workers, at a Conference Board seminar, the Consolidated-Bathurst president shifted like a well-trained debater to the opposite side of the issue.

"How many of you guys have done the grocery shopping recently?" Turner asked the suited legions before him.

Without mockery but obviously relishing his role, Turner underlined the increasing gouge of taxes into take-home pay.

He touched on labor charges that the freedom of collective bargaining is sharply restricted under wage controls.

"If I were Dennis, I would defend collective bargaining in private industry — otherwise I'd be out of a job." I would underline Canada's competitive position in foreign markets," said Turner, who said automobile trade with the U.S. represented the clearest example.

No reason was given for the UAW leader's absence.

Joint Industrial Brief Shows Development Ills

Eight major drawbacks to the development of Northeastern New Brunswick were pointed out Thursday in a joint brief submitted to Prime minister Pierre Trudeau and members of Cabinet.

Three regional industrial commissions, the Restigouche Development Corporation, the Chaleur Regional Industrial Commission and the Economic Expansion Commission of the Peninsula, had input into the brief which was read by Victor Raiche, industrial commissioner for the Chaleur region.

Mentioned as major impediments to growth were high unemployment, scarcity of skilled labor due to the lack of job opportunities, a labor force participation rate below the provincial average and the need to upgrade management capabilities.

Other impediments to development listed were poor identification of the resource and manpower potential in the manufacturing sector, inadequate services to industry and a below-standard transportation network of highways, ports and airports.

"Finally," said Mr. Raiche, "our manufacturing base lacks diversification. This, in our view, is one of the most serious problems in the Northeast."

"In spite of sustained efforts on the part of federal and provincial governments over the past decade to improve the situation, the gap between the Northeast and the rest of New Brunswick has not been significantly reduced."

"Admittedly, the standards of living, housing and social services have been improved since the first FRED Agreement of 1969. But regional disparities still exist and the opportunity for the residents of the area to share fully in economic growth remains an elusive goal," it was submitted by the three commissions.

The brief stated the main reason for the "partial failure" of the revised FRED Agreement was it became a "substitute" for existing government programs and not a "supplement" as was clearly intended.

The industrial development commissions in the two counties recommended several priorities in order to close the employment gap between the region and the rest of Canada, to raise the standards of living, housing, social services and other amenities to the level of the rest of New Brunswick and to let the residents share fully in any economic growth.

Recommended were continued and broadened incentives to small industries, assistance to municipalities to provide facilities and services for secondary industry and research to identify specifically the opportunities for and impediments to development.

"The social adjustment program of the FRED Agreement should be revised with particular emphasis on the urbanization sub-program ... The education sub-program should emphasize junior high school and post secondary technical training, and adult training should be designed to prepare the labor force for industrial jobs", said Mr. Raiche.

"The Northeast Institute of Technology should be provided with the financial assistance and support to develop a complete program for the training of technicians required by resource industries in the region", continued the brief in reference to the recently-established institution in Bathurst.

The three commissions called for a regional development strategy to foster the emergence of a "regional pole" in the Northeast to counteract the trend towards centralization of industrial development in the three existing regional growth poles—Saint John, Moncton and Fredericton.

It was further recommended that those actively engaged in regional development in the Northeast should have a greater say in the administration of the proposed agreement and the implementation of programs derived from it.

To erase the region's image of "a welfare ridden industrial back-water where government handouts have become a way of life", the brief called for the promotion of the region's assets including its natural and human resources.

"Regional disparity is still very much a reality in 1976 and we believe the Government of Canada should continue to address the issue. We look forward to the continuation of the development program initiated under the FRED Agreement".

"We also look forward to policy changes as required to bring DREE programs and other development schemes in line with the requirements of the areas these programs were designed to help in the first place", Mr. Raiche said.

FLAT BROKE

It may be true that other planets are not able to support life, but it isn't easy on this one either.

DISASTERS STUDIED BY CIVIC LEADERS

Problems and responsibilities in planning for local government response to disasters were studied and discussed by about 40 mayors, reeves, aldermen and other elected officials during a recent four-day conference on civil emergency planning at the Federal Study Centre, Arnprior, Ont.

The Conference of Mayors and Elected Officials involving representatives from all provinces and the Northwest Territories was held September 20-23, 1976 under the auspices of Emergency Planning Canada.

Since the program of specialized conferences was started in 1957 a total of 28 English and 17 French language studies have been held with over 2,300 elected officials participating.

Following descriptive presentations and analyses of disaster threats with which elected officials of all levels of government might be faced, conference studies were largely devoted to problems of pre-emergency planning, immediate disaster response, and recovery actions by local or municipal leaders. By means of lectures, demonstrations and discussion groups the civic officials dealt with unusual responsibilities which they and their administrations would have to bear to coordinate and deal effectively with disasters ranging from floods, hurricanes, snow storms, earthquakes, etc. to nuclear attack.

These Beasts Were Made For Stalking

A new breed of predator recently making its presence known in the Dorchester area is an uncertain terms is a wild dog, coyote, wolf, or cross-breed of any two of these species.

One farmer, who so far this year has lost 2 sheep and 9 lambs, wonders what will become of both domestic and wild animals if this trend is allowed to continue.

So far two of the "killers" have been trapped and destroyed. One of the carcasses has been turned over to the Wildlife Branch of the N.B. Dept. of Natural Resources. Identification as well as direction towards curbing or removing the menace is awaited.

Record Bond Sale Forecast

Strong confidence has been expressed by New Brunswick campaign officials that response to the Canada savings bonds campaign will set yet another all-time record.

"Last autumn, employees in this area rolled up a new investment total of $16,443,950 by making 27,283 bond purchases through the payroll savings plan at their places of work," said senior organizer Norman B. Anglin of Saint John. "This was equivalent to an individual purchase of $602. It was 23 percent above 1974."

In addition, an even heavier multi-million dollar investment was made in 1975 by New Brunswick people buying bonds over the counter from banks, trust and loan companies, investment dealers and credit unions, either for cash or on instalments.

"We expect another increase of 10 per cent this fall because of the attractive interest rate," said Mr. Anglin. "The rate begins at 8.5 per cent in the first year and rises to 9.25 per cent for the next eight years – an average yield of about 9.13 per cent."

The 1976 "payroll savings" canvass of workers has already commenced in some of the larger establishments. The general public bond sale will begin Oct. 2 and continue until mid-November.

This year three organizers will work in co-operation with the internal "payroll" campaigns being carried on by more than 100 New Brunswick business and industrial firms, civil service, railways and armed forces. They are Norman B. Anglin and Lawrence M. Bell of Saint John and a new appointee, William R. Carson; he will understudy Mr. Anglin, who will be retiring at the close of the campaign after being associated with Canada savings bonds since their inception.

Practically all the familiar features of Canada savings bonds, such as instant "cashability" for full face value plus accrued interest, are being retained this autumn. One change affecting big investors is that the ceiling for puchases in any one name has been lowered from $25,000 to $15,000.

The organizers pointed out that firms with 50 or more employees wishing to join the payroll savings plan, enabling their personnel to invest in bonds on a convenient instalment basis, should get in touch with the Bank of Canada, 75 Prince William Street, Saint John (phone 693-1491), and the required forms will be sent.

Lobster Season Status Retained

As the result of a disappointing survey, the federal Fisheries Management Service will give no further consideration at this time to the question of implementating two lobster seasons in District 7C.

This was announced in Halifax September 16 by the Service's Director-General, H. Douglas Johnston. He said the survey was conducted at the request of lobster fishermen in the area to determine if the majority favoured a second lobster season in the fall on a one-year trial basis. The survey was carried out through a printed questionnaire sent to fishermen early in April.

Mr. Johnston said his department was extremely disappointed at the small number of completed questionnaires returned. He observed that fishermen in District 7C were again reminded in early July to complete the form and the assistance of local fishery officers was offered to fishermen by the department in a public announcement.

The Federal Fisheries Management Service Director-General further explained that of the total estimated 1,024 lobster fishermen in District 7C, only 313 or 31 percent responded in completing and returning the questionnaire to departmental officials.

In analysing the results, Mr. Johnston said the returned questionnaires indicated that less than 50 percent of the total, 149 out of 313, were in favour of a second lobster season.

Several other questions were also included in the survey to ascertain fishermen's opinions on different aspects of the lobster fishery in the area. In answer to these questions Mr. Johnston said the results indicated that a slight majority of the total returns indicated a reduction in the maximum trap limit currently enforced, but that they were strongly against lath spacing of traps and increasing the minimum size limit.

Again Mr. Johnston iterated that because of the low level of returns of a questionnaire from fishermen in Lobster District 7C, the federal Fisheries Management Service will not give further consideration at this time to the question of implementing two lobster seasons in the area.

However, he added, all fishermen will be canvassed in the spring of 1977 to determine what policy should be followed in this regard.

Lobster fishing District 7C involves that part of the New Brunswick shore of Northumberland, Gloucester and Restigouche counties of the Gulf of St. Lawrence and Chaleur Bay.

Northeast Will Get Fisheries Manager

Northeastern New Brunswick will soon have a regional fisheries manager who will act as a liaison between Ottawa and area fishermen, federal Fisheries Minister Romeo LeBlanc said last week.

Speaking in response to briefs submitted at a cabinet meeting in Bathurst Sept. 23, Mr. LeBlanc said the manager, to be appointed in the near future, will be a spokesman, "not a policeman" for area fishermen. He cautioned that the position would be a new one and the appointee should not be expected to work miracles.

The concept has been tried with success in Newfoundland, Mr. LeBlanc said.

In reference to communication between fishermen and government, the federal minister said that for too long the two sides did not speak, so he called for fishermen to become organized "as they wish" as an essential means of narrowing the gap.

"You should talk as a collective body," he said.

The minister's remarks covered a variety of topics and did not specifically touch on the many problems in the fishing industry pointed out in a brief submitted by the Peninsula Chamber of Commerce. The brief read by Ethel Chiasson was submitted on behalf of chambers in Lameque, Shippegan and Caraquet.

Included in areas requested for consideration by federal officials were subsidies to modernize an outdated fleet of vessels built before 1950 as well as funds for developing and upgrading port facilities.

A call for maintenance service for fishing equipment in the peninsula area thus eliminating the need to take vessels to such distant places as Nova Scotia and the Gaspe Coast where fishermen were not always accepted was also requested in the brief.

A need for channel dredging to avoid accidents and the retention of buoy markers for a longer season were also included in the request.

A difficulty in competing with larger and more modern vessels from Cape Breton, Newfoundland and the St. Lawrence region, especially in the herring industry, was also aired.

Many new regulations in the fishing industry are only made known after they have received government approval, the brief noted, instead of after consultation with area fishermen.

More money should be made available to research the peninsular area in order to exploit new fish species, the brief said, and experiments should be conducted to ascertain the type of equipment needed to conduct such new fisheries.

The necessity of expediting a new sub-agreement in the fishing industry between Ottawa and the provinces was also underscored. Condemnation of lobster poaching and the need to reinforce the policing of the practice was also included in the brief.

More storage area is needed by peninsular fishermen and the permanent stationing of a coast guard vessel in the area as well as the assigning of a helicopter and air-sea rescue units were also pointed out.

The fishing school at Caraquet was commended in the brief and the urgency of upgrading this facility was also remarked upon. A need to put all professional services available to fishermen under one roof was also requested.

In his response, Mr. LeBlanc pointed out the need for all fishing areas to avoid establishing fish plants which are small and compete against each other. It's good to see a brief represent a whole area, he said.

Tuna Catches Break Records

Deep-sea fishing in the town of Caraquet is breaking world records this year, according to Terry Fraser, a Maritime Game Fishermen's Association director.

To date, three world record tuna catches have been recorded, and while they are not yet official, it will only be a matter of weeks before they are.

The old record for the largest all-time catch was 1,120 pounds and held by Lee Coffin in a landing registered at North Lake, P.E.I. in 1973. Then on Sunday, Sept. 19, Camille Blanchard of Caraquet registered a tuna at 1,130 pounds caught in Chaleur Bay.

On Sept. 21, Leo LeCouter of Miscou Centre bettered Blanchard's catch with a 1,192 pound tuna also in Chaleur Bay and on Sept. 22, Doug Vibert, also of Miscou Centre, registered the biggest catch ever, landing a 1,200-pound tuna in the bay.

"What it really proves is that this small New Brunswick centre is a top fishing spot", said Mr. Fraser.

"It has the makings of being world renowned as a game fishing spot and in a few years I think it will. Already this year three United States companies have made movies here and every year it is becoming bigger."

Bathurst Wins Maritime Ball Crown

Whip Clark's Harbour In Final For Perfect 3-0 Series Sweep

Bathurst Mooseheads, the greatest team to represent the city in well over a decade, completed a fantastic playoff performance over the weekend by capturing the Maritime Intermediate A Baseball Championship in Clark's Harbour, N.S. with an unblemished record.

The 'Heads whipped Clark's Harbour Fuggies Sunday to capture the three-team double-knockout championship tournament with a perfect 3-0 record.

Bathurst edged the Fuggies 6-5 in the first game Saturday and then topped the other team in the tournament, Summerside, P.E.I. Selects, 13 - 10 in Saturday's second game. The Fuggies also downed the Selects 3 - 2 to gain a berth in the final against the Mooseheads.

The three wins on the weekend brought the Mooseheads amazing playoff record to a fantastic 15 wins against no losses.

At Clark's Harbour, the Mooseheads continue to enjoy tight pitching and power hitting on their way to the crown.

In the final, Sunday, they broke open a tight 2 - 1 game with a four-run explosion in the 8th on their way to their 7 - 1 win.

Cleo Godin reached on an error and moved to third on Ray Jean's single. Jean stole second and then scored, along with Godin, on Bill Meahan's base hit. Mike Brophy then clouted a two-run blast over the leftfield fence. Jackie Ray left off the ninth with a 300 foot blast over the centerfield fence for the 'Heads final run.

IVAN SMITH

Bathurst went ahead in the sixth when Dannie MacLaggan walked and then stole second and third. He scored on Don Roy's single. Godin moved Roy to third with a base hit and Don scored on a single by Dave Ross.

Lefty Ivan Smith pitched the win with relief help from Jack Roy in the 8th. They continued to fan seven and walk five. Righthitter Billy Meahan came up with the game's top defensive play when he robbed Newell of a extra-base hit with two out and two on in the bottom of the eighth.

Saturday's Heroes

In their 6-5 win over the Fuggies Saturday, Brian Newmann's eighth two-out single in the ninth driver in the winning run after Dannie Ray had tied the contest 5 - 5 with a 300 foot smash over the left-centerfield wall.

After Roy's homer, Danny Ross walked, stole second and then scored the winning run on Newmann's key single. Earlier in the game Cleo Godin belted a solo homer in the seventh to tie the score at 3 - 3 and the Mooseheads took the lead when Mike Brophy singled and rode home on Don Roy's double. Fuggies regained the lead with two runs in the eighth setting the stage for the key blows by Don Roy and Brian Neumann in the ninth.

Cleo Godin went all the way for the win striking out nine and giving up six hits and six walks. Starter Robbie Nickerson suffered the loss with help from Clayton Steward in the ninth.

The second game Saturday was a wild one with the Mooseheads blowing a 7-3 lead and then outhitting the Summerside Selects 13-10.

The Mooseheads tagged a pair of Summerside pitchers for 17 hits including four homers. Dannie Ray connected for his second and third homers of the day and added a single while brother Jackie homered and singled twice. Cleo Godin belted his second circuit clout of the series and doubled while Don MacLaggan doubled and singled twice. Brian Neumann doubled and singled with Mike Brophy adding a pair of singles. Danny Ross and Jim White singled for the other Bathurst hits.

DON ROY

Bathurst lefty Jim White was cruising along with a 7-3 lead when the roof fell in in the seventh and the Selects came up with seven runs and a 10-7 lead. John Doucet and Ivan Smith both saw mound duty in the seventh for the winners and Jack Ray took over in the eighth. Roy picked up the win after the Mooseheads scored five in the 8th to pull ahead for good. Guy Schurman, who relieved starter Doug MacDonald in the sixth, was tagged with the loss.

Hockey Alpines Open Camp Monday At Nipisiguit High

HUBERT POULIOT

Hubert Pouliot, coach of the Bathurst Alpines, advises the current North Shore and N.B. Intermediate A Hockey champions will open training camp Monday, October 4 at the Nipisiguit High School gym.

The workouts will start at 6:00 p.m. Monday and continue daily at that time for the next couple of weeks.

Coach Pouliot is enthusiastic about the prospects for this year's version of the Alpines and figures, if anything, his club will be even stronger than last year, despite the loss of goaltender Sam Hachey and last season's rookie-of-the-year Richard "The Rifle" Poisson.

Pouliot, who was Coach-of-the-Year in the North Shore Hockey league last season, figures he has an adequate goaltending replacement for the departing Hachey in the person of Glen Seperich from Noranda, Quebec. Seperich played his hockey in Sweden last season but has had pro experience with Providence of the American Hockey League and with Tulsa in the Central League.

Another newcomer is Mike Morton from Malartic, Quebec. Mike, a rightwinger, played for Greensboro and also with Syracuse Blazers with Bathurst's Jack Roy and Darryl Knowles. He led Syracuse in scoring in 1974.

To bolster his blueline brigade Pouliot has come up with Ghislain Tardiff, a defenceman who split his time last season between Malartic Intermediates and St. Jerome Juniors.

Another great prospect is Bathurst's own George Willett who will be sticking around town this season. George played hockey in Germany last year and previously starred with St. Thomas Tommies and later with Fredericton Chevies of the Southern New Brunswick League.

Pouliot Hopes these acquisitions will replace members of last year's squad who will not be back - Aldng with Poisson and Hachey, these include forwards Arch MacDonald and Joe Walsh plus veteran Joe Hachey who claims he is hanging up his gear for good. Of course, as Pouliot says "these newcomers are prospects and must earn a spot on the club along with several others."

Pouliot also advised that holding seats for the 1976-77 season should be available around the third week of October. Around the same time he plans to stage an intra-squad game so fans can get a glimpse of this year's club while selecting their seats.

Junior League To Add More Teams?

The North Shore Junior Hockey League has five sure starters for the 1976-77 season with a distinct possibility of increasing to seven teams by October 7.

League president Joe Comeau, of Beresford, advises that all five of last years teams-Dalhousie, Campbellton, Beresford, Shippegan and Tracadie - have indicated they are set to go for this year's campaign.

Comeau added that representatives from a junior team in Caraquet would report to the league tomorrow on whether or not they would seek a berth in the league. Meanwhile league officials are expected to approach sources in Newcastle about the possibility of a team from that area entering the circuit.

The president has another meeting planned for Beresford October 7 and that meeting will definitely determine the number of teams the league will have this season.

"All of last year's teams appear eager to get the season underway and I'm hoping we can add two more teams to give us seven, but if we only have five, this is very workable," stated the president who is starting his second year as the league head.

The president added that plans presently call for the season to start on October 23. Each team is expected to play a 24-game schedule if only five teams operate.

7th Pre-Season Hockey School To Start Oct. 23

The Bathurst Pre-Season Hockey School will be staged again this year, marking it's seventh straight season of operation. This year's dates are October 23-31.

The school, under the guidance of Ken Frenette, Joe Hachey, Max Leger, Jack Furlotte and Roger Clinch, has proven very popular as indicated by the growth of registration from 64 boys at the start to its present capacity of 154.

The school is open to boys ranging from 7 - 14 years of age and deals with the teaching of the basic fundamentals of hockey, such as skating, puck-handling, passing and shooting.

One unique feature of the school is that it is staged immediately preceeding the minor hockey season and not during the summer months like other schools. This means boys can attend this school and then move right into the local minor hockey program.

Another feature of the school is that it is staffed by local people actively connected with hockey in Bathurst over a period of years. This keeps the operating cost of the school to a minimum and provides an opportunity to anyone who wishes, to attend at reasonable cost. However, this year, due to an increase in ice rental fees and other factors, the registration fee has had to be increased to $22.00 per boy.

Each boy receives approximately 12 hours of ice time along with instruction by films and slides, with sessions held during the weekend and daily, Monday to Friday, from 4:00 to 9:15 p.m.

The school will conclude on Sunday, October 31, with a banquet at Danny's for the boys and parents starting at 7:00 p.m. Judge J. Frederic Arseneau of the Provincial Court-Criminal Division, Bathurst, will be the guest speaker at this wind-up banquet.

Application forms are available from any of the five instructors mentioned above as of today, Wednesday, September 29.

N.B. Camping Association To Hold Camp Workshop Here

The N.B. Camping Association, in conjunction with the Department of Youth, Recreation and Cultural Resources, will be hosting a Camp Administrators Workshop October 15, 16 and 17 here in Bathurst.

The workshops begins Friday, October 15, with registration from 4 - 7 p.m. The first session begins Friday at 7:00 p.m. The workshop will end Sunday, October 17 at 12:00 noon. The sight for the entire workshop will be Danny's Motel.

Highlights - The Workshop will feature sessions on topics of interest to all Camp Directors and Administrators, such as:

1. Public Relations, Advertising and Marketing
2. Managing Natural Resources of Your Site.
3. Financial Management.
4. Government Programs.
5. Camp Organization.
6. Staff Selections, Relations and Training.

Registration fee is $10.00 Department of Youth, Recreation and Cultural Resources will cover meals and lodging.

Each summer youth camp is restricted to three delegates due to limitations of conference facilities.

Further information regarding registration can be obtained by contacting: Shirley Fox, Secretary, N.B. Camping Association, Box 373, Fredericton, N.B.

N.B. Intermediate A Teams Urged To Attend Meeting

North Shore Hockey League President Joe Flynn is requesting that all eight intermediate "A" hockey teams in the province have a representative at what could be a landmark meeting of the NSHL in Chatham on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The vital point on Sunday's agenda is the proposed interlocking schedule between the NSHL and the three teams that remain in the Southeastern New Brunswick Hockey League and Flynn stresses that he'd like all teams to have somebody in attendance at the meeting.

"It is listed as a meeting of the North Shore League, but I am opening the door for the three teams in the South League to send a representative because I feel this is important if an interlocking schedule is to be adopted. I feel that if the South clubs are serious about this type of setup they should have all of their teams represented to drive their point home," commented Flynn in announcing plans for the meeting.

The NSHL has five teams set to go to the post— champion Bathurst Alpines, Campbellton Tigers, Chatham Ironmen, Dalhousie Moosehead-Rangers and Moncton Bears. The SNBHL on the other hand, has only three clubs, champion Newcastle Northmen, Saint John Mooseheads and Fredericton Chevies.

The SNBHL, realizing that a three-team league isn't likely to work effectively, has proposed an interlocking home-and-home series of games against each of the five NSHL clubs.

Initially the NSHL wasn't going to meet until October 17, but Flynn decided to call Sunday's meeting after speaking with representatives of NSHL clubs concerning the interlocking schedule.

Cook's won the opener here Saturday 5 - 2 to take the best-of-three final series in two straight.

Dan Woodworth pitched Moncton to the win Saturday with a five-hitter while fanning seven. Loser Pete Mercer gave up nine hits and struck out four. Roger Roy homered for the Sportsmen in the fourth inning while Joe Eason, Ivan Carter, Mike MacDonald and Mercer singled for the other Bathurst hits.

Woodworth was the winning pitcher Sunday as well, while Brian Murphy suffered the loss. Both tossed six-hitters.

Ivan Carter led the Sportsmen at the plate with a double and single while Murphy and Mike MacDonald cracked doubles. Roger Roy and Guy Frenette both singled.

Paul Bourque singled three times for Cook's but Ray Cormier struck the key blow with a double in the fifth to drive in the winning run.

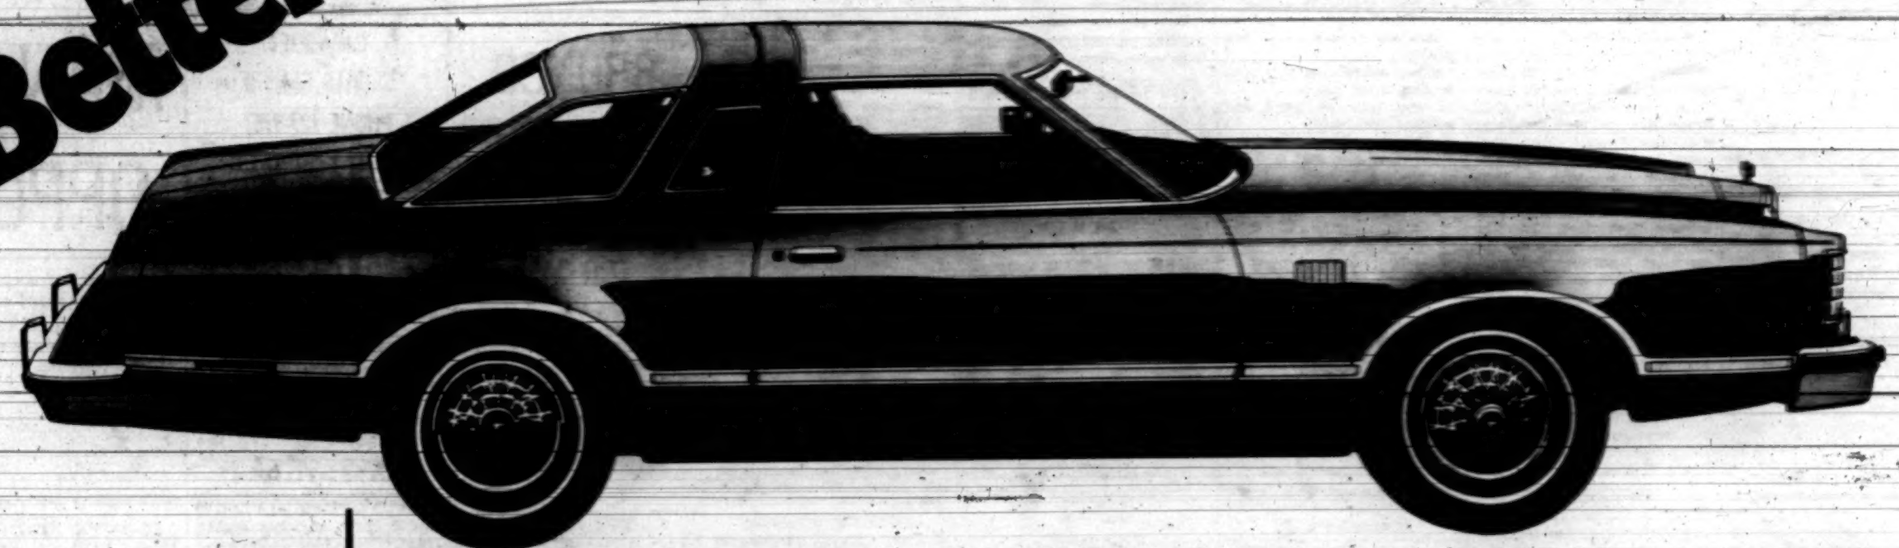
THEY'RE HERE! Ford's Better Ideas for '77...

A new kind of thunder... at a new lower price. Ford Thunderbird



The 1977 Thunderbird has a new look, a new size and a new lower price—but it's still unmistakably Thunderbird.

Leaner, cleaner, trimmer in size, Thunderbird has been strikingly re-designed with elegant styling both inside and out.

It's a car equipped to make driving a pleasure. Power steering, power front disc brakes, V-8 engine, automatic transmission, AM radio and steel-belted radials—are all standard.

Thunderbird's new suspension system and wide stance provide both nimble handling and a comfortable ride.

Perhaps the most unexpected thing about today's new Thunderbird is the lower manufacturer's suggested retail price. You'll find it almost unbelievable that a Thunderbird can be so easy to own.

Announcing THE FORD DURAGUARD SYSTEM

It's Quality, Reliability and Durability, and more.

It's comprehensive anti-corrosion measures, thorough testing and a new, no charge 36-month warranty against rust perforation.

WARRANTY:
36-month unlimited mileage warranty against rust perforation on 1977 cars including taxis and police cars. This warranty reflects our confidence in the quality, durability and anti-corrosion measures built into every 1977 Ford of Canada car.

Ask your Ford dealer for details of the 36-month unlimited mileage corrosion perforation warranty on the cars with the quality, durability and reliability of the 'system'.

Other Better Ideas for '77.
This year Ford's added a new low-priced Granada Special Edition. So you get a new choice in models...in the car that started a whole new driving trend! The Pinto has new front end styling—and offers sporty new options like an all-glass third door on the Runabout. There's also the dependable Maverick, the dashing Mustang II, and a great line of trucks at your Ford Dealer.

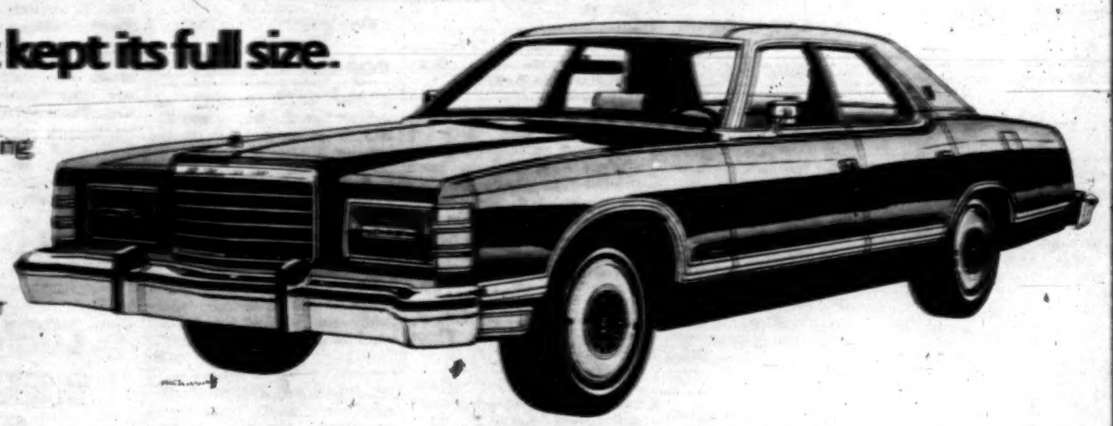
Reduced Maintenance.
Compared with 1976-model Ford cars, 1977 standard equipped Ford cars are designed to reduce by 43% the average estimated cost for scheduled maintenance during 50,000 miles of normal driving.

Watch the CBC "Funny Lady" television special, starring Barbra Streisand, Omar Sharif and James Caan, on October 2, at 8:00 P.M. (8:30 P.M. in Newfoundland).

For 1977 some car makers will offer you only shorter, narrower, lighter full-size cars... Ford has a better idea...choice:

A full-size car that kept its full size. Ford LTD

This year some car makers are making all of their "full-size" cars smaller. Not Ford! The LTD has the same interior spaciousness, deep-well trunk, road-hugging performance, long wheelbase, and 3½-ton rated towing capacity (with optional trailer towing package). The '77 Ford LTD is every inch the car it was last year.



1977 Ford LTD Landau 4-door Pillared Hardtop

The trimmer sportier car at a trimmer price than LTD. New LTD II

Ford introduces a whole new line of cars—sporty 2-doors, 4-doors, and wagons—all called LTD II. When it comes to value, you'll find LTD II compares not only with other mid-size cars, but even with GM's new smaller "full-size" cars. So shop where you get a choice: your Ford Dealer. He's got the full-size Ford LTD... and the trim-size LTD II.

FEDERAL MINISTER, OTHERS IMPRESSED WITH CHALEUR VILLA

In the course of his visit to Bathurst September 22 with Prime Minister Trudeau and other members of the cabinet, Hon. Barney Danson, minister of Urban Affairs, took time out to visit Chaleur Villa and meet with members of the board of directors. They were joined by Ken Fraser, regional director of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, Fredericton, in a discussion of the financing and future of the senior citizens complex.

Senator Michel Fournier and Pierre Poulin, local director of the DREE organization, joined the directors for lunch, followed by a tour of the complex. Later in the afternoon, Mr. Fraser was also taken through the building and held an informal meeting with the board.

All visitors to the institution during the day expressed themselves as impressed with the facilities available there.

ATTEND CONVENTION IN CHATHAM

Among over 50 Bathurst residents attending a 2-day convention of Jehovah's Witnesses in Chatham Sept. 18-19 were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Kadwell, 228 Munro St. and children: Kimberley, Margaret, Kelly, Michael and Patrick. On Sunday nearly 400 people were in attendance to hear the address "Keep Seeking God's Kingdom." There were numerous discourses and demonstrations designed to help youth cope with adolescent problems.

Foreign Investment A Hatfield Pursuit

A group of American financiers on a visit to the province last week were told by Premier Richard Hatfield that he will vigorously continue to pursue the search for foreign investment, the federal Foreign Review Act notwithstanding.

The premier said the federal Act represents a "policy of investment restraint which is an avoidance of the realistic decisions required." He added that it is "a withdrawal in pure disregard of the fact that Canada is a world trading as well as a continental nation," and pledged to continue his opposition to the federal policy.

Mr. Hatfield was speaking in Fredericton at a provincial government reception and dinner for some 40 representatives of U.S. banks, insurance companies and financial institutions, who also visited Bathurst.

Despite foreign investment restrictions inherent in the federal Act, New Brunswick has done better than Canada as a whole on the economic scene, said the premier, although he admitted that this province, too, has been adversely affected by the national slow-level of investment.

He cited several new initiatives taken by the government that he said "will significantly reinforce our good long term prospects." These included $163 million in federal-provincial agreements designed to help the lesser developed regions reach their potential, new programs aimed at fuller utilization of forest resources as a result of a major study of those resources and the reorganization of provincial agencies responsible for securing and accommodating growth of the manufacturing sector.

The premier told the investors he expected "substantial new investment in the near future in mining." The province's development strategy, he said, is "directed towards the promotion of private investment in both exploration and mine development, encouraging further processing of indigenous materials and contributing to national self-sufficiency in full supply."

Mineral production in the province has risen from $18 million in 1961 to more than a quarter of one billion dollars in 1975, said the premier.

"Exploration and development are now being conducted to determine the feasibility of commercial mining production from the province's potash deposits," he added.

He cited N.B. Power's expansion program as an important component in the provincial investment program that has seen the annual level of private and public investment in New Brunswick grow from a 1971 level of $626 million to one billion, three hundred and ninety-seven million in 1975.

"Our strategic location has been used to advantage by the (Power) Commission in its program of developing mutually beneficial interconnections with neighbouring systems and building economical, large scale units whose excess output can be sold until New Brunswick needs their total production.

The growth of investment in the manufacturing sector has been the most encouraging, said the premier, where annual new capital expenditures have increased from $120 million in 1971 to $250 million in 1975.

The financiers left the province September 22 to return to New York.

Many Mourn Mrs. J. Sivret

ST ISIDORE — The death of Mrs. Joseph Sivret (the former Anilda Cyr), formerly of St. Isidore, occurred Sept. 24 at Villa St. Joseph, Tracadie. She was 89.

Surviving are five daughters, Mrs. Leonard Bache (Regina), Mrs. Leo Arseneau (Therese) and Mrs. Jean-Marc Brideau (Marie), all of St. Isidore, Mrs. Louis Jean (Rita) of St. Adelphe, Que. and Sister Marguerite, NDSC, Moncton; seven sons, Gerard and Norbert, both of St. Isidore, Louis and Eustache, both of Montreal, Leon of St. Adelphe, Que., Eugene of Sudbury, Ont. and Victor of Petit Rocher.

One brother, Frank Cyr of St. Isidore; two sisters, Mrs. Jean Lanier (Marguerite) of Tracadie and Mrs. Armand Robichaud (Adelina) of Lower Negusc; 35 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren also survive.

Mrs. Sivret rested at Robichaud's Funeral Home, Tracadie.

The funeral was held at Saint Isidore Church in St. Isidore Monday at 4 p.m. Burial was in the parish cemetery.

Strike Delays New TV Channel

The construction strike in the Province of Quebec has delayed completion of the CHSJ Television tower at Mount Carleton and will prevent start-up of the new service on the previously scheduled date of Oct. 1, it has been learned.

A CHSJ-TV spokesman said the construction program at Mount Carleton had been shut down by the province-wide strike in Quebec.

In Saint John, Ralph Costello, president of the New Brunswick Broadcasting Company Limited said timing of the whole program had been affected by the labor problems in Quebec.

"If the strike were settled tomorrow we could probably be on the air in short order, or a matter of days," he said.

In New Brunswick, at Patterson Siding near Newcastle, the tower had been completed on schedule and only minor work and testing remainded to be done at that site.

He said the two transmitters - one at Patterson Siding and the other at Mount Carleton - had to go on the air at the same time and this required a coordinated move involving the CBC and ATV networks.

There are no new developments in the Quebec strike but there are indications that the strike had little popularity outside the Montreal area.

A spokesman for Quebec's 14,000 building contractors said a back to work trend was continuing, with the work force in some areas back to as high as 50 per cent.

Rock Crab Fishery Experiment Paysoff

H. Douglas Johnston, director general of Fisheries Management, Fisheries and Marine Service for the Maritimes, has announced the successful completion of an experiment to evaluate the capability of several types of traps to catch rock crab while at the same time keeping lobster out of the trap.

The experiment was under the supervision of Dr. Alvars Elnstin of the Department's St. Andrews Biological Station and was conducted on a boat chartered from Raymond Doiron of Carraquet, New Brunswick.

For the past 10 years, rock crab have been trapped chiefly by lobster fishermen, the fishery coinciding with the lobster season. In recent years, annual landings have ranged between 100,000 pounds and 650,000 pounds. The crabs were handpicked and canned or cooked and frozen whole but now a new machine process developed a few years ago could utilize much higher landings, encouraging the development of a directed fishery.

This change from an incidental fishery to a directed fishery led to regulations to encourage the development of a profitable rock crab fishery while safeguarding the lobster resource and the interests of the lobster fishermen.

While earlier studies on the productivity of different kinds of traps had been helpful in designing the regulations, Mr. Johnston said that the present experiment was necessary to establish which types of entrances would fish rock crabs best while keeping lobsters out of the trap.

Determining which types of traps fish rock crab best is essential to the success of the fishery because of the great difference in the cost of these traps. Designing an entrance that will exclude lobster from traps fished during the closed lobster season is essential to safeguarding the lobster resource and the interests of the lobster fishermen.

The experiment just terminated involved metal traps and wooden traps, circular side entrances, rectangular metal side-entrances rectangular metal top-entrances and rectangular wooden top entrances. Additional details of the experiment can be obtained from the office of the Director General, P. O. Box 550, Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Mr. Johnston indicated that the following conclusions were well established: that wooden traps with top metal rectangular entrances of maximum 2 inch width caught more crabs than any other trap, that the metal rectangular entrances are effective for keeping out lobster, and that circular entrances let in many more lobsters than rectangular openings.

Feted On 25th Anniversary

Relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Knowles gathered at their home on Aug. 28 to celebrate the anniversary of their 25th wedding day.

Mr. and Mrs. Knowles were married at St. Andrews Church, Janeville, on Sept. 6, 1951, with Rev. Dr. E.R. Wood-side officiating.

The bride's attendant at their marriage was Miss Katharine Foley, now Mrs. Vincent Shellmer who resides at South Braintree, Mass. The groom's brother, Winston Knowles was his attendant, now of Campbellton. Both attendants were present for the anniversary function.

The bride and bridesmaid donned the same gowns which they had worn at the wedding 25 years ago, delighting all present.

Master of ceremonies for the occasion was James MacLaggan.

Gifts of china, silver, crystal, linen and money were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Knowles who later expressed their appreciation to friends and relatives who were so kind in organizing the anniversary party, as well as for the lovely gifts.

A delicious lunch was served and everyone enjoyed the party and, the weather being favorable, the evening was spent on the lawn.

On Sept. 4, Mr. and Mrs. Knowles left on a second honeymoon, over the same route to Niagara Falls, Ont., as they had taken 25 years ago.

Designed To Improve Service By Manpower

"The report on Canada Manpower by the Standing Senate Committee on National Finance is a straightforward, constructive document that will be immensely helpful to us in our efforts to provide Canadians with a better, more effective manpower service", said the Hon. Robert Andras, Minister of Manpower and Immigration.

Commenting on the report released by Committee Chairman the Hon. D.D. Everett, Mr. Andras said he was grateful to the Committee for pointing out areas where changes and improvements were indicated. "I consider the Committee's criticisms to be very helpful and constructive," he said. "They reinforce our own views of some of the areas where we need to concentrate our efforts."

The Minister noted that the report included a number of sections commending Canada Manpower for doing a good job, and he wanted to emphasize his conviction that the Canadian employment service was one of the finest in the world, by any standard, and was getting good value for its cost.

Mr. Andras said, "I don't feel that the report is in any sense an attack or an indictment. The members of the Committee have called the shots the way they saw them, and that is bound to be helpful to us. I am grateful to them for the time and effort they have expended in their study, and for the frankness and honesty they have shown in their report."

"Unfortunately", said Mr. Andras, "the substances and tone of the report are not reflected in the press reports which followed its publication. The statement that 'employers have lost faith in Canada Manpower', in particular is a distortion of the report and of the truth.

"In June 1975", said Mr. Andras, "I made a statement to the Committee in which I outlined a new policy on Manpower Services to Canadian employers which responds fully to the concerns expressed. I pointed out, however, that, while Canada Manpower was striving to improve its services to employers, it must also serve Canadian workers and that these objectives often conflict. Employers too often demand unnecessary levels of education, training or experience or are negative to the employment of women, youth, members of minority groups and handicapped people. While Canada Manpower is legally obliged to refer qualified workers to employers if they are available, the agency also has a public duty to try to find jobs for employable Canadians who want to work."

Mr. Andras also said that he was most disturbed by the statement in the report that Canada Manpower is spending too much time and money trying to help the disadvantaged worker, and he was particularly distressed that such workers are labelled "unemployable" in the text of the report. He stated that in his judgement "most Canadians who are able to work and want to work deserve the help of the CMCs in their search for dignity and self-sufficiency." The Canadian efforts in this direction, although improving, are far from adequate, and he wanted to remind the Committee that these efforts were very largely the result of the earlier Senate Report on Poverty.

"I am also concerned", said Mr. Andras," that there may be some misunderstanding of the comments in the report and in the media about education and training. Our federally-funded occupational training system is an excellent program and has, due to federal-provincial co-operation, been increasing steadily in effectiveness. The fact that 20 percent of that training is devoted to upgrading educationally-deprived Canadians is unfortunate, but it is a source of satisfaction to me that this percentage has steadily declined and will continue to decline in future as better educated Canadians enter the labour market."

Mr. Andras said that he and his officials would be studying the report carefully and implementing its many worthwhile suggestions as quickly as possible. He hoped employers, unions and others responsible for labour market activities would do likewise.

Social and Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Lyall Good arrived home last week following a five-week motoring holiday, travelling as far as Vancouver Island and chalking up a total of 8,000 miles. They first spent about a week in Ottawa with Mr. Good's sister Alice and husband Parker Cummings whom they joined for the trip West. En route, they spent three days with a niece of Mr. Good and Mrs. Cummings, Mrs. Thomas Mercer, Mr. Mercer and family, at Edmonton, Alta., and a tour of Jasper Park. Continuing on to Vancouver, they travelled next to Victoria where they visited with Mr. and Mrs. Robin Oliver, former Bathurst residents. Returning East via the Canadian-U.S. border, they headed North again, visiting Calgary and on to Banff before making their way southward again and journeyed along through the northern United States and on to Ottawa from where Mr. and Mrs. Good left for Bathurst.

Mr. and Mrs. Fernand Aucoin and daughters Barbara and Diane were in Fredericton over the weekend, visiting their daughter, Miss Joyce Aucoin, a first-year phys-ed student at the University of New Brunswick. They spent the previous weekend in Moncton where they visited with their son, Mr. Paul Aucoin who has resumed studies in the electrical course at the Moncton Institute of Technology.

The family and friends of Mrs. Lockard Ronalds are pleased to learn she is convalescing at home after being a patient in Chaleur General Hospital for five weeks. All wish her a hasty recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Jamieson returned last weekend from a two-week vacation spent at North Bay, Ont., with their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Jamieson and daughters Meril and Heather. While awaiting and returning from flights at Moncton, the Jamieson spent several hours visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Quick, former Bathurst residents now residing at Coverdale.

Trapper Courses Offered

Teaching people how to trap animals properly and prepare the furs for sale is a major goal of the New Brunswick Trappers' Association, and the association has announced plans to offer several trapper education courses throughout the province this winter.

Vincent Comeau of Tracadie, president of the provincial association, says the group is concerned at present with encouraging the formation of local branches throughout the province.

At a recent meeting of the association's board of directors, plans were laid for an annual convention at the end of January, set tentatively for Newcastle.

One of the topics to be discussed at the convention will be the trapper education courses. Three such programs were held last year.

They will consist of about 20 hours of classroom instruction and two five-hour field trips.

Courses deal with such subjects as studying the habitats of animals and different methods of trapping them. Students will practise correct methods of skinning animals and proper pelt handling, and will perform autopsies in order to determine breeding patterns, etc.

A ten-day course for instructors will be held at the beginning of October, and applications for this course are currently being received by Peter Allen, trapper liaison officer with the Fish and Wildlife Branch in Fredericton.

City Said Suffering From Identity Crisis

Problems resulting from the 1966 amalgamation of Bathurst and adjacent boundaries were explained to Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and Members of his Cabinet Thursday in a brief presented by City Manager Pierre Marquis.

"The city amalgamated approximately 7,000 acres of its present 28,200 acres," Mr. Marquis said in emphasizing the magnitude of the move.

"It has attempted since then to provide the basic essential service of water and sewer and roads without the benefit of assistance from the superior governments. Only recently was it provided funds through the FRED Northeast Agreement to upgrade its water supply facilities and some main distributors."

Mr. Marquis pointed out the development of the mining industries was carried out outside the city limits without direct benefit to the city of the additional tax base to finance the services "which the population expects and demands."

"It has been mentioned the ore body would not have been mined had the community not existed," the city manager added.

Mr. Marquis said the city lacked a strong focal point and was suffering from an identity crisis. He said it did not have a major complex, blessed with retail and office space, community facilities and recreational amenities which would provide the much needed focus which the region could enjoy and identify with.

He said the recent announcement of the decentralization of the Annuities Branch and the Central Index of the Unemployment Insurance from Ottawa to Bathurst was "a step in this direction" and could be taken as a recognition of the federal government to identify and assist Bathurst in becoming a regional center.

Among other needs of the city, Mr. Marquis mentioned the cost of transporting goods and services, "a major factor in the economy of the region and the poor condition of roads and bridges in and out of the city."

As to the local airport which is maintained through city taxes, Mr. Marquis said the daily service to Fredericton and Saint John primarily serve industry and economic developments having their tax base outside the city's jurisdiction.

Premiere Reunion des Dames d'Acadie

Hilaire St-Pierre, étudiant à l'école Nepisiguit, que a reçu une aide du cercle pour participer au forum pour jeunes canadiens, a parlé de l'expérience enrichissante que lui a apportée cette rencontre.

Le groupe avait aussi le plaisir d'accueillir Soeur Edna Hébert. Missionnaire pendant neuf ans en Orient, elle a montré des diapositives de Jerusalem, Bethléem, Nazareth et du Liban. Elle a aussi étudié en Europe, la peinture classique, l'art religieux, quelques uns de ses icônes et d'autres peintures étaient exposées dans la salle où se tenait le souper.

WIDELY SEPERATED MAYORS EXCHANGE GREETINGS

This tie holder being presented to Mayor John A. Duffy is the crest of the City of Denver and represents the blue skies of Colorado with the sun shinning on the snowy mountain peaks. (Residents there like to point out that they have 330 days of sunshine each year.) The red on the bottom of the crest depicts the red sandy soil and rocks of the state which makes it "Colorful Colorado". While in Denver last week, Mrs. Earl Ross visited City Hall and while she did not talk to Mayor Bill McNichols, she was graciously welcomed by his secretary Cathy Jewell. Mrs. Ross was also presented with a brooch from the City Denver. This is similar design to the tie holder with the addition of a gold-cast surrounding the crest. Mr. Ross, in turn, handed Mayor McNichols a letter of greeting from Mayor Dunlop along with a brochure describing the City of Bathurst and an engraved ballpoint pen.

Premier Promoting Cable TV For Area

Addressing the 30th anniversary convention of the Atlantic Association of Broad-casters in Moncton, Premier Richard Hatfield emphasized the need for expansion in coverage area of most provincial broadcast media.

The premier noted that the Canadian Radio and Television Commission (CRTC) operates under the principles that the broadcast industry must serve all Canadians equally, and in both official languages, and must take into account regional needs.

But, he said, "the present federal system does not adequately permit the provinces to participate to the extent necessary to influence decision making." Mr. Hatfield suggested that a consultative process be established so that provincial views can influence federal decisions on broadcasting.

The premier handed out bouquets to CHSJ-TV Ltd. for "continuing to expand and improve your services, particularly to those sparsely populated areas of New Brunswick where pure economics may not justify such decisions."

However, he said, "several significant problems still remain." Firstly, New Brunswick is the only province without the full national broadcasting service for English television. Secondly, provincially-based TV productions must be increased in both languages. In particular," a second French TV network is desirable in the sectors of the province with a large French-speaking population." The Edmundston and Grand Falls areas must receive better French-language TV reception, he added.

Finally, said the premier, "there is a need for more FM radio services in both languages."

The provincial government, he said, will continue to work toward these objectives in co-operation with broadcasters and federal authorities.

On the question of cable TV, Mr. Hatfield said that, having determined it to be technically and economically feasible for all provincial communities with more than 500 households, the government will continue to press for its expansion.

To achieve this goal, requests for cable TV in northern areas not now served should be received within a year, existing cable operators should be requested to identify nearby communities which they can service, and all other areas within the 500 household objective should be identified, and requests for applications called by 1978.

Mr. Hatfield also said that pay television is a coming reality, and the government will carefully watch submissions to the CRTC on the format it will take and welcomes comments and co-operation from broadcasters.

Immigration Down from Last Year

The 12,350 immigrants who came to Canada during the first quarter of 1976 represented a drop of 25.3 per cent from the same period last year according to statistics released Sept. 3 by Manpower and Immigration Minister Robert Andras.

"This year's immigration has been declining in all categories of immigrants and from all world areas," the Minister explained. "The drop reflects the effect of the regulation changes announced in February and October 1974, that link the immigrant flow more closely to the needs of Canada's labour market."

Mr Andras said that about 25 per cent of independent immigrants had pre-arranged employment whereas the rate for the total immigrant movement was 5 per cent. The Minister also indicated that the match between the skills of immigrants and vacant jobs in Canada continues to improve.

Ontario continued to lead all provinces with 15,790 immigrants, followed by Quebec with 4,023, British Columbia 4,857, Alberta 1,881, Manitoba 1,208, Saskatchewan 484, New Brunswick 318, Nova Scotia 301, Newfoundland 157, Yukon and Northwest Territories 39 and Prince Edward Island 11.

The breakdown for the top five occupational categories is as follows: clerical field 2,208; fabricating, assembling and repairing 2,081; natural sciences, engineering and mathematics 1,500; service industry 1,322; and managerial and administrative field 1,081.

Following trends of recent years, Europe remains the major source of immigrants, however the flow declined to 55 per cent from 62.2 per cent in the first quarter a year ago. Asia and the Pacific increased to 28.9 per cent from 26.2 per cent. Africa and the Middle East increased to 8.8 per cent from 7.4 per cent. Western Hemisphere increased to 20.6 per cent from 17.3 per cent, and the United States increased to 9.7 percent from 8.8 per cent.

Trio Not Meant To Be Partners

By STEWART MacLEOD
Ottawa Bureau
Thomson News Service

It wasn't really a great surprise to hear that 16 Canadian business leaders met with Prime Minister Trudeau for four hours without making any progress on establishing some new consultative body to help run this country.

"There really wasn't that much content to it," one of the business leaders said at the conclusion of the meeting. "It was just an opportunity to present our views."

And perhaps that's the way it should be.

But ever since last May, when the Canadian Labor Congress decided that organized labor should be an equal partner in the decision-making process, the government has been concerned about forming some consultative body to satisfy these demands. Mr. Trudeau has talked about an organization similar to the Economic Council of Canada. Government, business and labor would all hold membership and discuss economic policies before they were implemented.

There will be further meetings on the subject, both with business and labor, but so far there is no indication that government will ever be able to meet the demands of the CLC in relation to economic decision-making.

EQUAL PARTNERS

The CLC's May manifesto said this: "... the price of labor's future support must be an equal share of the economic and social decision-making on a national basis with the other partners - business and government."

And then it went on to say that "labor must make it clear that it will never enter any tri-partite arrangement at less than full partnership status."

CLC President Joe Morris says this is part of a long-term struggle for power and some way must be found to provide labor with an effective voice.

The debate of the wage controls in the short term will inevitably lead to a struggle over the shape of future institutions in Canada. If the congress is to have any control or say in this matter and in safeguarding the legitimate interests of workers it must have the collective support to carry through."

The 2,400 delegates at the CLC convention certainly gave their leaders a ringing endorsation to try and achieve an effective voice in Ottawa as they provided them with a ringing endorsation for a one-day general strike.

Since then, most of the publicity has been focused on the strike, being called a national day of protest. It will be held Oct. 14.

But neither labor or government has forgotten about the decision-making machinery.

MEETINGS HELD

Since the May manifesto, Mr. Trudeau has held several meetings with CLC officials, and although the main topic has

Minister Of Highways Visits Miscou Island

The Minister of Highways, the Hon. Wilfred Bishop, was welcomed to Miscou Island recently by members of the local Progressive Conservative committee.

Mr Bishop was accompanied by Deputy Highways Minister Ed Allen; Jean Chiasson, mayor of Shippegan and Conservative party member; chief engineer for the Province of New Brunswick, R. Reader and district engineer for the area, Conrad Robichaud.

The visit was designed to give the minister and his entourage a realistic view of the local highway problem. This was the first time the island was given the personal attention of the Highways Department, and Mr. Bishop promised an additional $60,000 for road construction and repair and a proposed five miles of paved surface to

UNICEF Fund-Raising Campaign Is Discussed

Five delegates will represent UNICEF Canada at the International UNICEF Youth Conference in Spain at the end of September, and one of them is from New Brunswick.

John Hopkins, a grade 12 student at Simonds High School in Saint John, will accompany delegates from Alberta, Saskatchewan, Quebec and Nova Scotia to the event.

The announcement was made in Bathurst by Mrs. Delie Chiasson of Shippegan, president of UNICEF New Brunswick. Mrs. Chiasson was in the city to conduct the committee's first executive meeting of the 1976-77 year, which was held at the home of Mrs. Phyllis Green, vice-president of the association.

"This is the first time UNICEF Canada has been invited to send delegates to this youth conference for UNICEF friends", Mrs. Chiasson said. "There will be about 400 delegates attending. The New Brunswick delegate will have his travel expenses paid by the provincial department of youth, and all other expenses are being absorbed by Spain."

The executive meeting heard reports on plans for the coming year and upcoming campaigns.

The annual UNICEF (United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund) campaign at Ballaveo'en will be officially launched in New Brunswick at the beginning of the last week in October.

"That week will be proclaimed UNICEF week throughout the province", said Mrs. Chiasson, "and each locality will determine when the actual UNICEF collection will be conducted. With Ballaveo'en falling on Sunday this year, the UNICEF collection will be sometime during that weekend."

Mrs. Chiasson said the New Brunswick objective of $90,000 for the 1976 campaign is expected to be surpassed since this was the amount received last year.

"The UNICEF boxes will be mailed directly to the schools from the national office. Then the area representatives for UNICEF in the province will contact the schools", the provincial president explained.

The executive decided the number of area representatives on the provincial committee should be increased so that each school district will be represented. Many more schools are expected to participate in the drive this year.

Home and School associations are also actively involved in the promotion of this annual project, which helps needy children all over the world.

In connection with another annual project, Mrs. Chiasson said the 1976 New Brunswick objective for the sale of UNICEF Christmas cards is $30,000. "An amount of $24,000 was realized through card sales last Christmas in spite of the mail strike", Mrs. Chiasson noted.

In attendance at the executive meeting were Mrs. Chiasson, Mrs. Green, Frank Sharp of Saint John, treasurer; Barry Evans of Saint John, finance; Mrs. J. Madigan, education; Mrs. Sadie Jones, youth services; Mrs. Margaret Sharp, greeting cards; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Miller of Dalhousie, representing Mrs. Gladys Edwards, area representative.

In Bathurst, the UNICEF collection is expected to be held during Ballaveo'en weekend, Mrs. Green added.

She said Bebe Signes Pita had taken on the responsibility of the Christmas greeting card campaign in the area, and the cards will go on sale Saturday, Nov. 6 at the K Mart Dominion Plaza on St. Peter Avenue.

Crash Victim Buried Friday

Bathurst Coroner Gerry Aceoumo has ruled no inquest necessary into the death September 2 of a Belledune resident.

Wesley Gray, 25, died at Chaleur General Hospital less than four hours after the car he was driving was in a sideswipe collision with a large transport truck.

The accident occurred on Route 11 at Petit Rocher North, about half a mile south of the entrance to Camp Ictus. Driver of the transport, owned by Brunswick Petro Transport Ltd. of Saint John, was John Morrison of Charlo, who escaped uninjured.

Investigating RCMP from Bathurst said the Gray vehicle was demolished in the crash.

Born in Bathurst, the victim was a son of Norman and Ethel (Ellis) Gray. He was unmarried and his usual place of employment was in Belledune where he was employed by Serving Seamless to provide him are two sisters, Mrs. Bernard Guitard (Lorraine), Belledune and Norma, at home, one brother, Weldon of Belledune Centre, his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Richard Guitard of Montreal.

The body rested at the home of his brother, Weldon Gray of Belledune Centre. Funeral mass was held at St. Gabriel's Roman Catholic Church, Interment followed in the parish cemetery.

Life In A Nursing Home

By Mrs. Hammond Johnson

(Fourth installment)

After I had been in the Home about two years, Miss Kay Flemington, who had been in one of the cottages, had to come to the Home for nursing care. I had known her some years before at a time when I wasn't well and she was wonderfully kind to me. Though I was sorry her health was not good, we had so much in common that it was a pleasure to meet her again. She had grown up in a parsonage and she knew that my father was a Methodist minister and my husband was before Union. She suggested one day that since I had lived in so many places that I write a story about my early life

That seemed beyond me as I hadn't any experience in writing - only that I was very fond of writing letters. But my family agreed with Kay that I should do it. I started with no written diary, and only my memory of the early years of my life. My family got some background information, but my handwriting was never very good and I didn't see how I could get anyone to type it if I did write it. When I spoke of that to a secretary first, she said would type it. When I finished the first chapter I sent it to her and she struggled hard with the writing, but she found that with the struggle and her secretarial work it was too much for her and she returned that chapter, all typed but without any offer to do any more. Then a friend on P.E.I., who was used to my writing offered to do the typing, and with the help of two other friendsthere the chapters were at lastfinished, with copies of each being made for the family (4)

With having to send the chapters back and forth to be typed and corrected, it was well over two years before all were finished. I had planned when I began the work that if I ever finished I would get Dr. Austin Clarke to critize it and find out whether it had been worthwhile doing it. I knew he would be sincere, and as I had read his addresses to the graduate nurses in the Moncton Hospital, so beautifully given, that he would know just how a story should be written

One could imagine that I was almost in my "seventh heaven" when his report came back saying, "It is witty, whimsical and interesting and of historic value, and should be published." I knew, of course, that the last part couldn't be realized as printing was such an expensive business. But my son the Doctor took it to a printer in Charlottetown, who made a photostatic copy of each page and put them together in a cover, with the title on the front "Life in a Parsonage", by Mrs. Hammond Johnson, an Islander, 90 years old." That of course was like a "gift from the gods" to me.

Some time later, Dr. Betts of Halifax, the archivist of the United Church was in Sackville and asked if he could take "Life in a Parsonage" home to read. He wrote afterwards that those who read it were very interested in it and he felt that it should be preserved, and he was having a mimeographed copy made to put in the archives of the United Church.

In July 1970, Mr. Reiger resigned as Administrator of the Home, as he was taking another position. The Board advertised for an Administrator and chose from among the applicants Major R.A. Wightman, who began his duties here in October 1970. As he had been an officer in the Army for some time, some of us wondered if he would expect real discipline and the Home run like a Barrack - but we didn't need to be anxious. Though there were certain rules and regulations, we found that the Major's chief thoughts were for the security and comfort of the guests, and he was always ready to help guests with problems they might have.

That Christmas Day of 1970 was a most unforgettable one. It began to storm Christmas Eve and kept on all night. In the morning there was so much snow and such high drifts that in some cases the people could not even get their doors open. The R.N. who was to come on at 7 a.m. couldn't get here, and the one who had been on duty all night had to stay on. It seemed as though members of the staff wouldn't be able to get here even if they weren't far away, and one wondered if there would be anyone to give us breakfast. Some ploughed through the drifts and one of the cooks came in the snow plough. Some husbands came to see their wives safely here and they stayed on in the morning to help prepare the dinner. Mrs. Wry made the porridge, and it was the best porridge I had tasted since I had been here. With such good helpers, the Christmas dinner was served at the appointed time and it was a Happy Day in spite of the storm. The chef himself couldn't get here till late after-room and had had to travel by snowplough. The co-operation of all showed the spirit that was in the Drew Nursing Home.

In 1971 the Government made a change in the Health regulations. The Lodge where there were thirteen guests and Fawcett House with eight were not up to Health standards. The Fire Marshal would not allow rooms on the third floor of Fawcett House to be used on account of fire hazard. The Board of Trustees for Sackville Senior Citizens in Sackville felt there was need for an addition to the Drew Nursing Home - also there was a long waiting list and there were not too many nursing homes in the Maritimes. So plans were started for a new wing to be added to the present Home. Of course, it took some time to get all the plans worked out. Tenders were called, and in September 1972 the contractor began excavating and construction, with the promise that the building would be ready the 31 May 1973.

The official "Turning of the Sod" for the new wing took place on September 26, 1972 and was conducted by Rev. Karl Drew, the Chairman of the Board, with other members of the Board taking part. The one who really turned the sod was Rev. Robert Rae of Toronto, one of the members of the Division of Ministries responsible for the planning and direction of nursing homes under the United Church. He was a most friendly person and interesting to talk to I was especially interested when he told me he was an Anglican and a layman and yet held a D.D. He was also an advisor to the Council of the United Church. I had never before heard of a layman getting the degree of D.D.

In 1972 a new four-unit cottage was built with money that Miss Marion Murray of Moncton had left for that purpose.

That same year, 1972, Verna Fowle took over the catering for the Home along with that of the University and other institutions. Mr. Wood, our chef, stayed on for a while to help with the cooking, and we were glad because we were well acquainted with his good cooking and his kindness at all times. On one occasion when I was in bed with a cast on my leg, sometime before Christmas, he came in one day to see how I was and I told him the only thing I wanted Santa Claus to bring me was a cup of HOT coffee. It was always difficult to have it really hot on the breakfast tray. Christmas morning he brought my breakfast tray up himself, but instead of having one cup of coffee, there were two pots, and they were both hot.

In the year 1972 my tenth great grandchild arrived, and I could sympathize with the grandmother in Newfoundland who told someone she was having so many grandchildren she was afraid she would need a hysterectomy.

In January 1973 we had a visit from the Moderator of the United Church of Canada, the Rt. Rev. Dr. Bruce McLeod. He talked to a gathering in the lounge of all who could be there, and afterward he went around to the different rooms speaking to those who were not able to be in the lounge, a really very kind gesture.

The plans for the new wing were for both single and double rooms, with thirty-one beds on the main floor plus one for intensive care, for those on nursing care. There were to be the same number on the lower floor for those needing room and board only, making sixty-three beds in all in the new wing.

As some of the guests in the Old Wing were to be moved to the new, I wondered what my fate would be. I had been five years in the one room and had been given eight different roommates. I thought I would like a change but didn't expect to be given a single room. One day when Major Wightman was taking my son Douglas round to see the building, he said that if my family would pay a certain amount more a month I could have a single room. That seemed almost too good to be true, but my family at once said they would do their part and I was able to choose one of the rooms at the end.

And so, after five years with eight roommates, on the 5th of June 1973 my belongings and I were moved from Room 6 in the front part of the Drew Nursing Home, to a private room, No. 28, in the new wing. The nurses did a wonderful job in the moving - not one article was misplaced in transit.

When I came to the room and saw just one bed, with a gold coloured bedspread, drapes to match on the window the width of the room, the view from the window which showed Mr. Patterson's garden, the Doucette farm with all farm activities, wide expanse of Marsh and the Trans-Canada Highway with its constant traffic a short distance away, and the daily train from the Island on the C.N.R. - I just exclaimed and beamed, "All this and heaven too." It seemed unbelievable that I was to have such a wonderful place for my last years.

When I recovered a little I looked around more carefully and I found one thing that wasn't "All just, etc." When I opened a door and saw the toilet I was dismayed - it was no larger than all the other rooms and I realized why my roommates company would have all their calls in her room - there was no room to be used by others or occupied persons. Having this

RECEIVES GOLD CAP AWARD

Lyle Knowles, an employee in the Maintenance Department at Consolidated-Bathurst Limited, was recently awarded a Gold Safety Cap. Mr. Knowles was saved from a serious head injury by his safety hat when a piece of timber fell from overhead during demolition of a building. Pete Jacobsen, division manager, presented Mr. Knowles with his award in the presence of Stearns Jacobsen, mechanical superintendent. The Gold Cap Award program is sponsored by the Safety Supply Company in Co-operation with the New Brunswick Industrial Safety Council. From left, P. J. Jacobsen, Mr. Knowles and S. Jacobsen.

Prov. Hospital Trustees Meet

The Campbellton Provincial Hospital board of trustees held its second board meeting recently at the Campbellton Provincial Hospital conference room.

Deputy Minister, Dr. E. A. Watkinson, representing the Minister of Health, the Hon. G. W. N. Cockburn, was in attendance.

The main item on the agenda, hospital by-laws, was okayed by the board for furtherance to the minister for his approval. Three other resolutions were passed: the first calling for hospital accreditation; the second for a university affiliation and the third for the transfer of the institution to Hospital Services Division.

After a lengthy discussion on the role of the board, trustees made it clear they intended to operate as other hospital boards and were not interested in playing a mere advisory role.

The board is hopeful the health minister will offer feedback on the approved hospital by-laws by the next meeting, scheduled for October 12.

trustin't consulted nurses or helpers of elderly people before making them so inefficient.

I immediately thought of the elderly lady I had heard of who went into town one day and asked for a glass of whiskey with three drops of water in it. She drank that and then asked for another with still three drops of water. The waiter was so surprised at the unusual request he was curious enough to ask why the three drops of water. She said, "Young man, don't you know that when a woman gets as old as I am she can control her liquor, but cannot control her water."

I though that lady was going to have difficulty with a toilet so low. I think I could never be able to use one like that, even though there was a bar attached to the wall to make getting on and off easier. So I told the Nursing Director, Miss McCarthy, my difficulty and before I was out of bed the next morning the caretaker had been in and put arms by the toilet to give me help. After that there were several put on for those who were elderly or crippled.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bay and Father Boudreau.

Blessing Of Rings Is Part Of Celebration

A special anniversary mass for Mr. and Mrs Leonard Bay of Nigadoo marking 40 years of marriage was held at the monastery chapel of the Capuchin Fathers, Vallee Lourdes on Sept. 3 at four o'clock in the afternoon.

Celebrant for the mass was Rev. David Boudreau, superior of the monastery, assisted by Brothers Felix Vernier and Michel Charest.

Bro. Robert Theophilus rendered the hymns, Approved Mass a former and Marie Dame-Mes Tres Fils. He was accompanied by Rev. Marcel Provost on accordionist. At the conclusion of ceremonies, Fr. Provost rendered as a solo solo, She Wears My Ring.

During the service, a gold wedding band which Mr. Bay recently had given his wife, as well as Mrs. Bay's family ring which she had received from their children, were blessed by Fr. Boudreau. He also gave the homily.

After the mass, a lunch which included a beautifully decorated anniversary cake was served in the dining room of the monastery.

During this function, four of Mr. and Mrs. Bay's grandchildren presented gifts on behalf of themselves as well as their parents. These included crystal, money, and other souvenirs of the occasion.

Among those present for the mass and reception were two daughters, Mrs Norbert Legacy (Jeanne) and Mrs. Camyron Melanson (Lenora), all of Bathurst, and ten grandchildren.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Bay left for Moncton to spend three days with a long-time friend, Mrs. Irene Acteson-ault.

Missionary In Japan Guest At CWL Meeting

Little Flower Council, Catholic Women's League held its meeting of the new fall term on Sept. 8.

Members attended mass at 7 p.m., celebrated by their director, Rev. Yvon Boudreau, with Scripture reading given by a league member.

Council president Mrs. Sylvia Lavigne opened the meeting and welcomed back all members after the summer recess. Also welcomed as a visitor at the meeting was Sister Gloria Hussey, of the Missionaries of Christ the King order, who was spending a holiday with her family in the parish.

Sister Hussey briefed the members on her work as a missionary in Japan. Questions then were asked about her work in that foreign country.

Father Boudreau extended a welcome to everyone and commented on the work of the CWL, stressing that each and every member should continue working for the church as members of the League.

A member, Mrs. W. C. Smith who attended the provincial convention held in Saint John, highlighted members on the outcome of this convention. She read a report in rhyme on public relations which had been composed by a Little Flower Council member, Mrs. George Hussey, and which received great applause.

A report was given by the president on the national CWL convention in Fredericton which she had attended.

Madam president also expressed the hope that members of the council would attend the provincial semi-annual convention to be held Oct. 2. This meeting is open to all members.

Two members volunteered to visit the sick and shut-ins of the parish during the month of September.

Conveners' reports were read and showed a great interest during the summer months and much was accomplished. A lunch was served at the close of the meeting by two members.

Winners sporting ideas for clothing

With the fall fashion season now upon us, the big question is How can I save money on clothes and still have a fashionable wardrobe." Perhaps some of these ideas can help as you begin putting this fall's wardrobe together.

Try to get clothes that can be used for more than one occasion and for more than one season. Clothes that are the newest in fashion or 'tad are likely to cost more, and may soon look out of place.

Look for quality fabric. Good material will wash well and look good longer. For longer life, follow the care label instructions sewn into the garment. Incorrect treatment means money wasted.

Sales may or may not be money savers. Before going to a sale, figure out just what clothes you could use in relation to what you already have. That way you are less likely to buy something that might be a bargain for something else, but not for you.

Making clothes for the family saves the cost of someone else's labour. However, it is not a saving if you do not have the time or skill to sew.

Learning to do a good job of mending, making repairs hard to see, can help save clothes you might not otherwise be able to wear.

ANN LANDERS

Virgin Avers She's No Freak

By ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 20-year-old virgin and I'm sure I'm not as much of a freak as the girls I work with make me out to be. I hope you will grant this letter in support of all of us who have decided that sex belongs in marriage.

I have dated at least 30 men in the last three years and I'm proud to say I never let anyone talk me into anything. I've been called "abnormal," "too religious," "chicken," "square," "bright," and "just plain crazy." When the arguments got heavy I met a few clowns to turn off. I never figured I had lost anything of value when a high-pressure Make-out artist didn't ask me out again.

I knew one day I'd meet a man who would accept my view and not try to change me to suit his "needs." It happened a few months ago and we plan to be married in the fall. There is no hassling about how far to go. He knows my rules and is willing to abide by them.

I feel good about myself and what's more, I'm not worried to death from month to month like some girls I work with. Also, I'm not concerned about the side-effects of the Pill (as so many women are these days) because I'm not on it. The peace of mind and self-respect make up for whatever I might be missing, and I can wait a few months to find out what it is. —All Together

DEAR FRIEND: I applaud a young woman who knows what she wants and what she doesn't want and has the courage to stick by her convictions. I've never received a letter from a girl who said she was sorry she saved herself for marriage, but I've received hundreds from those who didn't and were heartsick. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you spoke in Florida and made a strong point of being opposed to the idea of parents giving grown children money.

Perhaps you are unaware of the law regarding cash gifts. When parents give money to their children it need not represent a loss of income to the giver. It could be regarded as a tax-free "investment."

According to U.S. law, a parent can give each child $3000 a year and not be taxed on it. This gift, when presented annually over a period of several years, reduces the size of the estate and a large inheritance tax is avoided. The return on the "investment" is the love and gratitude the parents receive from children who receive this lovely gift.

You frequently mention the experts with whom you consult. Why didn't you talk to an estate planner before you spoke out against this generous and financially astute procedure? —Front Row, Center

DEAR FRONT ROW: There was no need to consult an expert. I already knew the answer — and it has nothing to do with estate planning or a gift tax.

Your notion that an annual $3000 gift will pay off in terms of love and gratitude is hogwash oil. Children don't love their parents because they give them money or gifts. In fact, excessive "generosity" can make a child suspicious. ("Why are they trying to buy me?")

Unfortunately many married people are advised by their tax consultants to "give it to the kids rather than to the government," so they hand out the $3000 checks annually and set up irrevocable trust funds. Too often a teenager who knows he's coming into big bread at age 21 has no incentive to stay in school or work (lawyers forbid), and you end up with a lazy bum on your hands.

Parents, what should you do if your teenager is having sexual relations? Ann Landers's new booklet, "High School Sex And How To Deal With It — A Guide For Teens And Their Parents," gives no-nonsense advice on how to handle this delicate situation. For each booklet, send $1 cents in coin plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3000, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

been price and wage controls — the cause of the national day of protest — a good deal of time was spent talking about the consultative process. CLC has presented an annual brief to cabinet, but beyond this there are no scheduled discussions. But this likely will change.

While it's a bit much for the CLC to demand an equal voice with government in making economic decisions, it is not a bad idea for government to spend more time listening to labor, business, consumers and other special interest groups. And Finance Minister Donald Macdonald indicates that this will be done.

He said that even if the CLC does not represent all organized labor "it is an important group and its views should be heard."

But I'll be surprised if agreement is ever reached on the formation of a structure organization to place labor, business and government on an equal footing. If fact, I hope they don't try.

They are not equal.

Health Ministers Delay Immunization Programs

The conference of provincial health ministers concluded in Fredericton Sept. 21 with a press conference and a communique announcing that discussion had touched on a range of topics, including federal-provincial cost-sharing arrangements for health care programs; immunization programs for influenza, Lassa Fever, and other highly contagious diseases; mercury poisoning; cost restraint in hospital services; and payment schedules for physicians under provincial medicare programs.

On the federal offer for extended cost-sharing under existing hospital insurance and medicare legislation, the provinces generally agreed in principle with the federal proposals as an interim measure, on the understanding that it would not prejudice continuing discussions by first ministers with respect to longer-term financing proposals.

Several of the provinces are already prepared to accept the federal proposal. Others wished to defer a final decision pending completion of their assessment of the federal proposals and a decision on them by November 1.

The overall structure of federal-provincial fiscal arrangements is currently being discussed by first ministers and finance ministers. Discussion by health ministers on long-term financing of health care programs was therefore postponed pending the outcome of these deliberations.

The ministers agreed to recommend to their respective governments a united approach to immunization for A New Jersey-76 influenza.

The ministers noted that two types of vaccine are on order. One type will provide protection against both the A-Victoria-75 strain of influenza virus and also the A-New Jersey-76 strain. This type should be offered, as soon as it is available, to the aged and chronically ill through health departments, the ministers recommended.

The second type of vaccine will protect only against A-New Jersey-76. Because there have been no further cases of human A-New Jersey influenza identified since the outbreak in Fort Dix last February, the ministers agreed that mass immunization should not go forward at the present time. However, they were unanimous in their opinion that detailed preparations should be made for a mass immunization program to be carried out immediately if a case of A-New Jersey-76 is confirmed anywhere in the world.

The ministers asked that medical evidence continue to be monitored on a world-wide basis and that the supply of vaccines be kept under continuous review.

The ministers unanimously agreed that it would be appropriate for the cost of the vaccine to be borne by the federal government while provincial health departments would be responsible for the cost of administering the vaccine.

In addition, certain provinces requested coordination between provincial and federal policies in the immunization of native people and others for whom the federal government is responsible. It was recommended that provincial guidelines be followed in all instances as this would eliminate any possible confusion.

There was discussion on the problem of mercury poisoning in certain areas of the country. The ministers agreed that this was a joint federal-provincial responsibility and expressed concern that many jurisdictional issues in this regard remain to be resolved.

They recommended that a joint group be appointed to investigate possible controls on the use of mercury in industrial processes and report its findings to the next federal-provincial conference of health ministers.

The problems and methods of dealing with highly contagious diseases such as Lassa Fever were discussed. Ontario outlined its recent experience with respect to isolation and laboratory facilities for treatment and control of such diseases.

With respect to cost restraint, there was an exchange of information between ministers relating to control of escalating hospital care costs and the measures which have been undertaken in this regard by various provinces during the past year.

The ministers also discussed the recent agreements with the medical profession in various provinces regarding medicare payment schedules and the effect of the anti-inflation legislation on such agreements and future negotiations.

The next meeting of provincial ministers is scheduled for Quebec City in September 1977.

Changes Made In Resources Dept.

Responsibilities of several senior executives in the provincial natural resources department have been shuffled and reassigned, Natural Resources Minister Richard Hendren announced Sept. 22.

Mr. Hendren said the new organization is designed to implement changes in government forest policy announced in the last session of the Legislature.

Ralph A. Redmond, a department employee since 1967, has been named operations coordinator for the five forest districts in the province. Mr. Redmond was a member of the forest resource study group from 1972 to 1974. That group recommended government give more effort to the forest resource.

Robert Watson, formerly a senior policy analyst with the cabinet secretariat, has become co-ordinator of policy and planning for both renewable and non-renewable resources.

Alvin C. Fulcher has been given responsibility for all the department's technical services. Most recently the department's chief forester, his new duties including finding better systems to monitor the department's requirements for vehicles, buildings and communications.

Thomas E. Silliss has been named director of the lands branch. He has been with the department since 1964.

Lionel Richard has been appointed employee relations officer, and Peter Coughlin, budget service officer. Mr. Coughlin will prepare the department's annual spending estimate.

Caraquet MLA On Committee

Jean-Maurice Simard (PC-Edmundston) has been selected chairman of the Legislature's Select Committee on Fisheries.

The seven-member committee, appointed during the last legislative session to study the province's fishing and processing industry, met for the first time Sept. 16 in Fredericton.

The committee plans to meet with provincial and federal fisheries officials before setting dates for public hearings.

City Council Plagued By School Traffic Problems

Traffic problems on Burns Drive brought about by the re-opening of schools for the 1976-77 term were discussed at length Monday by members of Bathurst City Council.

Three communications, all dealing with the hazardous situation existing on the street in question, were read at the meeting, including two from the District 7 School Board.

The first letter, from Mr. J. L. Dumas, pointed to a recent accident at the Chalmers-Bathurst High School area and stated it is "miraculous" that accidents haven't happened before.

The letter asked that traffic be eliminated from Burns Drive at least between Waters and St. John Streets. This request was supported in a letter from Raymond Frenette, secretary and director of administrative services for District 7, although consideration for school bus loading was asked.

Coun. James MacLaggan wondered if the matter had been investigated. City Manager Pierre Marquis replied the police department gave a need for changes in the area, but there was some confusion as to exactly what it was the board wanted.

Coun. Robert Hodgins remarked that since Burns Drive is a one-way street, students could safely walk one way before crossing. "Junior and high school students should be able to cross by themselves. I'll vote for a walk for younger students, but not for those older."

Kent Ward Councillor, Joe MacNeil thought council should wait until plans for the Bathurst High extension are completed before making a decision, but Coun. MacLaggan remarked the "problem should be dealt with immediately."

"It could be a year or two before that dead goes through", he said, "and I'd like to see some suggestions from the police force on how to deal with the situation now."

Coun. MacNeil moved the letters be tabled pending receipt of a traffic report from the police and engineering departments.

However, Coun. Terry Lenihan left council should decide at once. "Are we prepared to close the street or not? We don't need further information, but more education in the schools and additional school zone signs. We've just delaying things."

Voting in favor of the motion were Councillors MacNeil, MacLaggan, Hodgins, Jean Paul Lavoie and Douglas Williamson. Against was Coun. Lenihan.

A second letter from the School Board asking that a crosswalk be installed on Burns Drive near LeBlanc Junior High School to enable students in the area to cross safely to Carmarthen Park was also read at the meeting.

The request was granted, with Coun. MacNeil pointing out such a walk would cause no hardship to motorists using the street.

Absent from the meeting were Coun. Waimouf Saulnier, Jimmy Murphy, and Mayor John Duffy. Deputy Mayor Patrick McLaughlin chaired the session.

PARADE LAUNCHES FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Bathurst Fire Department marked the opening of Fire Prevention Week Sunday with an afternoon parade through the city displaying its five fire-fighting vehicles.

Most conspicuous in the hour-long motorcade was a new lime-green pumper of which the city took delivery on Thursday after a lengthy waiting period.

The vehicles with sirens wailing left City Hill at 2 p.m. marked by a good turnout of full time and volunteer firemen. The brigade, which is under the direction of Chief Frank Brennan, consists of 15 full time employees and 19 volunteers.

The parade proceeded through the city's downtown area and continued across Bathurst Harbor Bridge, along St. Peter Avenue, through Parkwood Heights, along Bathurst Basin, Miramichi Avenue and Bridge Street and back to the fire station.

Other equipment on parade included a 1940 pumper, a striking contrast to the new vehicle considering it cost about $9,000; the 1962 ladder truck, the rescue unit of 1968, dodge and the 1969 Number Five pumper. All vehicles can be accommodated at the fire station on St. Andrews Street.

Fire Prevention Week, October 3 - 9, is also being marked by an inspection and a fire drill at the various city schools, a demonstration of the use of fire extinguishers at the K mart open request, a visit to Chaleur General Hospital, and some supervisions to be executed out by the department on its own.

Schools Are Officially Opened

Education Minister Gerald S. Merrithew was on hand to cut the traditional ribbon Sunday, Oct. 3 at the official opening of two new schools in District No. 4.

In afternoon and evening ceremonies respectively, the minister officiated at the opening of the $2.2 million Ecole Francois Xavier Daigle for junior high school students in the Allardville area and the $6.6 million Nepisiguit High School in Bathurst.

Representing the federal government, which shared in the cost of both projects, was Pierre Poulin, director of the Department of Regional Economic Expansion office in Bathurst.

Among district officials present were District Superintendent R. A. Ouellette and Basil Boudreau of Beresford, acting chairman of the district board of school trustees.

Completion of the landscaping at Nepisiguit High School this past summer brought to a conclusion a project which was undertaken about six years ago. The first phase was ready for occupancy in 1971 and the second phase opened later.

The school in Allardville has been in use since last October.

Speaking in Allardville in the afternoon, Mr. Merrithew said the opening of the junior high school there was the culmination of many years of planning by many people including the former school board. He noted the school had already become the centre of much community activity and he challenged the teachers, pupils and local citizens to make the best use of the new facilities.

He said he was impressed with the cleanliness and decorations at the school and he hoped there would be joy and accomplishment in the pursuit of both good teaching and a high level of learning.

Mr. Poulin noted there had been an increase of at least 100 families in the Allardville-St. Sauveur area since 1971 due to increased mining activity in particular. He said up to that time the population had been decreasing.

Mr. Poulin said the community had waited a long time for a decent school facility and he challenged the people to make the expenditure worthwhile in terms of people development.

Also addressing the gathering was Frank Branch, M.L.A.

The 22 classroom school serves about 350 families and did away with the 16 mobile classroom units which were in use previously. The federal government contributed $1.3 million or half the cost through the federal-provincial FRED agreement.

In addition, some $250,000 was spent in repairs and renovations at the existing elementary school in Allardville.

School principal Ephrem Lantaigne, who has been principal in Allardville since 1966, was master of ceremonies. He thanked everyone responsible for making the new school a reality and he noted it was being named after the priest who served the parish when Allardville was founded in 1894.

Taking part in the ribbon cutting ceremony were Sonia Guignard and Eric Legere of grade one and Rachelle Gionet of grade two. Making the presentation of keys was a representative from the contracting firm of A.C. Mallet and Sons Ltd. of Shippegan. Project architect James Gavin of Bathurst was also present.

At Nepisiguit High School Sunday evening, Mr. Merrithew noted the $6.6 million project would be paid for by taxpayers over a long term.

Mr. Poulin asked that the pupils take full advantage of the facilities to develop their culture, language and education in general.

The federal government contributed half the cost of the building itself and of the equipment. Its overall share was approximately one-third of the total $6.6 million expenditure, the provincial government paying the greater portion.

Other speakers were Lionel Brunette, principal of the school since it opened and Hilaire St. Pierre, president of the student council. The high school serves French language pupils from the entire district.

A representative from the contracting firm of Abbey Laundry Construction of Moncton served over the keys in a symbolic ceremony. Mr. Merrithew declared a holiday for the pupils of both schools in observance of the official opening. The holiday, as determined by the district administration, will be Friday.

PROVINCIAL ASSET

Until touring Le Village Acadien near Caraquet last week, historical establishments like this were for the birds as far as we were concerned. The several millions of dollars could be much better used elsewhere, we thought.

But after being one of a group on a propaganda-given a preview of the project, we have changed our mind. This is a tremendous thing, apart from the cultural and historical value. It's a drawing card for tourists and a recreational facility as well as an educational vehicle for our own New Brunswickers.

In addition, the village is an employer of labor of considerable proportions for the area in which it is located, with a seasonal payroll of as many as ten and at least half that number all year 'round. Also, federal and provincial authorities have earmarked a certain amount of funds for this sort of thing and if we don't grab it somebody else will.

A lot of research and planning has gone into the village and there's much to be learned here from a very competent staff of competent, courteous and dedicated people.

There are those who feel that our historical settlement is N.B. is enough. When you see one, you've seen them all, they feel. Referred to as Kings Landing, of course. Well, this is not so. Village Acadien is in another part of the province and depicts an entirely different era and culture.

Yes, we've really sold on Village Acadien and heartily recommend it as a priority place to go to see when it opens to the public next spring.

A LAMP GOES OUT

The death of Mrs. Edith Stuart Gilbert, which occurred over the weekend recalls an earlier, different but very dedicated era in the field of health service. Due to her close affiliation with the sick it is ironic that she should have been so long ill herself.

Mrs. Gilbert first came to Bathurst some 38 years ago to take over the J.H. Dunn Hospital, which has since disappeared with area growth and progress. Due to Mrs. Gilbert's direction and expertise, the hospital and its affiliated nursing school were well and capably run.

Mrs. Gilbert, who was also the embodiment of the Florence Nightingale Pledge, retired with an ever kind and a caustic tongue, but she turned out some of the best trained nurses the country has ever known. Some of them are still practicing their profession when the occasion requires.

Adding a nostalgic note to Mrs. Gilbert's funeral at St. Luke's Tuesday was a gathering of her nurses again "on duty" together under more cordial circumstances. Most of them had come to Bathurst to train and remained to marry and rear families.

Holding vigil were Mrs. Laura Lyons White, Mrs. Ivan (Ina Rosenberg, Page 2, Col 3)

Hockey Fees Are Increased

New registration fees for participants in the Bathurst Minor Hockey program were approved Monday at the regular City Council meeting.

Effective this season, rates for city residents (Bunce League) will be $8 per individual and $2 for each additional boy from the same family. A non-resident must pay $20, and $5 for each additional family member. Inter-city league rates will be $30 per member in addition to the Bunce League registration fee.

Asked why youngsters from out-of-town should have to pay so much more for an hour of hockey per week in "that old barn", City Manager Pierre Marquis pointed out the time devoted to minor hockey is an expense to the city, and the residents should come first.

Coun. Joe MacNeil agreed with the administration, saying the rink is expensive to run.

"The services should be made available to residents first who must pay the whole shot", said Mr. Marquis.

Coun. James MacLaggan felt the city provides a good hockey program for "almost nothing", and pointed out other cities charge as much as $15 per boy. However, he suggested an amendment to the resolution which would see volunteers pay, for membership in the Bunce League, $15 per individual and $5 for each additional family member.

Voting in favor of the amendment were Coun. Robert Hodgins, Jean Paul Lavoie and MacLaggan. Against were Coun. Terry Lenihan, Douglas Williamson, Joe MacNeil and Miss Knowles' cause.

Hockey Ward Coun. Robert Hodgins, however, felt differently. "We were told at the beginning of the year that things would be tight, so we decided against making more donations. I was away last month, and council gave away $100."

"Where is the money coming from? Do we have a special fund? Gail will do very well if she gets to Toronto, and those who will benefit are the businessmen. Why don't the businessmen contribute to this cause? I'll gladly give out of my own pocket, but I don't feel the city itself should."

Coun. Joe MacNeil pointed out the donation to Miss Knowles would be a far better investment for the city then "a page or half page in some advertising paper from the south of the province."

Coun. Terry Lenihan felt $100 would be sufficient as the entire hall team had only received that amount.

A vote on the motion saw Coun Williamson, MacNeil and Jean Paul Lavoie in favor, and Lenihan, Hodgins and James MacLaggan against.

Mixed Reactions But City Funds Awarded

Bathurst City Council Monday night voted 6 - 3 in favor of donating $100 to Miss New Brunswick, Gail Knowles, for her trip to the Miss Canada Pageant in Toronto in November.

The request came from the chairman of the Miss Bathurst beauty pageant committee, Ramsay Sundaram, who pointed out Miss Knowles would be representing the province, and more particularly, Bathurst in a pageant which would be viewed from coast to coast.

Commenting on the request, Coun. Doug Williamson said the subject of donations had been opened once again with the grant to the Bathurst Musicfests, and council would be remiss if it did not donate to

Council Rejects Auxiliary Force

A motion by Councillor Robert Hodgins providing for a special meeting of council to deal with the organization of an auxiliary police force was defeated by a 5-2 vote Monday night.

In bringing the matter to the council table, Coun. Hodgins pointed out the men are working a good deal of overtime, and would be even more busy during winter months.

Coun. Doug Williamson agreed, saying the men were being allowed almost no recreation time. He added vandalism in the city is on the increase, and something drastic should be done.

Coun. Jean Paul Lavoie, however, felt council should at least wait until a new police chief is appointed before taking such action, so as not to work against the new department head.

Also in favor of waiting for the new chief was Coun. Jim MacLaggan, who pointed out such a move may be against the working agreement between the police union and the city. He added, however, that council should look into the situation as manpower 24/7 of men working an average of 40 hours per week, and it was doing the work of 52.

Coun. MacNeil pointed out the four recruits from the Bathurst Police Academy reported in January would be trained policemen who would be more beneficial than a larger group who would have to be given extensive training in the protection field.

Voting in favor of the motion were Coun. Williamson and Hodgins. The motion was defeated.

Council did agree, however, to request a report on the amount of overtime and the manpower situation in the department.

Repairs Rather Than New Bridge

Canadian National Railways does not plan to replace the bridge located off Little River Drive, according to a letter read at Monday's Bathurst City Council meeting.

The letter, from D. W. Blair, vice-president, Atlantic Region, Canadian National, was in reply to an earlier query from the city regarding the condition of the CN-owned structure.

Mr. Blair stated the bridge had recently been inspected, and repairs to the wood deck and replacement of a section of wood curb are planned.

However, said the railway official, "if the bridge is no longer adequate to carry present day traffic, then it is the responsibility of the road authority to initiate replacement. The bridge is within the City of Bathurst and the crossing is a city street rather than a provincial highway. The road authority would therefore be the city."

Coun. Doug Williamson pointed out the bridge deck is in particularly bad repair. He moved that a letter be directed to Mr. Blair to determine when repair work would start and to what extent it would be carried out.

The motion was unanimously endorsed.

Europe-Bound Balloon Sighted

American Ed Yost passed through the Bathurst area this (Wednesday) morning, but in far from the more conventional modes of travel.

According to Jean Paul Boudreau, station agent with Atlantic Central Airlines in Bathurst, Mr. Yost was in the area at approximately 8:30 a.m. in his craft - a 30,000 cubic foot helium balloon about 60 feet in diameter.

Mr. Yost left Millbridge, Maine, about 35 miles northeast of Bangor, at 18:10 local time, bound across the Atlantic to Europe. He was spotted on a true course of 90 degrees, over water, about 40 miles northeast of the city.

Registered letters on the neoprene nylon balloon, which has a gross takeoff power lift of 3,950 pounds, are 249 Zulu. Radio call is N6888E and code name is Silver Fox.

Mr. Yost has two of the best weather stations in the U.S., Houston and Washington, guiding him on his venture. He is also an experienced balloonist with several thousand hours of balloon flying time to his credit.

Local Unions Discuss Plans

Representatives from most of the eight area locals of the Canadian Union of Public Employees met in Bathurst last night (Tuesday) to discuss plans for the October 14 day of protest being promoted by the Canadian Labor Congress.

Named chairman of the joint session was Richard Playfair of CUPE 1188 (Civic Employees Union). Others in attendance represented more than 1,500 workers at the N.B. Also involved are recreational rehabilitation and therapy workers at the social welfare and public health offices, the hospital and Family Court.

Mr. Playfair stated there will be picketing at these locations, as well as a joint rally and a march through the city in conjunction with plans by other unions.

"There will be co-operation with the Bathurst and District Labor Council and with unorganized and non-unionized personnel throughout the district," he said.

Veterans' Group To Hold Annual

Northwest N.B. Veterans' Association will hold their annual meeting at Bathurst Trade School Sunday, October 10, at 2:00. Over 600 invitations have been mailed to veterans and their wives, according to Hanno J. Thurnauli, executive director.

The meeting, which is open to all veterans who have served Canada and her Allies will be conducted in both official languages.

About 300 veterans are expected to attend and they will elect a new executive and receive a proposed new constitution. Included in the constitution is a clause which would admit as auxiliary members the wives of veterans. This is because of the spouses' rights to share with veteran husbands their responsibilities and entitlements.

The meeting will be open to them as they affect the lives of veterans and their families. Coffee and a musical interlude are part of the program also.

Vaccinations For Ill And Old

Following agreements reached at a recent conference of provincial health ministers, a program to vaccinate those with chronic illness and the elderly is being planned, according to a statement issued September 20 by Health Minister Bill Cashbourn.

The program is expected to start towards the end of October, and the public will be kept informed of progress, the minister said.

The treatment or double type vaccine will be provided to those who suffer from chronic diseases of heart, lungs and kidneys and to persons aged 65 and over.

The monovalent vaccine or single vaccine will not be given at this time, although detailed planning is being drawn up to administer residents of New Brunswick in the event of an outbreak of the so-called swine influenza anywhere in the world.

"Should an outbreak occur, it could affect adversely those with chronic conditions and the elderly," said the minister.

NATHALIE ROY

Mishap Takes Life Of Beresford Child

Mgr. Donat Robichaud officiated at the funeral service for Nathalie Roy, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theophile "Theo" Roy of Beresford, victim of a highway mishap Sept. 20. The funeral was held at Holy Name of Jesus Church in Beresford Saturday at 3 p.m.

The pallbearers were Arthur Boudreau, Sylvio Hache, Martin Hache, Olivio Hache, Michel Landry and Claude Landry.

The choir of Our Lady of the Rosary Church in Bathurst rendered singing for the mass.

A guard of honor was formed by the Bathurst Pirouettes and schoolmates.

Interment was in the parish cemetery.

Nathalie was born in Bathurst, the daughter of Theo and Cecile (Hache) Roy, and moved to Beresford with her family last November.

A Grade 3 student at the Beresford school, Nathalie formerly belonged to the 2nd West Bathurst Brownie Pack and Bathurst Pirouette Corps of Majorettes.

Surviving besides her parents are two sisters; Lisa and Manon, both at home; her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Hache of Robertville, paternal grandmother, Mrs. Abbey Roy and maternal great-grandfather, Jos. Hache, both of Robertville, and her paternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Marianne Boudreau of Bathurst, as well as many aunts, uncles and cousins.

Funeral arrangements were under the direction of Elliott's Funeral Home in Bathurst where the child rested.

New Methods Said Needed

Alternative methods of dealing with criminal offenders are becoming necessary in today's society, but they will require a greater community involvement.

So said Justice Minister Paul S. Creaghan, QC September 30 in an address to the annual seminar of the Atlantic Provinces Criminology and Corrections Association at the Hotel Beausejour in Moncton.

Mr. Creaghan said that alternatives to the present penal system are becoming necessary for several reasons. While imprisonment of offenders provides protection for society, the public is disenchanted with its relative ineffectiveness "both as a deterrent and as an instrument of reform."

The cost of maintaining prisoners "has reached staggering proportions," said the minister, "to say nothing of the social welfare costs involved in supporting the inmate's family." At a cost of $10,000 - $17,000 per prisoner per year, he stated, "two people can go through a year of university at the cost of keeping one man in prison for a year."

Mr. Creaghan said that the penal system's growing demands on public funds are becoming difficult for government to justify in view of the demands from other areas such as education, health, and social welfare.

Furthermore, overcrowding now places great stress on a system "which oftentimes operates out of obsolete facilities with low levels of staffing." Indications are that the numbers of people confined in correctional institutions will continue to rise, while the average daily population is now frequently at, and sometimes far above, the capacity of the system.

Mr. Creaghan noted that the findings of the recent Law Reform Commission agreed with other research that "a number of offenders now being committed to penal institutions could be dealt with in the community without seriously increasing the possibility of reconviction."

Among suggested options are for the offender to make restitution to the victims of his actions, or to engage in a community service project. Mr. Creaghan cited several programs in Saint John, including the "fine option program," which involved performing a specific community service, and an education program for impaired drivers.

Mr. Creaghan emphasized that the greater flexibility in programs seeking to avoid or reduce instances of imprisonment cannot be done without the involvement of the community in the criminal process. Government, he said, "can only provide a framework. Crime originates from the community, and real solutions can only be found within that context."

Quebec City Tour Is Unforgettable

(By MRS. W. G. Chamberlain)

The Chaleur Evening Stars group of senior citizens, comprising members from East Bathurst to New Bandon, returned Sept. 20, after a most constructive, informative and altogether enjoyable four-day trip and tour of Quebec City and its many and varied points of profound interest.

The party left Clifton at 7 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 22 on the W.C. Jamieson bus from Charlo. The group of 46 members travelled through Bathurst, Campbellton and thence via the St. Leonard highway to Quebec City, reaching their destination and previously reserved accommodations at the Louise Hotel on Laurier Blvd. at 5:30 p.m.

From then on, the group availed themselves of the hospitable atmosphere that prevailed from all quarters, including services at restaurants, the beautiful and extensive shopping malls and the citizens in general.

The itinerary of Friday's tour included a visit to the Old City, through Kent Gate and to the Citadel where a view from that point is a sight of unsurpassed grandeur, not to mention the unforgettable walk around the fortified site and old ramparts, all of which was very impressive and invigorating.

In order to refresh our memory of past historical events, one of the group had brought along her year 1909 Canadian Third Reader which contained the story of the "Siege of The Plains of Abraham, 1759" between Wolfe and Montcalm, a most appropriate reading for this part of the tour.

The Basilica at Ste-Anne-de-Beaupre was visited and admired for its beauty and magnitude, as was also the Cyclorama of Jerusalem and gift shops of the same name.

The visit to Montmorency Falls was particularly awe-inspiring and beautiful, as periods of rain and sunshine were experienced by the travellers, adding to the grandeur of this historic phenomenon.

In the St. Foy area, the group engaged in an enlightening and entertaining tour of the Laperrani with its commercialization of shells, fish and reptiles. The adjoining park with its encompassing surroundings, located near the famous Quebec Bridge, is a worthwhile tourist attraction.

OLD AND NEW

The architecture of the old and modern structures throughout Quebec City are decidedly worthy of admiration for their beauty and intended purposes such as the government buildings, churches, hospitals, universities, hotels, motels, agricultural and industrial buildings, along with the bridges - the old Quebec bridge and "the Pierre Laporte" of recent completion.

The city ended with a grand tour of the south shore of the St. Lawrence with its vast expanses of agricultural and industrial enterprises, and a second tour through the fortified gate to view the horse and buggy tours operated daily in that area.

The magnificence of the Province of Quebec was beautifully displayed by the comfortable home settings, the beautiful displayed by the comfortable home settings, the beautiful farms of grains and vegetables, and the many and varied breeds of cattle and horses and other animals that the group encountered en route.

We laud the pleasure of driving on beautiful highways and the return trip through the Matapedia Valley was enhanced by the richness of the foliage at this particular season.

The memorable tour was enriched by contact with other senior citizen groups, and tourists in general. Special thanks are extended to the organizing committee, Mr. Bud Jamieson and Mrs. Myron Jennings who provided every effort towards making the tour enjoyable.

Busman Save My Child

From the very beginning, school busing, wherever the system was adopted, has been a frustrating problem. The Bathurst area, of course, is no exception.

To begin with, transporting students, especially the very young, many miles for long hours, from early morning (before daylight in late fall and winter), to almost evening, in over-crowded vehicles is certainly not conducive to their general good health and well-being.

Add to that the hazard of heavy traffic and inconsiderate motorists and you're really in trouble, or could be. Despite the warning and heavy penalties, many car drivers prefer to ignore those flashing lights.

Certain dedicated school bus drivers say they have repeatedly reported infractions to police authorities and have provided the license plate numbers of the offenders. No action, it seems, is ever taken. Some of these chauffeurs have even been labelled "trouble-makers".

Short-staffed as they may be on either level of police service, surely time could be found somewhere and somehow to at least make a few examples. Experience has shown that often this is all that is needed.

In our books, bus drivers are among the most important of public servants or officials since they are entrusted with one of the most precious of cargoes. That is why the more dedicated ones exercise discipline while in transit, for the protection of, but often to the dismay and dislike of their young passengers.

Indications are that some of the teachers on supervisory duties while the buses are loading or discharging do not control the situation as well as they might. A changed in attitude and action here would also help.

One local bus driver of long standing and noted for his manners and morals on the highways reported a harrowing experience last week. Two first graders he dropped in a certain section of the city and who he thought were safely on their way home, unbeknown to him attempted to crawl under the wheels to place green crab apples. Some of the young ones find this a method of getting kicks from the resultant squishing sound as the fruit is flattened when the vehicle starts up.

As it happened the two lads escaped unharmed. But for the grace of God it could have been a double tragedy. As a matter of fact, the school bag of one of them was damaged by the passage of the heavy tires.

Here is where parents and teachers, as well as bus-drivers come in. All three should admonish the children concerning the dangers of unwise actions. It is only by concentrated action and cooperation on all levels of jurisdiction that potential fatalities will be averted. Trusting in Providence is good but an assist from the human elements is also necessary.

Renewed Confidence

It must be as obvious to Prime Minister Trudeau as it is to New Brunswickers what an asset to this province Lt. - Gov. H.J. Robichaud has been in his capacity as the Queen's representative. Otherwise, he would not have asked him to accept an extension to his appointment.

And, accordingly, Gloucester County has reason to rejoice that such confidence is placed in a distiguished native son. His charming wife, a helpmate in his vice-regal post, also shares some of the honors.

Lt.-Gov. Robichaud has indicated he was pleased over the invitation, received in a person to person telephone call last week, and accepted it.

The first Acadian ever to hold this exalted position, Lt.-Gov. Robichaud was appointed in 1971 and his 5-year commitment expired October 8. Extension to the terms of lieutenant governors are for indefinite periods, which are left to the discretion of the prime minister.

Lt.-Gov. Robichaud says he has found his duties "most interesting", the move into his official residence in April, 1975, having made the carrying out of many of his functions much easier.

The lieutenant-governor is often called upon to entertain visiting dignitaries and groups. He and Madame Robichaud played host, for instance, to Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip during their visit in July.

The official vice-gubernatorial residence on Waterloo Row in the capital, was acquired by the province in an exchange of property with UNB. The house was extensively refurbished and refurnished.

Previously, Lt.-Gov. Robichaud had found it difficult to carry out some of his duties from headquarters in the Lord Beaverbrook Hotel where he both lived and worked.

Of the job in general, "it's demanding," he says. He and Mme Robichaud "do a tremendous amount of travelling....but we do it with pleasure and satisfaction."

"We have been very well-received by the people of New Brunswick wherever we go", he adds. And so they should be No one could be more approachable or congenial or grace the office better.

Before his present appointment, Lt-Gov. Robichaud served the public faithfully and well in other fields of government service, first as MP and then as Senator for Gloucester. It was a big decision when he chose to relinquish his seat in the red chamber when offered and urged to take his present appointment.

Despite the demands upon their private lives, the Robichauds have not neglected their home and family. They brought up nine fine children, all of whom are following successful careers of their own. Eight of them are married, while the youngest is attending university in Ottawa.

Reader Condemns Truman Language

Bathurst, N.B.
September 30, 1976

On Monday evening, September 27, 1976 at 10 p.m., North Shore television presented a special on U.S. President Harry Truman.

The program lasted one hour but could have been done in half the time if Mr. Truman or television technicians would have cut out the cursing in the program. Mr. Truman stated that he read the Bible (King James version) through twice in his life but apparently he didn't acknowledge the warnings in Matthew, Chapter 5, versus 33 to 37, where Jesus Christ tells us "Again, ye have heard that it hath been said by them of old time, Thou shalt not forswear thyself, but shalt perform unto the Lord thine oath: But I say unto you, swear not at all, neither by heaven, for it is God's throne, nor by earth, for it is His footstool, neither by Jerusalem, for it is the city of the great Kings. Neither shalt thou swear by thy head, because thou canst not make one hair white or black. But let your communications be, yea, yea; Nay, nay, for whatsoever is more than these cometh of evil."

Mr. Truman apparently also missed the third commandment, "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain."

The life span of man on this earth today is seventy-one years. If you believe in God, you know there is life after death. Are you ready to face God on judgement day?

Here's something to think about. In Mark, Chapter 3, Verse 29, Jesus says, "But he that shall blaspheme against the Holy Ghost hath never forgiveness but is in danger of eternal damnation." And in Luke, Chapter 12, Verse 9, Jesus says, "He that denieth me before men shall be denied before the angels of God."

We have so much evil and hatred in this world today, it is hard to live a Christian life, but remember by being a good Christian, you gain eternal life in blissful happiness, and after four months of being a new born babe in Christ, I can truly say its what I always wanted but was too proud to admit.

You couldn't buy what I have inside me for all the world's riches, yet you can have it free for the asking if you will accept the fact in your heart that Jesus Christ died for your sins and mine, and confess from the heart that you are a sinner and receive Jesus Christ as your personal savoir, you will be saved - born again in Christ and have eternal happiness with God.

In Romans, Chapter 10, Verse 10, "For with the heart, man believeth unto righteousness, and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation."

So if you have read this, you have no excuse to be caught unprepared. It's a wonderful life. Wake up and live, Harry Truman.

A Concerned Christian,
Roger

Math Problem Is "Corrected"

September 29, 1976
Kingston, Canada

The headline in your recent article (NL-July 28) concerning the Science Council Background Study No. 37 on Mathematical Sciences in Canada ascribes to me views about the "new math" which are almost exactly opposite to those I actually hold.

The article seeks to make everyone angry - teachers, parents, publishers!

Politicians are said to prefer to be quoted incorrectly than not to be noticed so, perhaps, I should be grateful! However, I would appreciate a chance to correct the false impression you have created.

In essence, what Mathematical Sciences in Canada (available from Information Canada) says about new maths is the following:

1) the thorough-going reorientation of elementary and secondary school mathematics teaching which began in all civilized countries in the 1960's is good, necessary and was long overdue;

2) it originated in response to the needs of society;

3) to effect any such far-reaching change in education requires a great deal of effort which, to be successful, must be properly, consistently, and energetically directed over a considerable period of time;

4) the widespread paradoxical attitude to mathematics in our society - an irrational mixture of awe and fear-makes it doubly difficult to improve the teaching of mathematics;

5) the emotional hulabaloo about the "new math", stirred up by reactionaries who are mentally too lazy to change or by well-intentioned, but misguided individuals who do not fully understand the real issues, simply causes confusion which we could well do without;

6) the "newest" idea in the "new maths", that of abstract group, was known to Arthur Cayley 125 years ago!

Rapity, apart from the misleading beginning and headline the CP dispatch about the Science Council Study is essentially correct though far from adequate.

Hopefully, during the coming months you will provide your readers with a full analysis of the Study since it raises many serious issues needing widespread discussion. Note, for example, the quotation at the beginning of Chapter IV on the Chinese view of the relation of mathematics training to national goals.

Industry Prefers Unskilled Labor?

Bathurst, N.B.
October 4, 1976

Local 512 agrees with some of the presentation of the brief of the Industrial Commission for the Chaleur region. It was in the Moncton times last week.

U.A. Local 512 of Bathurst doesn't agree with the statement that there is a scarcity of skilled labor in the Northeast of N.B.

I represent the Steamfitters, Pipefitters, Plumbers, Welders and Apprentices in the counties of Restigouche and Gloucester. Right now I'm staring at a board full of cards with the words "Not Working". Indeed there are 170 qualified men not working, some with two certificates of apprenticeship in the trades mentioned before. These people have been working outside of the counties of Gloucester and Restigouche and outside of the province of N.B. for the last eight years. This shows when we last had a job worth while in the counties of Restigouche and Gloucester. When these people are laid off they report to their Unemployment Insurance Bureau, and let me tell you these skilled workers are told by these people to go find a job or that their benefits are going to be cut off. Find a job where? They hire non-skilled workers in the northeast of N.B. to do the same work.

These people have to leave their homes, wives and children to go outside N.B. or in the southern part of N.B. to see if there is work for them. They are sometimes away from home for five, six months at the time.

U.A. Local 512 has married men working on construction in Fort McMurray on the Tar Sands in Northern Alberta. These people can't come home every weekend.

N.B. Power started construction of No. 2 Generating Station in Dalhousie, N.B. in March 1975. It will only be in July 1977 before some of our skilled tradesmen in steamfitting and pipefitting will be hired for this job. You see how fast they move with their construction in the Northeast N.B.

In the Southern part of N.B., at Lepreau for an example, at the Nuclear Plant (the one they were going to build on the Northeast of N.B.) skilled people are already on this job. Our bright citizens in the Northeast decided to keep this plant out and it worked. So they built it in the southern part of N.B. People there wanted the plant in their area. They could have more energy and more industry in their area. So they said "you skilled people from the northeast, starve or go on welfare."

Some companies on the Northeast spend millions to keep our qualified people out and they hire non-qualified people. These same companies are getting welfare from our provincial and federal governments. They turn around and will not hire qualified people that already give them money through taxes. Money they earned outside of their area. It's a shame how our representatives can be so stupid to give these companies money with no strings attached. They should have to hire qualified people to do these skilled jobs. We are not asking bankruptcy for these companies, we are just asking for a little share of these welfare funds that we are paying for. We have a good example of this in the Northwest of N.B. - a pulp and paper mill under construction. It also happened at No. 2 Generating Station in Dalhousie - hiring non-skilled workers to do the work of skilled labor.

Now qualified people are not going to work for a mere $4.00 per hour after spending four and five years as apprentices learning the trade, for which they are qualified to do.

Our department of Labor and Manpower for N.B. is still training people as plumbers, pipefitters, welders, but these people who have gone to trade schools for these trades four and five years ago still haven't found a job yet as apprentices. It may be another four to five years before they get one.

Our Economic Expansion Department of the Chaleur region, checked with our office in 1975 about qualified people working out of the counties of Restigouche and Gloucester. U.A. Local 512 forwarded to this department a list of our qualified people.

We had a company sinking a shaft in the Bathurst area. They hired welders from outside the province, paid them room and board and very good wages. They also laid off the welders from this area.

Local 512 of Bathurst forwarded letters to our mayors and councillors of all towns and cities in the counties of Restigouche and Gloucester. We stated on these letters the qualified people we had in these areas. You know what? They didn't have enough decency to answer these letters. They also do the same as the companies do - they hire non-skilled labor.

Our neighbor in Restigouche County, Mr. Jim Renaud, who represents the millwrights, has enough millwrights not working to build a one hundred and fifty million dollar plant.

We know how many qualified people we have in this area and we also know how big of an industry they can build in dollars for the amount of qualified people available.

Why are they crying for skilled labor if after they have them on the market they don't hire them?

We hope that we have put some people straight with our situation on the Northeast of N.B. as far as skilled labor is concerned.

"Let's Talk About It"

Bathurst, N.B.
October 4, 1976

Now that the heat of summer has gone and vacations are past, we suddenly remember - "it's that time again". Time to brush up on our knowledge and beliefs. Time to take a half-turn and look at where we come from and where we are going. Are we proceeding in the right path? Are we conversing with our Creator.

"A Swiss gentleman once carefully reviewed his 86 years in this world. This was the statement of time spent:

"In bed 26 years, at work 22 years, eating 6 yrs., being angry 6 yrs., waiting for slowpokes 5 yrs., shaving 228 days; scolding his offspring 26 days; tying his necktie 18 days; blowing his nose 18 days; lighting his pipe 12 days; laughing 46 hours.

"People find time for what they consider important. They generally manage to make time for what they label priorities.

"Do you know offhand what your priorities are? How much time do you calculate you have given to Our Lady's Rosary so far? Is it among the top ten on your priorities' list? God gives us 1,440 minutes a day. The Family Rosary takes about 15 minutes a day."

Think it over - 'til next time.

Man Killed In Upriver Mishap

A single-car mishap which occurred on a narrow, mountainous woods road near Popple Depot on Friday, October 1 claimed the life of a 26-year-old Nigadoo man.

Bernard Roy, a tractor operator for the construction firm of Armand T. Roy of Nigadoo, was pronounced dead on arrival at Moncton Hospital after being transferred from Chaleur General in Bathurst. The victim reportedly died from head injuries.

Mr. Roy was discovered at about 7 a.m. by two fellow employees on their way to work. Bathurst RCMP said the victim was discovered still alive in his own car on the road. The men drove back to Bathurst with the injured man.

Reports indicated the accident occurred on a narrow stretch bordered by a 15 to 20-foot deep ditch which the car apparently rolled into.

Born in Alcida, he was a son of Richard and Delima (Roy) Roy. He had been working for the construction firm for approximately four years.

Surviving are his wife, the former Claudine Arsenault; his parents of Petit Rocher, five brothers, Reginald, Achille and Robert "Bobby", all of Petit Rocher, Marcel of CFB St-Jean d'Iberville, Que.; and Mario, at home.

Also surviving are seven sisters, Mrs. Ben Garent (Marie-Claire) and Mrs. Melvin James Harietta (Anita), both of Montreal, Mrs. Kenneth Aube (Rose) of Laplante, Mrs. Louis Boudreau (Huguette) of Caraquet, Mrs. Jean-Claude DeGrace (Joanne), Beresford, Mrs. Willie Paulin (Justine) of Sept-Isles, Que and Monique at home.

Mr. Roy rested at Verret's Funeral Home in Nigadoo.

Rev. Zoel Saulnier and Rev. Claude Pinet officiated at the concelebrated mass held at St. Polycarpe Church, Petit Rocher, Monday at 7 p.m.

The pallbearers were Wilbert DeGrace, Walter Boudreau, Donald Comeau, Daniel Roy, Yvon Hache and Jacques Lagacy, all co-workers. Armand T. Roy was bearer for the floral tribute from the staff and co-workers of A.T. Roy Constuction Ltd., Nigadoo.

Interment was in the parish cemetery.

Those attending from a distance included Marcel Roy, St. Jean d'Iberville, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Garent and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin James Harietta, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Boudreau, Caraquet; Mr. and Mrs. Willie Paulin, Sept. Isles, Que.

Dies In Early Morning Crash

One man is dead and another in serious condition in hospital following a single-car crash on the Bathurst-Beresford bypass early Saturday.

Raymond Doucet, 26, of Petit Rocher was a passenger in a car which went out of control, went the wrong way on the highway and rolled over. A second passenger, Jean Francois LeBlanc of St. Basile, was transferred to Bathurst Hospital from Chaleur General with serious head injuries.

Driver of the vehicle, Jean-Claude Hache of Petit Rocher, was not seriously hurt in the mishap, which occurred at about 1:15 a.m.

Born in Bathurst, Mr. Doucet was a son of Adrien and Doris (Mallet) Doucet. He was enrolled at the Northumberland Institute of Technology in Bathurst.

Among the survivors are his parents of Petit Rocher, two brothers, Robert, Petit Rocher and Gerald at home; one sister, Denise Doucet of Montreal; and maternal grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mallet of Petit Rocher.

The body rested at Verret's Funeral Home, Nigadoo. Funeral mass was celebrated Monday night at 8 p.m. at St. Polycarpe Roman Catholic in Petit Rocher. Interment followed in the parish cemetery.

Rev. Claude Pinet conducted the service and pallbearers were Robert Doucet, a brother, Roger Boudreau, Jacques Berthiaume, Andree Lavergne, Paul Aube and Gaston Roy.

Those from out of town attending the funeral included Denise Doucet, Yves Doucet, Jean Belzile and Claudette and Victor Pelletier, all of Montreal.

REGIMENT AWARDS BURSARY TO BERESFORD STUDENT

Carole-Anne Boudreau, Beresford, a first-year student in health science at Universite de Moncton, has received a $350. bursary from the 8th Canadian Hussars. She is the daughter of Felix Boudreau, a well-know employee of Lounsbury's appliance department, and of Mrs. Boudreau.

This is the second year in a row that the regiments provides assistance in this manner to its members or their dependents. Last year, two bursaries were awarded, one of which went to Rejean Aucoin, a member and a student at U de M.

This year, the Hussars gave three bursaries to applicants with the best Academic standings in post-secondary education. The same applicants remain eligible for future funds, if and when they are made available.

YOUR BUSINESS

Break Eases Loss Of Job

By VINCENT HIGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Losing one's job is hard enough for anyone, any time. It's especially traumatic for the older person who has worked for the same employer for many years.

It's some comfort to know that the tax collector, at least, has a bit of compassion for the person in those circumstances.

A surprisingly large number of people go through this unnerving experience—typically, when the control of a company changes hands, or when a new department head decides to create a tough-guy image.

If the company concerned has any sense of justice at all, it will ordinarily give the unfortunate employee a lump-sum payment, such as a year's salary.

If it doesn't offer a settlement, the dismissed employee may have a good chance of winning it in court.

This isn't a windfall. Rather, it's compensation for the potential damage to the employee's career and reputation, and recognition of the fact that older people face a shortage of job opportunities and must prove themselves anew in any work situation in which they may manage to land.

Under the circumstances, it would be totally unfair for the tax collector to treat the lump sum as earned income, to be added to the income that was really earned by the employee, and then to tax it at the top marginal rate.

HOW IT WORKS

In a recently published interpretation bulletin (IT-337), the Department of National Revenue spells out is definition of "retiring allowance," and the way such payments are treated for tax purposes.

In the first place, the retiring allowance must be received "on or after" retirement to qualify.

"Retirement," in the depart-ment's view, means "a severance of employment from one particular employer," resulting from either resignation or dismissal.

It doesn't extend to a switch of jobs with the same employer, nor between one company and an affiliated company.

To qualify as a retiring allowance, the payment must be either "in recognition of long service" or "in respect of loss of office or employment."

That term is elastic enough to include accumulated sick-leave credits to which the employee was entitled under the terms of employment.

On the other hand, it wouldn't include accumulated vacation leave that the employee hadn't taken. That would be considered as ordinary remuneration.

What qualifies, in other words, are payments usually made upon retirement, release or dismissal prior to normal retirement time, because of the abolition of the job or for some other reason other than the employee's own volition.

SOCKING IT AWAY

If the payment qualifies in these terms—which are broad enough to take in all ordinary cases of dismissal—then the tax liability can be easily deferred. (Tax on income is never waived altogether.)

How? By routing the retirement allowance from the employer directly to a trustee, who will invest it in a registered retirement savings plan on the employee's behalf.

The employee has to go through the routine of reporting it as income on his tax return, and then claiming an offsetting deduction (because of the RRSP investment) a few lines further down.

The tax is then deferred until the employee retires (in the true sense) or withdraws the money from the RRSP for another reason.

(One such reason, of course, may be that the dismissed employee isn't able to land a new job, and needs the retiring allowance to pay current bills.)

The person caught in a squeeze like that should try to defer the withdrawal at least until the new year, if at all possible, in order to spread the tax load more evenly.

Comics Promote Non-Violence

The creator of Captain Canuck, the Canadian comic-book super-hero, has reluctantly turned to an American printer to try to keep his maple-leaf-clad strong man alive.

Richard Comely, who says he is Canada's only comic book publisher, says high printing costs in Winnipeg have forced Comely Comix to World Color Press in the U.S., which also turns out Superman and other American heroes. The bigger U.S. press-run result in printing charges about half the amount he was paying at home.

The economic squeeze – Comely Comix was $50,000 in the red after three issues of Captain Canuck – also forced Comely to take a job running the weekly newspaper in Carleton, Alta.

Comely, a Marxist, who advocates non-violence in comics, created Captain Canuck a year ago. Incidentally, the publisher is located in the same Western town from whence comes Elder Don MacMurray, now missioned in Bathurst with the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (the Mormons).

Despite his problems, Comely is pleased with sales and also foresees a future for Captain Canuck in a syndicated newspaper comic strip.

Poppy days Nov. 5 And 6

At a meeting of the Poppy Day Committee, held September 28 at the Herman J. Good VC Branch No. 18 Royal Canadian Legion, Friday, November 5 and all day Saturday, November 6 were chosen as the dates for the street canvass. It's the weekend before Remembrance Day.

Fenton Daley and Eric Pitre are co-chairman of this year's appeal, while Wilbur Elhatton, Blake Guitos and James MacLaggan are committee members at large. Nathan (Gus) Higgins is in charge of publicity.

Wreaths and large business establishments: Fenton Daley and Robert Knowles; Street: Eric Pitre and Harry W.S. MacLean; Canteen and small business: Howard Pettigrew and George Smith; Schools: Malcolm Noble; Mrs. Ina Pettigrew, Ladies' Auxiliary Poppy Chairwoman, directs the house-to-house canvass.

All Legion and Auxiliary members are requested to give every assistance to this project in order to make it the success that it has been in the past.

Both poppies and wreaths are made in Canada by handicapped veterans in Vetcraft Shops, it has been pointed out.

All proceeds from the Poppy Campaign are kept in a special account and, according to the constitution of the Royal Canadian Legion, can only be used for the welfare of disabled, sick or handicapped veterans or their dependents.

NBEPC Maintains Growth Despite World Problems

"In spite of difficult local and world economic conditions the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission has succeeded in maintaining a positive financial position", said Commission Chairman A. Edison Stairs in releasing the Commission's Annual Report for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1976.

"The Commission" said Mr Stairs" successfully fulfilled its role of providing an adequate and reliable supply of economic energy to meet the needs of its customers and carried out an unprecedented program of construction designed to meet the growing energy demands well into the early 1980's.

Difficult economic conditions coupled with protracted strikes in forest related industries adversely affected Industrial power energy sales. However, Wholesale, General Service and Residential energy use was up substantially over the previous year by 13.8 per cent, 19.2 per cent and 21 per cent respectively. The continued high energy demand in the Wholesale, Residential and General Service areas resulted in an overall increase in in-province usage of 4.3 per cent.

It has been estimated that the New Brunswick population grew by 2 per cent over the past 12 month period. At the same time the total number of customers served by the Commission grew by over 8,731 customers to a total of 193,358, the strongest percentage increase taking place in the Residential category. Approximately 36,500 additional individual customers are served indirectly through wholesale agreements with the municipalities of Saint John and Edmundston.

Annual Residential kilowatthour usage to March 31, 1976 averaged 8782 KWH compared to the previous year-end average to 7602 KWH, bringing total energy consumption by Residential classification customers to over one and one-half billion kilowatthours annually.

Although total revenue for the period was up 15 per cent over the previous year, expenditures including the direct cost of producing energy and providing service increased at an even higher rate. Net income for the year at $9,615,859. was slightly less than that of 1974-75, leaving a small amount to be retained in earnings invested in the business for the year.

"To assist in meeting financial obligations strained by severe cost pressures it was necessary during the year to introduce rate increases averaging approximately 10 per cent affecting most customer classifications.

Mr Stairs said that it is now more than evident that the Commission's past history of successively lower unit energy cost has changed, just as it has already changed for most, if not all utilities on the North American Continent. The termination in the next fiscal year of the large power purchase agreement with Hydro Quebec will add considerably to the pressure for higher unit costs, principally because its replacement will inevitably be by much more expensive generation at today's higher costs.

A major challenge facing the Commisaion is one of replacing the firm energy purchases from Quebec. Timing of current generation construction projects is of necessity on a very tight but achievable schedule and any unforeseen delays could have some serious consequences in meeting increasing energy requirements.

New generation scheduled to come on line during the coming months has been designed to ease this position and add even more reliability to the system. Careful planning with neighbouring systems backed by strong transmission links has given greater reliability and back-up reserve to the generating system.

Considerable stress was placed on all facilities, especially the distribution system by unprecedented Residential and General Service load growth, as high as 50 per cent in some regions.

During the fiscal year under review increased emphasis was placed on improved customer service.

To improve service, new high voltage transmission lines were extended to various areas of the province and work continued on over 100 new, rebuilt or uprated substations.

A record capital construction program continued. Other extensive services and facilities for the distribution of energy to our customers were undertaken including new service and hookups, power extensions and improvements to low voltage transmission and distribution lines.

Heavy construction at new generating facilities reached a high point during the year at the Coleson Cove Generating Station. The tempo of construction also packed up at the Point Lepreau nuclear project, the second unit installation of 200,000 kilowatts at Dalhousie and at the Mactaquac Generating Station where two units of 100,000 kilowatts each are being added for on-line operation in 1978-79.

Several new District office and stores buildings are being designed or constructed to better serve customers. With nearly 200,000 direct customers depending on electrical supply from the Commission, service was the byword for 1975-76.

Information programs were developed to provide customers with the latest facts and figures on effective energy use, energy conservation, insulation, heating and cooling as well as new trends in alternative energy research.

Electric power from nuclear energy will be a vital factor in providing a dependable and economical supply of 24-hour base load electric energy for our developing Province. Nuclear generated electrical energy will integrate well with existing generating facilities and other forms of energy supply under study for New Brunswick's future, including that from coal, peat, tidal, purchases and expansion of the power potential of the Saint John River. The need for the establishment of a diversified energy supply on the provincial electrical grid system is further driven home when one considers that the Commission's oil-fired generating units are fuelled by imported oil subject to dramatic cost escalation and questionable security of supply. This diversified approach to energy production by N.B. Power has been vital in achieving low cost energy for New Brunswick customers.

In closing, Mr. Stairs paid tribute to the skill and dedication of employees both past and present for their contribution to the success of the Commission over the years.

3 North Shore Teams Veto Inter-League Team Play

Four discouraged representatives of the Southeastern New Brunswick Hockey League teams walked out of a special North Shore Hockey League meeting in Chatham Sunday following two hours of fruitless negotiations on whether or not the leagues will play an interlocking schedule.

Three members of the NSHL -Chatham Ironmen, Campbellton Tigers and Dalhousie Rangers - vetoed the idea while two - Moncton Hawks and Bathurst Alpine Papermakers - voted in favor of it.

All four SNBHL teams - Saint John Moosheads, Newcastle Northmen, Fredericton Chevies and a new Shediac entry - were in favor of it.

Chatham, Dalhousie and Campbellton all cited the increased expenses, especially travel costs, as the prohibitive factor in their vetoes. Closely allied to this concern with expenses was the feeling that SNBHL teams would not draw as well as NHSL teams, thus further cutting into NSHL budgets.

The original proposal for the interlocking schedule came from the southern teams, who had previously felt that they could not operate a league with only three teams.

In considering this proposal, the NHSL teams were counting on just three teams. Then Sunday, the Shediac Club, represented by Dan (the Bear) Larin and Roger Gagnon made a surprise appearance. This seemed to harden the dissenting NHSL teams' attitudes, because it would mean more games in the South and fewer games between traditional NSHL rivals.

In an interview following the meeting, NSHL president Joe Flynn of Bathurst said, "I'm disappointed. I thought it was a good idea. In one way, I didn't think operating costs would be that much. But I let the teams discuss it and they made the decision.

"The whole thing changed when Shediac appeared. No one had counted on them, but it would add another team to the home and home interlocking schedule, while cutting the NHSL teams down from four home and home sets to three."

Flynn added the inclusion of Shediac would have cut the overall schedule from 32 games to 30.

Charlie Chase of Fredericton president of the SNBHL, was also disappointed.

"I was very much in favor of it because, for one thing, it would give the fans in both the North and South a chance to see other players. This would be better for all hockey in N.B."

Bathurst general manager Jack Furlotte, who cast one of the two North votes in favor of the interlocking proposal said, "We were willing to go along with the home and home series. Not that we needed it, and maybe we wouldn't draw as many fans as we would against a north team. But what we basically wanted was an arrangement that would guarantee that the best two teams in the province would represent N.B. in national competition."

"I don't think that an interlocking schedule would be financially feasible," said Furlotte, "but the main thing is I think it would be good for hockey in N.B."

Saint John Moosheads general manager Jack Wood-house was unable to attend the meeting, and gave Newcastle's Wayne Cameron and Art Morris the authority to act in Saint John's behalf. Cameron came out of the meeting shaking his head and commented, "I am very disappointed. They (the NSHL) don't want to seem to give up anything. We went along with all their proposals, but still, it was no go."

On the other hand George Lloyd, a member of the Chatham Ironmen delegation, said "I don't think the south has very much to offer us. We get pretty good crowds now and we have a very competitive league. If we've entered into the new schedule it would mean an awful lot of extra travel. Furthermore, while we were willing to think about three south teams, a fourth (Shediac) made the thing out of the question for us.

"The NSHL," added Lloyd, "is constantly improving and we want to keep it that way."

Dalhousie general manager Max Ross pretty much agreed with Lloyd. Said Ross: "It would simply cost us too much to travel-this is our main concern and we don't think the competition would be as good as it is now." Ross, too, also cited the appearance of Shediac as a decisive factor in the team's rejection of the proposal.

Rockies And Cups Post NHL Upsets

Washington Capitals and Denver Rockies raised eyebrows last night as the National Hockey League opened the 1976 - 77 season.

The Capitals edged Atlanta Flames 6 - 5 on Hartland Monahan's second goal of the game on a powerplay late in the third period. Hilliard Graves fired a pair for the Flames.

A bigger surprise was the 4 - 2 loss handed the Toronto Maple Leafs by Denver Rockies who played out of Kansas City as the Scouts last season.

Charlie Roy Extends Thanks To Moosehead Supporters

Charlie Roy, who piloted the Bathurst Moosheads to the Maritime Intermediate A Baseball Championship in his first season as manager, has requested this opportunity to express the team's thanks and appreciation to its many supporters.

CHARLIE ROY

"The coaches, manager and players on the Bathurst Moosehead Baseball Team owe much thanks to many people in the City of Bathurst.

"We won the Maritime Intermediate A baseball championship through hard work and dedication to baseball. We gladly accepted the hard work, but could not have accomplished this endeavor without the financial and moral support of our friends, families and fans," he added.

"The Moosehead team wishes to thank Paul Heckbert, a lifetime fan, for approaching local merchants and individuals for financial support. In this regard, we extend our appreciation to Superior Janitor Service, Huntly Ferguson, The Captain's Cabin, Best TV, W. J. Kent Co. Ltd., Chaleur Rentals and Rolly Vienneau, who contributions helped us travel to Nova Scotia. We also thank the Bathurst City Council for their fine donation."

"Team transportation is always a problem no matter where the destination," Charlie added. "But not this time. Ross Aubie, Ronald Cavanaugh and Harry Chiasson offered their vans to the Moosehead team for the weekend trip. No words, except a humble "Thank You", could ever express our appreciation to these three great fans."

"We must not forget our sponsor Moosehead Breweries who covered most of our expenses during the regular season," Charlie noted, "and The Northern Light and other media for the excellent coverage the team enjoyed throughout the year."

"Finally, as manager of the Bathurst Moosehead team, I wish to sincerely thank the players who made this a most enjoyable and successful year," Roy concluded.

Capitols Cop Two Trophies In Weekend Bowling

The Caps travelled to Saint John Saturday and wrestled the Hatfield Trophy away from Saint John Bowlmore by a margin of 41 pins.

The Bathurst squad will put the Trophy on the line against a team from Moncton this Saturday at Capitol Lanes starting at 7 p.m.

The Bathurst win marked the first time the Hatfield Trophy was brought back to the North Shore since it was first placed in competition in 1951.

Top Chatham Head

At Capitol Lanes Sunday, the Bathurst Capitols successfully defended the Bathurst Propane Challenge Trophy by a 96 pin margin over a team from Chatham Head.

Gordie Chiasson once again led the way with a 336 triple and a 137 single.

The Capitols' next defence of the trophy is set for this Sunday at Capitol Lanes, 2 p.m., against another team from Chatham.

"Forty Winks" Added To Chain

Lorne Ferguson, general manager of Fundy Line Motels, has announced the acquisition by his firm of the Forty Winks Motel in Campbellton, effective Sept. 29.

This addition to the Fundy Line, is the seventh motel acquired by this New Brunswick-based firm, two others in Newcastle and Bathurst having become part of the chain within the past few months.

Centres now served by Fundy Line are St. Stephen, Fredericton, Saint John (2), Newcastle, Bathurst and now, Campbellton.

Mr. Ferguson in making the announcement stated he was pleased with the Forty Winks purchase in that few changes will be required to bring this operation up to the standards of the existing Fundy Line Motels.

He pointed out that Fundy Line can now boast of over 400 rooms in New Brunswick. Each is equipped with color TV, telephone and modern furnishings and offers the ultimate in comfortable and clean overnight accommodation.

One of the most attractive features of Fundy Line Motels is their moderate rate structure which in turn appeals to commercial travellers.

"It is this segment of the travelling public that gives us most of our occupancy" Mr. Ferguson said, "and we are now happy to provide 76 such units in the Campbellton area."

Kindness Club Seeks Support

The Kindness Club Foundation, promoter of funds which keep The Kindness Club in action, feels it necessary, in view of rising costs, to appeal to the public for financial and moral support. Any donations from all quarters will be welcomed as an official receipt for deduction from taxable income.

Those sending a new gift, single or small, will get a card signed by smiling children with the name of a child, giving name, age and address, to whom Kindness Club literature in either English or French will be sent free of charge.

It's a time when the demanding of all virtues seems all too popular. It is heartening to know that the Kindness Club is providing an antidote to vice, terror and endless cruelty. When members learn that they are learning: the joy of being good and helping others, and to develop, as they are doing, the courage to do right, the Kindness Club proves its worth.

The Kindness Club, Le Carrefour St. Francois, brings to children of an early age a love of nature, a detestation of cruelty, an awareness of pollution and of what must be done to save our environment.

The 1976-77 appeal chairman is Hon. Milton Chase, Q.C.

Names of appeal trustees are: Hon. Gerald S. Hutchbury, New Brunswick Minister of Education; Desmond Spurling, treasurer, Kindness Club Foundation Inc.; Harrison McCain; Mrs. J. K. Irving; Senator Edgar Fournier; Senator F.A. McGrand; Hon. Hugh John Flemming.

Preparing For Winter

The fall weather is here again, and it's time to think about your dog's health and home for the winter.

Be sure his home is well insulated, both on the floor and walls, if he is a longer type that could sleep comfortably from your home. If he sleeps in the home, be sure he has his own bed and bring it down. Brush him regularly as the hair tends to fall more if he comes in heated places.

Diet remains about the same in summer or winter, however be sure he dog gets a good variety as they like a change of food. Raw and cooked meat (not spiced), cooked cereals, milk along with canned dog food are good. Never give your dog chicken or fish bones as they splinter and can cause serious injury to throat or stomach.

Never take your dog to school. Home is the place for him. If he is tied, be sure he has at least 30 feet of running space and be sure the lead is attached to something overhead on a 3 down and 'bowline' hitch.

Keeps Hooked On Rugs While He Recuperates

C. Pat Ryan, lately co-op coordinator for the N.B. Housing Corporation, is home again after a stay in Chaleur General Hospital and Saint John General Hospital. At the latter institution, he underwent two major operations necessitated by a freak accident.

As a result, C. Pat's jaw was wired and he has difficulty in speaking. It is expected he will be on the disabled list until mid-January 1977.

C. Pat, whose employer is a Crown corporation, is no stranger to government service. In the early 1950's he was industrial representative for the N.B. Dept. of Industry and Development under the ministry of Hon. Roger Pichette. Later in the same decade he was executive assistant to Premier Hugh John Flemming when Ken Carson was ill.

C. Pat has not been under the surgeon's knife that often but each time the anaesthetist has been Dr. John Caron and this was the case for both operations in the port city. He makes no bones (no pun intended) about how relieved he was to look up and see a friendly and familiar face in that "awesome" room.

When C. Pat was asked what he would do to fill in the time while recuperating, he answered: "hook another rug". This we had to see and would recommend that anyone passing the way of 1750 Rough Waters Dr. should drop in to see the Ryan handwork which are truly works of art. If the rugs aren't enough, there are also the Ryan antiques, from a 1733 grandfather clock with hand-painted dial to a corner plush chair (that seems to blend in with the modern), to a complete oldtime parlor ensemble, including a platform rocker. There are also original oil lamps, a victrola, etc.

But C. Pat's craftsmanship. That is something else. The masterpiece, and that is what it is, that he is working on now is a 4' x 9' multi-colored rug. It is unfortunate that some of his earlier efforts were lost when the Ryan's summer home was destroyed by fire last fall.

All in all, it's like a trip to a museum, the only difference being that all this beautiful furniture is usable and surprisingly comfortable. When we asked C. Pat where he had managed to collect all these ancient pieces, with that inimitable twinkle in his eye, he answered thusly:

"For several years I arrived home with a wee liquor of memory and in the morning, if I could find the car I was driving, or whatever, there would be a surprise in the back seat or trunk. When these memory gaps were eliminated by my affiliation with a well-known worldwide group, I took to refinishing and recovering. Now here they are."

C. Pat and Jessie also have one of the largest collections of paintings done by the late James Pitre, most of which are on loan to relatives. But the ones that are hanging at the Ryans' blend in with their home.

Mrs. Margaret Trudeau engages in discussion with Hermann Gmeiner of Austria, founder of SOS Children's Villages, at luncheon held during his visit to Canada. Mrs. Trudeau is active Honorary Patron of the Canadian Friends of SOS Children's Villages.

SEEK FURTHER AID FOR HOMELESS CHILDREN

Wars, disasters, dissinsions of all kinds around the world have left a trail of lost, abandoned children in their wake.

After the Second World War, desperate children struggling for survival drew the compassionate attention of Hermann Gmeiner of Austria. He conceived the idea of establishing villages where children of various ages would grow up together under the care of a mother who would be "their" mother, in a home which would be "their" home.

Thirty years later, there are 118 SOS Children's Villages in 58 countries around the world housing some 15,000 children. The villages are mainly supported by donations.

Mrs. Margaret Trudeau, with her specific interest in children, has consented to become active Honorary Patron of the Canadian Friends of SOS Children's Villages. Mr. Justice Emmett Hall is president. The Canadian organization, supporting a village in Lagos where 46 children now live, is hoping to increase sponsorship and memberships so that more houses can be built in the Village.

The first little boy to call the village home was given up by his father who could no longer care for him after his mother died. His name, Mafolumwo Olubanwo Okemakinde, means, "May God always take care of him, and may God help him take care of others."

Anyone interested in sponsoring a child, making a donation, becoming a member or seeking information should contact Joseph Messner, national director, Canadian Friend of SOS Children's Villages, Box 4117, Ottawa, Ontario K1S 5B1.

Deaths By Fire Almost Doubled

"Fire losses in the Province of New Brunswick for the first six months of 1976 are $7,262,067 as compared to $7,162,999 for the same period in 1975. During the first six months of 1976, 15 persons lost their lives by fire as compared with 27 for the same period in 1975.

"The seven days from October 3 - 9 have been set aside as Fire Prevention Week throughout North America. The theme of Fire Prevention Week is Learn Not To Burn.

"Knowing how not to burn can literally mean the difference between life and death, between a safe home and a pile of ashes and debris where you used to live.

"Learn Not To Burn means learning to avoid starting a fire, whether by accident, carelessness, or just plain ignorance; and learning how to keep your environment fire safe by not giving fire a place to start.

"Look at it from another angle, Learn Not To Burn means learning how to save yourself if you, or your clothes, should catch on fire, or learning how to escape quickly into fresh air in case of fire where you live, work, study, play or just happen to be.

"Fire Prevention Week is the perfect time to take Learn Not To Burn to heart: Think of the slogan from its two points of view, then do something about it from both directions.

"Your fire department can help make your home and place of work a safer place to be; but only you can keep it safe. Your fire department will share its knowledge with you; but it can only help you to help yourself.

"Fire Prevention Week is the perfect time to make a start at eliminating fire causes in our homes and place of work. It is a good time to examine our habits of day to day living and ask ourselves, do I know how to keep myself, my loved ones and my home from burning."

Mining Job Termed As Most Dangerous

When a miner tells of carrying his brother's body out of a mine, other miners listen with empathy. Almost all of them have made the trip with relatives or friends before.

United States government safety statistics show that mining is the most dangerous job in the U.S.

Harry Patrick, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, described to the recent UMW convention in Cincinnati how he brought his brother's body up from a coal mine. Almost all of the 1,800 delegates who heard Patrick speak have lost friends and relatives in the mines.

Patrick, of Monougah, W. Va., was a miner for 18 years before becoming a union official.

"The coal operators are no different today than they were back then. They're killing miners like my brother every day in the mines," he said.

Proceedings at the convention were halted twice when announcements were made that two miners had been killed in separate accidents. Delegates observed periods of silence after each announcement.

Both Patrick and Robert Garret, the chief administrator of the U.S. Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration (MESA), challenged the delegates to personally see to it that their mines become safe.

The delegates agreed and went to work on the safety proposals they want included in their next work contract. Some of their suggestions are sure to touch off lengthy debates when the union negotiators sit down with the coal companies late next year.

One proposal calls for the companies to employ a fulltime union safety committeeman, chosen by the union, at each mine. The union's safety committee also recommended that the companies take over full financial responsibility, now shared jointly by the union and the companies, for a health and safety training course for all miners.

Another proposal calls for the presence of at least one union miner, trained as and emergency medical technician, on every section of every shift in the mines.

Other safety proposals included: That the use of asbestos in any form be eliminated from the coal mining industry; that miners suffering from the early stages of black lung be allowed to transfer to less dusty areas of mines; that there be automatic, continuous dust-sampling in the mines and a miner on each shift who does nothing but monitor the dust sampling program.

Police Chief Resigns Post

The resignation of Tracadie Police Chief Joseph Roussel was announced Sunday by Deputy Mayor Gerard LaPlante.

Effective Thursday, September 30, the letter of resignation contained no reason for the decision. He had given no prior indication to council of intentions to step down from the post.

Council has temporarily appointed Sgt. Hector S. LeBreton as acting chief until the matter is discussed and a replacement named.

In other municipal business, the negotiating committees representing both the town and the CUPE local representing the 13-member police force have been able to resolve three of five grievances lodged by the union at a meeting Monday, September 27, Mr. LaPlante said.

The session was held through the consent of both parties at the outset of an arbitration board meeting at the town hall to hear a union grievance filed on behalf of several of the members of the local.

The former town employee is claiming payment for accumulated days of sick leave collected during his employment with the town.

A second similar case rests in the balance as union and town officials await the answer of the board, chaired by Mark Yeoman of Moncton. Other members of the board include Lorrain Essiembre representing the union and Warren Corbeille of Bathurst, representing the town.

Meanwhile, Roland Pelletier, as conciliator will hear arguments in the ongoing contract dispute between the union and the town. The local and its 13-member force have been without a collective agreement since Dec. 31 of last year.

Sgt. LaBreton, a member of the union negotiating committee, commented Sunday that employer-employee relations have "completely changed" and that he expected the dispute to be resolved quickly once negotiations resume.

The big issue in negotiations is expected to be the union request for an additional man or men to augment the present number of full-time and part-time members.

There are about 20 contract items to be ironed out, but the major area is expected to be improvements "in present working conditions."

Smoking Major Cause Of Fires

Ken Corkum, chairman of the New Brunswick Council on Smoking and Health said today the Council is supporting this year's Fire Prevention Week which runs from Oct. 3 - 9.

"Smoking is a major cause of fires in Canada, stressed Mr Corkum. In 1974 alone smoking accounted for 22 per cent of property fires and resulted in losses of over $25 million.

"This cost is borne not only by the smoker, but by everyone," reminded Mr. Corkum.

Legion seeks veterans eligible for war service benefits

If you are a Canadian veteran or veteran's dependent, you may now be eligible for a war service pension or allowance you did not know about.

The Royal Canadian Legion says that, although it is 31 years since the end of World War II, there are thousands of veterans and their dependents who are not receiving a benefit or service they are entitled to — either because they did not know about it or because the eligibility rules have changed.

During October and early November the Legion's 464,000 members are conducting "Operation Service" — a massive, house-to-house canvass across Canada to alert 1,245,000 ex-service people and their dependents to their rights and privileges under the Veterans Charter. Ex-service people who are not reached in this way are invited to get in touch with their nearest Legion branch for information about Operation Service.

Novel Explores Life Of Popular Canadian Tenor

By Susan Wilson

No man is a hero to his valet, but too many are saints to their biographers — especially those who have achieved their fame on the theatre.

In telling the story of the world-renowned Canadian tenor Edward Johnson in The Tenor of His Time (Clarke, Irwin; 266 pages; $12.50), Ruby Mercer has done both us and him the favor of letting the whole man appear.

She neither glosses over the unpleasant bits nor tries to explain them away, but simply sets them side by side with the rest of his life to paint a full-length portrait.

Using Johnson's own letters and the personal reminiscences of many people — both friendly and unfriendly — who knew him, Mercer has achieved her hope that "a personality will be found there, rather than a mere recording of dry facts".

Remarkably, the personality is found just because of the way she uses and juxtaposes the facts, for she assiduously refrains from editorializing.

This is the Edward Johnson who emerges . . .

A hard-working man of talent and ambition with a great enjoyment of people and a never-ending gift for making them laugh.

A social being who never let even his closest friends see when he was lonely or in pain.

A man who inspired lifelong loyalty and love — especially from women — but who could never bring himself to remarry after the death of his beloved Bebe, though he was only 41 when she died.

An impresario who appeared at the theatre every night in his white tie and tails, but continued to live in a third-floor walk-up flat.

A CAREER ABROAD

Edward Johnson was born in Guelph, in 1878. He left Ontario in 1899, over his father's strenuous opposition, to study singing in New York and shortly made a name for himself in concert, church, and recital work.

In the summer of 1900, he went to Europe for the first time, the expedition became an annual habit that lasted all his life.

She used him believe in his dream of singing grand opera and used every ounce of her considerable strength and musicianship to make it come true.

In 1908, she nearly lost him to the lure of Broadway when he became the toast of the town as the hero, Niki, in Oscar Straus' The Waltz Dream. Only Bebe's earnest transatlantic pleading got him back on the right track.

Johnson's life became increasingly eventful. Years of study in Italy, the birth in 1910 of their daughter Florenza (who became Mrs. George Drew), his operatic debut in 1912 (billed as Eduardo di Giovanni) to immediate and unending praise. Bebe's tragic death in 1919 at the age of 46 and his return to the United States, and his debut with the Metropolitan Opera in 1922.

A SECOND CAREER

He remained a leading tenor with the Met until 1935, when he became assistant manager of the company.

But the newly appointed general manager dropped dead of a heart attack after only a few weeks in office, and Johnson found himself catapulted into the top job. He held it until his retirement in 1950.

Although the Italians thought he was Italian, and the Americans assumed he was American, Edward Johnson considered himself a Canadian.

Except for a few years after he first went to New York, he went home to Guelph at least once a year and never stopped trying to figure out how he could make it the "singing capital of the nation".

He was passionately interested in getting musical education into the schools and spent his own time and money making it possible.

GUELPH FESTIVAL

He tried to establish a music festival in Guelph in 1929. The Depression killed it after a few years, but the re-incarnated Guelph Spring Festival began again in 1968 and celebrates its tenth anniversary next year.

Johnson was sufficiently concerned about young Canadian musicians to accept the chairmanship of the board of the Royal Conservatory in Toronto.

In places where there are conflicting versions of who said what to whom, Mercer's itinerary-style of presentation (which occasionally seems unfortunately superficial) comes into its own. The choices are presented without bias, and the reader is trusted to draw his own conclusions.

Private Wood Sales Promise Is Renewed

The provincial government intends to make private woodlots the prime source of supply for New Brunswick forest industry companies but moves in that direction have not advanced as rapidly as Natural Resources Minister Roland Boudreau would have liked.

A new forest policy, announced in January, "should and must be implemented," Mr. Boudreau told a forestry seminar on the University of New Brunswick campus last week.

He said the policy had not progressed as rapidly as government officials would have liked, but moves to replace Crown land as the prime supplier of wood would likely be made within the next year.

But, Mr. Boudreau said, it may be "three or five years" before the entire policy can be implemented.

Part of the new forest policy, which says the Crown will become the secondary supplier of wood and private woodlots the prime source, follows a recommendation of a forest resources study directed by R.E. Tweeddale.

Since the acceptance of the forest resources study two major events occurred that affected the policy of the government on forestry development, Mr. Boudreau said.

"The demand for softwood raw material, namely spruce and fir, was appalling and in some areas exceeding supply.

"Tree damage and mortality associated with the current spruce budworm epidemic have increased steadily in southern New Brunswick."

He suggested the policy did not work as well as intended because emergency moves had to be made to salvage heavily damaged stands of timber on Crown lands, but the minister said he did recognize that private woodlot owners were faced with the same situation.

Mr. Boudreau was replying to a question from the audience which asked if the new program would be implemented, or whether it was "just more hollow promises."

The member of the audience, who did not identify himself, said woodlot owners in New Brunswick had been telling governments they should become the prime suppliers of the resources since the 1790s.

Mr. Boudreau said the new policy will replace area rights to Crown land with volume guarantees of Crown wood. "Existing Crown timber licences of all kinds will be phased out and in their place the government will offer guarantees of wood supplies to a healthy diversity of efficient wood-using industries."

The minister said the policy is already being implemented in the Bathurst pilot project area and will be expanded to the remainder of the province during the next four or five years.

"Hopefully this policy will guarantees the small private wood producer a wood market. Since New Brunswick forest land is divided approximately equally between Crown and private land the supply of raw material from private forest land is of great importance in the overall supply-demand situation."

The new policy says all equity in Crown timber shall rest with the public, and that factor was questioned during the seminar.

Some members of the audience questioned whether enough tax dollars could be passed through the legislature to finance the massive silviculture programs for the province.

Others suggested the policy does not give enough incentive to industry to participate in the new program.

"This government will welcome the co-operation of industry in enhancing the available supply and quality of both Crown and privately owned timber, but the forest industries will not be allowed to establish an equity in Crown timber resources."

Mr. Boudreau said industry has "shown a great deal of interest."

He said industry would eventually be asked to pay its share in a silviculture program.

Fireman's Prayer

When I am called to duty, God
Wherever flames may rage,
Give me strength to save some life
Whatever be its age.

Help me embrace a little child
Before it is too late
Or save an older person from
The horror of that fate.
Enable me to be alert and hear the weakest shout
And quickly and efficiently
To put the fire out.
I want to fill my calling and
To give the best in me,
To guard my every neighbour and
Protect his property.
And if according to my fate
I am to lose my life,
Please bless with your protecting hand
My children and my wife.

Insurance Industry Given Warning

Describing New Brunswickers as cautious people but nevertheless people who "tend to recognize a spade and call a spade a spade," Premier Richard Hatfield proceeded to do just that September 26 when he spoke to the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Insurance Agents and Brokers Associations here.

The premier warned the insurance industry that if it abandons its responsibility to provide a market "then the Government of New Brunswick will have to."

Mr. Hatfield said he hopes that matters will not reach this stage but emphasized that he is responsive to the needs of the driving public "and their needs must be met."

"Viewed from the government's perspective, the position is simply this," said the premier, "for the residents of New Brunswick insurance is not a luxury but a necessity. Adequate insurance coverage on the cars we drive and on the homes we live in must be readily available and at a reasonable cost."

The industry was given full credit by the premier, however, for responding to the government's 1975 decision to create an insurance exchange. The exchange was established when it became clear that insurance markets were becoming restricted and a number of companies either curtailed their writing or stopped altogether.

"This was becoming serious and matters had reached the stage where some classes of risks, such as taxis, had no market altogether," the premier said.

Assignments are now being made through the exchange at the rate of 15,000 annually. All automobile insurers in New Brunswick must by law be members of the exchange and accept assignments on a proportionate basis.

While acknowledging that there may be good reasons for the companies' actions, the premier said he is not convinced that a sudden crisis developed in the insurance industry.

Fire insurance rates came in for severe criticism, too, especially those for dwellings categorized as substandard, such as stove-heated homes. The premier said insurance premiums on such dwellings of four-to-five percent of their value "appear excessive."

Mobile home owners insurance rates were particularly targeted for criticism by the premier, who said many who live in such homes from necessity face premium increases of 400 percent.

Citing the potential case of young couples losing their mortgage foreclosed because they can't provide fire insurance to cover their loan, the premier said bluntly, "I am telling the industry to make sure that this never happens" and invited suggestions from the industry to avoid such instances.

The premier noted that no-fault automobile insurance "is still under active consideration" because the government must be sure that any new legislation or program "must ultimately provide greater benefits at a reasonable cost."

He noted also that compulsory automobile insurance was proclaimed in the province on Feb. 1 as well as rate regulations of automobile insurance premiums, which has been made the responsibility of an expanded Public Utilities Board.

Heritage Preserved By Acadian Village

Over 70 representatives of the communications field principally from New Brunswick, were joined by several of their counterparts from other provinces October 1 for a preview of Village Historique Acadien. Those for whom this was an initial appearance on this interesting and unique scene, really had their eyes opened.

The almost day-long program was well-planned and capably carried out. Ideal weather added to the enjoyment of the tour by members of the press, radio, television and N.B. Dept. of Tourism.

Jean-Yves Theriault, assistant director of the project, who holds a similar post with the Research and Development Branch of the N.B. Historical Resources Administration, opened the schedule of events with preliminary remarks at the reception centre. There followed an introduction of curators now permanently on location, and a photographic slide presentation of the project with narration by Clarence LeBreton, chief curator, who afterwards conducted one of the guided tours. Antonine Landry, director of public relations, also acted in this capacity.

The news media visited the various installations in the 2-mile complex, which is part of the Acadian Trail and located some seven miles from Caraquet. The overall village will comprise 2500 acres of land, 400 of which are developed. When completed, visitors will see a total of 46 historical structures symbolic of the era between 1770 and 1880.

The first phase of the project is well advanced with most of the buildings, which have been moved to the area from various provincial points where the Acadians settled after the Expulsion, almost completely restored. Some of them are furnished as well, however.

A second phase of the project will be presented with as soon as additional funds become available, which is a matter of negotiation between federal and provincial governments. The village employs an in-season staff of 150, which dwindles to 40 when the snow flies.

A sumptuous buffet luncheon, consisting of both fish and meat dishes, condiments of all kinds, pies, pastries and beverages was served to the tour-ists at noon, following which they inspected the conservation lab, craft and blacksmith shops and restoration and artscrafts departments, all of which are located on the site.

Eleanor Arseneau, conservator, gave a detailed and enlightening explanation and demonstration of the work performed by his staff. Likewise, Miss Jeanne Arseneault, fabrics curator, who is originally from Charlo. The former deals with research and the returning of furniture and other artifacts to their original state, the latter with costuming and textiles.

The authentic early Acadian clothing to be worn by the 50 male and female guides will be fashioned and fabricated at the village by designs developed there as the result of Miss Arseneault's research and under her direction.

Material for this apparel as well as for drapes, bedding, etc., will be loomed or homespun in nearby Paquetville, and, eventually, from basic crops and animals grown or produced on site. In the meantime the proper type of wool is being imported from the United States, available only because this happens to be Bicentennial Year.

Miss Camelia Roussel librarian and registrar, showed the visitors her extensive collection of period pieces, including furniture, pottery, utensils, etc. The largest item on display and yet to be repaired is an ornate mass altar from the first Caraquet Church.

Other key members of the permanent staff are Jacques Boucher, architect, Charles Pinet, chief of security.

Rounding out Friday's program was an address by Hon. G. S. Merrithew, Minister of Education and Historical Resources. Also speaking briefly Dr. George MacBeath, the deputy minister and Pierre Poulin, regional director of DREE (Dept. of Regional Economic Expansion). Closing remarks were by Michael O'Rourke, who fills a dual role as director of the Research and Development Branch of the N.B. Historical Resources Administration and director of Village Historique Acadien.

The conference ended on a social note with the serving of hors d'oeuvres and cocktails.

Development On Line For Late May Opening

The tentative official opening date for the Village Historique Acadien is May 28, 1977. An estimated 100,000 guests will visit the project during the first four months of the first season, which extends from May 28 to September 11.

These and other salient facts were contained in a memorandum prepared by Rheal Boucher, interpretation officer, and issued to the news media participating Friday in a tour and briefing of the site.

A centre d'accueil (rest centre), fishing complex, five farming complex, ten restored houses, a general store, tavern, school, chapel, blacksmith shop and reproduction of a 1825 bridge are among the physical assets of the establishment.

The rest centre comprises a theatre where an audio-visual documentary on Acadian history and folklore and a film on the restoration project will be shown; an exposition hall and a cafeteria. This structure is now completed and in actual use.

The restored buildings have been set up along the "Riviere du Nord" where the early Acadians dyked the surrounding meadows to make it suitable for cultivation. The draining system has been restored and the adjoining fields are again under cultivation, thus amalgamating the environment and the historical setting.

In addition to guides, qualified interpretation staff will be present on site all day long (10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.). Wearing traditional costumes, some will perform domestic tasks (cooking, meals, housework, etc.) while others will fill such specific posts as storekeeper, blacksmith, barman, etc.

So long as there are people who strive to get something for nothing there will be others who can live without working.

BATHURST AREA REPRESENTED AT CARAQUET COMPLEX

Transplanted from St. Anne near Bathurst is this house of 1840 vintage which is part of the Doucet Complex at Village Acadien. It was built by Romain Doucet, a farmer (born in 1818) who wed Marie Degrace in 1840. They had eight children.

It is assumed that the rather refined finishing touches were added to the building around 1850-60. The style of certain moldings, door and other structural details are quite remote from true Acadian tradition and attest to an influence which probably had its roots in the English milieu of the Doucet family. The large number of rooms indicate the original occupants were more or less in the affluent category.

In the exterior renovation, as in all other "Village" buildings, handmade shingles made on the site are used. Strangely enough, the cedar required in the process is no longer available in New Brunswick but has to be imported from Quebec or Maine. It is also interesting to note that the picket fence shown in the picture is only one of several different designs appearing throughout the complex.

The last occupant of the house before it was acquired and moved was Mrs. Sarah (Doucet) Poirier, a granddaughter of its builder. Mrs. Poirier died in 1975 at age 96. Descendants of the original owner still living in the Bathurst area include a great-great-grandson, Roger Poirier, veteran superintendent for the City of Bathurst.

Project Is Highly Praised By Minister

HON. G. S. MERRITHEW

In terms of historical resources, Le Village Historique Acadien has been one of the most significant developments undertaken in New Brunswick, Hon. Gerald S. Merrithew said Saturday.

The provincial Minister for Historical Resources was speaking on the actual site of the project near Caraquet to a representative group of newsmen and public relations types from various parts of the Maritimes.

The province takes great pride in this preservation and portrayal of the Acadian heritage, Mr. Merrithew emphasized. He then went on to say:

"Le Village Acadien is, I believe, an accurate expression of the Acadien culture and heritage. The development has and will continue to be people-oriented.

"Here, as in other good interpretations, we must see actual persons walking through the pages of history. Their story must be authentic and excitingly displayed so that our audience, the present generations, will understand, appreciate and have a sense of identity.

"Here, the visitor is able to sense the continuity of that culture and way of life. He is aware of the community of Northeastern New Brunswick, rich in native skills and crafts handed down from father to son and from mother to daughter.

"I find this one of the most exciting aspects of Le Village. These craftsmen are native to the area and to New Brunswick. Here at the site they are able to practice their trades and contribute tremendously to the success of a project which is uniquely Acadian and New Brunswick.

"It is particularly pleasing to know that many of these craftsmen the blacksmith, Mr. Basset, or the cabinetmaker, Mr. Cormier, for example, are continuing to display skills which they have performed for years and which have been forgotten or lost in other areas.

"Here, however, they perform a vital function in producing materials for the entire Village.

"In the same manner the ladies working with fabrics or the men producing shingles are successfully creating a project and at the same time they help us to comprehend another way of life.

No Alternative For Spraying

Natural Resources Minister Roland Beaulieu, speaking during a forestry seminar at the University of New Brunswick last week, acknowledged there is a definite concern as to how long the program would continue, but could see no alternative to spraying next year.

In part, were the commitments of other levels of government, the forest industry alone, the minister said, will be a major effort to find alternatives to the spray but can only be considered next this year.

He said his department's policy on the program is "always open, and we are looking for a better method."

The natural resources department will receive a report on spruce budworm and forest management committee in October but Mr. Beaulieu said there was no indication as to what it might contain.

Dr. Gordon Baskerville, a forestry department official at UNB, was named to head the government study earlier this year. He says the report should be in the hands of government officials by Oct. 31.

In reply to a question from the audience, Mr. Beaulieu said he expects the Baskerville Report will be made public.

Brewster Works Now On Display

An exhibition of 30 paintings of Anne Brewster, Maritimes artist, who is known for her poetic and objective statements, opened September 30th at the Playhouse in Fredericton for a two week run.

The showing features four major works supported by studies, one known as Genesis, The Fiery Chasm, and another, Warrior, and includes 14 smaller works on the same general themes.

Miss Brewster, who lives on Moncton and has practiced all her adult life as well known for her sensitive use of textures and pure colour, and has become one of New Brunswick's most original painters.

Anne Brewster has had numerous group and solo exhibitions and her works are to be found in many private and public collections.

A shy, but warm person, the artist's work compares with no school of painting or popular group or trend but remains as uniquely individual and personal vision which she openly shares with the viewer. Though her work is not figurative in the conventional sense, there is no mistaking the artist's intent for her symbolism is strong and identifiable even in its mystery.

For all its soft edges, it is clearly a painting of nature in its full grandeur. Miss Brewster is willing to talk about the technical aspects of her work and has considerable remarks to make concerning composition, texture, form and other formal elements of art. But the ultimate statement is the finished work which precludes the spoken word.

Using a technique entirely her own, she pours, blanks out and works with the liquid paint on her masonite boards. Until they have dried, they are living ideas swimming on the surface of her painting field.

Brewster's paintings generally portray a mood or quality that is larger than life and move along universal themes. Some of her pieces are free form, but others employ half moons and spheres which for her are the perfect shape and the symbol of life.

She starts a great deal with oil paints heavily cut with turpentine and tends to avoid the use of more than three colours. She will fully explore the tonal range of these three and then introduce a texture before proceeding to a fourth colour.

Although Miss Brewster has lived in many cities in the Maritimes, Anne Brewster takes her inspiration not from the forest and sea close at hand, but, rather, the landscapes of her mind, the accumulated wonder of a poetic and perceptive artist.

The work of Anne Brewster can be seen at the Playhouse until October 9, in Fredericton and at Gaudi Gallery, Shediac.

MR. AND MRS. BYRON R. VIENNEAU

Vienneau - Reid Nuptials Solemnized In Nova Scotia

The marriage of Debra Jean Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William James Reid, Halifax, to Byron Roland Vienneau, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivrice J. Vienneau, Bathurst, was solemnized recently in St. Lawrence Church, Fairview, N.S.

Rev. Ronald MacKinnon officiated at the double ring ceremony. Miss Patsy Bouche was organist and William Salter was the soloist.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a floor-length gown of organza over faille, styled with a mandarin collar and Bishop sleeves accented with daisies. The gown and cathedral-length train were trimmed with blue seed pearls and daisy trim. Her tulle illusion waist length veil was held by a Juliette cap. She carried a cluster of yellow roses, white daisies and baby's breath.

The bride's attendants were Mrs. Lyndia Lutwick, matron of honor, Miss Sandra Boudreau, Moncton, and Miss Deborah Larder, Halifax, as bridesmaids. The flower girls were Misses Tammie and Christine Kelly.

The matron of honor and bridesmaids were gowns of scalloped eyelet in pastel shades of blue and yellow, designed with square necklines, Bishop sleeves and empire-waistlines trimmed with white lace. The carried baskets of white daisies, baby's breath and ribbon to match their gowns.

The flower girls were wearing pink gowns of scalloped eyelet fashioned with square necklines, short sleeves and empire-waistlines trimmed in baby lace. They wore white ribbon in their hair.

Best man was Mike Cormier, Moncton. The ushers were Maurice J. Reid, brother of the bride, Halifax, and Gregoire Boudreau, Bathurst. Kevin Kelly was ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Reid chose a salmon colored gown of double-knit with a matching long-sleeved bolero jacket accented with pearls. Mrs. Vienneau, mother of the groom, wore a sleeveless pink floral gown of polyester chiffon under a matching long-sleeved coat.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Canadian Forces Base Curling Club, Windsor Park, N.S.

The toast to the bride, given by her uncle, Lewis C. Kelly, was fittingly responded to by the groom.

The guest book was circulated by Suzanne Lamoureux.

Mr. and Mrs. Vienneau will be residing in Moncton.

WHOLESOME BREAD

Your "daily bread" remains wholesome and edible for about a week after it is purchased. Bagged bread keeps particularly well because resealing is tight and simple. For freshness, keep bread sealed in a well-ventilated bread box or cupboard. From a nutritional standpoint, there is no difference between fresh and stale bread.

Seeking More Facts On Home Freezing

Members of the Big River Women's Institute branch met at the home of Mrs. Duncan Melanson on Sept. 15, their first meeting following the summer recess. The chairman was Mrs. Gary Chisholm, president.

Following opening procedures, the minutes of the June meeting and financial report were read by the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Melanson.

It was decided to order a life member membership form.

Mrs. Lloyd Branch, delegate to the Upper Gloucester District W. I. annual convention gave an interesting report for which she was thanked by the president.

The secretary was requested to contact Miss Huberte Leger, district economist to learn if she might be available to attend a meeting of the branch in the near future in order to advise the group regarding further information on preparing food for home freezing.

Mrs. John Gillis distributed W.I. cook books to members to sell for $2.25 each. It was noted the present edition include metric equivalents.

It was decided to send greetings to the Nepisiguit W.I. on the occasion of the group's 40th anniversary on Sept. 27.

It was agreed members will visit two former members now residing at the Denis Fournier Residence for senior citizens on Demeresque Street and bring them a treat of jellies, jams, pickles or vegetables.

A box of assorted cards was donated for use by the branch. Sick and visiting convener Mrs. Lloyd Branch reported on visits made by the committee. She also said cards had been sent to 11 high school graduates and several thank-you notes were received.

Mrs. Hazen Carey was winner of a quiz on "Breeds of Cattle", conducted by Mrs. D. Melanson.

Mrs. J. Gillis won the mystery parcel donated by Mrs. Harold Moore.

The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Branch.

THE ANTI-INFLATION PROGRAM

Where we are and where we're going.

After one year, the anti-inflation program is doing what it set out to do.

The most important achievement has been the drop in the inflation rate. A year ago, consumer prices were rising at a rate of 10.6%. By August 1976, that rate of increase had dropped to 6.2%. This fall some unavoidable increases in energy costs and municipal taxes will affect the rate of inflation. In spite of this, the first year target of an inflation rate of no more than 8% will be met.

Increases in all forms of income—wages, salaries, fees, profits, dividends—are also being successfully restrained. On the average, prices have gone up less than wages this year. This means that most Canadians can cope a bit better, we have more buying power than we had before the program began.

The goal of the second year of the anti-inflation program is to bring inflation down even further, to no more than 6%. This can be achieved only if increases in everything slow down together.

In our kind of market economy prices have to be able to move up and down to some extent. But the anti-inflation program does put an effective restraint on prices by controlling profit margins. In the second year, the price and profit controls are being changed to make the rules simpler and to apply restraint more fairly among different companies. They also include important incentives to encourage the investments the country needs to make the economy grow and create new jobs for Canadians. New investment credits will make allowances for company profits re-invested to boost production and productivity.

In the area of wages and salaries, the second year Guidelines limit increases to 6% as a protection against price increases, with 2% more added as a share of national productivity.

This Guideline is designed to protect and improve the real income of working Canadians, while bringing down the rate of inflation.

All governments are restraining their expenditures. The federal government is limiting growth in its own spending to keep it in line with the overall growth of the Canadian economy. This means that every day hard choices must be made to limit new programs and trim old ones. These choices are painful. But they have to be made if the government is to restrain its costs and avoid contributing to inflation.

Nobody likes controls. Not the people whose private decisions are affected by them. And not the governments that have to enforce them. But controls were and are needed, to bring inflation down and to assure a growing economy. The program will be terminated by the end of 1978. Until it is ended, the government is committed to making sure the controls work hard to bring about a continuing reduction in the rate of inflation.

Inflation has to be cut down to protect our personal buying power, our savings and pensions, and jobs for Canadians. If last years spiral of rising prices and incomes had continued, Canadian-made products would soon be unable to compete in world markets. Imports could easily undercut goods produced and sold here at home. It's especially important for us to keep our prices and costs competitive with the United States, and on both counts the U.S. is still doing better than we are. Finally, inflation also hurts investment. And when investment goes down, unemployment goes up.

After a year of controls, inflation has come down. Progress has been made, in protecting Canadian jobs and improving Canadians well-being. The success of the anti-inflation program so far has depended a great deal on the co-operation of many Canadians. With continued co-operation, we can all look forward to sharing a more prosperous and growing economy.

Life In A Nursing Home

(Fifth installment)

By Mrs. Hammond Johnson

With so many more guests when the new wing was built, the office staff had to be increased, more R.N.s were needed, and Nursing Assistants, but we soon got down to the new routine.

Of course, there had to be many changes in the old part. A partition was taken out to make the dining room large enough for the extra guests. The hairdressing room was converted to make an extra small dining room, and another storeroom off the kitchen. The front door was left as originally placed, but the offices were moved to the New Wing. The big square hallway or waiting room outside the offices and Administration room had on the other side a spacious Board Room and a room for the Director of Nursing. From this hallway, too, the elevator goes to the lower floor, where there is a nurses' station, and there are different service rooms occupying the space between the two corridors. The floors are all tiled, as the guests on this floor of the Wing will be having a certain amount of nursing care.

At one end of the L-shaped wing is the "Red" lounge, because of the red carpet and drapes. There are windows on three sides, from which the beautiful countryside can be seen for miles. On one side the floor-length window opens, to allow wheelchairs to get out on the patio - a delightful place to sit on a warm day. Also, a doorway gives access to a "sun room," from which a wide stairway leads to the lower floor. This lounge is a delightful place, with its comfortable chairs to relax in and visit with one's friends. There is a piano, and there are tables for bridge, which is enjoyed by a number of guests.

Miss Edith Clarke, who was in the Home in January 1974, with a room on the lower floor of the building, will tell about that floor, as I am not well acquainted with it. She has been most helpful to me as I have been trying to tell my story of "Life in a Nursing Home". She has had the most difficult part, that of interpreting my writing.

The Clarke family had been the most faithful workers in the church when my Father was the minister of the Methodist Church in Newcastle, N.B., and the members of the family have been a great help in any church where they lived since. I would never have began to write this story if she had not agreed to help me.

LOWER FLOOR - NEW WING

Coming down in the elevator or by one of the three easy stairways, with wide easy steps and handrails, one notices at once the wall-to-wall carpeting in rich dark red. This covers the two long corridors, which run the full length of the wing to join the one across the North End - all fitted with handrails on both sides for the not so surefooted.

Just across from the elevator is a small diningroom, with several tables, and rugs from the Fawcett House on the floor. This room may be used at any time by guests to entertain their friends. It is used in the mornings for sorting the mail, and at times for craft classes and other occupations - such as making Christmas wreaths.

Adjacent to it is a well equipped kitchen, cupboards with plenty of dishes, sugar, tea, instant coffee, and a variety of biscuits, milk, bread, butter, ice cubes - a spacious sink, with always lots of hot water, an electric kettle, a two-burner hot plate - in short, everything needed for a snack or a cup of tea.

Along the three outer walls are twenty-three single rooms and four double rooms - each room has one whole side of windows, with wide window sills over the room-length radiators, and each room has its own thermostat. There is a good-sized clothes closet, a basin with hot and cold water, and a separate toilet room, with a grab bar - a kind thought of someone.

The doors of the eight single rooms on the North side are painted alternately red and gold. The rooms with red doors have red carpeting, window drapes of red, patterned lightly with black and gold. Gold carpet and drapes with gold color predominating is the color scheme for the alternate rooms.

Down the long corridor every third room has a blue door, with matching carpet and drapes. A wall light and lamps give adequate lighting.

Each room has the necessary furniture, bed, dresser, mirror, desk with chair, bedside table, and two or more easy chairs. Guests are at liberty to have their own pieces of furniture if they wish, such as chairs, chest, TV, etc. With their own pictures, books, plants and knick-knacks each room is cozy, attractive and different.

Down the centre, between the two corridors, is a block which

It is a real social center in the evenings, where some with their knitting of and chat — while at the two tables a game of 45's, scrabble, or even rummy, might be underway. A number of jig saw puzzles have been done there, taped on the back and then hung as beautiful pictures on some of the white walls. Just through the doorway between old and new wings on the lower floor is an attractive, comfortably furnished suite of rooms where visiting guests may stay overnight or for long or periods, with the advantage of being able to have their meals in the dining room.

The room has a cozy appearance with its real carpet and drapes, a chesterfield and many easy chairs upholstered in harmonizing colors. A piano, a radio-stereo cabinet, TV and well-filled bookcase make it a room for relaxing or entertaining visiting friends. While many of the books belong to the home, others are supplied by the Albert Westmorland, East Regional Library, and are changed at regular intervals.

This room is used by Club L (CCH) for their regular meetings, the membership often equally divided between residents of the home and outsiders and those from the area.

The afternoon of the 16th of November of that year (the date is one I shall never forget), I was getting things ready when, for some reason or other, I fell to the floor. I couldn't seem to get hold of anything to raise me, and of course with my weight, that wasn't any easy job. Miss McCarthy was out for away and when she heard the noise she came in right away, and at once called the ambulance and then the hospital for me to have an x-ray and had a very attentive nurse go with me.

The x-ray showed the ankle broken and the doctor set it at once, and to my surprise got a cast on from my knee right over the knee. I don't know why a cast for a broken ankle should need to go as far up, I didn't...

ANN LANDERS

No Specific Age For Pregnancy Deadline

By ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Will you please answer a question and put my mind at ease? I am sure it will be very helpful to thousands (if not millions) of women everywhere. Here goes: At what age can a woman be absolutely certain she will not become pregnant?

I have met several ladies who have grown children and suddenly they turn up pregnant. How do such things happen? Sign me – Dumb Dora

DEAR DORA: "Such things" happen for a variety of reasons. Sometimes even on purpose.

The ability to reproduce varies from woman to woman. Generally speaking, however, the baby factory shuts down by age 45.

According to the Guinness Book of World Records, the oldest recorded mother of whom there is evidence is Mrs. Ruth Alice Kistler. She was born in Wakefield, Mass., on June 11, 1899, and gave birth to a daughter in Glendale, Calif., on Oct. 18, 1956. Mrs. Kistler was 57 years old at the time.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read two papers regularly. Both carry your column. Occasionally I notice a significant difference in the same letter. The most recent example: A woman wanted to destroy her diary which contained torrid details of a short-lived romance she had while in college. She was happily married, and her husband knew about the affair, but he was not aware of the extent of the passions involved.

The second paper in which I read the same letter eliminated all references to a torrid romance, giving the readers no hint that the diary contained such material. In the light of the deleted lines, your answer made very little sense.

QUESTION: Do newspapers have the right to edit your column? If they want to cut out certain things must they obtain your permission? Please let your readers in on what goes on behind the scenes. –Puzzled In California.

DEAR PUZZLED: Every newspaper receives the same column. It is carefully edited in Chicago by an executive of the Chicago Sun-Times. No paper has the right to change my advice or add to it. ALL papers, however, have the right to cut out whatever they please. (Sometimes an entire letter is lopped off.)

When extensive cutting occurs, my replies sometimes don't make sense. If a letter is left out and I subsequently refer to that letter, dozens of readers write to complain that they don't know what I'm talking about.

It would be wonderful if all my papers printed the entire column (it's available seven days a week) but I realize some papers have space problems and this would be too much to hope for.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Yesterday my husband and I received an invitation that read: "Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary Celebration in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Doe, to be held at The Blankety-Blank Country Club on such and such a date. Cocktails (cash bar) at 2:30 p.m., dinner, 3:30 p.m. Pot Roast – Family Style – $7.95 per person."

When I saw that "7.95 per person" I couldn't believe it. My husband and I gave a 50th wedding anniversary party for our family and friends and we paid for everything. Should we attend? – Getting Hotter In The South

Mrs. Brewster informed members that the chapter has been awarded three-star rating by the organization's international office.

The possibility of having a Valentine ball in February 1977 was discussed by Jill White, executive co-ordinating committee chairman.

After the meeting members were treated to a sherry and hors d'oeuvres reception in honor of the new members. The hostess was assisted by Jane Richard, Jill White and Donna Cormier.

After-Theatre Party Is Held

Members of Chi Chapter Beta Sigma Phi held an after-theatre party at the home of Morgan Atkinson on Sept. 25.

The group discussed the play, The Last Of The Red Hot Lovers, presented by Theatre New Brunswick, sponsored in the city by the Beta Sigma Phi organization.

The hostess served a delightful "Singapore punch", along with tasty sausage rolls topped with Chili relish.

The group was entertained with selections of modern day music, adding to the enjoyable evening of fun.

ENRICHED BREAD

How nutritious is "enriched" bread? Thiamine, niacin, riboflavin and iron were first added to Canadian flour in 1953. This action followed the results of a survey in Newfoundland by nutritionists and medical scientists. By enriching bread and fortifying margarine, the incidence of diseases relating to nutrition deficiency decreased sharply. Today, more than 90 per cent of all white bread made in Canada is enriched.

Canada Post Postes Canada

Remember... Canadian Postal Rates Have Changed.

On September 1, 1976 major postal rate changes came into effect. But, when you consider all the facts, we think you'll agree that the new rates are still a first-class bargain.

For one thing, these rates have not been increased in over four years. Even multiple current postal rates in most Western countries exceed Canada's new postal rates.

Anyone using the Canadian postal service will find many changes in rates.

- ☐ Letters or postcards up to 1 oz., for delivery in Canada, change from 8c to 10c as of September 1, 1976 and to 12c as of March 1, 1977.
- ☐ Greeting cards up to 2 oz., for delivery in Canada, change from 5c to 6c as of September 1, 1976 and to 10c as of March 1, 1977. All greeting cards should be sealed.
- ☐ Rates for special services such as Registered Mail, C.O.D. and Special Delivery, Postal Insurance and Money Orders have also changed.

Major adjustments have been made in parcel rates to create a more equitable rate structure by relating the rates more closely to the distance travelled and the weight of the parcel.

- ☐ In some cases, parcel rates have been reduced.
- ☐ First class parcels (over 1 lb. and up to 66 lbs.) receive our best service.
- ☐ More than ever, "Parcel Post" is the low-cost way to reach any address in Canada.

The new Canadian Postal Rates deserve your attention. When you post both letters and parcels, check with your Postmaster and be sure of the proper rates.

Correct postage plus the Postal Code will give you better service.

Baby sitting is not necessarily a dangerous job, unless you happen to be faced with a difficult situation. But the more you know about safety and the prevention and handling of possible emergencies, the better equipped you will be for your responsibility. Babies and children feel secure with people who are calm and self-confident. They can tell when they are in capable hands.

Caring for infants and young children is a task requiring patience, energy and knowledge. The job is a big challenge, but fun, too. It details certain risks both for the baby sitter and her charge, but these can be minimized through training and experience.

For more information on Baby Sitter just contact us and we will send free of charge a Baby Sitting Kit prepared by the Department of Health.

"At Home" On Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Lavigne, 220 Lavigne St., will be "at home" to relatives and friends on Sunday, October 9 from the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

POETRY CORNER

The following was composed by the brothers and sisters of Anna-Maria, five-year-old daughter of former Bathurst residents Mr. and Mrs. Theophile Chamberlain, who was killed instantly in a car accident near the family home in New Britain, Ont. on Aug. 20, 1975. Mr. Chamberlain and a 10-year-old daughter were also seriously injured in the mishap.)

Tribute From Family

Anna-Maria, a sweet pretty rose.
She was the one the Almighty chose
To make Him laugh, to sit on His knee.
A little darling as sweet as can be.
It is hard to see her gone
Especially when we've loved her so long.
She was too beautiful to stay here.
Her body is far away, but her spirit is near.
Her rosy cheeks we won't forget.
Her pretty face to grow prettier yet.
She is not dead, only asleep.
Now that she's gone, makes us weep.
But she'll be happier, without any fear.
And we'll remember her year after year.

FOR CHRISTMAS

Does the thought of additives in your food worry you? Salt is a food additive Canadians use regularly. Calcium propionate is an additive used in bread to inhibit spoilage. Without it, mould growth would show after a few days, no matter what kind of bread in Canada, enrichment requirements and standards for additives are zealously guarded by law through regulations established by government, in consultation with the bakery industry.

"OPERATION SERVICE"

The Royal Canadian Legion will commence its "Operation Service" in the community on October 4, 1976.

"Operation Service" is a campaign aimed at making contact with every war veteran and ex-service person and their survivors, to make sure that they are fully aware of their rights and privileges.

If you or yours fit into any of the above categories, call the branch office at 546-3135 between the hours of 7.00 p.m. to 10.00 p.m. on October 4, 1976 to October 8, 1976. If you believe that you may have an entitlement to some benefit or service, read and complete the Questionnaire the Legion visitor will give you. This will assist in assessing your possible claim.

The Legion volunteers wish to serve you and Canada through "Operation Service". It is known that thousands of Canadians have entitlement of which they are not aware.

A Year-Round UNICEF Treat

For the first time, eminent photographers have contributed their special visions of children around the globe to enhance UNICEF's 1977 desk calendar. Green, black and white, and full-color photos of children from England to Bali and including Canada, accompany each weekly appointment page.

The beautiful calendar is now available in a tri-lingual edition (French, English, Spanish) in a new, easy-to-handle format. Another attractive feature, for the ecology conscious, are the spacious date pages of 100 per cent recycled paper, made from post-consumer waste.

Proceeds from the sale of these UNICEF calendars help to provide clean water, food, medicines and school supplies for needy children in 109 developing countries.

Appropriately, "The Rights of the Child" has been chosen as the 1977 calendar theme. The United Nations General Assembly adopted the Declaration of the Rights of the Child in 1959. "Mankind", says its preamble, "owes to the child the best it has to give." Ten - illustrated rights" from this important declaration appear throughout the calendar, complementing the exceptional photographic subjects.

UNICEF diary calendars make ideal gifts. Conveniently boxed, each calendar costs $4.95. Help give children a future, and treat yourself and friends each week of the year. For information on where you can buy UNICEF Calendars, contact: New Brunswick UNICEF Committee, 155 Canterbury St., P.O. Box 6772, Station "A" Saint John, N.B. E2L 4R2.

Program Topic Is Sociology

On Chapter Beta Sigma Phi members held their first meeting of the year on Sept. 8 at the home of Gloria Goguen. President Nancy Hunston was chairman and seven were present.

Ways and means chairman Mary Davies reported the bake sale scheduled for Oct 23 will be held at Lounsbury's, automotive division. She also said the craft sale on Nov. 6 will be at Dominion Store in the K mart mall.

It was decided tickets will be sold on an afghan during October and November, with the drawing set for Nov. 6. The chapter will donate proceeds from both sales to the class of Maude Smyth at Sacred Heart School.

The cultural program was given by Madeline Sirois on the topic, "Sociology." She explained the modern day family structure which is small, self-contained, self-centered and short-lived.

Mrs. Sirois explained the relationship between mother and child: the relationship is not as uniquely unified as it should be, that dependence is not love.

The speaker questioned the group as to what degree the present-day family structure was responsible for the high divorce rate? who stands to be gain or lose most in modern day family life?

Mrs. Sirois also said the greatest task a homemaker faces is shopping and this is due to current inflation problems.

The evening concluded with the serving of lunch by the hostess, Mrs. Goguen.

The friendly neighbourhood exercise.

Fish Dish For Connoisseurs

Is this day of unprecedented convenient foods, one may find it hard to believe that a century ago, only those who lived by the sea were privileged to dine on sumptuous crabmeat, salmon or tuna.

Today a can of crabmeat, Canadian salmon or tuna, all equally good in nutritious food value, can be purchased in any supermarket, and you can turn out, in no time at all, a devilled fish dish which would make even a 19th century cormorant's mouth water.

Along with this seafood dish, be certain to serve broiled tomatoes. The Bakery Council of Canada's nutrition consultant says even those who are indifferent to fish will love this meal.

DEVILLED SEAFOOD

2 cups crustless (½ inch) enriched soft bread cubes; 1½ teaspoons dry mustard; ½ teaspoon salt; ⅛ teaspoon pepper; ¼ teaspoon paprika; ½ teaspoon minced dehydrated onion; 1 tablespoon sherry; ¾ cup milk; 1 (7½ ounce) can salmon, tuna, or crabmeat, drained and flaked; 1 tablespoon butter, melted; ¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs.

Combine soft bread cubes, mustard, salt, pepper, paprika, onion, sherry and milk. Let stand until liquid is absorbed. Add fish. Spoon mixture into 4 small baking shells. Blend melted butter with dry bread crumbs; sprinkle over top of mixture.

Bake in a hot oven (400°F) for about 5 minutes, or until crumbs are browned and mixture is heated through. Yield: 4 servings.

BROILED TOMATOES

Ingredients: 2 firm, ripe tomatoes, stemmed; 2 tablespoons butter or margarine; 2 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs; ¼ teaspoon salt; Dash pepper; 8 rosemary leaves, crumbled.

Wash tomatoes, slice in half crosswise. Place tomatoes halves in buttered baking pan, cut surface up. Melt butter and stir in bread crumbs, salt, pepper and rosemary. Spread bread crumb mixture over tops of tomatoes.

Broil under medium broiler heat from 3 to 5 minutes, or until heated through and crumbs are browned. Yield: 4 servings.

RECORD IS RECOGNIZED

Denis Arseneault (right), foreman in the Material Handling Department at Brunswick Smelting, receives a 10,000 shift award from Phil Comstock, superintendent. Mr. Arseneault has been with Brunswick Smelting since 1966 and has been employed at various jobs throughout the smelter. This award is given to a foreman who can lead his crew through 10,000 shifts without a lost-time accident.

Scholarships From Estate

There is a new series of scholarships available for New Brunswick post-secondary students.

To be administered by UNB, the Sunshine River University Awards and the Sunshine River Continuing Education Awards are made possible by a bequest of approximately $600,000 from the late William L. Webster of Shediac.

The awards are for full or part-time study in any field of the student's choice.

"This is a totally unique experience for UNB," President John M. Anderson said. "While the awards are to be administered by UNB, the recipients will be students attending not only UNB but our sister institutions in New Brunswick and elsewhere."

And the awards are generous: the Sunshine River University Awards range from $2,000 to $6,500 and will go to full-time undergraduate or graduate students at any New Brunswick university with at least one year of study completed. If their program is not offered in the province they may go elsewhere.

These awards will be open to those with need, to those with physical or other handicaps, to those with special interest or professional aspirations and to those who show "special promise".

The Sunshine River Continuing Education Awards will range in value from $500-$800 per course in any field of study at any post-secondary institution in New Brunswick.

Recipients must be part-time students in either credit or non-credit courses and cannot receive more than one such award in any one year. Major consideration will be given to the relationship of the study program to the applicant's present or future employment.

In both programs the awards will be offered for one year, but may be renewed upon application, to Canadian applicants or landed immigrants domiciled in New Brunswick, or to landed immigrants who have lived in the province for one year. The awards will be given for any field of study to students who have not received any other scholarship or bursary.

mind the setting of the ankle, thereb of course it wasn't pleasant, but I was quite disturbed when the doctor called me "Granny". That really made me seem old.

I was allowed to come back to the House as soon as the cast was on, and then I had to go to bed and stay there, an extra burden for the nurses, though not one ever made me feel that I was making extra work for them After some weeks in bed, I had to go to the hospital again and then a few more weeks and go again to learn to use a walker, and then I was told I could walk with a cane and a nurse. But unfortunately I never got back to normal living. I am like the "Old Gray Mare, she ain't what she used to be", but what can one expect when one gets on in years?

Christmas festivities were not for me that year, but the usual Christmas Party was held and Santa Claus didn't forget those who couldn't be there - he went around with his gifts and kisses just as for the others.

How much for your boy?

You will see a "boy" put up for auction at this service and will hear the different values make their bid.

FIRE DAMAGES FORMER SENIOR CITIZENS' HOME

Bathurst City Fire Department answered a call at 10:18 p.m. Friday to the vacant Foyer St. Camille, St. Peter Ave. The building had been condemned several years ago and residents were moved to the former Sanatorium now known as Foyer Notre-Dame-de-Lourdes, 2055 Vaillier Lourdes Dr. The 30-or-odd signatures was in process of being torn down when flames erupted at the rear and top floor. Firemen fought the blaze until early Saturday morning. Cause of the fire is unknown and there was no insurance on the building which had been sold to Harold Hans for salvage. The property is owned by Bathurst Realities who have future but no definite plans for its development. In the meantime the stairtowers which adjoined the Foyer is being moved to a nearby lot for other purposes.

Municipal Plan Review Gets Underway In City

Interested members of the public and the local news media met with planning consultant Antoine Maurais, City Engineer Gerald Greenough and City Councillor Jean Paul Lavoie Tuesday evening to discuss the upcoming review of the City of Bathurst's municipal plan.

Under the terms of the Community Planning Act, which necessitated the adoption of the present plans in 1971, the city's list of priority items, various growing social, economic and physical aspects, must be reviewed and updated every five years.

According to Mr. Maurais, whose firm of Design Work Group Ltd. of Montreal has been commissioned by Bathurst City Council to compile data for and draw up the new plans, the guidelines is designed to improve the quality of life.

In order to determine the priorities of the people, the firm will be looking for public input and attitudes. This will be carried out in three ways:

1) Twenty-five services and social clubs in the city have been contacted and presented with an in-depth questionnaire to assist them in structuring their thoughts. These are to be returned to City Hall by Oct. 30.

2) Shorter questionnaires are being sent to each household in the City to determine the views of a large cross section of the population.

3) The public will be involved in direct informality with the city administrators and consultants at City Hall Oct. 18, 19 and 20 and again on Oct. 25, 26 and 27 anytime between 10 a.m. and 9 p.m. in the Committee Room. These discussions will help Mr. Maurais and his staff to formulate a preliminary plans and to hear objections of different groups in the city.

Then, during the first week of December, the consultants will call a general public discussion to generate still more views from concerned citizens.

Once formulated, the Community Planning Act requires a public presentation of the plans, which is expected in February 1977. People will then be given 30 days to study the document and to make objections in writing. Council will consider any and all objections, make those amendments deemed necessary and adopt the document as the official plan to guide further development in the city.

The plan itself, as well as the questionnaire designed to get the feelings of the people, is very broad and thorough. Questions deal with police and fire protection, human resources development, sanitation and streets, transportation, housing, the central business district, environment, etc.

The plans will be drawn up under a cost-sharing agreement with the provincial government. The city's share of the project, 30 per cent, is expected to be in the vicinity of $20,000, with the Department of Municipal Affairs picking up the remainder.

Following implementation of the plan, the city must adhere to the guidelines contained in it by reviewing the zoning bylaw to conform with the long-term needs of the municipality and the undertaking of priority capital works projects. This is not to say council is forced to carry out the capital works projects, but any that are undertaken must be included in the plans for the city.

Mr. Maurais has worked in the planning field on the Miramichi since 1968, starting his own firm in 1970. He has worked on various municipal plans in Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, as well as in Shediac, St. Andrews-by-the-Sea and Moncton in New Brunswick. His approach to the plan is to involve the public as much as possible and to make the plan flexible enough to accommodate short term trends.

Any organization in the city that has not received questionnaires forms to fill out and would like to contribute are asked to contact Mr. Greenough at City Hall.

Bathurst Lions Club recently adopted as a community project financial assistance for Canada Inn. The funds are designated for use towards retirement of a $15,000 mortgage on the local centre for the treatment of alcoholism and other maladies. The Lions have pledged a total amount of $5,000 payable over a two-year period. Shown here presenting a cheque in the amount of $1,250 to Aurele Doucet, regional co-ordinator for the Treatment of Intoxicated Persons Act, is Lion Howard Bass, project chairman. Looking on are Lions Phil Frost (left) and Gary Dingler.

Bathurst Lions Aid Local Rehabilitation Project

Following in the history of Canada Inc., compiled by Mr. Jeanne Jacques, executive director, who is still closely associated with the centre.

Canada Incorporated was established in 1971 to fulfill a need within the Bathurst area for the recovering alcoholic.

Donations were acquired from various businessmen Eddy's, K.C. Irving) in the hope of establishing a center whereby this worthwhile work could be carried out. With the donations and a Local Initiative Project Grant from Canada Manpower, the Centre was constructed, at 340 Laurier Street, Bathurst.

With minimal funding and staffing, the Centre opened its doors to the spring of 1972 and operated till October 1973 when the center had to close because of a lack of funds and a lack of staff.

The provincial government in the meantime had been assessing its position in regards to alcoholism and upon the report of the alcoholism commission on alcoholism had decided that treatment units were to be located in the major centers of the province.

With this information, the Board of Directors of Canada Incorporated approached the province and requested funds for the operation of the Center. The Board members were told that funds were forthcoming and a director for the Center should be recruited for the day to day functioning of the Center.

This was done and in June 1974, the Center reopened its doors as a non-medical detoxication unit after having been closed for nine months.

Financial agreement was reached with the province but the province was very specific that they were to supply operational capital only and not capital expenditures. This placed Canada Incorporated in an awkward position due to the fact that we have a deficit note at the beginning of $25,000.00 which has yet to be paid.

The philosophy of Canada Incorporated is to accept a person who is intoxicated, offer him a dry humidite atmosphere surrounded by a surrogate family of his peers, and to give the individual a place to stay where by he can make a rational decision as to his future life style. "To do this, we offer to the individual milieu therapy - a very low key informal type of therapy within a supportive residence.

When a person initially comes to us, we hope to keep him from 14 - 21 days because this gives us a chance to withdraw the resident not only from alcohol but also from indiscriminately prescribed medication.

We have noticed that between 60 - 80 per cent of our clients are cross addicted - alcohol and prescribed drugs - (valium, librium, meladar) - We hope that by the time the resident leaves Canada, they are no longer withdrawing from either the alcohol or the medication.

The tablets given at the Center are "Redoxon B" compound. This is a multi-vitamin "B" tablet given on a daily basis for "supportive nutritional supplementation in which water-soluble vitamins are required prophylactically or and therapeutically." We try to stay away from mood changing chemicals as much as possible because of their danger in cross addiction.

For the resident who requires medical attention, and it has been proven that between 1 percent - 5 per cent of people withdrawing from alcohol do, we have excellent medical backup at Chalmer General Hospital. Not only does the hospital offer extensive backup facilities, they also utilize the Center as a referral source for people who have no complications other than the state of being intoxicated.

The City Police (and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police utilize the Centre as a referral source because they realize the individual is not a criminal but a person who requires assistance in facing reality without alcohol.

Bill 25 which is the new "Treatment of Intoxicated Persons Act" provides a more humane approach to the treatment of the person with an alcohol problem. Bill 25 which shall be proclaimed in the near future will take the alcohol plagued individual out of the law and order arenas and place him within a social health context. He will be treated as an individual with human dignity rather than a criminal or a bum.

Canada Incorporated has a twelve-bed capacity and is open around the clock year round. We will accept referrals from any source and everyone accepted into the Center is expected to uphold his responsibilities vis-a-vis the rules and regulations governing the Center.

There are seven full time staff members and one part time staff person. The staff is as follows - one full time executive director, four full time attendants, one full time cook and one part time secretary.

From the 17th of June, 1974 to the 31 of March 1975 we have had a total of 388 admissions. Of these, 242 men had one admission, 25 men had two admissions for 50 admissions, 12 men had three admissions for 36 admissions, 4 men had four admissions for 16 admissions, 2 men had five admissions for 10 admissions and one man had six admissions for a total of 268 admissions. From the 1st of April 1975 to the 31st of March 1976, there has been 295 admissions at Canada Inc. This gives us a two year total of 563 admissions.

STRETCHING DOLLARS

It is estimated that as the day of the work stoppage in October 14th, 1976, it will cost Canadians, employers and employees $462,000,000,000. Very few people can visualize just how much money $462,000,000,000 is. So lets take a one dollar bill and measure it. It is six inches long and two and three-quarters wide, and is therefore 16.5 square inches in size.

Then multiply 462,000,000,000 by 16.5 square inches and the answer is 7,290,000,000 square inches.

There are 144 square inches in a square foot. So divide 7,290,000,000 by 144 and you get 50,600,000 square feet and you have a road approximately 240 miles long and 40 feet wide. That is just about the distance

A report on work and activities of the Ladies Auxiliary of Chalmer General Hospital was presented at a dinner meeting held in Bathurst Oct. 7 by the secretary, Mrs. Cales Smith.

The report covers the period from the last June meeting on Nov. 15, 1975, at Chatham, to September, 1976.

The auxiliary provides other services including books for the library, cradle pictures and distribution of magazines to waiting rooms and solariums.

Chief source of revenue for the auxiliary is its Gift Shop located in the hospital which is doing very well financially. Sales in the Flower Shop also help.

The two shops are staffed by a manager and two employees and the enterprises' services are greatly appreciated by both the patients and the hospital staff. The auxiliary also collects Dominion Stores sales slips.

Council Plans Protest Parade

At a special meeting of the Bathurst and District Labour Council held on Sunday, October 10th, Charles Hachey a member of the Canadian Union of Public Employees was appointed co-ordinator of the Bathurst Region for the National Day of Protest.

The meeting voted unanimously that all local unions that will participate in the Day of Protest, would meet at Carmichael Park at 10 a.m. on Thursday, October 20th and from there march on Douglas Avenue to the Public Gardens, then on to Wade Street, down King Avenue to the U.I.C. Building and then on back to the park. Everyone is advised to provide their own posters or placards.

A rally is planned for the Parish Hall on Douglas Ave., where guest speakers will talk to the gathering. "All organized labour and any citizen who is interested in protesting the unjust controls on wages are urged to participate in this project to show the Trudeau government and that the working people do not support these unfair controls," said Mr. Hachey.

Bathurst Group Opposes Plan

The Anti-Inflation Board of the federal government has produced numerous inequities among businessmen and labour groups.

The CLC has chosen the Anti-Inflation Board as the preoccupation, looking at the anti controls inflation program related to labour as the "full stop" for inflation.

Large corporations during the high inflationary increase of the 1970's managed to gear their investments and their prices to keep a step ahead of pressures on corporate profits. The same period was not so gentle on the small businessmen who were not equipped economically or with the "know-how" to withstand similar pressures.

Probably the government during the inflationary period was the best equipped to avoid the financial pressures by simply increasing the money supply.

Let's look at some figures that affected all of us.

Wages (industrial composite) from January 1970 to January 1974 increased 35.5 per cent.

Cost of living from January 1970 to January 1974 increased 22.9 per cent.

1966 to 1974 (March) the value of the dollar decreased to a real value of 62 cents.

From January 1970 to January 1974 there was a 48 per cent increase in the money supply.

From 1966 to 1974 there was a 108.5 per cent increase in Federal Government expenditures.

In 1970 the Chalmer Region accounted for 48 per cent of man-days lost in the Province of New Brunswick, though active in the private sector (legal strikes in the sense that responsibility for the per cent of man-days lost in New Brunswick during the same period even though the Chalmer Region only represents 5 per cent of the total Provincial labour force.

The Bathurst Chamber of Commerce does sympathize with labour's frustrations over the Government anti-inflation program, especially when the real sources of the problem was the overspending and pumping up the money supply by the federal government.

However, labour has not been without fault during the same period by perpetuating a rat race of higher wages producing higher production costs, followed by more pressures for price increase. In addition, their work productivity has dropped compared to the United States weakening our export market and adding to our increasing trade deficit amounting to $6.7 billion in 1974.

Everyone, including businessmen, likes to blame inflation on someone else. No one likes to admit the real source but we can only correct it one way - together.

At a recent meeting, the Bathurst Chamber of Commerce recommended the following:

(A) To the Federal Govt.

1) Like the rest of us, stop spending more than you earn.

2) Stop pumping up the money supply.

3) Experiment with work councils, the public service and selected Crown Corporations, similar to the West German concept.

4) Periodically make a realistic evaluation of the economy with all major economic units, including labour, before placing undue pressure on it.

5) More opportunities to bolster colorable labour management practitioners.

(B) To The Provincial Govt.

1) Make every effort to refine the position of labour and management.

2) Bill our legislation of closed shops, a violation of individual rights. Workers should be free to join a union, but should not be coerced into making union membership.

3) Encourage labour-management relations at an early age in our schools.

(C) To Labour

1) Protect your members more on a day to day basis.

2) Only use the strike weapon as a last resort, not the ultimate economic weapon.

3) Look into the causes of the low enterprise system, like banking, mortgages, to help your members.

4) Improve the quality of life not only through wages, but economic and industrial peace.

(D) To Business

1) Encourage more dialogue between the business community and your employees.

2) Take a more active role in community development.

3) Re-invest company profits in plant equipment and employee recreation.

4) Encourage through committees with employees objective negotiations on company policies and problems.

5) Create an employee interest in your business.

6) Create business interests in your employees.

When it becomes necessary for such a large portion of the population to encourage illegal activity and promote adversity, it endangers our free enterprise system. Constitution, not confrontation - trust, not alienation.

Continued polarization of the major economic forces in Canada will destroy our country, as it is [illegible]. The Bathurst Chamber of Commerce abhors the current selfish position taken by labour leaders and hopes that the union membership will be more responsible than the CLC on October 14th, 1976. Canada can not afford a post strikes [illegible] from illegal work stoppage at the present time.

Closely Identified With Hockey History

A legendary name and figure in New Brunswick hockey circles whose prowess on ice first became pronounced in Bathurst, died Saturday in Moncton Hospital at 69.

Harold (Dud) James, a lightweight in his playing days, first starred at centre for Bathurst Papermakers between 1927 and 1932 when they became in successive seasons N.B. and Maritime Senior Champions, N.B.-P.E.I Senior Champions, again N.B. Senior Champions and finally Maritime Intermediate "A" Champions.

James then graduated to the Allan Cup-winning Moncton Hawks of 1932-33 and 1933-34 and was inducted, along with his teammates in that fabled club, into the New Brunswick Sports Hall of Fame in 1970 - the first inception for that hallowed institution.

A native of Sunny Rue, near Moncton, Dud James, along with such other stars as Bill Gill, Sammy MacKinnon, Bill Miller, Jimmy Foster, Knuckey Irvine, Duke MacDonald, Aubrey Webster and Len Burridge, played under Coach Percy Nichlin and was a fast-skating playmaker before the days of imports in Maritime hockey.

He was with the Hawks for their first Allan Cup win in Vancouver in 1933, when Moncton defeated Saskatoon Quakers in a two-game, total-goal series. Hawks won both games.

The five-foot-10 James was one of the big guns as the Hawks repeated against Port William Thunderng Hurl in Toronto in 1934.

He potted one goal as Hawks dropped the opener 3-2; scored twice, including the winner and insurance marker in the third and potted up an assist in a 4-2 second game triumph; and tallied once as Hawks capped the play-off game 5-1.

Due to financial troubles, the Hawks disbanded in February of 1935 and James, along with several other members of the club, turned pro. Dud joined Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League and was farmed out to Syracuse.

By then an old back injury started to put pressure on his spine and he was forced to hang up the blades. So he turned to coaching. He piloted Moncton Warriors to three consecutive Maritime senior titles (1936, 1937 and 1938) before heading for Cape Breton where he handled Sydney Millionaires in 1938-39 and Glace Bay Miners in 1939. The following year he returned to Moncton to coach the Eagles.

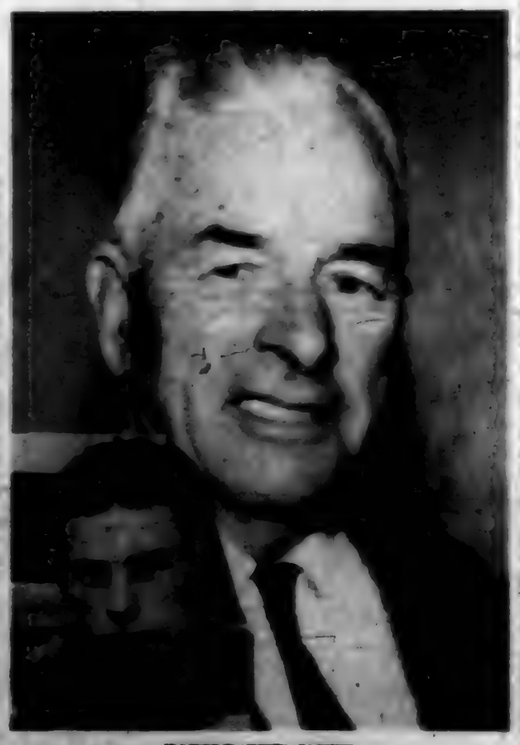
When his coaching days were over, James became manager of Moncton Stadium, a post he held for several years. At local games he was a familiar figure, still in remarkable physical condition, reminiscing about the "old days".

Later he managed Dud James Arena, a new rink built by the City of Moncton and named in his honor.

Over the years, Dud James maintained close ties with Bathurst where he had many friends and some family connections. He was last seen here publicly, however, in 1961, when the former Bathurst Papermakers were feted in connection with the city's 50th anniversary of incorporation.

Dud James is survived by his wife the former Helen Parker, of Bathurst, one daughter, Marilyn, Mrs. Andrew Blair, Calgary, Alta., and one son, Bruce, Cambridge, Ont.; one sister, Mrs. A. E. Clare (Bill) Boyd), Moncton; two brothers, Robert, Lachine, P.Q. and Willard, Moncton; five grandchildren.

His church and fraternal affiliations included St. Andrews Presbyterian Church, Moncton, Acadia Lodge No. 49 F. and A.M. and Moncton Fire Department.



HAROLD (DUD) JAMES

Funeral Service Corps.

Dud James resided at Table Brothers' Funeral Home, Moncton, where the service was conducted at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, followed by interment in Fair Haven Memorial Gardens.

News of Dud James' death was learned with general and genuine sorrow and regret in Bathurst, where his hockey career and his life following were a source of example and inspiration to several generations.

The following fine sentiment was penned over the weekend by Bill Gill, a sentiment reminiscent from the memorable Hawks' era and close friend since:

"He was one of the finest fellows I ever had the opportunity to play with and probably the best hockey player ever to come out of Moncton."

"Dud wasn't a very big man but I believe one he was well respected. He could break a game wide open with his shooting ability or control a game with his stick handling.

"With a stick a foot longer than everyone else, Dud could reach from one side of the rink to the other. He could send the puck and then give it to anyone else... never a glory seeker, just a solid hockey performer.

"People would say you had to beat James three times before you'd get a shot on net. He was their goal... everywhere at once."

Acting Group Plan Second Production

The talented group of young performers known as Community Theatre who brought their superb version of Jesus Christ Superstar to the citizens of Bathurst during Hospitality Days '76 have announced intentions to get together a small Christmas production.

Plans are in the making for a fund-raising campaign to finance the production, and these include a bottle-a-thon and possibly a "pail day". It is hoped the citizens will respond well to the request for support when details of the campaign are released.

Proceeds from Community Theatre's initial production went to very worthwhile causes, with $1,400 to the Flowers of Hope Training School and $900 to a local recreation which was badly in need of a sprucing. The acting group, composed of some 60 talented and enthusiastic young people from the area, kept only a small amount of money for a performance in Dalhousie and other expenses.

Christmas being only ten weeks away, the time element will not allow for as great an undertaking as Superstar, but it is sure to be something for theatre-goers to look forward to.

The young people are faced with a lot of hard work, both in raising funds and organizing the new play, but this could be made much easier by the public's generosity.

Anyone interested in aiding Community Theatre, either in act ing, those who can lend a hand in stage work, props, costuming, organization or other aspects of this community-minded group is asked to attend the next meeting, set for Sunday, October 17 at 2:30 p.m. in the basement of Sacred Heart Cathedral. All are welcome.

Group Grateful For Assistance

The Bathurst High and J. Gordon Chalmers Home and School Association is very fortunate to have the co-operation and leadership of the principals of both schools, namely Rhean Gaguen, Principal of Bathurst High School and Elmer Dickie, Principal of the J. Gordon Chalmers School.

The Association appreciates that Mr. Gaguen and Mr. Dickie understand the broad scope of Home and School Association's work and its policies.

They interpret to the membership school policies and administrative responsibilities, and help develop a high-quality constructive role in school affairs. They are both active members of the executive committee, working with the executive committee to maintain continuity and to develop expertise for leadership among the members. Messrs. Gaguen and Dickie call attention to home, school and community problems where the Home and School Association can be useful; they refer the power for good that results through affiliation with provincial and National Federations as well as with other Home and School Associations; they recognize the importance of the Home and School Association in reflecting and influencing public opinion.

And they, along with program Chairman Jack Sweeney, and other faculty members, participate as the educational leaders of the school community in planning educational programs.

All Home and School Associations need principals of the calibre of Mr. Gaguen and Mr. Dickie. Associations with such leadership prosper under careful guidance, but would wither under domination, dictation and indifference.

Northeast Veterans Adopt Constitution

Approximately 300 war veterans, many accompanied by their wives, attended The North Eastern N.B. Veterans Association meeting held at the Bathurst Trade School October 10.

The meeting was conducted in French and English by J. Leo Hachey and was opened with a moment of silence and the singing of O Canada.

The president, Mr. Hachey, welcomed everyone, especially the veterans' wives who will be invited to join the association.

Following the opening remarks, Laurent Bertin, of Allardville, and Frank Branch, MLA Nepisiguit-Chaleur, encouraged the association to continue the work they had begun.

Romeo J. Theriault, executive director, outlined the association's activities, and the success which is more than just helping some veterans in receiving their disability pensions or allowances, "we have succeeded in more than that, because we have come to accept the other person and to make them feel they are one of us."

Constitution Adopted

Following is the constitution which was read in both languages by Mr Hachey and adopted unanimously by the assembly:

1) Each member of the association should in every way possible help his fellow veteran and his family in all matters concerning his rights, with a view to improving his social economic and cultural condition.

2) That all persons who have served Canada or its Allies in the armed forces are entitled to become duly qualified members of the association and be eligible for office in the said organization.

A.) Wives who share in the life of a veteran and who may become eligible for pension, or allocations to widows of veterans, have the right to become auxiliary members of the association even though they may not have been enlisted in the services.

2) The association is of a benevolent nature and all dues or monies or properties that could accrue, should be used towards helping others as mentioned in article "1" of this constitution.

3) That once each year, early in October an annual meeting should be held and each member is to be notified in writing at least one week before, of the date, time, and place of the annual meeting.

5) That the members, elect by secret ballot, their executive, unless of course, that one of the candidates named be elected unanimously by the meeting. The annual meeting must be held in two official languages, French and English. The annual meeting will be responsible for nominating the following: president, vice-president, executive director, secretary, and treasurer, and five directors, each from a different locality.

The executive must name three signing officers who will be responsible for signing cheques or other documents in the name of the association. Each document or cheque will require two out of three signatures.

6) That the said executive of the association hold a meeting every three months or as needed, and that at least three out of ten members, comprise a quorum, it being understood, however, that notice of meeting be circulated in sufficient time to reach all ten members of the executive.

7) That the files kept by the executive director relating to veterans, be confidential and that in the event of dissolution of the said organization these dossiers be returned to the veteran, excepting those documents that may be classified as confidential between the executive director and the authorities of the D.V.A., which documents are to be burned.

Election Held

Elected to the executive were: J. Leo Hachey, Bathurst, president; Edmond Ward, Allardville, secretary-treasurer; and Romeo J. Theriault, Bathurst, executive director.

Directors are: Elmery Wenneau, Beresford, region of Restigouche; Alcide Gadin, Notre Dame Des Erables, region of Bertrand, Paquetville, and Caraquet; Livain David, St. Raphael-sur-Mer, region of Lameque, Shippegan and Les Iles; Willie Richard, Negaac, region of Negaac, Sheila and Tracadie; and Adolphe Williams, Burtouche, region of St. Louis de Kent, Buctouche and Richibucto.

It was particularly noted at the meeting that the Department of Veterans Affairs had agreed to a resolution which the association had presented to Hon. Daniel McDonald, Minister of Veterans Affairs. This is to the effect that veterans receiving an allowance, if single, would be able to earn $1,500 more per year and a married person may earn $2,250, beginning October 1, 1976.

It was decided that letters of appreciation be sent to the Canada Pensions Commission for having held a meeting in Bathurst, something which had never happened before; and to W. A. Strover, legal counsellor of pensions, for his cooperation.

The meeting closed with music and coffee and doughnuts being served.

New Plant Operating; Projects Of Home Formal Opening Oct. 19 And School Assns.

Premier Richard Hatfield on Tues., October 19 will officially open the first major plant in Canada to produce specialized peat moss products.

Jiffy Products (N.B.) Ltd. of Shippegan has just started production at its $5.5 million facility, which, when at full capacity will employ 70 people.

Peat pots and related products will be manufactured at the 40,000 sq. ft. plant.

The announcement in August 1975 that Jiffy would build a plant at Shippegan was preceded by more than years of negotiations between government officials and the parent firm of Jiffy Products International, a world leader in the peat products field. The company has production plants in Norway, Denmark and Japan. It has exported its products to North America since 1964, but the Shippegan facility is Jiffy's first plant here.

The provincial government has made a long-term loan of more than $2.1 million to Jiffy Products through the former New Brunswick Development Corporation, now part of the Commerce and Development Department.

One of the major reasons influencing Jiffy's decision to locate in Northeast New Brunswick over many other sites being considered in North America was the quality and amount of peat in the area.

The products manufactured at Shippegan require a steady supply of a special high grade sphagnum peat, found in abundance in the northeast of the province.

The plant will provide an important new market for peat producers in New Brunswick within three years of start-up the Jiffy facility is expected to require more than 2,000 tons of peat annually from local producers.

Jiffy Products International produces and markets peat moss products for both professional growers and the home gardener in world-wide trade. The company controls the peat moss of the world market in the peat moss.

Representatives of federal, provincial and municipal governments will attend the official opening of Jiffy's Shippegan facility. Senior officials from Jiffy's head office in Norway will be present as well.

Premier Premier Hatfield, speaker at the opening are expected to include J. P. Blanchard, deputy minister of Commerce and Development; John Clements, mayor of Shippegan; and a representative of Regional Economic Expansion Department, which has made the company a grant of more than $1.1 million.

Funds To Aid Area Project

Federal Regional Economic Expansion Minister Marcel Lessard and Commerce and Development Minister Lawrence Garvie announced October 7 their departments will help develop an industrial site at Petit-Rocher.

They will provide funds of more than $35,000, of which 40 per cent will be contributed by DREE, to build an access road, opening up the first 17 acres of the industrial site. It is hoped that this construction can be completed this year.

The Village of Petit-Rocher has purchased the land required for the industrial site. The village is one of the [illegible] Chaleur Regional Industrial Commission, which will be responsible for the development and administration of the site.

Funds for this project will be provided under the industrial sub-agreement of the Canada-New Brunswick General Development Agreement.

Foresters Address Fish And Game Assn. Meeting

The Bathurst Fish and Game Association welcomed four forestry officials as guest speakers October 6 at the regular meeting.

Yvon Marquardt, district forester, who spoke in place of Natural Resources Minister Roland Beaubouef who could not attend, was introduced by acting president Harold Branagh.

Mr. Marquardt elaborated on the latest developments in the Bathurst pilot project. Brunswick Mills, then explained why roads and bridges in the upriver regions are in such poor repair. He stated his department is allotted a set amount for the maintenance of the areas, and the work done by the town council by contractors. He explained repairs are now being carried out.

Mr. Marquardt ended his address with an invitation to the public to present its views and complaints without hesitation to the department.

Lorne Stewart, regional manager of the Fish and Forestry Service, gave brief developments regarding competition, camping grounds and game already obtained approval. The association found certain details relating to the talk unsatisfactory, and decided to invite Natural Resources Minister Beaubouef to the November 6 meeting for further discussion on the matter.

Wildlife Protection Officer Albert Mathieson explained the nature of his duties to the meeting. He said the work load increased considerably during the peak forest fire season, and only a minimum number of wardens can be spared for protection of wildlife during this period. However, he noted, many protection officers are available at this time of year to patrol the woods for violations of the provincial game laws.

Gilles Godin, wildlife biologist, was asked about the possibility of a fish ladder for the Tetagouche Falls and Nepisiguit Falls dams. He stated the department had accepted the idea, and survey work has been carried out. However, he said, the procedure is a costly one, and will only be undertaken when funds are available. Hope was expressed that this would be done in the near future, as the salmon runs in the rivers in question are good and would improve with the ladders.

Mr. Godin stated the deer and moose populations have been increasing for the past three years, and trout stocks in streams and lakes are also surviving.

Regarding moving pollution, he reported that to date, all mining companies are abiding by the rules.

Restocking of fish is being carried out each summer, he noted, but the increase is kept down by many persons who poach an average of 200-250 trout each time they fish.

In closing the meeting, Mr. Branagh thanked the federal forestry officials, and suggested the association keep in close contact with the department on the methods of conservation.

A spokesman for investigating RCMP from Jacquet River said heavy rains and strong winds severely affected visibility and according to reports, the victim had been walking in the middle of the road and crossed into the path of an oncoming car driven by Donald Willard Kearns of Moncton.

N.B. Nurses' Morale Low

Resolutions passed at the recent annual meeting of the N.B. Nurses Provincial Collective Bargaining Council in Moncton have indicated that the morale among nurses in New Brunswick is at an all-time low.

The resolutions, released Oct. 8, say salaries are poor and staff ratios are established so low that non-professional hospital workers must make decisions in emergency situations.

One says the salaries of nurses nurses have fallen below the pay of hospitalworkers, they supervise, a position reiterated in several resolutions with the provincial Planning Board.

It said the problems are seriously affecting health care and also the working relations [illegible] of nurse members of the health team. Young nurses were being discouraged from entering the nursing profession as a result.

Most of the resolutions concerned working conditions, complaining of staff ratios and of being forced to work double shifts to do non-nursing functions.

The council also blasted the New Brunswick Association of Registered Nurses "for its lack of sustained protest" over the situation.

The death of Mary A. Lindsay, wife of Willard Lindsay, 365 Riverside Dr., occurred Oct. 12 at Chaleur General Hospital. She was 75.

Why you should make a day of it, too.

Since last October 14, Canadians have been faced by a programme of wage controls introduced by a government that was elected on a platform that opposed controls.

The government, since that time, has tried to convince the people of Canada that the Anti-Inflation Board and the controls are beating inflation. But, it is just not so. There has been a slowdown in the rate of inflation, but it is almost entirely the result of an unusually small increase in the price of food. And, food prices at the farm gate are not even covered by the controls.

In the meantime, the prices of other consumer goods continue to spiral upwards. The fact is that prices are not being controlled by the government programme.

However, the AIB has a tremendous impact on wages. It has rolled back the wages of hundreds of thousands of Canadian working people. The board is constantly telling the media how many wages it has cut, but it is strangely silent about price rollbacks.

Along with controls, the government implemented what it likes to call "restraints". It is cutting back on family allowances, and on Unemployment Insurance and its share of the cost of medical care. Pensioners, students and low-income groups, the people least able to pay, will have to fork out more for health care, post-secondary education and other basic services.

Unemployment is the most serious economic and social problem facing Canada today. Instead of tackling this problem, the government has pretended to fight inflation and has cut back on Unemployment Insurance in an effort to save money. The way to save money on Unemployment Insurance is to create more jobs, not blame unemployed workers for the fact that jobs do not exist.

The present government was elected on a platform of opposition to wage and price controls. Fifteen months later, it did an about-face and imposed controls, demonstrating a cynical attitude to its own election promise. This is clearly undemocratic.

The government must be made to respect its promises. This won't happen if Canadians just sit back and do nothing. The right to dissent must be exercised if Canada's democratic tradition is to have any meaning.

On October 14, exercise your right to dissent. Join with Canadians from coast to coast as they participate in a National Day of Protest to convince the government that Canadians want to be freed of the unfairness of the controls. On October 14, join us when we're "out to fight controls"

October 14, a national day of protest.

We're out to fight controls.

Show you support the national day of protest by posting the other side of this message on your window at home or bulletin board at work.

Fact Or Fiction?

"Them what has gets". This age-old expression doesn't hold true to jail sentences, if a recent statement by Saint John Police Chief Eric Ferguson bears any weight.

Chief Ferguson, who is well-known on the North Shore as a onetime RCMP officer in charge of Jacquet River Detachment, and a community leader there, said recently that people with money are able to "pay off" the system and avoid going to jail for the crimes they commit. He was speaking at the annual meeting of the Atlantic Provinces Criminology and Corrections Association in Moncton.

If the more affluent members of society or the white-collar workers, so called, are immune to punishment for their crimes it is a disgraceful state of affairs, to say the least. With a background like his, Chief Ferguson should not be backward in coming forward, and if he has facts to prove his charges, he should document them.

Crime these days, of course, is as common as getting up in the morning. Many people assumedly of honesty and integrity are the ones who pilfer the stamp drawer at work for personal mail, use a considerable supply of office stationery for their own use, and take pencils and pens for their children to use at school. All this may be petty crime, but it is crime and it leads to greater evil.

The general public should feel equal outrage at all crimes, including fraud in the business community, and corruption in government, contends Chief Ferguson.

If some people "get away with it" because they are wealthy or influential, this denotes a failure of our judicial system. Everyone should serve equal time for equal crime, be he an ordinary Joe or a multi-millionaire. In addition, his prison conditions should be the same. If not, the corruption within our society will eventually destroy it.

In the meantime, Provincial Justice Minister Paul Creaghan is suggesting that more people should be kept out of jail.

He confirms that jails in the province are generally over-crowded, that there are some people who do not belong there. He would like to see an alternative to certain sentences.

Mr. Creaghan suggests that people should work off fines, rather than be put into jail in default of payment. Drunken drivers, he feels, should be given a driving course instead of being incarcerated.

The minister does agree that there are some people who belong behind bars and he points out that his proposals wouldn't entirely relieve the congestion. At any rate, the recommendations will be considered by the government in the coming months.

That is one way to relieve overcrowding since Mr. Creaghan indicates that construction of any new jails would have to be a matter of government policy and viewed in the overall area of government priorities. And, everyone knows what that means.

SCALLOP SQUABBLE

There's a scallop war boiling up between the Canadian and US fleets fishing George's Bank off Nova Scotia. The Americans claim they own all the scallop grounds. The Canadians insist they own at least part of it. The issue has come to a head because the US scallop fleet this year increased to more than 130 vessels from a mere 13 last year. Canadians are fishing with a fleet of about 70 vessels, with limitations preventing any expansion. The result is that the price of Canadian-landed scallops has suddenly fallen in the US market. Spokesmen for the Canadian industry are demanding a bilateral agreement placing identical restraints on each nation.

Solicits Support For October 14th

Bathurst, N.B.
October 12, 1976

October 14 is a date long awaited by all the Labor Movement in Canada. This is the date that the C.L.C. has commited themselves to protest against the A.I.B. program, Bill C-73. A day when all Canadians have to let our government in power know that the Canadian people still cherish their freedom, and that the poor, the elderly, the middle class people still want the chance to better themselves, and will not stand for big industries to profit at their own expense.

Yes, the 14th of October has brought a lot of controversy throughout Canada. Why? Because the Trudeau government has made it very hard for the ordinary Joe, to understand that the A.I.B. program is all about, and how it affects them. So this has made the Canadian people feel unsecure.

Yes, this is what the Trudeau government has done, the same Trudeau government that said during elections they would have nothing to do with price and wage controls. So now it is time for all Canadian people to rise in disapproval in this action taken by our government. Even though it will create hardship for many people, but not as much hardship that the Canadian people will have to endure if the A.I.B. program is left undefeated.

The Canadian people will never let themselves be dictated to for our elders have fought too hard for our freedom at great cost, to themselves.

We will not let our freedom we enjoy, be jeopardized by a dictatorship. So on the 14th we will join hands and walk, shout our disapproval to the action taken by the Trudeau government in regards to the A.I.B. program.

So Canadian people join the protest, march and win!

Policemen's Lot Not Always Happy

Bathurst, N.B.
October 9, 1976

Enclosed is a clipping from a New York newspaper entitled "What Is a Cop". I hope you will publish it in your newspaper as I am sure its message is very meaningful.

For Fair Play

Cops are human (believe it or not) just like the rest of us. They come in both sexes but mostly male. They also come in various sizes. This sometimes depends on whether you are looking for one or trying to hide something. However, they are mostly big.

Cops are found everywhere - on land, on the sea, in the air, on horses, in cars, and sometimes in your hair.

In spite of the fact that "you can't find one when you want one," they are usually there when it counts most. The best way to get one is to pick up the phone.

Cops deliver lectures, babies and bad news. They are required to have the wisdom of Solomon, and the disposition of a lamb and muscles of steel and are often accused of having a heart to match. He's the one who rings the door bell, swallows hard and announced the passing of a loved one; then spends the rest of the day wondering why he ever took such a crummy job.

On TV a cop is an oaf who couldn't find a ball fiddle in a telephone booth. In real life he's expected to find a little blond boy "about so high" in a crowd of a half million people. In fiction he gets help from private eyes, reporters and "who-dun-it" fans. In real life, mostly all he gets from the public is "I didn't see nuttin'."

When he serves a summons he's a monster. If he let's you go, he's a dol. To little kids he's either a friend or a bogeyman, depending on how the parents feel about it. He works "around the clock", split shifts, Sundays and holidays and it always kills him when a joker says, "Hey tomorrow is election day. I'm off, let's go fishing" that's the day he works 20 hours.

A cop is like a little girl who when she was good, was very, very good, but when she was bad she was horrid. When a copy is good "he's getting paid for it." When he makes a mistake "he's a grafter and that goes for the rest of them too." When he shoots a stick-up man he's a hero, except when the stick-up man is only a kid, anybody could've seen that."

Lots of them have homes, some of them covered with ivy, but most of them covered with mortgages. If he drives a big car he's a chiseler; a little car, "who's he kidding?" His credit is good this is, very helpful, because his salary isn't. Cops raise lots of kids; most of them belong to other people.

A cop sees more misery, bloodshed, trouble and sunrises than the average person. Like the postman, cops must also be out in all kinds of weather. His uniform changes with the climate, but his outlook on life remains about the same; mostly a blank, but hoping for a better world.

Cops like days off, vacations and coffee. They don't like auto horns, family fights and anonymous letter writers. They have unions, but they can't strike.

They must be impartial, courteous and always remember the slogan "At your service." This is sometimes hard especially when a character reminds him, "I'm a taxpayer, I pay your salary."

Cops get medals for saving lives, stopping runaway horses and shooting it out with bandits (once in a while his widow gets the medal). But sometimes the most rewarding moment comes when, after some small kindness to an older person, he feels the warm hand clasp, looks into grateful eyes and hears "Thank you and God bless you, son."

YOUR BUSINESS

Shoot-Out At Generation Gap

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst Thomson News Service

Styles change in everything—even in the ways of managing a business.

For generations, managers have managed in a way designed to achieve economic growth, and to acquire income, property and wealth.

By-products of that managerial philosophy were improvements in the general standard of living, and a reduction in poverty.

Today, the managerial ideal of "Economic Man" is being replaced by a new idea—"Social Man," with radically different objectives.

That's the conviction held by a professor of management with 40 years' experience in dealing with students and managers.

John F. Mee of Indiana University Graduate School of Business contrasted the two approaches in a talk to the University of Western Ontario's Business School Club.

"My generation said that we have the opportunity to succeed.

"Today's generation is saying that it wants equality of results, not of opportunity."

Hedonism, Dr. Mee suggested, is more popular than ever among would-be managers.

"We get too many people who plan for Saturday night, rather than for the generation ahead."

He described the change as one of the major transformations in Western civilization—"to a more socially oriented society, some would call it more humanely oriented."

LIVING IT UP

"Social Man seeks satisfaction, not from heroic individual achievements, but from participation in the social process," Dr. Mee wrote in an article in the UWO Business Quarterly, for which he won an award for excellence by P.S. Ross and Partners.

"The followers of Social Man guidelines prefer leisure and a solid place in the community to satisfy a desire for affiliating and belonging to a social organization."

Elaborating on that theory in his talk to the UWO Business School alumni, Dr. Mee predicted that the outcome will be an economic system he calls communitariansism, replacing, and combining capitalism socialism, communism and fascism.

"Young people are not going to take dictation from someone who may not be as competent as they are, just because the other person owns something."

Deciding whether the older or newer concepts are right is immaterial, he indicated.

The younger generation will be "right" because it will outlive his generation.

Dr. Mee's advice to manager's wishing to defend the present economic system is to take a tip from westerns on the screen or on TV:

When young gun-sliners rode into a lawless town in the Old West, some died in shoot-outs, and the sheriff appointed the survivors as his deputies.

NEW GROUP FORMED TO AID DEAF AND HARD OF HEARING

A new provincial association to represent the deaf and the hard of hearing in New Brunswick was organized recently in Fredericton.

Being the temporary name of the New Brunswick co-ordinating Council for the Hearing Handicapped (NBCCHH), the association is made up of deaf and hard-of-hearing persons, parents of hearing-impaired children and hearing persons such as teachers and social workers who have close contacts with hearing-handicapped people.

The impetus for the organization came from parents who were concerned about the quality of academic education and wanted better vocational training and job opportunities for their hearing-impaired children. A group, whose aim will be to provide the deaf with a better standard of living including such jobs as full-time employment, [illegible]

The new organization is already affiliated with the Canadian Co-ordinating Council on Deafness based in Ottawa. To serve as the CCOD Provincial Division for New Brunswick will be Clarence Thibeau, Saint John, for the deaf members and C. W. Balish, the new provincial president, for the hearing members.

Jan Brown, the vice-president, has issued an appeal to all local area groups for the deaf and hard-of-hearing as well as hearing-impaired individuals to get in touch with him or Mr. Balish.

"In order to make this a strong and viable association, we must have as many members as possible to help represent the deaf and hard-of-hearing people throughout this province," the vice-president said.

Enrolment Up At St. Thomas

St. Thomas University has experienced a substantial increase in the number of students enrolled in the first year of the Bachelor of Arts programme. This news came as Lawrence Batt, STU Registrar, noted overall enrollment for full time students at the liberal arts university now stands at 500 as compared with the 770 figure of last December first.

A total of 250 first year students were registered at St. Thomas in September bringing the total of last year. The figure for this year generally stands at 300, an increase of over 20 per cent.

Enrollment in the University's new four Bachelor of Education programme is geared to accommodate a limited number of students. Sixty-four students are now registered in that department.

When St. Thomas first moved to the Fredericton campus in 1964, enrollment stood at 250 full time students.

After opening procedures, members were welcomed and the minutes and correspondence were read. Eleven members were present.

It was decided that meetings will take place the first Monday of the month, rather than on Wednesdays.

Bible reading took place and a discussion followed. It was reported books were mailed to people on St. Kitts in the West Indies.

It was decided that a donation would be sent to help educate a new protege this year to replace the seminarian whom council had been assisting.

Financial and conveners' reports were read.

It was noted that two members attended the meeting and conference of the Vanier Institute of the Family in Sydney, N.S. and interesting reports were given.

The meeting adjourned with regular prayers, following which lunch was served by the hostesses Miss Dorothy Whelan and Mrs. Annie Riordon.

Greek Maritime History Explored

By IAN VORRES

No account has ever surpassed Homer's epic Odyssey in immortalizing the seafaring abilities of the Greeks, and their dependence on the much-disputed Aegean Sea.

Four thousand years of tumultuous history have elapsed with hardly any changes. The same Greek dependence on the Aegean isles for commerce in peace and defence in war, the same national dedication to the sea as a major source of wealth and power, emerge clearly in a new survey of Greek maritime history, The Greeks And The Sea by Andreas G. Lemos (Collier Macmillan Canada Ltd., 222 pages, $15.95).

Mr. Lemos, a doyen among Greek ship-owners and a member of one of Greece's leading shipping families, has been associated with Greek shipping for more than 40 years.

He is also closely linked with the spectacular growth of Greek tonnage after World War II. The Greek-owned merchant navy attained first place in the world in 1967 with 2,864 ships totalling 37,700,000 tons.

Because of the author's official position as honorary president of the Union of Greek Ship-owners and his obvious allegiance to his shipping colleagues, he is reluctant to shed full light on the incredible machinations and commercial manipulations that have made Greek ship-owners among the wealthest and most powerful individuals on earth.

Many dealings of the "Golden Greeks" make fascinating reading, even though some of them have justly been dubbed the "Maritime Mafia".

HOW IT BEGAN

The story of how one of the greatest Greek shipping fortunes was first established during the Spanish Civil War in the late 1930s is still remembered in Athens.

A relatively unknow skipper obtained a small bank loan with which to purchase an old freighter ready to be scrapped, and some useless, discarded Greek army ammunition.

After insuring freighter and freight at an astronomical price, he sold the ammunition to the hard-pressed Spanish Republicans who paid in advance in a Swiss bank.

The skipper—for a substantial fee, of course—then proceeded to inform General Franco's Nationalists of the date of sailing and the exact route the skip would follow.

After the freighter was sunk by the Nationalists, the owner collected the enormous insurance fee as well.

Mr. Lemos doesn't dwell on the seedier side of Greek shipping. He much prefers to present his colleagues as hard-working idealists who are waging a Homeric battle against slander and unfair competition, especially on the part of the British who see their maritime supremacy endangered by the Greek upstarts.

At one point only does the author admit vaguely that "under the pressure of circumstances some Greek shipowners resorted to activities suggestive of fraud."

That fraudulent activities were more widespread than Mr. Lemos wants to admit is suggested when he further reveals that a Greek Shipping Co-operation Committee was founded in London in 1937 to protect the interests and reputation of Greek shipping.

Greek owners who in the past had neglected their obligations would henceforth be answerable to the Committee for their behavior. The author also admits that the Committee had to cope with "the rising flood of malingering, deserting, smuggling and a lot of other evils among Greek crews."

HUGE LOSSES

The imposition by British underwriters of an extra premium on cargos carried on Greek ships, and the generally hostile attitude of world capital to the Greek flag, are simply dismissed by the author as being due to bias "incompatible with the sporting spirit of the British."

That the scandalously high percentage of Greek vessels lost inexplicably through ship-wreck might be a justifiable reason for such action the author refuses to discuss.

If Mr. Lemos were so obviously not trying to white-wash Greek ship-owners, his efforts to justify their actions would have been more plausible.

Compared with their enormous fortunes stashed away in Swiss banks, the average ship-owner really invests little in Greece—unless it is to build family mausoleums, luxurious island retreats and villas, or to entertain lavishly aboard their sumptuous yachts (mostly built in foreign shipyards).

Even these naval institutions that, the author proudly points out, were built by shipping families in Greece, were primarily established to serve the interests of Greek ship-owners, who desperately required better educational standards amount their Greek crews.

SEA FARING GENIUS

Interest in the book is not enhanced by the many repetitions of facts and events, met by a rather prosaic style.

Ultimately the real heroes of Greek shipping who emerge are not the ship-owners but the rough, neglected Greek crews who, like Homeric superman struggling against incredible odds, succeeded in securing for Greece a commercial supremacy over the seven oceans.

Mr. Vorres is a Canadian author and journalist living in Athens.

Health Habits Are Explored

Health and Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde recently announced the department's plans to distribute a self-scoring health lifestyle appraisal with October Family Allowances cheques.

"Your Lifestyle Profile" will enable individuals to determine for themselves the quality of their lifestyle and to see where improvement is needed. Approximately 3.6 million Canadians receive the cheques each month but it is hoped that more than this number will assess their health habits as others in the family become interested. For persons who are not cheque recipients, copies of the questionnaire are available from the Information Directorate, Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa.

In November, a follow-up booklet called "Ways to Improve Your Lifestyle Profile" will offer recipients general advice on how to resolve their lifestyle problems.

"Your Lifestyle Profile" and "Ways to Improve Your Lifestyle Profile" are elements of Operation Lifestyle, a public education program developed by the department to encourage Canadians to assume greater responsibility for their own health. Earlier this year Mr. Lalonde introduced the Fit-Kit to help individuals estimate their levels of physical fitness and assist them in selecting activities appropriate to age, lifestyle and personal capacity. Later this month, Dialogue on Drinking, a national information program aimed at reducing the excessive use of alcohol, will be introduced. Other components of Operation Lifestyle will be announced later this year.

LOCAL CAR DEALERS LAUNCH NEW MODELS

The 1977 Auto Shows in the Bathurst area drew many interested prospects and car enthusiasts. It was a time to check out the good and bad points, shapes and sizes and last but not least, the prices. All in all, turn-outs were good at all locations. While en route to the showrooms, the Northern Light photographer found the climate right for candid shots. In the top photo, Bill MacDonald, sales manager at McGrath Pontiac Buick, examines the free-wheeling hub of a new Jimmy, while Mike McGrath, president looks on. In the middle photo, Ralph Good, branch manager, Lounsbury Motors, discusses the possible sale of a fleet of cars with Martin Aube, well known taxi-cab operator. Stewart Good, salesman at Bathurst Chrysler Dodge, in bottom photo, gets out of a new Chrysler New Yorker after enjoying the extra fine comforts of this luxurious automobile.

Brother Dies In Saint John

The death of John A. Wetmore, 2277 Loch Lomond Rd., Saint John, occurred Oct. 1 at St. Joseph's Hospital after a period of failing health.

Born at Blissfield, he was a son of the late Thomas and Katherine (Kane) Moran.

Mr. Wetmore had resided the greater part of his life in Saint John and had been employed as a mechanic at the Saint John Airport. He was a member of the 4th Degree Knights of Columbus and of the Holy Name Society.

His wife, the former Marie Louise Scullin, died in 1975.

Surviving are three daughters, Miss Theresa Moran and Mrs. Dennis Lank (Josephine), both of Saint John, and Mrs. Gerald Swain, New Glasgow, N.S.

Two sisters, Mrs. Patrick Hennessy (Beatrice) of Bathurst and Mrs. Mary Walker of Waldeboro, New Hampshire, four grandchildren and several nieces and nephews also survive.

Mr. Wetmore rested at Pilgrim-Patrick Funeral Home, 186 Waterloo Street, Saint John.

The funeral was held at St. Joseph's Church Monday at 9:30 a.m., followed by burial in the parish cemetery in Saint John.

Steelworkers Urged To Join In Protest

Ed Levert, staff representative for the United Steelworkers of America said October 8 that some of the Steelworkers members are not being given the liberty of protesting the federal government's Anti-Inflation Board on October 14.

Mr. Levert said that in particular, Brunswick Mines and Smelter, subsidiaries of Noranda Mines, have advised the union that should employees not report to work on the day of protest, disciplinary actions which would lead to possible suspension and discharge will be taken. The company has also advised that policy grievances would be treated in a lawsuit for all loss of production.

"This is not a fight against the companies", said Mr. Levert. "It is a protest against the unjust law that was implemented by the Trudeau government. Companies are using tactics such as Noranda Mines are taking advantage of the law.

"With everything considered, we will not sacrifice our members for such reasons. The Brunswick Mines and Smelter employees that are scheduled to work on the 14th should report to work in order to insure that the companies such as Noranda will not be able to take advantage of discharging at random employees they would like to get rid of."

Mr. Levert went on to say that the Steelworkers do abide by the Congress policies for the 14th and, wherever possible across Canada, Steelworker members will be out protesting "this unjust law that has frozen the workers' wages while the cost of living is still spiralling."

"The Steelworkers are urging all of their members who are on 4 - 12 and graveyard shifts, or scheduled off that day, to join all other workers in the protest march scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 14 a 10 a.m. for Coronation Park", Mr. Levert concluded.

"Ned" Arsenault Opens His Own Business In City

J.N. (Ned) Arsenault, who opens his own business, Ned's TV and Appliances, tomorrow, Thursday, October 14, has an enviable record in the commercial field. This includes 20 years of management training and over 24 years of sales experience.

Mr. Arsenault first came here from his native Egmont Bay, PEI, in 1952 to join the Stedman's organization. After a brief stay, he was transferred out of town, but Bathurst had grown on him and he was hired back the following year to work for Chaleur Centre.

Later on and in succession he was associated with W.J. Kent and Co. Ltd., Cloggs Jewellers, Bathurst Plumbing and Heating. Then in 1959 he became manager for Louis Schrier of Bathurst TV and Radio Ltd., remaining nine years.

In 1968, Ned moved to Kenny's TV and Radio Ltd. in a similar executive post, formed the affiliated company called Radioland and managed the chain's first outlet at Bathurst Shopping Mall. Most recently and until August of this year, he was associated with Savoir Meubles.

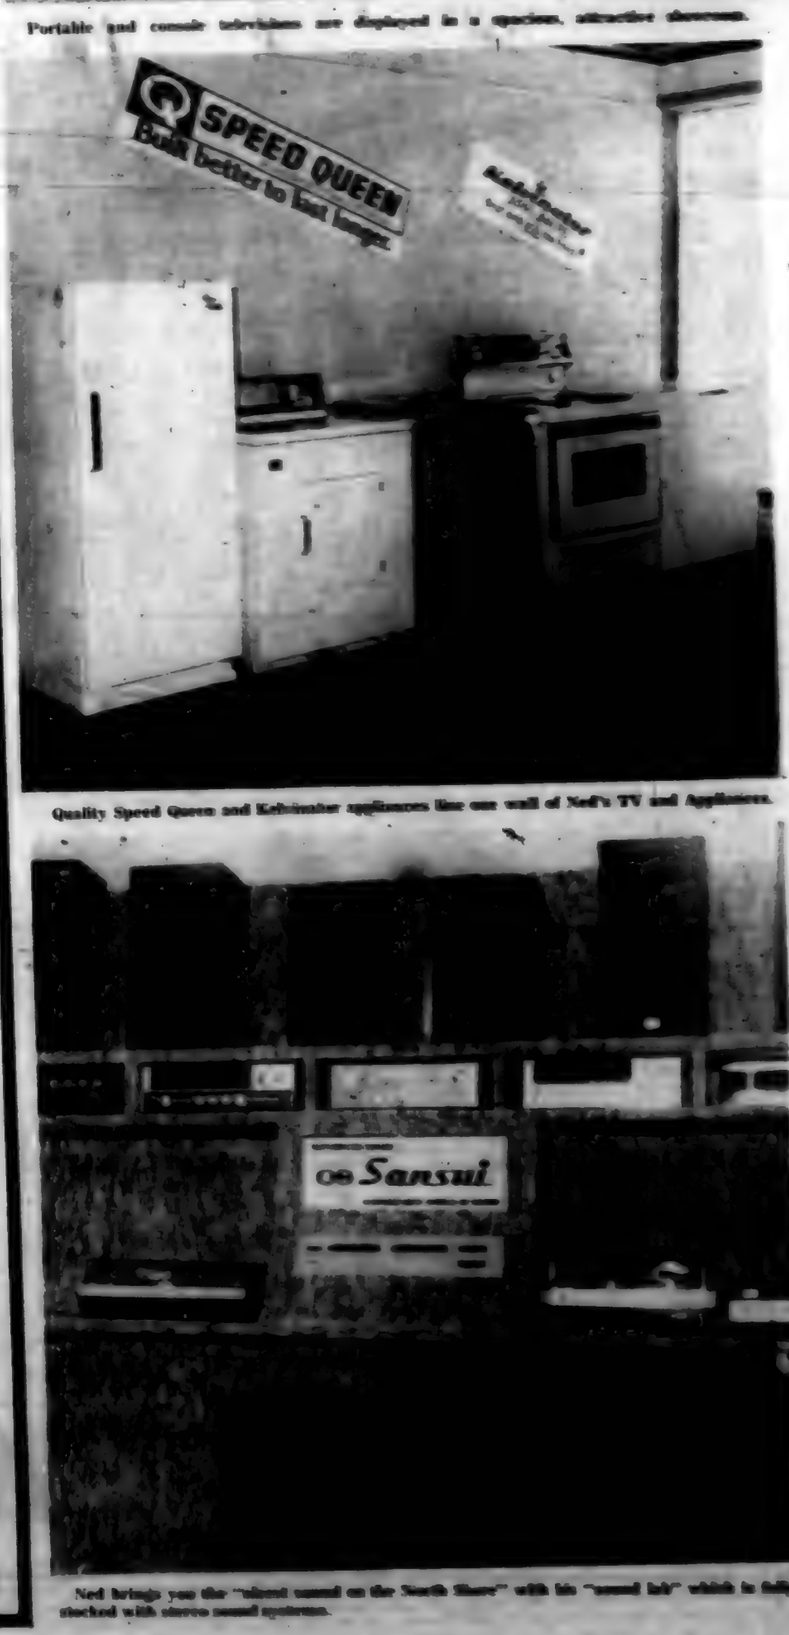
J. "NED" ARSENAULT

Ned's TV and Appliances is located in the Bourgeois Bldg., 315 Main St. The entire premises, previously occupied by Galaxie Lighting have been completely renovated to accommodate the buying public and Ned is especially proud of his sound lab and considers it as one of the most modern and recent in New Brunswick.

The printed posters in the windows are only there on a temporary basis, Ned points out, pending the arrival of a proper illuminated sign which is coming any day now.

October 14 is an important day and date in his life, Ned Arsenault emphasizes, and he has this message: "I would like to invite all my friends and past customers to drop in and see the new store I've set up for just for them. Even if you don't buy I'd sure like to see you there. Do drop in this weekend. It won't c cost you a cent and it will make the new store I've set up just for them. Even if you don't buy I'd sure like to see you there. Do drop in this weekend. It won't cost you a cent and it will make me feel good."

Portable and console televisions are displayed in a spacious, attractive showroom.



Quality Speed Queen and Kelvinator appliances line one wall of Ned's TV and Appliances.

The season will open Sunday, October 31, with Campbellton Tigers travelling to Chatham for a game with the Ironmen.

Second game of the season and the season opener for Bathurst Alpines is set for Tuesday, November 2, with the defending league champions hosting Dalhousie Rangers.

NBAHA President Comments On Hockey Study Progress

Claude MacKinnon, President of the N.B. Amateur Hockey Association and Chairman of the Association's Advisory Committee on the Hockey Study Report, reported today that considerable progress has been made toward the implementation of many recommendations in the report. The Report was released last spring and since that time a special advisory committee to the NBAHA has been named to oversee its implementation.

Specifically, MacKinnon noted that the committee has co-ordinated the hiring of a new commissioner. He is Pierre Turmel, former Director of Administration with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association in Ottawa. Turmel will report for work on Tuesday, October 22 at 767 Brunswick Street, Fredericton, a building which houses Technical Directors of four other provincial sport governing bodies.

Another area of emphasis for the committee has been officiating. A meeting between the committee and representatives of both provincial referees organizations was held September 21 and, as a result, commitments have been made toward the improvement of all aspects of officiating for the coming year.

As a first step, the nine regional representatives of the N.B.A.H.A. Referees Division will be calling regional meetings between now and October 25 for the purpose of discussing the committee's recommended objectives for 1976-77 and for electing a regional representative.

The nine regional representatives will then meet in Newcastle on Sunday, October 26 at 1:00 p.m. Also in attendance will be MacKinnon and other representatives of the advisory committee. A tentative agenda includes the election of a provincial director of officials who will sit on the NBAHA Board; discussion on how the National Referees Certification Program will be introduced throughout the province; assigning procedures and other recommendations of the hockey report.

Several other areas of progress were mentioned by MacKinnon. He noted that the Minor Hockey Council had adopted a number of the report's recommendations regarding the reduction of protective gear and elimination of the body shot and body checking in the younger age groups. He also noted that many communities are already implementing recommendations at the local level.

Looking ahead, MacKinnon stated he would like to hold a joint meeting of the advisory committee and the NBAHA Executive some time toward the end of the month. He is also anxious to assist Turmel in "getting settled" in his new position and meeting people throughout the province.

Ladies Curling

By JOYCE CONLEY

The October meeting of Bathurst Ladies Curling Club was held on the 6th with the president Mrs. David Mason in the chair.

A lady-other for the ladies morning curling has been engaged. Final arrangements will be made for the baby-sitting service, once the official season begins, it was also noted.

The prize presentation will be presented with commemorative pins at a formal occasion in November. At the same time, prizes of the lady greenkeeper will be placed in the ladies' lounge.

Special curling events were discussed including the Tony Insalf Mixed Bonspiel to be held Oct. 23 - 24; the Gene Reid Memorial Trophy Spiel on Nov. 6 - 7; social mixed curling for club members on Saturday evenings; and competitive mixed curling scheduled for Wednesday evenings.

It was noted the non-holding Dominion Store cash sales slips for our area stores is beginning to pick up momentum. Members and friends are asked to support the grocery chain as the loss to the club means "less support at supplemental".

All members of the ladies' club are invited to attend meetings which are scheduled for the second Tuesday of each month.

Open House week is from Oct. 18-22 inclusive. Those interested in curling are invited to the club to try throwing a stone.

Membership applications are available at the club room. For further information, please call Elvira Kennah, phone 548-8181 or Marion Kemp, 548-3185.

CARD OF THANKS

VIENNEAU — The family of the late Danny Vienneau wishes to thank Elhatton's Funeral Home, Rev. J. Roche, members of Our Lady of the Rosary Choir, and all who sent mass cards and messages of sympathy and showed so many kindness. They will always be remembered.

FURLONG — The family of the late Eugene Furlong of Bathurst would like to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to all those, relatives, neighbors and friends, especially Brunswick Mines (co-workers), Royal Canadian Legion, Chaleur Credit Union and North Shore Regimental Assoc. for all their kind assistance, floral tributes, religious offerings, donations to the Heart Fund, Drs. Eddie, Dugas and staff at the Chaleur General Hospital during our recent loss and bereavement.

Wife and Three Sons

HUBLEY — Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Hubley and John Hubley are deeply appreciative of the kindnesses extended following the death of their aunt, Mrs. George Gilbert. They also wish to sincerely thank Rev. D. Coddling, Mrs. Kenneth Jenks, Mrs. E. R. Shirley, Mrs. Eldon Payne and members of St. Luke's Presbyterian Church.

IN MEMORIAM

BRYAR — In loving memory of Jeremy Bryar, who passed away October 10, 1966.

"The life we shared together,
Filled with memories we hold dear.
The love and happiness we knew
Will always keep you near."

A Friend

CLOUSTON — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Willard G. O. Clouston, who passed away October 6, 1953.

"The things we felt so deeply,
Are the hardest things to say;
But we, your family loved you,
In a very special Way.

They say memories are golden,
While that may be true,
But we never wanted memories,
We only wanted you.

If tears could build a stairway,
And heartaches make a lane.
We'd walk a path to Heaven
And bring you home again.

Our family chain is broken,

IN MEMORIAM

And nothing is the same,
But God calls us one by one,
The chain will link again."

Always remembered by Minnie and Carl.

L'OUVRE-BOITE A BATHURST

La Société Culturelle Népisiguit vous invite à voir cette pièce humoristique de Victor Lanoux. La critique est unanime, il y a longtemps qu'on a vu d'aussi con coeur au théâtre.

La pièce est à la fois drame et farce, baignée de tant d'humour, d'humain et d'incroyable que l'on reste bouche bée. C'est le 17 octobre à 20 h. à l'auditorium de l'Ecole Secondaire Népisiguit.

Deux hommes, un intellectuel snob et un ouvrier plus que naif et ignorant au possible, Jean et Jacques on trouvé refuge dans un sous sol de métro. Ils sont forcés d'y vivre pour un temps indéterminé car la terre est rasée par un cataclysme général.

Leurs réserves de nourritures sont minces. L'intellectuel en profitera, par des discussions savantes, mais toujours en n'ayant l'air de rien, pour s'approprier la maigre ouverture qu'ils ont apportée dans l'abri.

Cynique, odieux, agaçant et l'autre pauvre, naif et sans défense, n'y comprend rien. Ils sont ces deux personnages opposés qui font le comique de cette pièce. On dit qu'Yvon Deschamps fournit incontestablement la plus magistrale performance de sa carrière et que Jean-Louis Roux est tout à fait superbe.

Vous ne devez pas manquer ce spectacle que l'on qualifie de meilleure production théâtrale qu'il vous aura été donné de voir depuis longtemps.

PC Annual Sessions Set For Fredericton

Progressive Conservatives from all parts of New Brunswick will be in Fredericton in mid-October to attend annual meetings of the New Brunswick P.C. Association as well as the party's Women's Association and Youth Federation.

Premier Richard Hatfield and Opposition Leader Joe Clark are the featured speakers at the senior association's general business sessions, which will begin at 1:30 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 16 at the Student Union Building, UNB Campus.

The annual meeting of the Women's Association is being held at the Lord Beaverbrook Hotel at Fredericton, Oct. 15.

The business session will begin at 9:30 a.m., with the president, Mrs. Frances Wishart of Woodstock, in the chair. An informal luncheon, with Premier Hatfield in attendance, will be held at noon. The afternoon session will feature Brenda Robertson, MLA Riverview, as the guest speaker, and an election of officers.

On Friday evening, the Women's Association and Youth Federation are jointly sponsoring a Casino-Dance Social Evening at the Msgr. Boyd Family Centre on Regent Street. All delegates to the three meetings are invited to attend.

On Saturday morning, Oct. 16, from 9 to 10 a.m., the Youth Federation will meet at Carleton Hall, UNB for nomination speeches.

The annual of the provincial association, which is being held in the ballroom of the Student Union Building, will open at 9 a.m. Saturday. The president, Aubrey Browne of Dalhousie, will be in the chair.

At that time, it is proposed that revisions to the constitution, which have been prepared by a committee headed by Harry Scott of Fredericton, be considered.

The general business session will begin at 1:30 p.m., and Premier Hatfield and Mr. Clark will speak. Other items of business include the election of officers and presentation of resolutions.

On Sunday, the Youth Federation will meet at 10 a.m. at Tilley Hall, UNB. President Cynthia Urquhart of Fredericton, will present her report and matters of policy will be considered, along with amendments to the PCYF constitution.

Oil Industry Denies Charges

Charges that the petroleum industry deliberately misled the Canadian public about potential reserves are unfounded, says the latest issue of Imperial Oil Review. Titled "The Facts on Oil and Gas Reserves," the article says that the oil industry, in hindsight, was "unduly optimistic" about the rate at which new supplies of oil and natural gas would be brought to market from Canada's frontier exploration areas.

Also, although caution was expressed by industry officials during the 1960s, it is now apparent there was a lack of distinction between proven and potential reserves.

The industry might been well advised a few years ago to have placed greater public emphasis on the highly speculative nature of some of the country's oil and natural gas reserves, the article continues.

The almost dramatic change from Canada being self sufficient in crude oil to a net importer has recently become apparent. And prospects of regaining self sufficiency during the next decade are decidedly slim, the article says.

The extensive exploration activities in frontier areas has not yielded a commercially producible supply of oil, although natural gas has been found in promising quantities.

But that isn't the only reason why the energy picture is clouded at present. Estimates of the country's oil reserves were reduced recently; the more conservative estimate of less than 10 billion barrels of oil reserves excluding some deepwater regions and the Alberta oil sands has come as a result of more sophisticated methods of assessment, more up-to-date drilling information and re-evaluation of continental slopes and rises off the country's coastlines. However, this doesn't mean frontier oil and gas won't flow south to the country's more populated centres sometime in the future. The frontier areas hold good potential for future energy supplies and the industry is deeply committed to continuing its extensive and exploration programs for oil and natural gas.

HOLY FAMILY CHURCH BASEMENT
Sponsored by Bathurst Kinette Club Proceeds to Community Service Work.

Presbytery Opposes Day Of Protest

The Miramichi Presbytery of the United Church of Canada has declared its opposition to the December 14th Day of Protest programme by the Canadian Labour Congress.

In a motion passed at its regular meeting in Campbellton, the Presbytery called the Day of Protest "self-serving and limited in vision." The Church Court said it opposed the protest as not being "in the best interest of the people, the nation or the economy."

The Presbytery called on the Governments of Canada, Quebec and New Brunswick to "enforce the law as they are charged to do" because "to do otherwise would be an equally self-serving."

The motion of Presbytery also expressed its support for the action of Dr. Carlyle MacDonald, secretary, Department of Church in Society, the United Church of Canada in Toronto, in his letter to Joe Morris, President of the Canadian Labour Congress.

Dr. MacDonald, in that letter, said he would refuse to take part in the Day of Protest and he cited a number of reasons.

He said that although the United Church was officially on record as supporting "the collective bargaining process" as "the best way to guarantee the rights of the workers," the presbytery believed that there was "first among a bargain was you signed and a contract agreed to, then both sides were duty bound to respect that contract."

Dr. MacDonald regarded the "call" to workers "to abrogate such an agreement even for one day, to make a demonstration against the A.I.B. legislation" as being "ill advised, possibly illegal and substantially unmoral."

The fact "that you (CLC) consider the legislation itself to be ill advised and immoral does not alter the fact", he said.

"The glove is under your prying eye at the bailiff has it in 1976, as the glove for those who think controls are the lesser of two evils to lend their support is at the same place in 1976."

In the meantime, he said "any protest you or I or anyone else wants to make within terms which do not abrogate basic agreements can contracts is perfectly in order and should be pursued by those who have such convictions."

He said he was "as concerned as anyone when corporations make exorbitant profits and labourers are underpaid, when governments that ask the public to practise restraints spend hundreds of thousands of dollars on office furniture and headquarters."

But, he went on, "I am equally concerned about those thousands of people who don't have the protection of a labour union, who carry very little clout with politicians, who are largely ignored by big business and have given up on the church."

He said he would "like to join with you and your colleagues in some positive programme for the good of all Canadians and to which we can give ourselves in clear conscience. I am prepared to sacrifice much more than a day's pay towards this but not in terms of withdrawal of services which I am committed to render."

Dr. MacDonald would welcome "the day, if it should arrive, when devoid of parochial vested interests the Government, Labour, Business, the Church, and any other community group interested could get together not just to discuss but to come up with some positive proposals about things that could be done to enhance the well being of all our citizens on this basis."

Miramichi Presbytery includes all the United Churches in Northumberland, Gloucester and Restigouche counties in New Brunswick and the United Churches on the Gaspé shore from Matapedia to Gaspé in Quebec.

ROAD & TRACK

"The winner, and not by a hare (sorry, couldn't resist). This car does it all: it's small, light, roomy and fast, with nimble and responsive steering, ride and handling. A modern and sophisticated car with a handsome Guigiaro-designed hatchback body. The Rabbit offers one of the most space-saving mechanical layouts we've seen yet: front-wheel drive, transverse engine and a unique, independent rear suspension featuring an integral anti-roll bar and using so little space it's remarkable. The Rabbit has a solid feel and an ultramodern look to it.
Best of all it is almost sinfully enjoyable to drive."

For and about Teenagers

BY PATRICK EDWARD

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: I'm a 16 year old girl in my third year of high school and I have a problem. During the school year I meet lots of guys who like me and ask if they may come and see me — which I think is great. But here's my problem. After they find out who my father is and how particular he is, they hardly ever come back to see me. I like to pack my gigs, but what should I do?

OUR REPLY: Communicate with your father about the situation. He loves you and you love him. He's doing what he thinks is best regarding raising his daughter. His regulations may not coincide with what you want to do, but you have to accept his rules for now. That's the way things are. Eventually, he'll recognize that you're able to accept more responsibility. If he doesn't, well, how long are you going to be living at home anyway? Just make certain he's clear on how you think his policies are affecting your friendships. Share your true feelings on the matter, and gave him the opportunity to explain why he's so particular. From a better understanding of each other's point of view, you can probably work things out.

YOUR WEEK AHEAD By DAMIS

Forecast Period: October 17 to October 23

GEMINI May 21-June 20 — You will be quite energetic in your work. Take care around machinery or chemicals.

MOONCHILD June 21-July 22 — Emotional excitement is high. Avoid quarrels or confrontations as they will surely give you a bad case of indigestion.

VIRGO Aug. 23-Sept. 22 — Much coming and going this week. Watch the speedometer as those patrol cars have you in sight.

SCORPIO Oct. 23-Nov. 21 — Energy is high. Steer it in the right direction. Projects requiring physical exertion might bring a feeling of healthful well-being.

SAGITTARIUS Nov. 22-Dec. 21 — The New Moon in your Eleventh House brings interaction with groups and organizations, probably in the home.

CAPRICORN Dec. 22-Jan. 19 — Friends will encourage you to assume a leadership role in some manner. Be wary where risky or dangerous enterprises are involved.

AQUARIUS Jan. 20-Feb. 18 — An urge to further career ambitions pays off. Outlooks are favourable for initiating new career activities.

Missionaries Appeal For Aid

The Diocese of Churchill-Hudson Bay, the world's most northern diocese, is composed of 16 Eskimo missions scattered in the Arctic. For over 50 years, the missionaries of that remote diocese have devoted their entire lives for the welfare of the Eskimos living in North America's extreme North, constantly struggling against the cruel elements of that "unforgiven land." Their mission field covers some 900,000 square miles; it even extends to the North Pole.

It is also a constant financial struggle for those 46 missionaries and Eskimo catechists, who have no source of funds whatsoever in such remote regions of poverty and deprivation. To add to their existing lack of funds, their most remote Eskimo mission at Pelly Bay was recently destroyed by fire. As it is impossible to reach this mission by either land or sea, the only way to transport building material is by air. One can imagine the expense.

Through the years, donations from benefactors have been the only source of funds for these missionaries. Without such precious support, their task would have been a most difficult one.

As they frankly have nowhere to go but South to solicit a helping hand, they ask that we consider the possibility of extending our charity to their corner of the world. All donations, which are tax-deductible, will be gratefully received and personally acknowledged by Bishop Omer A. Robichaud, Eskimo Missions, P.O. Box 130, St. Norbert, Manitoba, Canada, R3Y 1L4.

VON Appeal Is Oct. 21

The Bathurst Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses will hold its annual financial campaign in the city on Thursday evening, October 21.

At this time, volunteer canvassers will call on residents of the area for funds to assist the V.O.N. in carrying on its work in the community. A special appeal will also be made to companies, social and religious associations, professionals and businessmen in order to reach the $5,000 objective.

The campaign is scheduled for 6 - 8 p.m.

From September 1, 1975 to August 31, 1976, the local nurses of the Victorian Order have visited 3,218 patients in the home, immunized 694 children and inspected 3,702 students at school.

Of the 3,218 home visits, only 498 were paid in full. A total of 804 were partially paid, and 1,916 were not paid at all. A great number of poorer families in the City of Bathurst would be adversely affected if this service were discontinued due to lack of funds.

Donations can be sent to the Victorian Order of Nurses, Bathurst Branch, Postal Drawer "S", Bathurst, N.B. An official receipt will be forwarded for tax purposes.

La V.O.N., section de Bathurst, fera sa campagne financière le jeudi soir 21 octobre 1976. Cette campagne se fera de porte à porte entre 18h00 à 20h00 (6h00 p.m. à 8h00 p.m.)

En plus de cette campagne de porte à porte, le Comité de la campagne financière compte sur la générosité des Associations sociales et religieuses, des professionnels, des hommes d'affaire et des compagnies pour atteindre l'objectif de $5,000.00 qu'ils s'est fixé et qui servira à la V.O.N. de Bathurst pour poursuivre son travail dans la cité.

Du 1er septembre 1975 au 31 août 1976, les infirmières de la V.O.N. ont visité 3,218 patients à domicile, immunisé 694 enfants et visité 3,702 élèves dans les écoles.

De ces 3,218 visites à domicile, seulement 498 on été payées en entier, 804 partiellement et aucune rémunération n'a été perçue pour les 1,916 autres. Si ces services étaient discontinués, faute d'argent, plusieurs personnes indigentes en seraient sérieusement affectées.

S'il vous plaît, faites parvenir votre don à l'adresse suivante: Victorian Order of Nurses, Bathurst Branch Inc., Case postale "S", Bathurst, N.B.

The evening's agenda also includes the presentation of a $750 scholarship from the CIM. The recipient is Michael A. LeBerge, a resident of Newcastle, N.B. and a geology student at Dalhousie University.

Expert Tours U.S. Facility

Fisheries minister Omer Leger said Oct. 5 F. Bryan Gabriel, a food technologist with the department, is touring the crustacean shell processing facility operated by the Hygen Corporation at Seattle, Washington.

Objective of the visit is to study the technical implications of such facility and to look at the feasibility of establishing a similar operation in New Brunswick.

The minister noted that less than 25 per cent of the live weight of lobster or crab actually is consumed, leaving approximately 75 per cent as waste. End products of shell fish wastes could eventually serve as protein or be used in flocculation.

At present there are only three companies, two Japanese and one American, operating shell fish waste processing plants in the world.

If study results are positive, Mr. Leger said, the possibility exists for the establishment of a new industry advantageous to fishermen in the province.

Eight to nine million pounds of shell fish wastes presently are discarded in the province annually.

Two New Optometrists To Practice In County

Support for the establishment of quality control standards in Canada for optometrical supplies was given by the New Brunswick Optometrical Society (NBOS) during their annual two-day meeting recently conducted in the Wandlyn Motor Inn meeting rooms, Fredericton. The sessions were chaired by Dr. Raymond Corbin, Edmundston, retiring president.

Dr. Carson Lecker, Sydney, national president of the Canadian Association of Optometrists (CAO) said mass-produced frames of questionable quality are causing problems for optometrists and consumers across Canada. He said poor quality in lenses is easier to detect than in frames. Control standards should be in effect in Canada within a year's time, since the CAO and the federal government are currently conducting a study on the lack of manufacturing control standards.

The NBOS announced it will support a proposal for the establishment of an optometrical school in western Canada, to meet the increasing needs for more optometrists to service the consumer requirements for effective vision care. There are presently only two schools in Canada, located at the University of Montreal, and the University of Waterloo, both in eastern Canada.

Guidelines set down by the Anti-Inflation Board were also accepted during the session, which attracted a record forty members of the forty-five membership society.

The meeting also marked the first time in the 56 year history of the society that a national president addressed the provincial society. Dr. Lecker complimented the NBOS on attracting several new members, who have displayed effective progressive new ideas and approaches to enhance the professional ethics of the NBOS as it provides vision health care to the consumers of the province.

Dr. Lecker also praised the in-put by Dr. Herve Landry, Moncton, CAO representative for the past two years, "and he is well regarded by all of us on the national level", and he thanked the NBOS for returning him for another term.

Annual reports were considered from Dr. Corbin, Dr. Harding, Dr. Landry, and Norman E. MacKendrick, M.C.I., information services director.

Dr. William M. Prince, Newcastle, past provincial president, presented the nomination report which was considered during the meeting. Dr. Corbin was elected as past president, Dr. Ronald J. Harding, Fredericton, president, Dr. Leonide J. Ouellette, Dalhousie 1st vice-president, Dr. Robert H. Bell, Moncton, 2nd vice-president, Dr. Henri Gionson, Fredericton, 3rd vice-president, Dr. Wayne L. Lenehan, secretary-treasurer, and Dr. Landry, Moncton, CAO delegate for his third term.

Two new members received their licenses to practice in Gloucester County. They are Dr. Jeannot Cormier, Tracadie, and Dr. Rene Ginnet, Caraquet.

Dr. Lecker also in his address stressed the need for more optometrists to better serve the needs of the consumer in the field of vision health care.

Life In A Nursing Home

(Sixth instalment)

By Mrs. Hammond Johnson

The dedication of the New Wing took place on September 6, 1976 and as it was a very bright day the ceremony took place out of doors. The Moderator of the United Church of Canada, Right Rev. Dr. Bruce McLeod was present for the ceremony. Mrs. Sharpe, who has been one of the early residents of Pinecrest House, placed the plaque on the New Wing. Mrs. George Gray, a lifelong friend of Miss Marion Murray, placed the plaque on the Marion Murray Cottage in memory of her.

A very large dedication cake was on the table nearby, and afterward the large number of friends and visitors were served a cup of tea and a piece of cake.

During the year 1974 the Lodge was demolished. The board advertised the Pinecrest House, with the idea some organization might use, only suggesting light and heat, but the offer was not taken advantage of, so it was a fine hostel it, too, had to be taken down.

Those who had spent some pleasant years there were rather sad to see it go, but the greatest was levelled and the large corner lot made ready if the board decided to build cottages there.

To a great many, the highlight of that year was that one guest reached the century mark. She was Miss Nellie Clapp, who had been in the Home almost since the Doon opened and her birthday was the day before Christmas. Much activity had made preparations for a reception for Miss Clapp's friends to come and offer congratulations. I don't know whether they realized her ... Mayor Shapton, Reeves of the Doon ... along with congratulations, Miss Clapp was worthy of all the good wishes and congratulations she received. She was always so grateful for anything that was done for her, and I have been told by nurses who had known her for years that she had never been known to say an unkind thing about any person.

She had a great sense of humor. I was at the nurses' table in the dining room for quite a long time, and when everything was quiet sometimes she would say, in her quiet voice but with a twinkle in her eye, "This is a very solemn occasion," and of course that brought a smile to everyone.

For her reception Miss Clapp was wearing a long cherry-colored silk dress and silver slippers, with a pretty corsage, and she looked as regal ever in a wheelchair, but one could see her as a queen accepting the homage of her subjects. She had the honor of a letter from Queen Elizabeth, and congratulations from the Prime Minister, the Premier and others.

Dr. Godfrey, a long time friend, made the congratulatory address on behalf of her old friends and those who called, and the visitors and staff were served a cup of tea and a piece of the birthday cake.

All through the years there were changes in the Home. A bed was vacant for a very short time, as always someone from the long waiting list was ready to come in.

Of course, in a Nursing Home one expects there will be sad occasions, and so there were here, but no one went around with a long face, and each one did what she could to help us count our blessings.

I always needed help to get dressed, and after I had done what I could for myself, a nurse came to help when I needed her. One day when I rang the buzzer I got a shock when I heard a voice saying, "I have a birth on the throne but I will come to you as soon as I get her off." That nurse has never lived that down, but I was interested to know the Home was up to date in its inter-com system and that a guest was given her title, no matter what position she was in.

The buzzer system is very effective, especially when a nurse is occupied, but it is quite a catastrophy on occasions when

MR. AND MRS. LEO T. DOUCET

Golden Wedding Day Is Observed

Fiftieth wedding anniversary celebrations were held for Mr. and Mrs. Leo T. Doucet, popular residents of Basin St., on Oct. 1 when their five children, 15 grandchildren and four great grandchildren were present.

The occasion began with a special anniversary mass at St. Therese Church at 2 p.m. The celebrant was Rev. Yvon Boudreau who was assisted by Kevin Doucet, a grandson of the couple, as altar boy. Two vases of long-stemmed roses from a granddaughter, Bonnie Doucet, decorated the altar. Pontus Hachey, husband of a granddaughter, Carmel, read the epistle. Mr. Hachey was also master of ceremonies for the occasion.

During the service, Mr. and Mrs. Doucet's wedding bands and Mrs. Doucet's family ring were blessed by Father Boudreau. These rings had been given them by the family on an earlier occasion.

The corsage worn by Mrs. Doucet and the boutonniere for Mr. Doucet were presented by Miss Gail Gauvin, a grandaughter.

Following the mass a reception and buffet dinner took place at the residence of the honored couple. Present besides the family were a number of their long-time friends along with the bride's sister, Mrs. Margaret Heath, Pokemouche.

Many congratulatory messages were received, among them a Papal Blessing from Pope Paul VI, congratulatory cards from Prime Minister P. E. Trudeau, N.B. Premier Richard Hatfield, M.P. M.P. Herb Breau, M.L.A. Frank Branch, and a painted plate of [illegible] Doucet's sister, Mrs. Loretta Melanson, Detroit, Mich. and from Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kane, Fredericton.

Among the gifts were a tray from the family engraved with the names of the five children, a sewing box, china, glassware and other souvenirs of the occasion.

A three-tier cake decorated in the anniversary theme centred the serving table. Flanking it were tall golden tapers in crystal holders and arrangements of flowers.

Leo Doucet, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Doucet, Bathurst, and Mary Robichaud, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Xail Robichaud of Pokemouche, were married at Sacred Heart Cathedral on Oct. 3, 1926 by the late Msgr. John Wheeler. Their attendants were the bride's sister, Mrs. Annie Doucet (Doucet-Winter), and Bill Barnaby, both now deceased.

Mr. and Mrs. Doucet have one son and four daughters, all of whom reside in Bathurst. They are: Thomas, Mrs. Wilfred Gould (Effie), Mrs. Wesley Walter Jones, Mrs. Lloyd Thibodeau (Shirley) and Mrs. Ronald Gaynor (Bertha).

The Doucets both enjoy good health. A Consolidated-Bathurst Limited employee for 25 years, Mr. Doucet retired 15 years ago. He devotes much time to his garden in summer and keeps the family supplied with fresh vegetables.

Mrs. Doucet is a member of the Catholic Women's League and a message of congratulations was received from the group. She likes knitting and makes many articles for her grandchildren.

Among members of the family present for celebrations were Mr. and Mrs. Fenton Hachey and children Keith and Monica, Gwenette, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Driscoll and sons Dean and Kevin, Newcastle; Pte. Kevin Doucet, CFB Chatham; and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Heath, Pokemouche.

Plan Activities For Meetings

The monthly meeting of Holy Rosary Catholic CWL was held Oct. 7, commencing with a mass. Council director Rev. J. W. Bache was the celebrant.

Following mass, the meeting opened with a prayer, Bible reading and a decade of the Rosary. President Natalie DeGrace welcomed a new member.

The minutes read by secretary, Jean Boylan, were adopted. Correspondence followed and the financial report presented by the treasurer, Joan Walsh.

Mrs. DeGrace gave a report on the national convention held at Fredericton during August. She mentioned it had been an interesting and worthwhile experience, and that the convention theme, "Live The Mystery of Christ With Mary, His Mother", had been very well presented.

In his remarks, Father Bache said he was pleased that the Rosary again was becoming part of the church and family. He also mentioned it was the feast day of Our Lady of the Holy Rosary.

Convenors' reports were heard and two convenorships were switched. Joyce Thibodeau taking over communications and Ann Leger accepting church life.

The Sept. 29 fashion show was discussed and comments, both of praise and criticism, were offered and noted for the future. The project was pronounced a success.

Plans for activities at future meetings were started, including something special for December. Other business included catechetics, Guides, the new choir and senior citizens.

The meeting adjourned with a prayer for priests, after which lunch was served by Jean Boylan and Joyce Thibodeau during the social hour.

Little Helpers Entertained

A happy party for the children of St. George's parish was held Oct. 8 under the sponsorship of the A.C.W. groups of the church.

Arrangements were under the direction of Mrs. Byron Daley and about 25 Little Helpers participated in a worship service conducted by Archdeacon R. H. Murphy. The offering from the youngsters was presented for children in other lands.

Highlight of the afternoon event was a colorful and delicious lunch served by the ACW.

On leaving, each child was given a bag of treats.

The World's Biggest Honda Civic.

Perhaps you've gotten a lift in a Honda Civic and marvelled at the use of space. Well, imagine the same idea and make it bigger.

It's the new Honda Civic stationwagon, featuring all the usual Honda/Civic attributes. Good handling, excellent economy, amazing gas efficiency, fun-to-drive front-wheel drive. Precision steering that turns and parks through your shopping thanks to power assist from the brakes. Smooth ride owing to MacPherson strut front suspension. Front-seat passengers space resulting from sideways mounting of the engine.

A Honda Civic it is, and bigger. The stationwagon's engine is bored at 1500 cc's, to give you the same pep under a heavier load. The wheelbase is stretched a little too, to 93.8 inches. Which also gives rear seat passengers room to stretch their legs a little more.

With the rear seat folded down, there's 53 cubic feet of perfectly flat carrying space. A total of two cubic feet, all made accessible through five doors.

Why haul bags? Why park bags? Why pay bags?

Honda Civic Stationwagon. The Automobile Re-thought.

Support Given By Local IODE

The October meeting of Nicolas Denys Chapter I.O.D.E. was held at the home of Mrs. Donald Blair on Oct. 5. The regent, Mrs. Gerald Milton presided, and 23 members were present.

The meeting opened in the usual manner: repetition of the IODE prayer and salutation of the flags.

Miss Edna Ellis, secretary, read the minutes of the September meeting and the Provincial Echoes. Treasurer Mrs. Pete Peterson gave her monthly report which was accepted.

Miss Jean McKie, citizenship convener, reported in regard to the flag and Queen's picutre for Chaleur Villa. She also read the speech given by Queen Elizabeth II at the banquet in Montreal during the Olympic Games.

Services secretary, Mrs. Frank Elhatton, reported a box of knitted articles which included sweaters, caps mitts, socks, etc., had been delivered to IODE works room in Saint John. She also reported that knitted articles, etc., were being received for the Nov. 26 annual Christmas sale, the local of which will be announced at a later date.

It was reported by Mrs. Clarence Gammon, Clark House convener, that 32 bottles of jams, pickles, etc., had been brought in at the meeting by members, that a donation of $50 will be sent to Clark House; and that IODE In Memoriam Cards are available at Elhatton's Funeral Home.

A letter from the local CNIB requested assistance in the supplying and serving of lunch at a monthly meeting of the branch. It was decided to assist in this project.

It was learned the semi-annual meeting will be held at Oromocto Oct. 19 - 20 and members were urged to attend. The annual IODE curling bonspiel will take place Nov. 25 at Sackville.

Magazines and pocket novels were taken in Chaleur General Hospital by several members.

Tickets on a ceramic Christmas tree will be available in the near future.

The mystery box, donated by Mrs. E. V. Ellis was won by Mrs. Robert Sullivan.

The meeting closed with members singing God Save The Queen after which lunch was served by the committee of the month: Mrs. D. Blair, Mrs. Clarence Gammon and Mrs. Anthony Van de Pluijm.

Plans For Fall Are Discussed

The first regular meeting of the R.E.O. branch, Anglican Church Women of St. George's Church, followed the summer break, took place at the REO Centre Sept. 22 with 11 members present.

President Mrs. R. Brown opened the meeting with the members' prayer and the vice-president read an appropriate passage from the Scriptures.

After roll call and reading of minutes by Mrs. Cletus Doucet, the financial report was given by Mrs. E. Carroll.

The main item of old business was planning for the visit of Mrs. Owen Smith, Diocesan president to Bathurst on Oct. 6. It was also decided to hold a rummage sale early in the afternoon of Nov. 6.

The date for the Little Helpers' party was set for Sept. 15, with Mrs. Byron Daley as chairman, assisted by Mrs. Robert Hills and Mrs. Doug Baker.

The president read a letter of thanks from the Diocesan United Thank Offering chairman. Discussion followed on the meeting of the ACW of Fredericton Diocese.

The final topic of business before adjournment involved plans for some of the members to clean the REO Centre.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. C. Doucet and Mrs. Wally Armstrong.

RETURN FROM HOLIDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Aube have returned from a one-week visit in Montreal with their son, Mr. Peter Aube, and the following week which they spent with Mrs. Aube's sister, Miss Gwen Doucet, Ottawa.

Council Hears Guest Speaker

The Oct. 5 monthly meeting of Holy Family Council Catholic Women's League opened with a mass for which the director, Rev. Noel Cormier was the celebrant. Fourteen members attended.

The meeting was chaired by Mrs. Estelle Gomet, vice-president in the absence of the president, Mrs. Florence Hussey, due to illness.

Routine business included the reading of minutes which were adopted and correspondence. The treasurer's report revealed a substantial balance on hand, and that the card party was a success.

It was agreed to hold card parties to be held on a monthly basis on a date to be announced. Folowing discussion, it was decided to order flowers for Mother's Day from the Flowers of Hope Adult Shop.

Members will help serve lunch after confirmation of adults on Oct. 19 at Holy Family Church at 7:30 p.m.

Father Cormier gave an interesting talk on the 750th anniversary of St. Francis D'Assise.

A guest speaker at the meeting was Larry McEwen, Saint John, who was on tour of the area concerning the Canadian Heart Foundation. Mr. McLeod showed films and gave the commentary. Assisting him was the other guest, Mrs. Helen Roy, on the nursing staff of Chaleur General Hospital.

Mrs. Gomet thanked the speakers on behalf of the council.

The meeting adjourned on motion of Mrs. Lucy Jarratt.

MOOSE CONTEST HAS LARGE ENTRY LIST

The third annual "Moose Contest" (Concours de ramaches d'originale) was held Oct. 2 at the Green Point Community Centre with well over 300 persons attending.

The contest, sponsored by the Green Point Fire Brigade is the only such event of its kind in New Brunswick.

Moose hunters must register before the hunt in order to qualify for the grand prize of $500. This year's winner was Rose Aimee Gastonguay of Kedgwick who registered the largest set of antlers measuring 54". She also received a keeper trophy.

Others in the winning row were Amede Comeau, Beresford, who received a trophy and a 32 Winchester Special for bagging the biggest cow, 850 lbs., in the smallest buck and cow category, Nazaire Gionet, Val Doucet, shot a 725-lb. buck and Gerald White, Bathurst, a 600-lb. cow. Each was awarded a trophy, knife and compass. Emilien Lagacé, Green Point, received a 20-gauge shot-gun and trophy for having entered the nicest set of antlers.

A spokesman for the Fire Brigade stated that "a total of 129 persons registered in this year's contest compared to 68 in 1975. If the event continues on an incline, the prize may be increased to $1,000 within the next two years."

Donors of prizes were Ted's Gun Shop, Fernand Boudreau Grocery, and Rev. Roland G. Boudreau, who donated the Annual Championship Trophy.

Plan Better Use Of School Energy

Education Minister Gerald S. Merrithew announced October 7 that a design guide has been issued to ensure more efficient use of energy in new schools.

The guidelines, which will be issued to all architects and school construction consultants, are considered to be part one of design criteria to be employed in the construction of school buildings.

The guidelines establish limitations for heating, lighting and ventilation systems and will be included with all specifications for new school construction in the province. For example, it is estimated that new schools presently consume about 30 kilowatt hours of energy per square foot per year. The objective of the new design guide will be to cut this consumption in half.

Mr. Merrithew said that a study is currently underway on older buildings to determine the cost-benefit to school districts if major changes are made to existing heating and ventilation systems.

Areas where savings can be made include control of the heat transmission rates, and usage of automatic shut-off and set back systems during unoccupied periods.

The guidelines are part of the government's overall program to conserve energy in public buildings, the minister stated.

Like Pepsi, Joe Walsh — A Younger Generation Bathurst Businessman

The recent move from Miramichi Ave. and the construction of a business office, warehouse and distribution centre in Bathurst's Industrial Park, marks a milestone in the history of Cassidy's Soft Drinks Limited. The firm's establishment there is also a welcome addition to this growing commercial complex in the city's east end.

An offshoot of Cassidy's Beverages Ltd., a pioneer in the carbonated drinks field in the Miramichi area, the local firm launched operations in this hub of the North Shore September 4, 1972.

Its advent here coincided with acquisition of the Pepsi-Cola franchise and equipment from Bosca and Buraglia Ltd. At the time, Cassidy's were already producing Seven Up, Orange Crush and the several Canada Dry brands.

Joe Walsh, Jr., Cassidy's manager in Bathurst, grew up in the trade, was associated with and succeeded his late father in the business.

Besides Chatham and Bathurst, the company, headed by Joe's mother, Mrs. Margaret Hay, of Chatham, as president, also has a warehouse in Tracadie, the overall payroll fluctuates between 30 and 40.

Besides being among the youngest members of the local business community, Joe Walsh of Cassidy's is well-known in sporting circles. He has played with the Bathurst Alpine Papermakers and the Bathurst Mooseheads baseball team and has coached the Bathurst High School hockey team. He is also an active member of Gowan Brae Golf and Country Club

Drama Festival Dates Are Set

Theatre Canada announces the first Atlantic Regional Drama Festival, to be held in Corner Brook, Newfoundland, March 30 - April 2, 1977. This announcement by Professor Arthur Motyer, president of the New Brunswick Drama was made at a meeting of the League held in Sackville on Saturday, October 2.

The festival of full-length productions, whether in English or French, is to be non-competitive and is open to all amateur groups, including community companies, universities and schools. The best available production in New Brunswick will represent the province at this festival, where, in addition to the productions, there will be workshops in various aspects of drama, sponsored by Theatre Canada.

Transportation for the group selected will be provided by Eastern Provincial Airways to Corner Brook from the nearest New Brunswick airport, and living expenses in Corner Brook will be subsidized by Theatre Canada.

Because screening of productions must be completed by mid-January, 1977, a bilingual adjudicator will assess productions in their home locale prior to that date.

Application forms for interested groups can be obtained from Mrs. Thea Borlase, 58 Glenwood Drive, Moncton, New Brunswick. Deadline for applications is December 1, 1976.

Church Services

In The Bathurst District

Bible Digest: "And when he was come into the house, the blind men came to him: and Jesus saith unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this? They said unto him, Yea, Lord. Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it unto you. And their eyes were opened; and Jesus straitly charged them, saying, See that no man know it." Matthew 9:20-30

If we feel that the Lord is capable of performing the greatest miracles, the saving of a soul, why should we think that He can be stopped short of a lesser miracle, such as healing or deliverance?

SCULPTURED BY MOTHER NATURE

From a cursory glance this could be a modern sculpture commissioned to grace a new commercial or public building. Actually it's a potato, all 8 lbs. of it, dug last week from the vegetable garden of Lionel Doucet, a city employee, who resides at 386 O'Neil Drive.

School As Usual On Protest Day

Education Minister Gerald S. Merrithew announced October 7 that all New Brunswick schools will be open during the October 14 Day of Protest called by the Canadian Federation of Labour.

Mr. Merrithew urged all parents to ensure their children attend schools, as it is a normal school day.

The minister said he had learned from the N.B.T.A. and the A.E.F.N.B. that New Brunswick school teachers would not participate in the Day of Protest.

"The health and safety of children in the Province are of major concern to me", said Mr. Merrithew.

Mr. Merrithew requested all employees engaged in work relating to the New Brunswick school system to consider the safety and health of all New Brunswick school children before participating in the protest.

The Minister said that the government's policy relating to absence from work on October 14th will apply to all school board employees. Persons staying on the protest will not receive pay for that day nor may sick leave and vacation leave be used.

In Europe they call us "Canada Fats".

Electrician Gets Bumed

The familiar adage "a little knowledge is a dangerous thing" cropped up last week when a New Brunswick electrician was fined by a provincial court judge after he pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of power from N.B. Electric Power Commission by fraudulently abstracting electricity.

The court was told that the accused had bypassed the electrical meter by means of some wire. He then attached a metal stud to the meter box so nobody would notice it.

But apparently somebody did.

The accused told the court the power to his apartment was cut by N.B. Power two days before he received his final notice. Since he didn't have the money to pay his bill, he used his technical skill.

POLITICAL SCENE

Bow River Issue Indeed Political

By STEWARD MacLEOD
Ottawa Bureau
Thomson News Service

Before the last speck of dust settles from the Battle of Bow River I would like to take issue with Conservative Leader Joe Clark for suggesting that the press was "making a political issue of a minor matter."

With all due respect to the opinions of Mr. Clark, I would submit that when a national political leader is challenged by one of his own backbenchers who forces that leader to move to another constituency it is indeed a political issue.

And considering the fact that there is no precedent for a national leader being challenged for a nomination in Canada I am not sure this incident was all that minor either.

But it was great fun while it lasted. And Mr. Clark managed to cap it with one of the best one-liners of his career when he said, apparently in all seriousness, that he was backing away from Bow River "to dispel the party's untrue reputation of disunity."

His action may accomplish many things, but dispelling the idea of disunity is unlikely to be among them.

LEARNED LESSON

However, the 37-year-old Conservative leader has no doubt learned a valuable lesson, and I bet he will never again publicly announce he wants a particular riding until he is absolutely sure he can have it. It's embarrassing to lose a fight to a backbencher.

Stan Schumacher, the 43-year-old Drumheller lawyer who now represents the Alberta riding of Palliser, announced more than a year ago that he would be seeking the nomination in the new riding of Bow River, created by a redistribution of the province's ridings. Drumheller is in the Bow River riding.

The first mistake by Mr. Clark was when he let it be know publicly that he also wanted to run in Bow River, which includes the town of High River, where he was raised. Knowing that Mr. Schumacher was planning to run there, and knowing that Mr. Schumacher was not his biggest admirer, the leader should have kept quiet until some internal agreement was reached.

But Mr. Clark was determined to be known as "the man from High River." In a letter to a Lethbridge newspaper he said that being identified with High River was "of very real importance to our party's chances of forming the national government because of the general affinity it gives me for the smaller communities across Canada..."

And he wrote to another newspaper to say that Yellowhead would not be suitable for him. "Regrettably, it is not a practical option for a national leader to seek to represent so widespread a constituency."

Meanwhile, Mr. Schumacher was saying that "I don't care who speaks to me or what is said to me, I am running in Bow River."

POSSIBLE DEFEAT

And reports began coming out of Bow River to suggest that if there was a confrontation at a nominating convention, Mr. Schumacher would likely win.

It was a no-win situation for Mr. Clark and, having boxed himself in, he had to find the easiest way out. Half-a-dozen western MPs were preoccupied with the problem all summer as they tried various trade-offs. And at one stage, when things threatened to get out of hand, there was a distinct possibility of several angry MPs challenging each other in two additional new ridings.

So, Mr. Clark took the only open avenue and he announced to the Alberta caucus that he would run in Yellowhead, the riding he earlier said was unsuitable. And he held a press conference to tell the nation.

He tried his best to make light of the incident, suggesting it was blown out of proportion because there was little other news during the summer. "I have an interest in giving you fellows something to write about," he said, without convincing many in his audience.

No, he said, he was not embarrassed having to make this announcement, and he didn't think he had lost any face. He just though it was in the best interests of the party to avoid little internal controversies.

He could have stopped right there, because his comment about dispelling the untrue reputation of disunity added nothing to his credibility.

Ford of Canada proudly announces

THE FORD DURAGUARD SYSTEM.

Including a new, 36 month, unlimited mileage warranty against rust perforation.

THE FORD DURAGUARD SYSTEM.

Here's what it's all about.

The new DURAGUARD SYSTEM is what goes into every 1977 North American built Ford and Mercury car to give you more corrosion resistance measures than ever before.

Read how new anti-rust processes and the increased use of other measures have enabled Ford of Canada to offer an unprecedented 36 month, unlimited mileage warranty against rust perforation.

Then read the warranty. And believe.

The average use per car of precoated steel for the 1977 cars built by Ford is more than doubled over 1976.

Precoated steel is a well-recognized rust inhibiting technique. You'll find it in many key areas of our cars, providing an effective defence against the moisture and other corrosive elements with which every Canadian car must contend.

New protective vinyl coating.

For the first time, all Ford and Mercury cars will feature a newly developed vinyl coating behind the wheel house openings. Look for it. It's a special, resilient coating that goes on under the paint to reduce the effect of stone chipping and road abrasives kicked up by the tires.

It's standard equipment. And, of all North American manufacturers, only Ford of Canada has it on all models.

Every car gets vinyl sealer.

On seams between panels. Inside wheel housings. On the underbody. Strong vinyl sealer creates a plasticized barrier against rust in many important areas on each and every 1977 North American built Ford and Mercury car.

It works.

It's tough. Tough enough to help protect your car. That's why all 1977 models have a specially formulated asphalt coating on the rear wheel house areas.

You can depend on it.

Galvanized steel.

Ford and Mercury cars have this well-known rust inhibitor where it matters most. In rocker panels, critical underbody parts and other extra-vulnerable spots.

Zinc Rich Primer.

Think of Zinc Rich Primer as an undercoat of protection. It gets hand-sprayed onto key surfaces of all North American Ford and Mercury cars during assembly to assist in rust prevention with its well known protective qualities.

Aluminized wax.

Aluminized wax is a protective compound that goes into places where moisture may accumulate, such as inside the lower portions of doors and tailgates.

It goes on thick and stays on to isolate the steel from corrosive elements in the moisture.

The finishing touch.

The finish of Ford and Mercury cars plays an important part in the total corrosion control system. But it starts long before the final coat is baked on. The bare sheet metal of each car body is dipped in a phosphate bath that cleans it and leaves a treatment that enhances paint adhesion. Then the body is covered with a strong epoxy primer, either by dipping or spraying.

Three full coats of acrylic enamel are then sprayed and baked into a tough, durable, weather-resistant and glossy finish.

And there's testing. Tough testing.

The effectiveness of these rust resistance processes is determined at Ford's leading North American proving ground. Typically, the car to be tested is sprayed with a salt solution, driven through salt baths and muddy roads such as the one you see here, and placed in a heated humidity chamber for 22 hours. This grueling process is repeated 60 times to simulate prolonged exposure to the kinds of conditions we experience in Canada.

In addition, car bodies are selected at random from every North American plant, including Oakville and St. Thomas, and subjected to other rigorous salt tests.

To reflect our pride and confidence in the quality, durability and anti-corrosion measures that are built into every 1977 Ford of Canada automobile, we are proud to present this no-charge warranty. It goes along with every 1977 car we build, including taxis and police cars. And it goes to show just how good the DURAGUARD SYSTEM really is.

WARRANTY

This warranty, transferable to succeeding owners, covers the cost of both labour and materials for repair of perforation of parts caused by corrosion. The basic 12 month/12,000 mile warranty covers corrosion, other than perforations, that is due to defective factory materials or workmanship. Ask your Ford or Mercury dealer for details.

THE FORD DURAGUARD SYSTEM

See your Ford or Mercury dealer for the cars with the DURAGUARD SYSTEM.

All Ford North American built 1977 carlines receive all of these processes in the DURAGUARD SYSTEM. Every car receives a combination of anti-corrosion processes which is appropriate to its design, although not all carlines receive the same processes in corresponding areas. Every car has the DURAGUARD SYSTEM.

Quality. Reliability. Durability.
At Ford of Canada, it's a lasting commitment.

Why Leaves Turn Color In Autumn

All around us these days in the trees' annual pageant of color. As one writer expresses it, "Mother Nature, in a self-indulgent mood, is putting on one last wild fling while she prepares for winter." What causes the yearly color change in our trees' foliage?

Just before leaves fall at this time of year, they change — from green to yellow, red, purple, orange or some blending of these hues. Why does this happen? There are at least two explanations — one romantic, one scientific.

For the romantic answer we must look to Indian folklore. Therein we are told that when trees change to red, it is because celestial hunters have slain the Great Bear and his dripping blood is responsible. When trees turn yellow, it is because fat is spattering from the kettle in which the meat is being cooked.

The scientific answer is concerned with the chemistry that goes on within tree leaves. The green coloring of leaves in spring and summer is due to chlorophyll, which takes energy from sunlight and helps it into molecules of simple sugar, synthesized from soil water and atmospheric carbon dioxide. This process is known as photosynthesis.

Along with the chlorophyll in the green leaves are two other pigments. They are carotene, which is yellow, and xanthophyll, which is orange. However, these pigments are so masked by the more abundant chlorophyll that they cannot be seen.

During the long summer days as the food-making process proceeds at a rapid pace, new chlorophyll is made to replace the old. In the fall, however, because of changes in day length and temperature, the leaves stop their food-making process and the green chlorophyll gradually disappears to reveal the yellow and orange pigments.

At the same time, in some tree species, trapped sugars in the leaf cells change into water-soluble anthocyanin pigments, which are red, pink and purple. They develop best in periods of sunny days, cool nights and ample moisture.

Frost is not directly related to fall color; in fact, a hard frost in early fall may injure green leaves, causing them to wither without first achieving any bright coloration, and to persist on the trees much later than normal. Some trees, like beech and oak, are characterized by leaves that are "reluctant" to fall.

Leaves are prepared for their separation from the trees by the development of a special layer of corky cells at the point where the leaf stem is attached to the twig. This abscission layer, as it is known, seals off the movement of water and food material between the leaf and the remainder of the tree.

By the time the leaf falls, the wound is healed and a scar characteristic of the species remains. Also, a tiny bud that has developed in the angle between the leafstalk and the twig is left atop the scar to carry on growth the following year.

Because the different color changes are characteristic of certain species, the colors of fall foliage can serve as a means of tree identification in a general way.

There are, for example, the deep reds of red maple and sumac; the coppery and purple tones of the ashes; the yellows of poplar, elm and larch; and the orange and orange-reds of the sugar maple. Some of the evergreens become markedly two-tone as the older needles turn yellow or brown before being shed.

While all evergreens lose some needles each year, two native species are conspicuous at this regard by the fact that they lose a whole year's supply at one time. They are white pine and northern white cedar. Planted Scotch, Austrian and red pines exhibit this characteristic also. Thus, there's no need to be alarmed if large numbers of the innermost leaves of pines and cedar change color and fall to the ground. This is quite normal.

Fall is truly a wonderful time of the year, albeit a harbinger of the cold and dreary winter days ahead. Let us appreciate its multi-faceted beauty and the important contribution our trees make to it.

Maritimes Promoted At IOOF Convention

By MRS. FLORENCE ROSS

My recent visit to Denver, Colorado, was thrilling in many ways beginning with a reunion with many old friends at the Halifax International Airport and being presented with a ribbon emblazoned with the I.O.O.F. crest and the words "Maritime Provinces of Canada." We wore these identification pieces throughout the entire trip and convention.

Forty-two of us travelled together and when we arrived in Chicago at O'Hare International Airport (which is the busiest airport in the universe and nicknamed "The Air Capital of the World" We were held for five and a half hours due to a strike of T.W.A. We received every courtesy from the airport including free meals, while we had to wait for another flight.

When we arrived in Denver the Sovereign Grand Lodge Committee had a bus there to take us directly to the Denver Hilton Hotel where we all stayed. All the sessions of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, the International Association of Rebekah Assemblies, and the International Association of Ladies Auxiliary Patriarchs Militant (all branches of the I.O.O.F.) were held at the Hilton, while the Sovereign Grand Encampment and the General Military Council were held at the Holiday Inn.

The theme for the session was "Spirit of 76" and all the ladies from Colorado were dressed in authentic 1776 costumes - those who worked on committees and performed other official functions.

The biggest thrill came on Sunday night in the Denver Civic Auditorium at the official opening when all Maritimers (fifty-six of us) were escorted into an auditorium, (seating thousands of people) in a body and given a standing ovation along with the Honorable J. Douglas Moore, Sovereign Grand Master and to see the four flags of the Maritime Jurisdiction being brought in and placed by Junior Odd Fellows from the Jurisdiction of Colorado.

The Maritimers have just cause to be very, very proud of Jerry Sovereign Grand Master who is the first Maritimer to hold this position, also the youngest Sovereign Grand Master. His accomplishes in every way the finest example of Oddfellowship. He and his charming wife Muriel and their two sons David and Jeff have made people all over the world aware of our part of the world in such a charming and delightful manner.

I had the privilege of attending the opening session of the International Association of Rebekah Assemblies which was presided over by Muriel and Lou Wallace from Louisiana. Here again the Order was very fortunate in having such a charming person as their leader and her first greeting, "I'm so glad you all could be here with me" won the heart of every person present.

Again I was very proud of our Maritimers because Sis Hazel Moore, Perth, was Ambassador of Good Will; Sis Mildred Dunn, Dartmouth was guest of the Courtesy Committee; Sis Elsie Dennis, Charlottetown was Canadian Flag Bearer with Sis Anne Alexander of Saint John as her escort. Sis Hazel Lee Wallace's theme song was "We're All God's Children" and was rendered at the opening of each session.

Another proud moment came on Wednesday evening at the Installation of Officers for 1976-77 when Brother Leonard Jardine, Riverview, N.B., was asked by the incoming Sovereign Grand Master Jack G. Harmon, Idaho, to render a solo. Brother Leonard sang "How Great Thou Art" in such a manner as to move one deeply.

The Installation was held in Curtigan Exhibition Hall which covers three city blocks. When the Hall was erected it was built over the city streets and the city traffic was not interrupted in any way.

We were taken on a tour of the Mountain Parks of Denver and saw the famous Red Rocks. These rocks are a sandstone and sands have been built through them; a monastery had been carved into the side of the mountain and the Red Rocks Amphitheatre is famous all over the world because of its natural acoustics.

An Easter Sunrise Service is held here annually and one could envision as you stood there the beauty and symbolism of such a moment. It made me wish I could only be there once and see the sun rising over these mountains and be part of such a service.

On this same tour of the parks we visited Buffalo Bill's grave high on Lookout Mountain. The story goes that the people of Wyoming held that Buffalo Bill should have been buried in their state so college students had a cement truck load a load of cement as far as it could go and they proceeded to wheel their load of cement up to his grave in wheelbarrows and thereby ensured that Buffalo Bill would remain forever in Colorado.

I visited the Botanical Gardens in the city of Denver and the contrast between the "Tundra Room" and the "Tropics Room" was delightful. In the Tundra Room were all the fur, herb and alpine plants of the far North and in the Tropics Room were all types, kinds and colors of orchids, just beautiful they were banana trees, palm trees, and the temperature and humidity of each of these rooms was exactly as it is in each locale.

The State Capitol Building in Denver has a dome of gold from the Colorado Gold Mines and the sun shining on it by day and the floodlights by night make it visible for miles. Many of us jokingly remarked it was a wonder someone had not tried to pack off a gold shingle - what with the price of gold these days.

On the third step of the Capitol Building is an inscription which reads, "You are now exactly five thousand, two hundred and eighty feet above sea level", thereby giving Denver the name "Mile High City". Many of us from the Maritimes, not accustomed to such heights, suffered from altitude sickness, some in the form of dizziness, some nausea and other symptoms, however not to a degree that kept us bedfast.

While at the sessions I had a chance to talk to the Chairman of the I.O.O.F. Float Committee for the Rose Bowl Parade which takes place each New Year's Day in Pasadena, California. We saw the replica of the float which will be in this year's parade and the Committee is most anxious to know how many people really saw this float. Therefore I shall be making phone calls after New Year's Day to try to determine how many people actually do.

We were all amazed by the number of people coming along the street toward us and saying "Maritime Provinces". Many of them would hold out their hands and say "Hello" - hope you're enjoying yourself but tell me, where is "Maritime Provinces".

None of us had the opportunity to fully explain where we were and how lovely it is there etc. Dan even introduced himself to me as the steps of City Hall and said he and his wife planned to come to the Maritimes on their vacation next year.

The people there were very surprised to learn that we ate most of the whole lobster. Their only acquaintance with lobster is cold pack lobster tails which are very bland compared to the flavor of lobster here. Clams and mussels are not well known and mackerel was unheard of.

In the restaurants we saw jumbo shrimp and scallops on the menu but the main dishes of course are steaks-steaks-steaks all kinds and all two and one half inches thick. A complete meal at Duffy's Irish Tavern consisting of cocktail, salad, filet mignon, vegetables, dessert and Irish coffee cost the whole sum of $5.95.

Friday night we were entertained at the Geisha House (a Japanese restaurant). This [illegible] was arranged in Japan and taken apart piece by piece and reconstructed in Frederick Plaza in Denver. It is built entirely of Japanese wood and there is not a single nail in the whole establishment. The beams are wrapped with rice rope for added support.

The centre of your table is the cooking surface and after your order has been taken the waitress brings you a hot washcloth to wash your hands and a set of chopsticks which she instructs you how to use. The chef then wheels in a wagon with all the ingredients for your meal and proceeds to cook it on the cooking surface in front of you.

The food is so well seasoned and sauced that no salt, pepper or other condiments are needed and the flavor is just superb. No knives or other utensils are needed and your meal is served in a stoneware wok which is heated on the edge of the cooking surface of your own table.

All in all, it was an eventful and thrilling week and the comments of Sovereign Grand Master Moore sum it up very well - "I'm proud of all of your Maritimers, the way you all supported me and the wonderful way you made everybody you met aware of what a wonderful place the Maritimes is and what wonderful people Maritimers really are."

City Council Sides With O'Neil Avenue Residents

Proposed changes to the intersection of O'Neil Avenue and the Causeway were unanimously rejected by Bathurst City Council at the regular Monday night session.

A letter from Louis J. Hachey, written in response to a council invitation to residents to air their views on the subject, stated several taxpayers were opposed to the proposed plans.

He noted that vision at the corner is "almost unlimited" and, to his knowledge, no accidents have occurred in the area. Mr. Hachey also listed several advantages in support of leaving things as they are, along with suggestions for improvement.

Deputy Mayor Patrick McLaughlin, representative for Coffyn Ward, told council he had conducted a telephone survey of households in the O'Neil Drive area, and 31 out of 35 homeowners, a total of 88 per cent, were found to be against the changes.

"The people are not asking for anything. They are content. I can't see any valid reason for going ahead with these changes", said Mr. McLaughlin.

His motion to leave the intersection as is was seconded by Coun. Doug Williamson and unanimously accepted by the remainder of council.

It was also agreed to have the city manager look into the relocation of a spotlight in the area and the re-designing of the yield sign and traffic markings as suggested in Mr. Hachey's letter.

PAYMENTS AUTHORIZED

Council approved payments of membership dues to the Northeastern New Brunswick Tourist Association, an amount of $50. Councillor Jean Paul Lavoie, a former executive-secretary of the association, explained that federal-provincial funding of the group had ended this year, with financing to come from membership fees.

Accounts for approval in the amount of $802,849.20 were okayed for payment.

NEW MINING FACILITIES ARE INTRODUCED

Members of the news media were taken on an extensive tour of the new $2.4 million mine dry and the $52,000,000 hoist frame for No. 3 shaft at Brunswick Mining and Smelting Mines Division Tuesday afternoon.

The tour was conducted by Gaetan Thomas, plant superintendent; Private Grebenec, mine superintendent; Cameron Anderson, mine engineer; Julien LeBlanc, personnel manager; John Wetmore, mine manager; and Marcel Coulombe, industrial relations coordinator.

The new mine dry, which has been occupied for the past three weeks, has an 880-locker room (with ample space for an addition of 200 more) up and downstairs facilities for 80 men, plus the latest wash, wash-up and shower accommodations for 30 female underground workers. Also included is a fully equipped clothes drying room for underground workers.

"The steel and cement block structure is appropriately painted with an assortment of colourful designs and graphics.

Also under the same roof is the lamp area where miners going underground pick-up their lighting equipment, and in the adjoining area receive their working schedules, safety equipment, and are logged as being present in case of any emergency.

The first-aid room is fully equipped and has qualified persons on duty at all times. There is also learning and lung testing devices and a drive-in area for ambulances.

The mine rescue area is supplied with the best of equipment to meet any emergency. There are 75 trained men for mine rescue work and one day a week is designated to training.

The miner's rescue unit is supplied with over $60,000 worth of safety equipment to accommodate rescue workers during emergencies.

Bathurst Lions Club hosted its third Lions International Night when Bathurst area residents representing 25 different countries were special guests.

The function was held at Danny's Colonial House Dancing and a buffet concluded the friendly and informal evening.

King Lion Jim DeWolfe welcomed the international guests and introduced District Deputy Governor Ron Dwight of Dalhousie.

In preparing for the event, it was discovered that 36 countries were represented among the Bathurst populace. All were invited but some were unable to attend.

Bathurst Lions Club held its first international night in 1969 when 22 countries were represented. The following year, the guests originated from 17 countries.

Chairman and master of ceremonies for the event was Howard Ross, past president of the Bathurst club who introduced the various guests in a very impressive manner. Philip Picot and Gary Frye, as co-chairmen, participated in the presentation of gifts. All guests were introduced.

Keystone Realty Ltd. provided the buffet for the Lions International guests through the cooperation of the general manager, Marc Chiasson. Each male guest was presented with a pottery mug and the ladies were given a china rose, both provided by Tower Jewellers.

Mrs. Philomena Shary, wife of the district medical officer of health, Dr. Vibert Shary, expressed thanks on behalf of the guests. She gave an interesting resume of her knowledge of Lions Club work throughout the world.

The Sharys came to Canada and Bathurst from Guyana.

Others who were able to accept the invitation to attend were Mr. and Mrs. Eric Tall (Israel) of Air Bathurst, Mr. and Mrs. John Meerman (Holland), Mr. and Mrs. Eb Seniffer (United States), Michael Sidhu (South India), Mr. and Mrs. David Chuck (England), Mr. and Mrs. Bryan dan Carmaille (Ireland), Mr. and Mrs. Hermann Zacharh (Austria), Mr. and Mrs. Leonart Lindgren (Sweden), Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hurtais (Finland), all of Brunswick Mining and Smelting Corp. Ltd., Dr. and Mrs. M. Yousuf (Pakistan), Dr. and Mrs. B.S. Satya (India), Dr. and Mrs. M.W. Bardeesy (Egypt), Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Arsenault (Peru), all of Chaleur General Hospital, Mr. and Mrs. Arne Thuresen (Norway), Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Degner (Scotland), Mr. and Mrs. Peter Brodka (Argentina), Mr. and Mrs. Gene Yee (China), Mr. and Mrs. Jose Nunes (Portugal), Mr. and Mrs. Alex Feketshazy (Hungary), Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heckel (Germany), Mr. and Mrs. Colin Smith (Australia), Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Racozzi (Italy), Georges Frachon (France), who was accompanied by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rene Frachon and Mrs. Tanet, all visiting from France.

Shippegan Plant Makes Formal Bow

Premier Richard Hatfield on Tuesday officially opened the Jiffy Products (N.B.) Ltd. plant at Shippegan.

Jiffy, which started production at its $5.5 million facility on Oct. 1, is the first major plant in Canada to produce specialized peat moss products.

The Premier said he was particularly pleased to welcome Jiffy to the province. "This company will contribute to the further utilization of one of our valuable natural resources. Also, it will provide an important new source of employment for the area and an important new market for New Brunswick peat producers."

He pointed out that Jiffy, which employs 43 people at present, plans to double this figure shortly as the company moves into its second phase of production. And within three years the plant will require more than 2,000 tons of peat moss annually from local producers.

"Among the basic objectives of our industrial development strategy for the province are the total development and most effective management of our natural resources, and the maximum possible processing of these resources within New Brunswick," said Mr. Hatfield.

"Jiffy is an excellent example of this strategy in action. Rather than shipping peat moss elsewhere in its natural state, this plant will process the peat into commercial products to be exported and sold throughout North America."

The Premier stated that the opening of the Jiffy plant marked the second important development of peat resources in the Northeast this year. The federal and New Brunswick governments are involved in a program to assess and determine the potential for fuel peat development in the region.

The peat fired thermoelectric plant being built on Lameque Island is a pilot project to determine if fuel peat can become an important energy source for New Brunswick, said the Premier. "Of equal importance is the fact that fuel peat is harvested from areas which have already been mainly stripped of horticultural peat, thus allowing double utilization of this resource."

Mr. Hatfield noted that when Jiffy's parent company, Jiffy Products International of Norway, decided to establish a plant in North America to serve its expanding markets here, company experts examined several alternate sites.

"One of the main reasons Jiffy chose to locate in Shippegan was the quality and quantity of peat moss to be found in this area," he said.

J.P. Blanchard, deputy minister of commerce and development, also spoke at the opening ceremonies. He noted that the announcement in June, 1975 that Jiffy would build a plant at Shippegan was the culmination of some two years of continuous negotiations between Jiffy and the provincial government.

The Province of New Brunswick has made the company a direct loan of $2,110,000, said Mr. Blanchard. "Apart from this financial assistance, our staff have provided a wide variety of support services during the development of the Jiffy project."

Other speakers at the opening included Lief Kinvold, chairman of the board of Jiffy Products International; Jean Chiasson, mayor of Shippegan; and Herb Breau, M.P. Mr. Breau was representing Regional Economic Expansion Minister Marcel Lessard.

Lions Auction Successful

The annual radio auction sponsored by the Bathurst Lions Club has been termed a success by a spokesman for the local organization.

Although not all items had been picked up by this Wednesday morning, the spokesman said pledges had been coming in at a steady pace since the Monday night event, and it was expected all would be received in the near future.

Bids were in the vicinity of other years, approximately 25 to 40 per cent of the value of the article or service offered, but, according to the spokesman, donations from businesses and professionals were substantially higher than in former years.

Local organizers are hoping to realize in excess of $2,000 from the project, to be used for the many Lions activities and community services.

Hold Discussions On New Zinc Refinery

It could be at least another two or three months before the feasibility of a zinc refinery for Northeastern New Brunswick is determined, National Resources Minister Roland Beaulieu said Tuesday.

Following meetings with Gilles Chiasson of the provincial industry and development department, and Marcel Lessard, minister of regional economic expansion, Mr. Beaulieu said he will seek federal input into the refinery study because of the financial aspects.

According to the minister, 41 companies have been approached regarding the matter and ten have indicated interest. However, the high cost of such an undertaking is seen as a serious setback.

Loans for the project could be forthcoming from both levels of government, to develop the resource, but new policies would have to be drawn up if interested companies were to demand subsidies.

It was estimated as much as $45 million could be available from the federal government for the proposed project. The total cost has been estimated at $200-million.

ROOM LOWERED

Bathurst City Police already have been tightening up on certain law infractions and plan to do likewise concerning others, according to Deputy Chief Maurice Hershey.

In connection with motorists passing school buses while lights are flashing, a number of reported cases have been investigated and fines levied in proven cases. It is intended to maintain strict control of this situation.

Crosswalks at intersections are another area of attention. Car drivers are warned they must not go beyond the stop line located a short distance from these zones designed for the safety and convenience of pedestrians. Otherwise the

Problem Goes To Planners

A request from the owners of the newly-established Funday Lane Motel in Bathurst for permission to erect a sign at the intersection of St. Peter Avenue and St. Anne Street has been turned over, amid some confusion, to the Planning Advisory Committee for consideration.

According to a letter from Frederick C. Mason, manager of the local motel, the original sign had been requested for the intersection of Vanier Boulevard and Ryan Street. This was turned down by the planning commission, however, because it did not conform to city bylaws.

The request read at Monday's meeting called for the placement of a sign at the St. Peter-St. Anne Street corner which would show the City of Bathurst crest at the top centre, direct the public to the business sector of the city and indicate by arrow the route to the Funday Lane establishment.

However, some members of council appeared to misunderstand the proposed location of the sign, and Councillor Joe MacNeil proceeded to list the advantages of a sign on the Vanier-Ryan corner.

The matter was finally designated as one of the planning commission, and council passed on to less confusing subjects.

City Council Bits And Pieces

- Councillor Valmond Soucier was named to the executive of the Six Cities of New Brunswick Association.

- City Engineer Geoff Greenough told council that paving of the intersections of King Avenue and Main Street and Garden Street and Evangeline Drive will take place as soon as the weather permits.

- Councillors Joe MacNeil, Robert Hudgins and James MacLaggan were appointed to look into the transit study recently completed by the Six Cities of New Brunswick Assn. and to make recommendations.

- Council agreed to seek a meeting with the provincial highways department concerning the Little River Bridge. Coun. Henry Murphy and Douglas Williamson said that although some repairs had been done to the bridge deck, it was still in very dangerous condition and they felt action should be taken before a serious accident occurred.

- Evan Moffitt was named to the Bathurst Tree Commission replacing Mervin Holder.

- Council will express its dissatisfaction in regard to the closing of the CN Telecommunications office in the city and will request reconsideration of the move.

- Bathurst City Council has gone on record as supporting efforts to get a French-language TV station for Northeastern New Brunswick, and letters to this effect will be forwarded to the Canadian Radio-Television Commission, MP Herb Breau and Premier Richard Hatfield.

City Agrees To Close Burns Drive Section

Results of a traffic pattern study carried out by the engineering and police departments and read at the regular meeting of City Council Monday night have led to the closure to traffic on Burns Drive between Munro and St. John streets.

The study, which was ordered following requests from concerned citizens and the local school board to this effect, showed there was indeed danger to students in the area, and recommended that school buses only be allowed into the area in question for loading and unloading purposes.

It also suggested that buses be prohibited from parking on Munro Street, as students are not permitted to embark there, and that a holding area for buses be provided on the park area southwest of Munro Street and Burns Drive.

Councillor James MacLaggan wanted to know why the buses are now unloading on Burns Drive rather than on school property as they had done in the past.

City Manager Pierre Marquis explained the area was a very restricted one, and the proposed extension to Bathurst High School would leave even less room. While he felt the area would eventually have to be closed because of the space problem, he indicated closure of the proposed stretch of road would be a good test of how such a move would affect traffic.

He added the school board would assume the responsibility for the section of road as soon as it was closed by the city.

EXTENSIONS OK'D

Councillors gave their full approval to the extension of both Bayside Subdivision and the Ramon Hachey Subdivision in Kent Ward. Also in regard to land transactions, city council gave the go-ahead for the purchase of 3,000 square feet of land on Reece Lane in conjunction with the Neighborhood Improvement Program underway in Ryan Ward.

In his new appointment, Mr. Doucette will be performing head office functions in the training field.

TOP NEWSPAPER CARRIERS CITED BY NORTHERN LIGHT

In keeping with National Newspaper Carrier Day, Saturday, October 16, Mayor John A. Duffy obliged The Northern Light by presenting "Awards of Merit" to four of the local newspaper's outstanding young merchants.

They were Paul Chiasson (centre) son of Mr. and Mrs. P.D. (Phil) Chiasson, 420 Parkside Dr., and Bobby Girouard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Girouard, 465 Rosemary St. The former is a student in Grade 6 at Sacred Heart School, the latter attends Bathurst High School, where he is in Grade 10.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Mona Doucett, circulation manager of The Northern Light, and that of president of the Canadian Circulation Managers Association, the citations reads:

"Be it known to all and sundry that the holder of this certificate has displayed qualities of integrity, enterprise, devotion to duty and good citizenship in a degree that distinguishes him as outstanding among newspaper carriers throughout Canada. That the Canadian Circulation Managers Association has selected him as a youth most worthy of recognition on National Newspaper Carrier Day."

MAKES INITIAL CONTRIBUTION

Boy Scout Apple Day, an event held annually across Canada to help raise funds for Scout, Cub, Beaver, Venturer and Rover activities and programs, is set for Saturday, October 23 in the Bathurst district. On that day, members of the Scouting movement will conduct a door-to-door canvas of homes in the city and also station themselves at various business establishments, all those contributing to the worthy cause will receive a tasty apple as a token of gratitude. Above, Scout Andrew Eddy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Eddy and a member of the First United Troop, presents an apple to Mayor John A. Duffy in return for his contribution, while Jim Reynolds, Apple Day chairman, looks on.

Are Grateful To Sponsors

In a published list of sponsors to the recent van meet at Chapman's Trailer Park, the following were inadvertently omitted: Hudson's Bay Wholesale, Chapman's Trailer Park, Dominion Stores, Wye Electric, and St. John Ambulance. Nor Coast Vans extends sincere thanks to these sponsors and all others who helped the event in any way.

penalties awarded will be imposed.

The discharge of firearms within city limits, which, although prohibited by by-law, has been tolerated to a certain extent in the past, is now completely taboo. This is because coastal areas now have a big concentration of residential properties, and no matter where a weapon is pointed, it could be the innocent cause of a fatality.

IN BOOK FORM

The last installment of "Life in a Nursing Home" by 86-year-old Mrs. Hammond Johnson, which it has been the privilege of The Northern Light to print in serial form, appears in this week's edition.

The manuscript of this interesting narrative, which commanded considerable reader-interest, has been forwarded to Miramichi Press, Chatham, to be incorporated into a book.

Copies, priced at $2.00 each, will be available for November 15, in ample time for Christmas giving, according to R. Douglas Johnson, a son of the venerable authoress, who resides at 1525 Riverside Dr., phone 546-3868.

FOR CAR BUFFS

The Canadian Association of Toronto, devoted to the preservation and restoration of automobiles which have historical significance to Canada's past motoring era, will hold a two-hour presentation of slides in Bathurst on Thursday, October 21.

Lloyd Brown, curator of the Craven Museum and representative for the National Association of Vintage Autos, will give a talk following the slide presentation, which is set for Danny's Colonial House at 7:30 p.m.

Admission is free of charge, and all those interested are invited to attend.

POIGNANT PROSE

City Councillor Jean-Paul Lavoie has an added claim to fame: his wife is an authoress and an excellent one.

Stephane Lavoie's first literary effort to reach print appears in the October issue of The Atlantic Advocate under the title "Have You Smelt The Sea?" It concerns a retarded boy and his reactions as he [illegible]

Jim Morrison, who is editor-in-chief of both The Advocate and The Bathurst Chronicle, describes the article as "the most beautiful I've read in many a moon... it is a classic... a powerful piece... one to be remembered." We whole-heartedly concur with these sentiments so aptly expressed.

The story was inspired by Mrs. Lavoie's talks to the young retarded lad about his feelings and discoveries during walks in the woods near his home.

"We often tend to dismiss retarded children as having little or no emotions or feelings of their own", Stephane says in a foreword to her masterpiece, "but this young boy has shown me how much of a fallacy this idea is."

"He reached up to touch smooth, cool fern and it felt like nothing he had felt before. He caressed it lovingly and sensed the life in it, a life that was green. He tasted it lightly with his tongue and laughed delightedly when it tasted like it felt - green."

Bathurst has produced a number of fine writers in recent years and Mrs. Lavoie is a welcome and outstanding addition to the craft.

Mrs. Lavoie (nee Fraser) is a native of Winnipeg, Man., but since her father was with the RCAF she lived in various parts of Canada and abroad before settling in Bathurst. She met her husband, also an ex-airman, when he was stationed at St. Hubert, P.Q.

TIPS AND TIDBITS

Sid Brunt, proprietor of the local Dixie Lee takeout, being commended by citizens and civic officials for his demonstration of public-spiritness in helping to keep the city clean. At his own expense he has installed receptacles and arranged for daily collection of litter on St. George St., where his place of business is located.

The benefit bardown at the Legion Fri., Oct. 22, at 9:30, has a worthy motive. It's to raise funds towards purchase of band instruments for Joanne's Majorette Drum Corps which supports the Bathurst Chaleurettes. Joanne, incidentally, is a Bathurst High School student and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gurlin Fournier, 1675 Patterson Cres. ... Paul LePage featured luncheon speaker Mon., Oct. 25, during the 12th annual Industrial Safety Conference at the Admiral Beatty Hotel, Saint John. According to the program he will "deliver one of his stirring messages of interest to all" ...Sharvanae Rangers selling bags of candy in various parts of the city over the weekend in aid of the Kidney Foundation.... Mrs. Gerald Michaud, 1350 Sunset Dr., winner of $100 worth of groceries from the Filter Queen Gals Promotion ... Hockey and broomball registration slated for the St. Anne Recreation Centre from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. both Sat. and Sun., Oct. 23 and 24 ... Lorenzo Landry, 2524 Rough Waters Dr., winner of the Lower So. Teteagouche Community Hall Association's latest 50-50 draw ... Dan MacDonald in the cast of TNB's production of "The Daughter-in-Law", playing at Nepisiguit High School Auditorium Nov. 4, a brother of Joe MacDonald, organist at First United Church.... Miramichi Senateria Club, gallant troupers all of them, performing at the same location Sun., Nov. 21 under auspices of the North Shore Shrine Club.... Gilles Chamberland, executive secretary of Northeastern N.B. Tourist Assn., is making a strong bid for establishment of a "hostelry school" within the scope of Northeastern Institute of Technology. The idea is to upgrade the skills of cooks, hostesses, etc., apparently now inadequate due to a lack of "savoirfaire" among restaurateurs. Support for the cause has been solicited from North Shore MPs and MLAs.... Often the N.B. Liquor Commission seems too ready to issue liquor licenses. On other occasions it's a long process. That's why No. 256 Chaleur Wing RCAFA applied early for a club permit (which has now been granted) for its new premises at So. Bathurst. Financial arrangements for the project have been finalized and clearing of the site and other preliminary work are expected to be completed before the snow flies. Construction of the 8000-ft., 2-storey complex is scheduled to get underway in early spring... Suzanne Richard, Bathurst, winner of The Northern Light's Night on the Town Contest for Oct. 13....

Season's Last Play Nov. 4

Theatre New Brunswick's last production of the current season, "The Daughter-in-law", plays Thursday, November 4, at Nepisiguit High School in Bathurst.

The play by D. H. Lawrence, deals with a family in a north country English mining town. It explores the problems of a newly-married couple and the life-long dependence of two men on their mother.

The dialect is colourful and descriptive and for an explanation of words like orts and slarts, scraigtin, clatfarts and chuntering, audiences will be able to consult a glossary in the program.

V.O.N. Caters To Underprivileged

The annual drive for funds by the Bathurst Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses will be held Thursday, October 21 from 6 - 9 p.m. in the city.

During these hours, volunteer canvassers will conduct a door-to-door blitz of all households in the city in an effort to raise funds to maintain the nursing service; the goal is $5,000.

Nurse in charge of the local order, Mrs. Myra Wiseman, said Monday the funds raised during the drive will, for the most part, be used to continue visits to those people who are unable to pay for health care.

While the V.O.N.'s primary service is home nursing care, it also conducts child health conferences, a school health program, and just recently introduced a senior citizens counselling service for those living in New Brunswick Housing complexes. This newest aspect of V.O.N. care, approximately two weeks old, is designed for the general well-being of older citizens in the community and is being well-received according to Mrs. Wiseman.

At present, the local order employs one full-time and one part-time worker in addition to Mrs. Wiseman. They are Susan Philippe, a full-time staff nurse, and Diane Boudreau. The number of nurses has been more in the past, but was reduced because of a lack of funds.

The nurses use two cars to carry out their duties, and some of the money raised in this year's drive will go into the car replacement fund, which is empty at this time.

Local citizens are being asked to contribute generously to the V.O.N. cause so that home nursing care is available to all residents of the community, regardless of their financial status.

Businesses in the city are being solicited by mail.

ONE OF CANADA'S LOWEST PRICED CARS IS ALSO ONE OF CANADA'S BEST-EQUIPPED.

The Toyota Corolla is the best-selling car in the world. And while it is not (quite) the lowest-priced car you can buy, it costs many hundreds of dollars less than the average car sold today.

It is so completely equipped that the only available options are a radio and radial tires.

It is so meticulously built, so thoroughly tested that more than 8 out of every 10 sold in this country over the past 10 years are still on the road.

It is additionally tested for winter toughness in Northern Canada (one more reason why it retains such a high re-sale value).

And, right now, you can take advantage of special factory trading allowances on Toyota Corolla 1200 so the car that's already one of the lowest priced in Canada could cost you even less.

Think about all the reasons why you buy a car, then think about Toyota Corolla, the car bought by more people than any other model in the whole wide world. TOYOTA

District Deprived

To officials at CN Telecommunications head office Montreal it may just be one more step in the march towards automation, but the closing of the telegraph office in Bathurst marks the end of a era as well as a servaice we have long taken for granted.

In a terse memo recently, the outlet's manager was advised that the service was being discontinued at the end of December and her job was being abolished.

It was also stated that coincident with the new year, messages in both languages would be transmitted by telephone during regular business hours through Moncton. After hours and on Sundays and holidays, it will be necessary to phone French telegrams to Moncton and English messages to Halifax.

CN Telecommunications may well say that the volume of business does not justify the maintenance of the office here or in Campbellton, which is also being closed.

But one reason for the falling off in traffic is the huge increases in the cost of sending telegrams in recent years. It had become almost prohibitive to make use of the service, which a few years ago was a major factor in communication. Today, it is cheaper, quicker and more satisfying to use other means.

Protests about the removal of the telegraph office will probably be of no avail. For the record, however, we believe that municipal and business groups here should let CN known that we are aware of the deprivation and that we are not at all happy about it.

Capital Idea

A sense of creativity has been showing the provincial fisheries officials which is right up the alley of Northern as well as other parts of New Brunswick.

It is the idea of making practical use of and obtaining a financial return from discarded fish shells.

If the notion may seem far-fetched, one has only to consider the vast amount of wasted matter from lobster and crab. Both are more than 75 percent shell in their make-up and the idea of utilizing this waste as protein in chemical processes is both exciting and imaginative.

As man's quest for new sources of valuable material becomes more pressing, so does the need to eliminate a potential pileup of garbage that could threaten the planet's ecology.

For these twin reasons, the idea of using the province's shellfish waste rates full attention from the experts.

A crustacean shell processing facility is already in operation in Seattle and authorities are hopeful of establishing a similar plant in New Brunswick. What better place than here on the North Shore where seafood abounds as well as a high rate of unemployment?

Make Will, Save Money

One Canadian in every three has not made a will, statistics indicate.

Putting it another way, the provinces and not the individual concerned, decide on what's to be done with the possessions of a lifetime in one-third of all deaths.

Why do people put off making a will?

Perhaps because of the fear of dying. Making a will neither hastens nor delays the time of death, but the task forces people to face a fact they may find unpleasant: that nobody lives forever.

Perhaps because of an abhorrence of legal formalities. But if you die without a will you multiply the legal formalities confronting your survivors.

Perhaps for the satisfaction of not paying a lawyer's bill. In fact, lawyers' fees for drawing up a will are not large and lawyers earn more money for their services in winding up estates of those who die intestate (that is, without a will).

Or perhaps it is just plain procrastination. There's always going to be more time "next week", but eventually time runs out.

Whatever the cause, the price that has to be paid for the luxury of not making a will is a high one.

It's not true, despite what many believe, that a husband wishing to pass his entire estate along to his widow can achieve his wish without a will as easily as if he had made a will.

The results could be much different than he intended, as, for instance, when his life insurance is paid to a named beneficiary.

Even if there are no such complications, it's still risky and unwise. If the wife were to die intestate soon after the husband, as the result, say, of the same accident, then the province would dispose of the assets.

What's wrong with that?

Nothing, perhaps, if you don't mind denying yourself or your spouse such natural results as these:

–Designating the person or persons who will administer your estate.

–Allocating your possessions to those people you think should have them rather than in the rigid and impersonal way the province would do it.

–Deciding upon the guardianship and financial care of your children under 18.

–Permitting the discretionary use of capital from your estate if income is insufficient to support minors.

Unless the will specifies it or a court authorizes it, the deceased's estate may not retain any "unauthorized investments," even the family home, on behalf of beneficiaries.

Instead, the executor must convert them into cash, regardless of the state of the market, and re-invest the proceeds in authorized securities (government bonds, trust certificates, first mortgages and similar low-risk instruments).

Finally, the estate of the intestate can be whittled down quickly by delays and added costs, not to mention the disputes and hard feelings that are almost inevitable among surviving relatives.

Work is going on rapidly in changing the old school into a municipal building, Bathurst's Town Hall on St. Andrew Street, re-located from the "tumbled down shack" on King Street.

Notice was received that the postmastership of South Bathurst post-office has been taken from the hands of Richard Doucet and given to Lange Pitre; also that the Petit Rocher post-office has been transferred from the hands of Richard Desilbrray to those of Mrs. Fred Frenette. Rumors of other changes are current.

An exceptionally high tide coupled with one of the heaviest gales in some time have caused considerable damage in the area. Power lines were short-circuited and lines were broken. There was extensive damage done to the bridges, the Station Bridge in particular and the Customs Dept. speedboat which broke its moorings and slammed into the bridge and public wharf. Water, wires, logs and debris covered the bridges and a fallen pole line added to the confusion. Workers, stranded on both sides of the bridges, were forced to find shelter for the night in homes on both sides of the basin and harbor. Salmon Beach received the full blast of the storm and eventually the bridge at Buttimer's went out. The N.B. Tel. Company reported at 4 p.m. that lines from Campbellton to Carraquet were down.

County welfare payments in support of the ill and indigent in Gloucester totalling $300,000, accounted mainly for a 19th budget overspent by $22,573 to date. This was reported at a meeting of the municipal finance committee (which is also the county finance committee) held yesterday at the Court House.

The weekly meeting of the Rotary Club was chaired this week by Dr. D.A. Thompson who related his experiences during a recent trip to Europe. He was thanked by Returian Bernard Gagnon.

Town executive-director E.J. Doucet was congratulated at Wednesday night's council meeting on being elected vice-president of the Union of New Brunswick Municipalities. Present at the Saint John meeting also was Deputy Mayor Gerald Riordon.

Mayor V.J. Whelton is one of the town's first citizens to attach a golden jubilee sticker to his car, as part of the advance advertising for the event in Bathurst next year.

The New Brunswick Pharmaceutical Society this week officially announced that Miss Leona Melanson is now qualified as a Certified Drug Clerk, having recently completed a course at Dalhousie University, Halifax. She is employed here with Dempsey Drugs Ltd.

The claim-staking flurry which followed the release Monday afternoon of geochemical survey results by Geological Survey of Canada has resulted in a rush for claims in the Bathurst-Jacquet River area throughout this week. Many stakers, some having arrived by helicopter, were on the scene in the past week, it is reported by Williston I. Spence, chief of the provincial mines branch. Approximately 100 staking licenses were issued since Friday, Oct. 14. Excitement was added at the local mines department when only 7 of 50 sets of maps to be supplied the Bathurst branch were available Monday. The remaining 43 arrived Wednesday afternoon. The hot spot appears to be in the Jacquet River and Upper McNair Brook areas at points known as Hayes Cobb and Kettle Back.

In conjunction with anniversary night observances, the following new officers of the Bathurst Kinsmen Club were installed: Robert DeGrace, president; Eugene LeBlanc, vice-president; Allan White, secretary; Irene Cormier, registrar; J.P. Sarkis, Rene Doucet, directors.

EDITOR'S MAIL

Readiness Is Theme Of Message

Oct. 12, 1976
Beresford, N.B.

October was a very bad month in the North Shore area with many deaths ranging in all ages. It would be a great comfort to all concerned to know that their loved ones are with God in heaven but unfortunately only God knows. It really doesn't have to be this way if only people would face up to reality and begin to believe and read the gospel. The Good News of Jesus Christ.

Jesus tells us in Romans 10, verse 13: "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." Think about this for a moment. I've had the opportunity to speak to many people of late about Jesus Christ and their salvation. Many of these people seem to always ask for proof that Jesus Christ is so great and powerful.

Everyone is looking for miracles. I think if you would ask yourself how you got to be a living person here on earth, you would see one of God's greatest miracles. Life on earth. But it's a gift that He has given us, and He will take it away. Then will Christians know what happiness is really all about and it will last forever.

Here on earth, there is no eternity, only a short life span of an average of 72 years, not very long when you stop to think. Don't get me wrong, even non-Christians will have everlasting life but in everlasting torment.

You would think with all the hatred, misery and hardships in this world, that people would live for God. Instead they blame Him for their hardships which they cause themselves by continuing to serve Satan by sin. A good book to read on this subject is "Satan is alive and well on this earth."

In John 14, verse 23, Jesus says, "If a man love me, he will keep my words, and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him." Now isn't that marvellous! A lot of people say or think, I can't live like that, meaning a Christian life. They think being a child of God, saved by His amazing grace means working hard being a religious fanatic. It definitely doesn't.

Jesus does not say, if you keep my word, then will prove your love for me He says, if we love Him, we will keep His word, meaning it will come natural. Once we tell Jesus that we love Him and admit living in borrowed bodies on borrowed time, Jesus will take care of you and believe me, as a Christian, I know He will.

In John 14, verses 2 and 3, Jesus tells all who believe "In my Father's house, there are many mansions, if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto Myself, that where I am, there ye may be also."

And Jesus says in John 4, verse 24, "God is a spirit, and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and truth."

For too many people today work their bodies almost beyond endurance for money, cars, a new home, etc. etc. and all for what? You can't take it with you. In Mark 8, verses 35 and 36, Jesus says, "For whosoever shall save his life shall lose it, but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake, and the gospels, the same shall save it. For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world and lose his soul." Think about this for a moment, let it sink in.

In the same chapter, verse 38, we get a warning. "Whosoever therefore shall be ashamed of Me, and of My words in this adulterous and sinful generation, of him also shall the Son of man be ashamed, when he cometh in the glory of his Father with the Holy angels."

If you knew that a thief was planning to rob your home, wouldn't you hide and wait for him? Yes, I imagine anyone in his right mind would. Then beware, because the Lord tells us that He will come as a thief in the night. We have all been warned. There will be no bargains on judgement day.

In Mark 24, verses 35 to 37, Jesus says, "Watch ye therefore, for ye know not when the master of the house cometh, at even, or at midnight, or at the cockcrowing, or in the morning, least coming suddenly He find you sleeping. And What I say unto you, I say unto all." Watch, be prepared, this world is overflowing with death and I as a Christian, am concerned about your soul.

If anyone is seeking the Good News of Jesus Christ and is having problems finding information, I'm sure any member of Gideons International would be only too glad to present you with a (K.J.V.) New Testament bible. I thank them for bringing The Good News to me.

I would like to thank the management and staff of this newspaper for allowing me to express what God thinks of the state of soulless. Are you ready? May the Holy Spirit be with each and everyone who reads this.

Worker Relates Mine Incident

Bathurst, N.B.
October 12, 1976

The employees of Brunswick Mining and Smelting would like to beatow their thanks upon the company for their great Thanksgiving Day gift.

The miners on the 5:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. shift were told a week ahead that they had to work on Thanksgiving Day and when the men reported in for work they were told there would be a short delay before going underground as the problem being repaired from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. was not completed yet.

The company got the men to get into their dirty clothes, ready to go underground and told them to wait until the problem was resolved. The company made the men wait until 8:30 p.m. and then came and told them to change and go home as the problem would take longer than expected to repair.

So the men went to their new two and a half million dollar dry and got into their showers and turned the water on and had none. So they had to go home dirty.

Because of this the men would like to convey their thanks for the company's great consideration and respect for their employees on this great holiday.

I believe the company has just done this because of the long strike by the men and they are prepared to show the men who's boss.

The men had to work holidays before if they didn't want to, but this time they had no say over the matter. Although it was a statutory holiday, the men would not be paid for it if they did not work.

It was said the relations between men and company would greatly improve after the strike. Ha. I see no such signs!

Thanks, Brunswick'

Salute To Budding Young Businessmen

Bathurst, N.B.
October 16, 1976

In keeping with National Newspaper Carrier Day, October 16, we wish to pay a deserved and fitting tribute to a faithful and essential segment of society.

The newspaper carrier is an important member of your community. He or she provides the vital link between the newspaper's information gathering and printing service and you the public.

Did you know that Newspaper carriers are independent business people. They buy their newspapers wholesale and sell retail, the difference being their profit. Newspaper carriers are learning good citizenship by accepting responsibility and providing service in all weather conditions. Newspaper carriers develop a good business sense by keeping records, dealing with the public and managing their finances responsibly. Newspaper carriers learn salesmanship and earn extra money by participating in contests, etc.

The Northern Light is associated with about 50 of these young business people. We are proud of each and every one and assist them in any way possible. We realize that in most cases the newspaper route is a young person's first real experience with business and in dealing with the public. A positive or negative experience in this first venture will have a significant influence on how future ventures and responsibilities will be accepted and managed.

Are you, the public, doing your part in encouraging the development of character in these young citizens?

May we suggest: 1) Be prompt and regular with your payments. If you work you expect your check on payday, the carrier to call back a the carrier pay comes from his collections. 2) Don't expect a carrier to call back a number of times before you finally have his money ready. 3) A word of encouragement or advice is much more effective than a growl. The carrier is more than willing to accommodate any reasonable request. Remember you are dealing with young people who are learning.

(Mrs.) Mona Doucet,
Circulation Manager,
The Northern Light.

PROVINCIAL FESTIVAL ASSOCIATION CONSIDERED

Members of a steering committee considering the formation of a provincial festival association met with officials from the Department of Tourism October 18, in Fredericton, to discuss the proposed organization. Peaceful Protest Is Staged In Bathurst

Their handmade placards prevailing drizzle, some 300 slogan-shouting members of the working class marched through the streets of downtown Bathurst Friday afternoon in what was billed as a "Day of Protest".

Among those represented in the parade were hospital workers, public works employees from City Hall, letter carriers, papermill workers, employees from SMI Industries who are currently on strike, and other organized groups.

Conspicuously absent from the orderly demonstration were delegates from the various unions at Brunswick Mining and Smelting Corp. Ltd., who had been threatened with disciplinary action.

Contrary to expectations, non-marching personnel and inside postal workers manned their posts as usual. School buses operated and classes were held.

Unsuspecting or uninformed customers who ventured to the Main St. liquor store were greeted with the following printed message: "Closed due to lack of staff."

Organizers said they were pleased with the march, considering the weather which was warm but wet.

A post-parade rally at the parish hall, Douglas Ave., was addressed by five speakers.

Albert Richardson, retiring president of the N.B. New Democratic Party, told the rallying of hands. "Labor is the only force that can bring about what we need. This is the first time in history that we, the workers, have stood up and told the politicians what we want and what is right for us."

Any contract signed by a union in this democratic country does not take away the right of the people to protest, contended Mr. Richardson. He urged the unionists to fight for their right "teeth and nail" and not to "forget tomorrow what you demonstrated for today."

Eric Price of Bathurst, vice-president of the N.B. Federation of Labor, stated that Canadian workers had lost $800-million in wallpacks compared to a $4-million loss to the manufacturing sector. "So it's the working man, the rank and file who are suffering from the controls. The politicians wouldn't listen and that is why we are protesting today."

Richard Fletcher, also of Bathurst, co-ordinator of the CUPE participation in the day's program, called for the

Another local union, the Beresford, president of N.B. Council of Hospital Workers, described inflation controls as "a joke" law which is also supported the provincial government.

Charles Hachey, executive ordinator for the Bathurst District Labor Council, declared: "We can march in numbers and stand and we will win." Master of ceremonies the rally was Lionel Blanchard, Council president.

CBC Service In November

Keith Morrow, CBC director for the Maritime Region, announced October 13 that, in conjunction with New Brunswick Broadcasting Co. Ltd., the CBC will inaugurate CBC-TV service in Northeastern New Brunswick including the Bathurst area - in November.

A later statement from a representative of N.B. Broadcasting indicated transmission would be underway in the early part of next month.

Several months of negotiation with N.B. Broadcasting and other organizations related to the project had resulted in the necessary land procurement for transmitter sites and the needed new microwave network, Mr. Morrow said.

A scheduled earlier start of the service has been delayed due to labor problems in the Province of Quebec which have now been settled.

Mr. Morrow also stated that a cost-sharing program in which N.B. Broadcasting acted as the general contractor and paid for half of the installations has resulted in the erection of transmitters and antennae at Carleton, Que. (Channel 4) and Newcastle-Chatham (Channel 6).

Repeaters at Doaktown and Boiestown (Channels 8 and 13 respectively) will be added later.

Viewers will not be able to receive CBC network programming from CHSJ-TV, the CBC affiliate in Saint John, as well as many local and regional programs produced by the CBC and CHSJ-TV.

The CBC looks forward to serving Northeastern New Brunswick and hopes the audience will enjoy the varied schedule of both entertainment and information programming, Mr. Morrow stated.

Curling Club News

By BUCK DOOLEY

The 1976-77 curling season is now upon us and the various committees wish to remind everyone that once more, several events are planned to make this an enjoyable season for all.

The ice is now in and available for anyone wishing to get back into form again. This week is reserved for instruction of new curlers, between 7 and 9 p.m., with ice available for those wishing to practice at all other times. Ice may also be free for those wishing to practice between 7 and 9 p.m., depending on the number of beginners present and the duration of instruction required.

The first official club curling of the new season begins next Monday, October 25 when the Tony Ruoff Memorial Bonspiel gets underway. This bonspiel is scheduled to wrap up on October 29. Regular men's curling begins the following week.

This year, the men's match committee will be promoting a good mixture of social and competitive curling. They are again adopting the 6-rocket play run to successfully over the past two years, but will be adding bi-weekly social draws to be held on Wednesdays at 9 p.m. and Saturdays at 9:30 a.m. It is hoped that all members will participate in the latter so that the social atmosphere of the club will be enhanced.

This year's match committee is made up of Chairman Larry MacDonald, Jim Schuster, Rene Caissie and Fred Kingsbury.

The entertainment committee plans to stage several activities beginning with the opening dinner and dance on October 30. There will also be scheduled regular Saturday night dances with music for a number of these events to be supplied by a new high-quality stereo sound system, recently purchased by the club.

This year's dues structure remains unchanged from last year at $35 for curlers, $10 for new curlers, $15 social and $25 for husband and wife social.

For those members who have not been to the club since the annual meeting, the new slate of officers of the Bathurst Curling Club are: Hilaire Bridson, president and chairman of the house committee; Rev Cowan, first vice-president and chairman of the finance committee; John Ianniff, second vice-president and chairman of the Canteen committee. Fernand Bastin, third vice-president and co-chairman of the entertainment and 20-20 draw committee; Herb Shaw, secretary; Buck Dooley, treasurer; Larry MacDonald, director and chairman of local and foreign match committee.

HAPPY WITH NEW PROJECT

Kenny Judge, a regular participant in the Rotarytime program for the mentally and physically handicapped and senior citizens in the city, looks pleased with his involvement in the group's newest project. Showcase has been commissioned by Dixie Lee to supply daily the refuse from the four stores along St. George Street. Mr. Brown then has the refuse taken away from Dixie Lee on a regular weekly basis. Incidentally, the Dixie restaurant at strategic intervals along the business section of St. George St. as a community service, are those built to Rotarytime members for 1976 Hospitality Days.

Papermakers Top Buyers

Back in 1969 the average worker in New Brunswick invested $355 in the annual Canada savings bonds under the "payroll savings" plan. Under this plan he paid regular pay deductions at his place of employment.

In 1970 he invested $370, compared with a Canadian average of $448.

By 1972 his purchase had climbed to $450, compared with a Canadian average of $522.

Last year the average New Brunswick worker brought $602 worth of bonds, while the Canadian average was $737.

It's worth noting incidentally, the New Brunswick payroll savings organizers at the Bank of Canada in Saint John pointed out, that employees in some industries in this province far exceeds the national average. In pulp and paper plants the average purchase rose as high as $1,100 and more last autumn.

This fall there is every portent already that the average will rise again - and that the provincial total will reach a new high, exceeding last year's [illegible].

"It has doubled in just the last five years," says senior organizer Norman B. Anglin, "and it's still soaring."

The payroll drive opened early by contrast, the general public sale of savings bonds was to be launched October 12. The new bonds pay an average yield of 9.13 per cent over their nine-year life.

APPOINTED AREA GOVERNOR OF TOASTMASTERS

Vanners Meet Is Successful

Between 5:00 p.m. Friday, Oct. 1, and noon Saturday, approximately 75 out-of-town Vanners were welcomed to the North Shore's first Van meet, "One Last Time '76" at Chapman's Trailer Park.

Participants were from N.B., Que., and as far as Guysborough County, N.S. The youngest Vanner trophy was awarded to an 8-week-old Vanner and the oldest went to a Vanner over 30.

Twenty-eight trophies were awarded and $3,000 in prizes donated by local (N.B.) sponsors. The three-day family event continued around the clock to the enjoyment of all.

The complete participation of all Vanners was climaxed at noon on Sunday by a caravan to the K mart parking lot in Bathurst where completion of trophy presentations took place and the vans were on public display.

On Saturday, a two-hour meeting took place resulting in the first steps towards the formation of a Maritime Van Council. The initiative of Nor Coast Vans is expected to result in the coordination of all Van activities to be held in Eastern Canada and the cooperation of all Van Clubs in N.B., P.E.I. and N.S.

A full slate of family activities will be organized at a meeting in Moncton on November 20 and the local club will be sending three representatives to help plan the season's activities.

Search At Loch Ness Not Over

Members of the Loch Ness expedition plan to return to Scotland in November to resume a photographic search for the legendary creature there.

Robert Rines, a Boston lawyer and leader of the search for the monster, said in an interview in New York that he and Charles Wycloff, the expedition's photographic specialists, intend to make one more attempt this year to photograph the so-called monster or whatever is believed by some people to inhabit the lake.

The hope, he said, is that salmon will be running in November and attracting the creature, or creatures from the depths and into view of the expedition's underwater cameras and sonar systems.

Even if luck continues to elude the expedition, preparations are underway to follow up one of the summer's discoveries. This was the indication, by sonar survey, of the presence of stone circles, apparently like those associated with the ancient Celts and their Druid priesthood, at the northeast end of the loch.

VON Appeal On Thursday

The Bathurst Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses will hold its annual financial campaign in the city on Thursday evening, October 21.

At this time, volunteer canvassers will call on residents of the area she limits to assist the V.O.N. in carrying on its work in the community. A special appeal will also be made to companies, social and religious associations, professionals and businessmen in order to reach the $5,000 objective.

The campaign is for 6 - 8 p.m.

From September 1, 1975 to August 31, 1976 the local nurses of the Victorian Order have visited 3,210 patients in the home, immunized 644 children and inspected 2,702 students at school.

Of the 3,210 home visits, only 488 were paid in full. A total of 894 were part in full. A total of 894 were partially paid and 1,910 were not paid at all. A great number of poorer families in the City of Bathurst would be adversely affected if this service were discontinued due to lack of funds.

Donations can be sent to the Victorian Order of Nurses, Bathurst Branch, Postal Drawer "S", Bathurst, N.B. An official receipt will be forwarded for tax purposes.

Principal Makes Group Effective

Parents and teachers share responsibility for maintaining a creative home and school association, but they take their cues from the principal.

A school will have an effective home and school association when the principal feels that home-school relationships are important, understands parents emotional investment in their children, respect the parents knowledge of their children and the community, recognizes that teachers and parents benefit equally by exchanging information, is frank and forthright regarding the school's weaknesses, strengths, needs and problems, realizes that the parents can help the school attain its objectives, values and home and school association's efforts to develop an informed public opinion on issues affecting children and education, enlists the active support of all teachers, and gives guidance and encouragement.

Financial Incentives for Tourism Development!

The specific objective of this experimental two-year Financial Incentives Program is to stimulate increased private sector investment in the tourist industry by providing interest-free, forgivable loans, for a portion of the capital cost of selected tourist facilities. The program is a joint project of the Province of New Brunswick and the Federal Department of Regional Economic Expansion (DREE) under the Canada New Brunswick Tourism Subsidiary Agreement.

What Tourist Facilities are eligible?

Assistance is available both to existing and new tourist "attractions" and "related accommodations" provided certain minimum conditions are satisfied. To qualify for a forgivable loan it is essential to show that the proposal is sound, that reasonable ownership capital will be invested, and that earnings will be sufficient to assure the continued operation of the firm.

MILITIAMEN MARKSMEN FOR A DAY

A classification day was conducted Saturday, Oct. 16, with approximately 40 militiamen of the 2 Field Park Squadron participating at the Army rifle range at Gloucester Junction. Priority is given to rifle marksmanship by the regiment and everyone must pass in order to qualify as a militiaman. During the demonstrations, the FNC-1, a regular service rifle, was handled by Pte. Thie rifle can be converted from a single shooter, semi-automatic to fully automatic. It has a scope sighting of 1,100 yards, holds 30 rounds of ammunition, weighs 15 lbs., and may be utilized with or without a bi-pod. The day was conducted by Lt. Conrad Lutes, Lt. Jean Claude Sonier, Sgt. Bruce White, WO Graham Wiseman, Sgt. Steven Bass and Sgt. Earl Nini.

Provincial Help Needed For Employment Program

Manpower and Immigration Minister Bud Cullen said Sept. 28 he was "surprised" at charges attributed to provincial welfare ministers that his department was not fulfilling its responsibilities to welfare recipients and was "not functioning as effectively as it should."

Referring to a recent article in a Toronto newspaper following a meeting of provincial welfare ministers, Mr. Cullen said that these criticisms had not been made to him, his predecessor or the department. The department, he said, has been making strenuous efforts to help welfare recipients find work, and developing agreements with provincial welfare departments to do so. "Generally," he said, "the provinces that are working most actively with us are satisfied with the results.

"In 1972," Mr. Cullen said, "the federal government initiated efforts to establish a working partnership between Canada Manpower and the provinces to assist hard-to-place clients. We asked the provinces to join with us to help these Canadians with special problems. Since that time, only two provinces, Ontario and British Columbia, have signed formal agreements with Canada Manpower to establish a co-ordinated service for the hard-core unemployed, welfare recipients, the disadvantaged, and the unskilled."

Mr. Cullen also pointed out that the allegations made by some provinces are not in accord with the findings of the Standing Senate Committee on Finance.

Two weeks ago, the Senate Committee pointed out that Canada Manpower has devoted a rapidly increasing proportion of its funds into preparing the disadvantaged for jobs and helping them find work. It warned that efforts to help the disadvantaged should not occur at the expense of serving employer needs and placing the "job ready."

"The reality is", he said, "that we have a consistent record of providing service to all Canadians - workers and employers. The facts show that we have taken initiatives. We have sought to coordinate employment-related federal and provincial services for welfare recipients.

"In British Columbia, we worked with the province to set up the Provincial Rehabilitation and Employment Program (P.R.E.P.) whereby some 30 provincial job finders are physically located in CMCs to help employable welfare recipients find gainful employment more quickly. Through the Ontario agreement, 10 provincial welfare officers operate within CMCs in a similar fashion.

"Moreover," Mr. Cullen said, "the department has informal agreements with some of the other provinces whereby provincial officials work with CMC personnel to help the hard-core unemployed.

"In St. John's, Newfoundland, and Saint John, New Brunswick, for instance, we have CMC officers located in provincial welfare offices. In O'Leary, Prince Edward Island, the CMC and provincial welfare officers operate side by side. These arrangements indicate our willingness to work with the provinces, wherever and however possible, to co-ordinate and improve service to provincial welfare recipients."

Mr. Cullen said his department also supports numerous programs designed to help the unemployed, disadvantaged and handicapped.

"Our Local Employment Assistance Program (L.E.A.P.) creates job opportunities and gives work experience to special needs clients. Our Canada Manpower Industrial Training Program is designed to encourage employers to hire and train the disadvantaged. In addition, the Outreach program goes into communities to help hard-core unemployed or disadvantaged get jobs or assistance. And many job-creation programs, such as the Local Initiatives Program (L.I.P.), support projects that employ the mentally and physically handicapped, the unskilled, or the chronically unemployed.

"I would like," Mr. Cullen said, "to urge the provinces to do more with us, and through co-operation meet the needs of disadvantaged Canadians."

For and about Teenagers

BY PATRICK EDWARD

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: I'm 16 and I really like this guy who is 18. I met him two years ago. Once in awhile – since we met – he has called or asked me out. I accepted. He said that he couldn't go with me any length of time because his friends don't like me. I really want to go with him but don't want him to lose his friends. I love him very much and know he loves me. Should I keep on going out with him whenever he asks me (his friends don't know) or should everything end? Don't say to go ahead and date other guys because he's the only one who ever asks me out. What should I do?

OUR REPLY: Make a decision. If this guy loves you, he should have sense enough to let you know and not worry about what his so-called "friends" think. What you two have should be between the two of you. You've got to decide whether it's worth the trouble to sneak out so his friends don't know. Share your decision with him. Let him know how you feel and find out what he thinks. If those people were really his friends, they'd love you as much as he does. That's what love is.

(Because of the volume of mail, requests for personal replies cannot be answered. However, if letter you submit has been used, your letter which best represents question and/or comments from readers. FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, BOX 639 FRANKFORT KY 40601)

Heath Steele Workers Return

An illegal work stoppage involving close to 300 union employees at Heath Steele Mines was halted Saturday, Oct. 16 by a court injunction.

The workers, members of Local 5319 United Steelworkers of America, walked off the job beginning with the 4 p.m. shift on October 13. The initial wildcat action began with 25 to 30 workers who refused to report for the shift and presented instead a written grievance to management over the dismissal of one employee.

Plant manager Maurice McKee said the union was served with a summons to appear for the court hearing on Saturday in an attempt to end the strike. He said the two sides had met several times earlier, and the union executive had appealed over local radio for the men to return to their jobs.

Dragging Blamed For Destruction

Illegal dragging operations off the New Brunswick coast have caused "terrible destruction" of salmon, cod, herring and lobster stocks, Natural Resources Minister Roland Boudreau said Friday, October 8.

Mr. Boudreau, appearing before the Legislature's select committee on fisheries, also said federal authorities do not appear to recognize the delicate relationship between offshore and inland fishing.

Terming his remarks "my own personal view", the minister told the committee there might not be any fish left in smaller bays 25 years from now unless something is done to stop illegal dragging.

"As soon as salmon runs starts, the draggers appear". Mr. Boudreau said. "I've personally seen as many as 28 blocking a 14-mile area in the Bay of Chaleur."

He said he feels there are now sufficient salmon stocks for the resumption of offshore commercial salmon fishing "if we can protect against salmon being caught on such a large scale by unknown fishermen".

The federal government has banned all commercial salmon fishing.

There is no final word on when the ban will be lifted, but there are some indications that limited salmon fishing may be allowed next year.

Mr. Boudreau said that not only are draggers illegally taking salmon, they are also conducting dragging operations within the three-mile offshore limit.

Pressed by the committee about who is specifically involved, the minister said he would not accuse anyone directly, but it is time for the province to insist on closer surveillance of off-shore fishing operations.

Offshore regulations are a federal matter while the provincial natural resources department is responsible for management of inland lakes and rivers.

Bond Issue In The U.S.

Finance Minister A. Edison Stairs announced October 15 the offering of a $75 million Province of New Brunswick bond issue in the United States market.

The interest rate on the issue was established at 8¼ per cent and the bonds are being offered at a price of $99 to yield 8.35 per cent to maturity. This will complete the province's borrowing program for this fiscal year, Mr. Stairs said.

The offering is being made through a syndicate of 42 Canadian and United States investment dealers managed by Salomon Brothers, The First Boston Corporation, Nesbitt Thomson Securities, Richardson Securities, Pitfield, Mackay, Ross and Co. and Levesque Beaubien.

The proceeds of the issue will be added to the consolidated fund of the province.

Mr. Stairs commented that the province has been able to raise its public borrowing requirements this year at an interest rate of 8% per cent which compared very favourably with interest rates paid by other provinces.

Home-School Seeking Members

In an attempt to double current membership, which stands at 7,000, the New Brunswick Federation of Home and School Associations will participate in a major Maritime membership campaign commencing October 10, 1976.

Mr. D. M. L. Dougherty of St. Stephen, provincial president, says involvement in the organization, which includes parents, teachers and anyone interested in education, has been increasing for the past two or three years following several years of membership decline.

Mr. Dougherty said education is presently undergoing severe financial restraints resulting in concern by parents and teachers about the educational welfare of the children. Never before has there been as great a need for parents and teachers to work together, said Mr. Dougherty.

Mrs. Robert Horsman of Moncton and Robert Allain of Cocagne have been appointed provincial co-chairmen for English-speaking and French-speaking sections of the province respectively. The membership ends October 22rd.

If you are a parent of a student attending Bathurst High School or J. Gordon Chalmers School, and wish to become a member of Home and School please contact Mrs. Zita Duguay, Chairman of Membership Committee or Mrs. Jay Winton, President of the Bathurst High and J. Gordon Chalmers Home and School Association. Telephone Numbers 546-2317 or 546-2391. Membership fee is $2.00 per family for the above-mentioned association.

Crackdown On Illegal Fishing Paying Off

Since the assigning of more patrol vessels and Fisheries personnel to the Shippegan area, illegal lobster fishing has been cut considerably, according to H. Douglas Johnston, director general, Maritimes Region, Federal Fisheries and Marine Service.

During the past few weeks, he said, extra patrol boats and Fisheries personnel have concentrated on destroying illegally set gear and apprehending those involved in this illegal operation. Mr. Johnston noted that approximately 3,500 traps have been destroyed in this area and 30 violators charged with lobster violations.

Of these, 23 cases have been finalized, he stated, with fines ranging from $50.00 to $500.00 being levied.

Mr. Johnston further stated that since pressure has been applied to this area, a large number of illegal operators have ceased operations. Consequently, poaching has dropped off considerably.

Elsewhere in New Brunswick, according to Mr. Johnston, approximately 1800 traps have been destroyed and 10,000 lobsters liberated near the Lobster District line at Point Escuminac. At the present time, four patrol vessels are concentrated in this area and operating on a twenty-four hour basis, whenever weather permits.

Mr. Johnston further noted that illegal lobster fishing is not only confined to New Brunswick, but also in the West Prince County of Prince Edward Island. He stated that two lobster fishing vessels were recently placed under seizure, when apprehended while engaged in illegal lobster fishing.

One of these vessels was placed under seizure with lobsters on board in Lobster Fishing District 7B, which is closed at this time of year. The vessel also failed to stop when signalled to do so by a government vessel. A second vessel was apprehended in District No. 18 with segregated undersized lobsters on board. Charges are to be laid against the operators of both vesses.

Mr. Johnson further stated that, to date, approximately 1800 traps had been destroyed between North Cape and Tignish. This area forms part of Lobster Fishing District 7B and has repeatedly presented an enforcement problem over the years.

Recently, the Fisheries director-general appealed to responsible citizens in those areas of concern, asking that they report any illegal lobster fishing activities to their local Fisheries personnel. He said he was very pleased to note that since this appeal, many law abiding fishermen and other concerned citizens have assisted his officers by reporting such illegal activities, enabling these officers to carry out their responsibilities in a more efficient manner.

Mr. Johnston again warns of serious consequences of court convictions against violators of the lobster fishing regulations, particularly licensed fishermen, whom, he said, would have their lobster fishing privileges suspended for part, or all, of next year's season or indefinitely, according to the circumstances.

He appeals to responsible citizens for their assistance in reporting such illegal activities.

Fish Population Badly Depleted

It could be ten years before Canadian fishermen reap the full benefit of Canada's 200-mile offshore economic zone, deputy fisheries minister Leonce Chenard said recently.

Dr. Chenard told the Legislature's Select Committee of Fisheries it probably would not be economically feasible at this time to invest heavily in larger fishing vessels because offshore fish stocks have been severely depleted by foreign fishing operations.

By no means are major species in danger of extinction, he said, but some, such as ocean perch and flounder, may take ten to twelve years to be replenished to previous levels.

Agreements extending Canada's economic control of offshore waters to 200 miles take effect Jan. 1, while foreign fleets will still be allowed to fish inside this zone, they must comply with regulations limiting their catches.

Dr. Chenard said because of the depleted fish population, Canadian fishermen could probably not catch enough now to warrant a program of escalated investment in large trawlers which cost from $4 million to $10 million to build.

"The fish are still there, but we're concerned about the amount of money that would be left in the fishermen's pocket", he said.

The deputy minister and six members of the fisheries department met with the committee October 7 to discuss their role in the province's fishing industry. New Brunswick has 5,000 fishermen and another 7,000 persons are employed in 164 fish-processing plants.

The seven-member committee, headed by Jean-Maurice Simard (PC - Edmundston) also met with officials of the provincial natural resources department and planned to solicit briefs from the fishing industry. Later this month, the committee begins a tour of the province's major fishing regions.

The Oct. 7 session was mainly devoted to discussion of fisheries department priorities and the many complexities of federal-provincial programs and jurisdiction.

Labor Leader Comments On Throne Speech

The federal government's concern about labor relations outlined in the speech from the throne October 12 could best be eased by removing anti-inflation controls and allowing employers and employees to negotiate wages, the president of the New Brunswick Federation of Labor says.

Paul LePage of Bathurst said he did not know what was meant by a reference in the speech to creation of "better mechanisms for settling labor disputes."

It would be difficult to improve collective bargaining without removing controls, he said.

The labor president said the speech should have contained something "that would help down the basic costs for the little guy."

A proposal to expand labor education programs was welcome, as was increased assistance for small business.

Financial assistance to large corporations should be monitored closely to make sure it was used to develop the Canadian economy, he said.

Mr. LePage said it was his personal view that bilingual education programs for children were the most important part of the bilingualism program.

The speech said discussions would be held with the provinces to find ways of increasing the effectiveness of training in both official languages.

Social & Personal

Mrs. Rhonda Ellis, Janeville, has been visiting for several days with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hooper and children Dale and Brian at Sussex.

Mr. John Knowles recently accepted a position with P and C Leasing at Kentville, N.S. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Knowles, Clifton.

CWO Harold Knowles, Mrs. Knowles and children Karen, Donald and Jessica, Canadian Armed Forces, Debert, N.S., and Mr. Donald Knowles, Fredericton, were Thanksgiving weekend guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Knowles, and visited other relatives in the area.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Jamison visited last week with the former's mother, Mrs. Hammond Johnson, at the Drew Nursing Home in Sackville.

Why We Have A Home And School

One thing that the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation has demonstrated over the years is the value of united study and action. No man is an island; we cannot exist in isolation. We are dependent on others for most of the essentials in life and living, and others are dependent on us. The highest of life's values, such as love, happiness, peace and understanding are worthless unless they are shared.

Children and youth deserve our best efforts. Growing up in the 20th century is no simple matter. Many conflicting attractions compete for our children's attention and acceptance. We cannot agree on every issue but commiting our efforts in as many ways as possible will give our children a much better chance.

We need all the help we can get. Being a parent or a teacher in 1976 presents problems that have never been faced before. Doing our best for our children has never been an easy task, but now it is more complicated than ever. Parents and teachers have the same hopes for the younger generation and it is only reasonable that we work them out together.

We have responsibilities. The success of a democratic form of government depends on the interest and participation of its citizens. The education of our children and youth is an investment in our country's future and we have a responsibility to see that it is vital and progressive.

A united voice is a powerful voice. - One of the great dangers of our day is the apathy that results from a sense of powerlessness. "Nobody listens to me so why should I speak out?" But when people agree on a good cause and present their convictions with a united voice they are heard and their opinions valued. Delegations to school boards, briefs to government agencies, representations to cabinet ministers are received with courtesy and considered with respect. Much more is accomplished than could be done by any person acting alone.

We don't try to run the schools. - There are duly elected or appointed boards to operate the schools. In many cases, Home and School Association members are included in these boards. In many more cases members of the boards are members of our organizations. But while we leave the running of the schools to these boards, we, as parents, taxpayers and taxpayers, frequently express our opinions as to school policies and practices. We are convinced this is our right and our duty as good citizens.

Province Takes Over Drug Cases

The province, instead of the federal government, will soon be prosecuting drug offenders.

Justice Minister Paul Creaghan said last week that the change arises from "a question of jurisdiction."

"The province is responsible for the administration of criminal law and, as such, is responsible for prosecutions, but it is generally understood that the federal government prosecutes under federal statutes," he said.

Most of the provinces agree they should have the responsibility for prosecuting drug offences which are contained in the Food and Drug Act and the Narcotics Control Act. The idea has been discussed at several ministerial conferences.

"A decision has been hanging in the wings for a long time," Mr. Creaghan said. "We couldn't come to any agreement with the federal government. We're now taking the initiative on our own."

He said other provinces have already done this and cited British Columbia as an example.

"The federal government in New Brunswick does not have any prosecutors - they have to hire them individually for each case," Mr. Creaghan noted. "The province has professional, in-house prosecutors, full-time government lawyers, and they will be doing all the drug prosecutions."

According to Mr. Creaghan, the switch from federal to provincial prosecutors will not mean an increase in staff for the justice department.

"We'll be using our existing prosecutors to handle drug cases," he said. "We won't be hiring anyone new at all."

The justice minister said he thinks the result of the change will be a "a smoother-run system" because the prosecutors will be "in the job full-time, better able to handle things and fit cases into court sittings."

He said there is no exact cut-off date for the transition.

"It depends on cooperation with the police," he said, "and some discussions with the police are going on at administrative levels now."

Every dollar for children's welfare that comes from the proceeds from UNICEF cards and calendars is more than matched, in goods, services and manpower, by the developing countries which receive assistance.

2 Records Set By Balloonist

Balloonist Ed Yost, who passed over Bathurst October 6 enroute overseas, went down in the Atlantic east of the Azores October 10 after flying longer and further in a balloon than anyone else. He was rescued by a West German tanker and said he was in good condition.

Yost, a 57-year-old balloon manufacturer from Sioux Falls, South Dakota, lifted off from the Maine coast October 9 in an attempt to become the first person to cross the Atlantic in a balloon.

He went down 300 miles southwest of Lisbon and 250 miles east of the Azores Islands after running out of ballast to throw overboard and thus keep control of the craft.

Yost's headquarters near Washington said he had stayed aloft just a few minutes short of 107 hours, exceeding the old record of 87 hours set in 1963 by a German named H. Kaulen.

The headquarters said he had travelled about 2500 miles, well beyond the record of 1,886.9 miles flown by H. Berliner, also a German, in 1904.

Proceeds from one box of UNICEF Greeting Cards can buy 1,000 Multivitamin capsules for a mother or child, or buy enough seed to save 600 feet each of lettuce, carrot and beet crops.

The Communist Line Is Starting To Show

The Communist Party of Canada is healthy, according to Leader William Kashtan.

He was referring to the party's recent 23rd congress held in Toronto's King Edward Hotel.

"Last year there were 180 delegates. This year there are 200 from all provinces of Canada, except New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland. We have people there, however, and next year is the convention there will be representatives from all the provinces.... Canadians are beginning to see through the capitalist system."

The interview ended on a sour note, however. The reporter observed that despite party claims of a broadly based support among the working class of all ethnic origins, all the delegates appeared to be white.

"We come in all sizes and shapes, Mr. Kashtan," now a pensioner in Thunder Bay, Ont., said. "We happen to have a couple of black delegates here."

When the newsman asked where they were, Mr. Kashtan replied, "I don't have time for funny questions. If you have some serious ones, I'll answer them."

Meanwhile, back in Fredericton, N.B. last week labor protest organizers refused the support of a group of Communist students from the University of New Brunswick.

The president of the UNB branch of the Communist Party of Canada (Marxist-Leninist), Richard Brown, tried to speak to labor demonstrators gathered in front of the Centennial Building for the October 14 day of protest against wage controls.

However, Terry Carter, protest co-ordinator, refused him permission to speak because "They do not represent students."

Carter explained that Brown was earlier given permission to speak because he said he represented UNB students, but on the day of the protest he showed up with about five other Communist Party members only.

Mr. Brown, whose group marched in the protest, said he should have been allowed to speak.

He told a reporter his is a small group but represents students. "They feel the present economic crisis was caused by the rich and therefore the rich should have to pay, not the people."

Copper Price Is Decreased

Noranda Sales Corp. Ltd., marketing arm of Noranda Mines Ltd., Toronto, says it will reduce its price for Canadian copper to match a four-cent price decrease initiated by two major producers in the United States.

A company spokesman said there must be a readjustment in the Canadian price to make it equivalent to the new U.S. price.

Phelps Dodge Corp. and Asaco Inc., both of New York, reduced their price for electrolytic copper cathodes to 70 cents a pound from 74 cents.

CITY STUDENT AMONG SCHOLARSHIP WINNERS

The autumn assembly at the Nova Scotia Agricultural College was held October 6th. It was featured, as usual, by the presentation of scholarships and prizes to those students who have earned these awards either during the past year at the College or because of their high school standing in subjects required by the College. This year a total of one hundred and eight students received awards.

Guest speaker for the event was T. M. MacIntyre, superintendent Experimental Farms, Agriculture Canada, Nappan, N.S., who compared agriculture and agricultural education as it is today with the situation that existed when he was a student in the late 1930's. Dramatic changes have taken place during this period, changes which have moved agriculture from the horse era to the highly mechanized industry of today, he said.

Mr. MacIntyre, however, sees opportunity in agriculture research and development for major changes in the future. Such changes will provide opportunities for today's students to play an important part in shaping the agriculture of the future.

At the close of the assembly those in attendance moved to the location of the MacMillan Show Centre for the official opening of that building. Named for Archibald MacMillan, who was for many years farm superintendent at the N.S.A.C., this building will be used for equestrian training by the College and as an indoor show arena by the Nova Scotia Provincial Exhibition.

Bay Pollution Concerns MLA

Concern over pollution in Caraquet Bay was among a wide range of subjects discussed October 7 when officials of the federal Fisheries Department met with New Brunswick's Select Committee of Fisheries.

Also discussed were federal fishing license predecures, Canadian fishermen selling their catches to foreign fleets and the apparent lack of co-ordination between the provincial and federal governments.

Omer Doiron (L-Caraquet) said he is not satisfied that enough is being done to resolve pollution problems which have led to closing half of Caraquet Bay to oyster fishing.

Ted Gaudet, director of fisheries training, said the matter is being studied by provincial and federal environment experts, and that the fisheries department is keeping a close eye on the situation.

Later in an interview, provincial pollution control director David Silliphant said the pollution stems from small streams that empty into the bay which are apparently being contaminated by runoff from agricultural land and septic tanks.

The problem is commonon along the New Brunswick coast, particularly in more populated areas, said Mr Silliphant, but because the Caraquet region is one of the best for shellfish, there is cause for concern.

Monitoring continues at the site, he added, and the extent of the oyster ban varies from time to time depending on bacteria levels in the bay.

Earlier, deputy fisheries minister Leonce Chenard told the committee the "Fragmented" nature of the fishing industry is one of its biggest handicaps. Because there are about 19 or 20 fishermen's associations in the province, he said they tend to be weak, poorly organized and unable to communicate with government.

The department provided $65,000 this year to help the various organizations and plans to allocate funds for this purpose again next year, he said.

Dr. Chenard also said the province should consider establishing a program similar to that of some European countries in which fishermen can retire at age 55.

Pair Sentenced In County Court

Two Cap Bateau men found guilty of robbery with violence were sentenced in County Court in Bathurst Wednesday, Oct. 13.

Henri-Paul Larocque, 26, was sentenced to three years in the federal penitentiary for his part in the robbery by County Court Judge Chaiker Abbis. He had a previous criminal record.

His nephew, 18-year-old Alexandre Larocque, was handed a two-year suspended sentence and placed on probation for two years.

The pair were charged and tried jointly in connection with the August 19 robbery of a car belonging to Wilfred Paulin of Shippegan accompanied by violence to Mr. Paulin. Both had pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Crown Prosecutor Reginald Leger called eleven witnesses to the stand while defense lawyer Gladys Young summoned three.

It was revealed both accused had been drinking at a tavern when they asked Mr. Paulin for a drive. Later deprived of his car keys, Mr Paulin was struck about the face. He later escaped and called police.

Life In A Nursing Home

By Mrs. Raymond Johnson

Seventh and final instalment

In July 1975 the connection between the Director of Nursing and the Dove Nursing Home, was severed, and at the same time our very efficient and understanding night nurse, "Mrs. Al" was ordered by her doctor to take a year's rest. Also, it was vacation time, with some of the regular staff off. It seemed as if there might be chaos for a while, but the staff rose to the occasion, the nurses went on with their work as they had been taught and the housekeeping staff kept the rooms shining, and doing many helpful things for the guests, and we never heard of anyone or anything being neglected. Ads were put in the paper for a Director of Nursing, and the Board appointed Mrs. Joan McKenzie, her duties to commence in October.

Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie and family were from Sterlingshire, Scotland. They had been in Canada some years and were all naturalized Canadians and were now living in Southampton, N.S.

In August some of my family came to help celebrate my 85th birthday. We had lunch in the lounge of the New Wing. I had two birthday cakes, one from the family and one from Mrs. W.A. Patterson of Sackville, who has been kind enough to make a birthday cake every year since I have been here, and a very pound cake at that.

This was but one of the many things she had been doing. She was bringing beautiful roses from her garden and sharing them with many of the guests.

On October 6th, a reception was arranged in the main lounge for Mrs. McKenzie. The administration staff, the nurses, and all members of the housekeeping staff, the chaplain, the activity director, all the guests from both Wings who were able to come, with friends and many others who were in one way or another connected with the Dove were present to welcome the most attractive lady. To get adjusted and learn the working of the Home for over one hundred guests, besides staff and residents of the cottages was no small assignment, but Mrs. McKenzie mastered it all very quickly and we soon found she was as efficient as attractive.

It was made more difficult for her and everyone by a national postal strike, which lasted for five weeks. With no mail coming in and none going out there were many who were unwell, especially those who were sick to whom she had to minister.

The strike however was over in time for the regular preparations to be made for Christmas, though there wasn't quite the spirit of other years.

There was a birthday celebration for Miss Nellie Copp on the 24th of December, though it wasn't quite so elaborate as the year before. It is rather strange but the 101st birthday, though one is a year older, does not seem as important as being 100 or either trust the Queen this time.

As we finish our thoughts of "Life in a Nursing Home" we enter into 1976 with loving thoughts of those who have been here and have now "entered into their rest." Also all that has been done for us by nurses, staff and all helpers in and around our home.

Our therapy slogan, "Do as much for yourself as you can."

We hope those who come after us will receive all the good cheer and kindness we have received, and for which the United Church Home for Senior Citizens, the Dove Nursing Home and Tantramar Residences are noted. "All one big family."

Mr. Doran, centre of group, explains the growth of a small fir tree found in the area.

LOCAL CENTRE IDEAL FOR TEACHERS PROGRAMS

Outdoor education, one of many topics studied by teachers in School District No. 4, during their two-day professional development workshop Oct. 12 and 13, was conducted by Douglas Doran, of the N.B. Natural Resources Office, Rolling Dam, Charlotte County, at the Janeville Science Centre, formerly the Janeville School.

This continuing project in the study of Natural Science appears to have no equal in N.B. It may be the only one of its type in the Maritimes. District Four is fortunate in having the Centre in such an ideal location.

It is easily reached and has indoor accommodation for thirty or more students. A gravelled road leads to a beach area, through second-growth woods. Beside the road, and across the gravel road via a bridge, is a good-size brook, which expands into a shallow lagoon behind the beach before emptying into Bay Chaleur. Thus, there is an area including samples of almost every aspect of Northern New Brunswick.

In the building, there is a small library of reference books, French and English, starting with the simplest and going on. There are magnifying glasses and microscopes, instruments for handling specimens, and other equipment. Students can bring their discoveries under shelter for detailed examination.

Credit for all this is due to the forethought and energy of the superintendent and staff of School District No. 4. R. A. Ouellette, and his supervisor Bob Brown, have rendered a service of great value to the students who visit the centre.

Was Founder Of Blue Cross

Miss Ruth Cook Wilson, who died in Moncton at the age of 81, was the main organizer and driving force behind the eventual creation of Blue Cross of Atlantic Canada. She was recognized as both an able administrator and an innovator and a builder of ideas.

In her early years, the New Jersey native was an X-ray technician with the New York Polytechnical School. During these years she also gained a certificate in aeronautical engineering.

Miss Wilson became associated with The Moncton Hospital in 1919, an affiliation which she carried on until 1946 at which time she was Secretary to the Board. She was Assistant Superintendent at the time she left active employment with the hospital.

One of the prime movers behind the creation of the Maritime Hospital Association in 1942, Miss Wilson was instrumental in the establishment of a pre-payment plan for hospital services in Atlantic Canada.

Out of her work, she was appointed by the association as the first executive-director of Maritime Blue Cross, the forerunner of Blue Cross of Atlantic Canada. She held the position from 1943 until her retirement in 1958.

Her strong initiative and concern for the needs of the community brought about the first pre-payment plan in the area, a plan which now serves the needs of over 300,000 people.

Miss Wilson was also a driving force in the development of the first pre-payment plan for medical services in Atlantic Canada. It was known as Blue Shield at the time of its creation in 1947.

In her capacity as executive-director, she was the first woman in North America to head up a Blue Cross plan.

In 1958, she was bestowed by St. Francis Xavier University with an honorary Doctorate of Laws.

During her business career, she was a director of the Canadian Council of Blue Cross Plans, a director of Trans-Canada Medical Plans and a fellow of the American College of Hospital Administrators.

She also served on the board of governors of the Blue Cross Association and was a member of the Moncton area Business and Professional Women's Club. She was a long time member of Soroptimist International of Moncton, and at the time of her death was Honorary President. She attended the Anglican Church.

PET NEWS

"Orphans"

By Marguerite Morrison

Our dog is always finding things.
He brings them to the house.
He carries them most carefully.
He has a gentle mouth.

Today it was a baby skunk,
Small and cold and wet.
He laid it on my mother's lap,
We'll keep it for a pet.

For a skunk is really a gentleman,
If given due respect.
And to treat him most politely,
We'll be sure to recollect.

Pet Owners: Speaking of skunks, if your pet attacks one, wash him with tomato juice. Spray your yard with "mistohan" to keep skunks away, and never leave any garbage loose.

Action at the Animal Shelter: Four kittens, one puppy and one dog found home for the winter.

Be sure your dog has its rabies shots renewed every year, and keep your dog leaf at all times, winter and summer.

Average Fish Price Doubled

Fisheries Minister Omer Leger announced Oct. 12 that New Brunswick fishermen landed 20,557,831 pounds of fish for a total value of $4,459,802 in July.

The value of landings increased 4% per cent while the weight was down 29 per cent, compared to the same month last year. However, the total average price practically doubled for all species, the minister said.

In weight, scallop and pollock catches were the largest with an increase of 1,252 and 617 per cent respectively while cod and herring catches decreased by 68 and 49 per cent respectively in relation to July, 1975.

Clam and pollock catches showed the largest increase in value with 365 and 478 per cent increases respectively. Cod and flat fish catches decreased the most, 64 and 25 per cent respectively.

In price, clam and redfish catches registered the highest increase with 422 and 73 per cent respectively while the largest decrease was (illegible) alewives and eel catches with 28 and 37 per cent, respectively.

Last year, tuna catches were reported in June, while this year, landings were registered in July. There was an increase of 192 per cent in weight and 138 per cent in value. However, the average price went down by 18 per cent compared to last year.

The chief work of the Home and School is to influence public opinion to work for better schools, better trained teachers and parents, a full realization of the need for each child to receive the highest education of which he is capable, and a close co-operation between the home and the school. Know Your School!

The minister said.

Figures on fish landings were supplied by the fisheries and marine branch of Environment Canada and variations compiled by the provincial department of fisheries, Mr. Leger said.

CAR and DRIVER

APRIL 1975

Whole populations of drivers will live for years with this car, strongly impressed by its generally nimble disposition and its sensitive feel of the road through the steering wheel and brake pedal. It slips through city traffic like a bicycle and thrives on the parking space remnants most cars pass by. You can stuff enough groceries for a football team through the rear hatch while the back seat folds and pivots forward out of the way. The only thing you'll need a trailer for is objects too heavy to shove across the high lift-over.

ONE OF TEN CANADIAN CAR WINNERS

Jamie MacDonald, district sales manager, Kellogg Salada Canada Ltd., Montreal, presents Mr. and Mrs. Roger Breese, Paquetville, keys to a 1977 Dodge Monaco. Evan Moffitt, president, Bayside Chrysler Dodge, looks on. He was also in charge for the prompt delivery of the car.

Mr. Breese won the 1977 model by entering the Kellogg Charger Sweepstakes Contest which offered 10 cars as grand prizes across Canada. Entry coupons were available on packages of Kellogg Cornflakes. Two entries were mailed by Mr. Breese.

Since the Charger name was dropped from the Chrysler line, the Breeses received a Monaco equipped with a six-cylinder motor, power brakes, power steering, dual chrome remote mirrors, radio, white-wall tires, deluxe wheel covers, canopy vinyl roof with opera windows. There was also no tax and license charges whatsoever levied to the new owner.

Mr. and Mrs. Breese have a family of seven, and own a 1969 model car. Mr. Breese stated he was overjoyed with his good fortune and thanked the Kellogg Company for making it happen. He is employed as a mechanic at Cirtex Knitting Inc., Caraquet.

Committee To Review Sharing Arrangement

DIEPPE — Municipal Affairs Minister Horace Smith announced Oct. 9 the formation of a interdepartmental committee on municipal financing.

To be headed by Paul Leger, director of the taxation and fiscal policy division of the Department of Finance, the committee will also contain representatives of the departments of municipal affairs, transportation and cabinet secretariat.

In his announcement to the annual meeting of the Towns Association, Mr. Smith said it was decided to establish the committee in response to requests to amend the unconditional grant formula under which the province shares tax revenues with municipalities.

Noting that unconditional grants are "of keen interest to municipalities", the minister said he had resisted "all overtures and pressures" to amend the existing formula.

But in light of the pace of "changing circumstances and the necessity and relevance of a continuing review of the grant formula's performance" it was decided to examine and review the sharing arrangement.

The committee's terms of reference are as follows:

Examine and report on expenditure and revenue trends of municipalities for the period 1971 to 1975, by class of municipality, by expenditure function and by revenue source, for the period 1976 to 1980, assuming present federal and provincial policies and financial assistance remain unchanged.

Prepare projections of municipal expenditures and revenues, by class of municipality, by expenditure function and by revenue source, for the period 1976 to 1980, assuming present federal and provincial policies and financial assistance remain unchanged.

Identify the impact of projected municipal expenditures and revenue on municipal financing, including local tax rates and provincial financial assistance to municipalities, assuming no change in provincial or federal policies of financial assistance.

Examine and report on alternative methods available to the provincial government for providing financial assistance to municipalities for the period 1976 to 1980.

Examine and report on any other related matters or problems concerning the financing of municipalities and non-incorporated areas for the period 1976 - 1980.

Mr. Smith added that representatives to the Towns Association submit their views to the committee "so that proper and thorough consideration can be accommodated in the study".

The municipal affairs minister said the government expects to be in receipt of the report by Dec. 31, 1976.

Library Brief Hearings Here

The N.B. Department of Education's School Library Task Force meets in Bathurst tonight, Wednesday, October 20. The sessions, under Chairman D. S. Allen, are slated for the School Board Office, King Ave., from 7:00 to 9:00.

Comprising eight members, the group was assigned to examine staffing procedures, expenditures and support procedures. Also to recommend, as it sees necessary, methods to improve school library services. This is to be done in a manner acceptable to school staffs and authorities.

Briefs and written or oral comments from interested groups and individuals have been previously solicited in advertisements.

Measles, diarrhea and respiratory infections - minor childhood complaints in Canada - are child killers in poor societies, primarily because malnutrition weakens the children's resistance. With revenue raised through the sale of Greeting Cards, UNICEF is able to provide food supplements, vaccines and other medicines to lessen this cruel and tragic waste.

County-Grown Tree A Winner

A Pokemouche Christmas tree grower, Yvon St. Pierre, has captured the fifth prize in the Canadian Christmas Tree Competition held recently in Bridgewater, N.S. He is a member of the Super Verte Christmas Tree Association.

Lloyd Bushnaught of Harvey Station captured the grand champion prize in the same competition. His tree, entered by the St. Croix Christmas Tree Co-op, was chosen for best shape and appearance over all other entries.

The majority of cultivated Christmas trees in New Brunswick are produced by 20 associations. Most of them are sold for export to Eastern United States markets, but some do end up on local retail lots.

Tabernacle Hosts Crusade

A New Life Crusade with Evangelist Lindahl Faulkner of Newfoundland is underway until Oct. 31 at Evangel Pentecostal Tabernacle, 405 King Avenue, Bathurst.

Services are set for 8 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and 10 a.m., 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. on Sunday and will deal with such topics as salvation, divine healing, Holy Spirit baptism and deliverance.

The public is cordially invited to attend the sessions and let God meet its needs. The sick will be prayed for during every service. Anyone requiring transportation is asked to call the church at 546-2172.

The objects are:

1) to promote the welfare of children and youth;

2) to raise standards of home life;

3) to promote and secure adequate legislation for the care and protection of children and youth;

4) to foster co-operation between parents and teachers in the training and guidance of children and youth, both during and after the school period;

5) to obtain the best for each child according to his physical, mental, social and spiritual needs;

6) to give parents an understanding of the school and its work, and to assist in interpreting the school in all its aspects to the public;

7) to confer and co-operate with organizations other than schools which concern themselves with the care, protection and training of children and youth in the home, school and community; and with the education of adults to meet these responsibilities;

NB President Guest Speaker

The A.C.W. groups of St. George's Church were honored with a visit from their Diocesan President Mrs. Owen Smith, and the secretary, Mrs. William Draper both of Fredericton.

A large number of Anglican Church Women from New Bandon Pastoral Charge in the Downshore area were in attendance as well.

R.E.O. president Mrs. R. Brown opened the meeting by introducing the three diocesan officers who included Mrs. R. H. Murphy of Bathurst, publications chairman.

Mrs. Smith then took charge and spoke to the group concerning changes taking place in the objectives and structure of the ACW movement in the province. She capably answered questions. She was assisted by St. George's Rector Archdeacon R. H. Murphy in explaining the set up of Diocesan Synod.

In appreciation, Mrs. Robert Hills, on behalf of those present, presented Mrs. Smith with a plate commemorating the 150th anniversary of St. George's parish.

The next speakers were Mrs. Draper and Mrs. Murphy who briefly discussed their areas of responsibility.

Refreshments were served during a social hour which followed.

The general opinion of the gathering was that this type of joint meeting should be repeated in the future.

The water used by 80 per cent of the population of the developing world is either unsafe or inadequate, or both. UNICEF Greeting Cards help the United Nations Children's Fund support projects which will provide abundant, unpolluted water.

Home-School Associations And 'The Child In The Community'

Beyond the confines of the home or the school, the child encounters strong influences which are only slightly within the control of the parent or the teacher. Efforts to modify these influences can be effective and must be maintained, but the strongest preparation is that which is built into the individual child by concerted action between the home and the school.

There are three broad approaches which we can use in this connection.

a) Become thoroughly familiar with community conditions so as to be prepared for any eventuality.

b) Educate our children to make wise and thoughtful decisions when faced with the necessity of new and unexpected choices.

c) Undertake or participate in worthwhile community endeavors to improve environmental conditions to which our children will be subjected.

Here are a few matters which should interest us when thinking about the community influences acting on our children:

Prejudice: Either racial, religious or linguistic. Are our children growing up with open minds regarding people who differ from us in some way?

Television: How much and what kind of influence is being brought to bear on our children through the medium of the television set? How much are we consciously using its educational aspects? What effect is the great amount of violence having on our children's thoughts and actions?

Narcotics: Are we familiar with the extent to which narcotics are prevalent in our communities? Are our children aware of the dangers and are they prepared to cope with unexpected attempts to involve them in their use?

Recreation: How adequate are our community recreation facilities? What use is being made of them? Can the officials use additional interested assistants?

Health - Welfare Services: Are available services adequate to the needs of the community? Would our intervention help to improve or extend them?

Human Rights: What is the status of minority groups in our communities? What can we do to help provide equal opportunity for all?

International Understanding: We live in a world which is constantly shrinking in terms of time and communication. What attitudes are our children developing with regard to people in other lands? What activities leading to world understanding and brotherhood are we involved in?

Remembrance Day Program

President Mrs. Yvonne Bourque presided at the regular monthly meeting of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Council Catholic Women's League on Oct. 5, opening with prayers led by the director, Revs. Lucius Vermeersch.

Bible reading was by Mrs. Cecile Hachey.

Father Vermeersch reported that Bible classes are being conducted every second Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. at the House of Prayer and asked members to attend if possible.

Secretary, Mrs. Hilda Cormier read the minutes and Mrs. Arnolda Nim, treasurer submitted the financial report.

Christian family life convener Mrs. Cecile Hachey reported on the Guide and Brownie leaders and groups for the coming year. She noted that 17 Guides and 25 Brownies were registered. A request for a flag for the Brownie Pack was tabled until a later meeting.

Mrs. Felix Veniot reported a notice of the meeting had been announced on the radio and in the church bulletin. A mass for veterans will be held on Remembrance Day. The Rosary is to be recited before mass every Wednesday night during the month of October.

Five members attended the semi-annual convention at Dieppe on Oct. 2 and a report on this convention was given by the president.

Tickets on a bicycle lottery to raise funds for the council were distributed among the members to sell.

The meeting adjourned with prayer and lunch was served by Mrs. Therese Doucet.

LINES AND WRINKLES

By MARY KALLUA

Cosmetic science has extracted a rare beauty substance from the bean of a tropical plant that works wonders in making rough, lined face and dry chapped hands look years younger fast. Use it tonight and you should see some improvement in the morning. Many small lines around the eyes and mouth may almost have disappeared and wrinkles you have given up as hopeless should start to smooth out in a few days. But that isn't all. That disconcerting weather-darkened old age skin may follow suit. But don't take my word for it . . . use this miracle substance yourself for a week and see for yourself. Then switch from a cosmetic counter to turn for school. It's the magical new cosmetic that works wonders on wrinkles and lines. It's called Cosmetic Dry Skin Cream.

Allen-McMorland Nuptials In Ontario

A wedding of interest to the local area took place recently at Hespeler, Ont., when Moira Janet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McMorland of Hespeler-Cambridge, Ont., became the wife of Bruce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Allen of Youngfield.

Nuptial music was played by Catherine Middleton, while soloist was Lynde Buchler.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white jersey trimmed with lace and small pearls. The bodice featured an open horseshoe neckline and the sleeves closed snugly at the wrists. The skirt ended in a chapel train and her headpiece featured a two-tiered veil decorated with white daisies and pearls which trimmed the edge and matched the gown. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, white carnations and baby's breath.

The maid of honor was Miss Ruth McMorland who wore a floor-length gown of pale blue Swiss dot material with square neckline, long sleeves gathered at the wrists and boasted a large ruffle at the hem. She carried a nosegay of cornflowers and daisies.

Miss Elizabeth McMorland as bridesmaid, wore a dress identical in styling and color as the maid of honor and carried a nosegay of cornflowers and daisies.

The groomsman was Robert Simpson, while the ushers were John McMorland and Samuel Yeargood of Dunn, Ont.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Robert Simpson.

After the reception, the couple left on a wedding trip to the East coast, travelling through New York, Vermont, Maine, Nova Scotia, N.B. and Quebec.

For travelling, the bride chose a three-piece jersey knit suit in powder blue with navy accessories. Her corsage was orchids.

Out-of-town guests attended from Kentville, N.S., Bathurst and Jacquet River, N.B., Bourng Branch, Penn., Brantford and Terrace Bay, Ont.

The bride is a graduate of Galt Collegiate Institute and the groom graduated from Bathurst High School and Conestoga College.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen will reside in Toronto where the former is employed as Allen Film Productions.

Miss Laura Ellis, Worcester, Mass., and Mrs. Stanley Miller, Preston, Mass., were guests last week of the former's sister, Mrs. Edward Crowther and Mr. Crowther, Salmon Beach, and visited other relatives and friends in the Chesterfield area.

MEAT IMPORTANT PROTEIN SOURCE

Meat products are looked upon as an important source of protein, points out Miss Gail Evan, director of scientific activities for the Meat Packers Council of Canada.

The human body is comprised almost entirely of protein: skin, hair, nails, vital organs, muscles and even the base of our bones. Only when an adequate amount of top quality protein is supplied can the body function normally and maintain health to continue its constant program of building and rebuilding. As large amounts of protein cannot be stored in the body it is important to consume protein every day.

Protein is composed of 20 or more amino acids of which eight (essential amino acids) cannot be synthesized by the body and therefore must be received by eating animal protein foods such as meats, cheese and milk.

As meat contains high amounts of all the essential amino acids, it is considered to be a high quality protein source, according to Miss Evans.

When protein enters the stomach it is broken into amino acids by the digestive juices. They are then passed into the blood stream and on to the cells which select the particular amino acid need for their specific building job.

It's reassuring that the methods employed in the commercial production of cured meats do not affect the nutritional value of the meat protein. There is no significant loss of amino acids as a result of normal cooking procedures.

The Canada Food and Drugs Act specifies that:

a) for fresh uncooked sausage products e.g. breakfast sausage, the total protein content shall be not less than 9 percent.

b) for cooked sausage products e.g. wieners, bologna, the total protein content must be not less than 12 percent.

While meat products must meet consumer expectations from many points—appearance, price, safety, availability, convenience, consistency, etc. it is reasonable to expect processed meats should also provide a reasonable level of nutrition. We are fortunate in this country to have available on a regular basis an abundant supply of nutritious, wholesome meat and meat products at reasonable cost.

BIBLE DIGEST "Now the just shall live by faith, but if any man draw back, my soul shall have no pleasure in him." Hebrews 10:38

Faith is God's highest order of living. No one "gets down to it", but they "move up to it." "He has given to every man a measure of faith" — that's enough. Bring it out and put it to work.

ANN LANDERS

Clearly Accented Voices Are Best

By ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You are probably fed up with letters about the various accents of people who live in different parts of the United States. I hope you can stand one more.

According to a piece by Donald Aliee of North American Newspaper Alliance, pronunciation can spell the difference between life and death.

In the last war, a New England-reared Naval Reserve officer was put in command of a ship manned almost entirely by members of a Louisiana Naval Reserve unit. After a brief cruise, the ship steamed back to the Norfolk, Va., base on an emergency mission. The skipper wanted his crew to take a crash course in English. "They don't understand a word of my commands," he complained.

A Michigan-born officer was placed aboard the ship to relay the captain's orders to the crew. His clearly-accented Midwestern voice was easily understood by the boys from the Bayou State.

Wherever possible during the war, Midwestern accents issued the orders in emergencies, when understanding might mean the difference between life and death.

So, Ann, don't be ashamed of your Iowa twang. It's beautiful. - With You

DEAR WITH: Who's ashamed? I wouldn't trade my Iowa twang for all the finishing school accents in the world. It suits me just fine.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been married 20 years to a good man who has been a faithful husband and wonderful father. Everyone considers our marriage ideal. From the outside it looks terrific.

Problem: He is a heavy lover and I am sick of pretending he's great. His lovemaking leaves me frustrated and exhausted. I should get an Academy Award for my acting performances. Now, I wonder if I am being fair to myself. What do you think? - Mad The Ozone

DEAR MAD: Occasional play-acting under certain conditions can be quite duplicity, but for 20 years? The next time you teacher her husband how to be a good lover by letting him know what pleases her. If more wives would be less bashful and make the effort they'd discover a husband can be a most rewarding pupil.

Dear Ann Landers: I finally know what the word "chutzpah" means although I am a WASP from Andover, Mass., and the persons involved are WASP neighbors.

A nice boy who lives down the street regarded the mother as "fair game" for all sorts of pranks while I was in Europe for a six-week vacation. We worked out a mutually agreeable financial arrangement and this 12-year-old appeared responsible and pleased.

When I returned I found four empty Italian flower pots smashed to smithereens on the tile floor. His mother, Mrs. Z, appeared moments later and shrieked, "How dare you keep expensive pots in a place where a 12-year-old can bang into them and break them so easily! How could you be so thoughtless and careless? You should be ashamed of yourself."

I replied, "I think you're crazy." It has taken me two months to view this situation calmly. Wasn't that the height of chutzpah? - WASP From Andover

DEAR WASTE: Anglo-Saxon Protestant From Andover: Your example of chutzpah is better than the old classic. I refer to the boy who shot his parents and threw himself on the mercy of the court on the grounds that he was an orphan.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with the most difficult and most rewarding arrangement, Ann Landers's booklet, "Marriage - What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 200, Eight, Ill., 60610, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Pen Pals Meet After 35 Yrs.

A Bathurst woman who has kept up correspondence with a childhood pen pal for 30 years, found the opportunity of visiting the lady in England this year. Before leaving on a three-week holiday abroad the past spring, Mrs. Colin Smith of 75 Cote Bleu Dr., wrote her friend, Miss Evelyn Northam who lives at Morden, about 20 miles from London. She mentioned her forthcoming plane trip and thus initial plans were arranged. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Rufus Smith, 606 Garden St., first spent some time on the Continent where they visited five Northern European capitals before arriving in London where a phone call to Miss Northam resulted in an invitation for both ladies to come to dinner. The snapshot of Miss Northam, left, and Mrs. Smith was taken by Mrs. Rufus Smith on this occasion. The exchange of letters began between Evelyn Northam and Mrs. Smith, the former Agnes Gordon, during the latter's high school years when a school friend gave her Miss Northam's letter, one of a number she had received. She was unable to correspond with all of the senders. Through the years, the two ladies have maintained continuous contact, and a friendship which has been further advanced by the personal visit.

NEW NURSING PROGRAM SUCCESSFULLY UNDERWAY

The 54 students (30 French-speaking, 24 English-speaking) enrolled at L'Ecole Infirmiere de Bathurst School of Nursing since the institution opened September 8, are now well settled in.

According to Mrs. Connie Morrison, who directs it, the non-integrated, bilingual 2-year program, which was the cause of considerable controversy in its early planning stages, is progressing favorably.

All areas of Gloucester County are represented as well as the Miramichi and Campbellton districts. The student body includes three males, the largest number ever to study nursing at one and the same time in Bathurst, and the first of their sex to enter the profession since the early 50's.

In addition to their regular curriculum, all unilingual English students are studying conversational French. Likewise, unilingual French probationers are taking conversational English.

Sister Celine Doucet is assistant director of the school, and the nursing faculty comprises Mrs. Marie Belliard, Miss Claudette Roussel, Mrs. Norma Poirier, Mrs. Lola Miller, Sister Fernande Losier, Mrs. Terry Maillet, Miss Lisette Clement and Miss Noreen Connolly.

The non-nursing personnel includes Theo. Blanchard and Mrs. Christine Wheeler for languages, Carol Ann Breau and Norman Gallant, physical education; Rev. Louis Vermeersch, philosophy.

End Of Air Service Great Loss To City

A blow to travelling Bathurst businessmen and other commuters for the past year and a half – the service provided by Atlantic Central Airlines – ends with this month.

This depressing news broke with startling suddenness in a statement by Carl Hurd, the airlines' general manager, which emanated from Saint John late Tuesday.

Following is the complete text of the message:

"It is with deep regret that Atlantic Central Airlines announces that it will cease to operate its scheduled service between the points Saint John, Fredericton, Bathurst and Bangor effective October 31, 1976.

"Although we will continue to operate our charter services from Saint John, the move will result in the loss of approximately thirty jobs.

"For the past fourteen months, Atlantic Central Airlines Limited has attempted to provide a useful professional prompt flight service to the people of New Brunswick.

"During the early stages of our operations, it became obvious that in order to provide the service expected by the public and to staff the company sufficiently to obtain Ministry of Transport approval and operate professionally, more pilots were required on our licenses.

"In July 1975, with the support of some of the communities involved, Atlantic Central Airlines Limited applied to the Canadian Transport Commission for three additional pilots but met with strenuous objection from several communities, other airlines, members of parliament and most notably the Council of Maritime Premiers.

"In the intervening fifteen months the company has been operating at a loss, running the promised schedules with low passenger counts. These losses have absorbed the capital invested for the development of new routes and still no decrease has been handed down from the Canadian Transport Commission.

"We do wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to the support and 'concern' of the City of Bathurst who have worked so tirelessly on our behalf and all those who have supported our service during the last nineteen months.

"We can only take confident in the knowledge that we all gave our best against insurmountable odds."

MAYOR NOTIFIED

Bathurst Mayor John Duffy has termed news of the shut-down of services "a great loss to all our communities."

He stated he had placed phone calls in regard to the matter to Acting Prime Minister Allan MacEachen, Federal Fisheries Minister Romeo LeBlanc, Municipal Affairs Minister Hedard Wilson, M.P. for Gloucester Herb Breau as well as chairman of the Canadian Transport Commission, C.R.D. Thompson.

Both federal ministers as well as Mr. Smith had promised immediate action, while Mr. Thompson did not return the call. Mr. Breau was not in Ottawa due to the recent death of his grandfather, Frank Breau of Upper Shediac.

Slide Presents Precarious Predicament

Heavy rainfall in the area in recent weeks has resulted in a landslide of considerable magnitude in Rough Waters, directly behind the home of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Vienneau.

Arnold Vienneau, who built the home in which his son now resides, said the land had been gradually falling away into the Nepisiguit River over the past week, but Friday's cavedown resulted in about 500 yards of recently-placed gravel sliding some 200 feet down the river bank.

Although there has been no damage as yet to the Vienneau house, purchased three years ago, the lake is only about seven feet from the structure, and the land is still in constant motion.

Mr. Vienneau has approached Nepisiguit-Chaleur MLA Frank Branch, who in turn contacted the Emergency Measures Organization in the province, and the EMO officials have agreed to look into the situation.

In the meantime, residents in the upstairs apartment in the house have vacated the premises, fearing a further slide which could result in the loss of the entire structure.

Many Topics Discussed At Home-School Meeting

A well-attended meeting of the Bathurst High and J. Gordon Chalmers Home and School Association was held at Bathurst High Amphitheatre Wednesday, Oct. 20.

President Mrs. Jay Wetten read two letters from City Manager Pierre Murgin and the Department of Education stating all parties were now in agreement and the necessary documents for the "much-needed extension of facilities at Bathurst High" were ready for official signing.

The principals of the two schools were requested to present a list of their priority needs to the association, and with a healthy and active home and school, it was hoped money could be raised to assist the schools in obtaining some of the necessary equipment.

Other business on the agenda included several proposals given by Emery Goguen, principal of Bathurst High, such as working toward a compulsory physical education credit course for Grade 10 students starting next fall. Students would be graded on their personal progress and not have to be "great athletes" to pass the course. Everyone in attendance agreed with the idea as physical education is now recognized as an important aspect of the health, mental and physical development of young people.

The annual "Meet the Teacher Night" at Bathurst High will be held Wednesday, November 17 in the school gymnasium. All parents and teachers are requested to attend as this provides the best opportunity for parents and teachers to meet and discuss the student's progress.

J. Gordon Chalmers "Meet the Teacher Night" will be on two separate nights from now on, with grades 1-6 on one evening and grades 6-9 on another.

For all association or parent-teacher nights, parents will be advised by the schools through a note sent home with the pupils.

Classes will not be held on October 29 so that teachers may attend a provincial council meeting. November 3 will be a half-day as the teachers are holding an in-service meeting.

Program chairman John Sweezey outlined the programs for future home and school meetings. He presented two short but very interesting films, one of venereal disease, which has reached epidemic proportions in the past two years in the under 25 age group and the second on "Family Life Courses" as part of the school curriculum.

Parents and teachers are strongly urged, especially in times of restraints and cutbacks, to come out to the Home and School meetings, which are held on the third Wednesday of every month except in December and March, as this can provide a strong united front. Parents and teachers working together can obtain the best possible educational facilities for students, the meeting agreed.

UCT FRIENDSHIP DINNER HEARS GUEST SPEAKERS

Bathurst Council No. 357, of The Order of United Commercial Travellers of America held their annual Friendship Dinner at Danny's Colonial House October 20.

Invited guest speakers were Atlantic Grand Counselor, Bro. Dave Noddin and Atlantic Grand Promotion Chairman, Bro. Sandy MacBeath, both from Moncton.

Mr. Noddin reviewed the founding of the Order in 1888 in Columbus, Ohio, to the present-day stage. He also stated that the Atlantic Council was the largest in Canada.

Mr. MacBeath explained the features and benefits received from the Order. He pointed out that in addition to excellent accident protection, members have the added financial security of three fraternal benevolent funds: the Widows' and Orphans' Fund, the Fraternal Benevolent Fund, and the UCT Foundation Fund.

The Widows' and Orphans' Fund provides benevolence without publicity, for needy families of deceased members. A widow may receive up to $500.00 per year in monthly payments as long as her need continues. If she has children under 18 the Local Council Executive Committee may recommend an additional $100.00 per year for each child if the need is established.

The Fraternal Benevolent Fund helps needy families of members who become physically or mentally incapacitated. It provides monthly payments amounting to as much as $900.00 per year. Again, this assistance is given quickly and without publicity as long as the need continues. An additional $300.00 per year may be paid for each child under 18.

The UCT Foundation Fund is a major catastrophe fund to aid needy UCT Brothers in time of personal (not business) emergencies. This, too, is a benevolence and not a part of an insurance contract. In the event of a major catastrophe to a member's home such as flood, fire, tornado etc., this fund may help provide temporary assistance for food, clothing and shelter where no other assistance is available. This fund may also be used to supplement the Retarded Children Teachers' Scholarship Program, the Widows' and Orphans' Fund and the Fraternal Benevolent Fund.

None of the aforementioned funds is in any way a party of the insurance contract. They are fraternal benevolences of the Order.

Overtime Hours Not Shared Says Council

Following is a press release from the City of Bathurst issued Thursday, October 21:

"The union of the Bathurst Police Department has recently criticized the City Council for not replacing the personnel of the department who have resigned for personal reasons. They have claimed that as a result of these resignations, the complement of the department has been reduced to 27 policemen, whereas the requirements are for 30.

"The total complement of policemen in the department, as authorized in the 1976 budget, is 30 men, not including the chief and deputy chief. There have been four resignations during the year, and the present complement is therefore 29 policemen.

"Attempts to hire trained and qualified policemen were not successful, and as a result five graduates from the Atlantic Police Academy have been hired, and are scheduled to commence work on January 2.

"Further, the union local has objected to the exceptional number of overtime hours the present members have had to work as a result of being short of staff. It has emphasized that the members have had to work up to 80 hours per week, leaving the general public with the impression that there were overtime hours.

"An analysis of the overtime worked by the members of the department reveals that in the past 10 weeks, a total of 2000 hours of overtime hours been worked, averaging 200 hours per week, between a total of 21 policemen. One policeman has been on sick leave since July 22nd. The average overtime per policeman is therefore 23 hours per week.

"It is interesting to note that of the 2000 hours of overtime, only 185 hours or approximately 2% per cent of the total overtime hours worked is for the replacement due to resignations. The balance is due to replacement due to vacation, sick leave and statutory holidays, the bulk of which was in August.

"Especially interesting is the fact that one policeman has worked 248 hours overtime, approximately ten per cent of the total, and one policeman has worked only 14 hours.

"It is therefore quite obvious that the policemen are not sharing equally the overtime in the department, which from the quoted figures does not appear to support the claim being made by the union local that the situation is critical and that the safety of the member is at stake. It appears as having a further attempt by the union to magnify the situation out of all proportions, and does not demonstrate a willingness to co-operate with the Council in having trained and qualified personnel in the enforcement of law and order within the city."

Action Planned On Vandalism

The Downtown Merchant's Association, concerned about the recent rash of vandalism in the city, has decided to approach City Hall to determine what can be done to gain added protection for business establishments.

At a meeting of the association Tuesday night, merchants voiced their concern about the increased amount of vandalism, breaking and entering, etc. during the past year.

A spokesman for the group noted that out of the 35 member businesses represented, only one had not been broken into.

"This is causing considerable loss for these businesses, and we are not going to put up with it any longer.

"The culprits have no respect whatsoever for the property of other people, and the merchants suffer the heaviest losses. We pay taxes, and protection is supposedly included in the services we receive in return."

It was decided to form a committee which would approach City Hall in an attempt to resolve the situation.

In other business, the association expressed hope to have all Christmas decorations in place in the downtown area by December 1. A total of $6,000 worth of new lights have been purchased by the merchants for King Avenue and Main Street. Work is expected to begin November 15.

Also in connection with the Christmas season, the majority of businesses will be open evenings starting Dec. 9.

It was agreed to consider possible changes to the downtown look during next year's Hospitality Days. Several merchants indicated they were not pleased with the streets being blocked off, as they felt it hurt business.

Among the main objectives set down by the association are the scheduling of the Nepisiguit River for fly fishing only between Grand Falls and the tidal waters, to get more adequate policing of the river by proper authorities, the extension of the angling season to cover the fall fish run and the extension of the river for salmon habitate by installing a fish ladder or lift station at Grand Falls in line with the Restigouche Pilot Project study.

The first meeting of the group passed a motion to provide educational courses for youth and beginners in fly fishing and fly tying.

Elected president of the association was Robert Baker. Other members of the executive include Bob Chiasson, vice-president; Margaret Pekeshazy, secretary-treasurer, and directors Alex Pekeshazy, Robert Smith, Kenneth Gray, Don Henderson, Ron Gauthier and Louis Melanson.

The group will meet on the first Wednesday of the month, and membership is open to anyone interested in the protection of salmon for angling. The next meeting is set for November 3 at the "cash" on

Open Saturday

As suggested by Mayor John Duffy, of Bathurst, the Six Cities of New Brunswick Association is asking the provincial government to keep its office open throughout Saturday or at least part of the day. This is in order to accommodate those who work in the woods or mines, for example, who at present have to take a whole day off when they want to do business.

Also recommended by Mayor Duffy was the reverting to June for the holding of provincial and municipal elections. The newly-adopted May day, according to Mr. Duffy, is too early for certain parts of the province, including the North Shore.

Special Appeal

Hallowe'en is a time for fun and excitement for Canadian children, as they go from house to house, collecting candies and calling "Shellout, Shellout, the witches are out", or whatever youngsters shout in their particular neighbourhood at Hallowe'en.

Hallowe'en is also a time for caring and sharing with destitute children around the world, through UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund.

Millions of the world's children live in conditions which we could not even imagine. An Italian journalist, Virgilio Lilli, gives a first hand description of the plight of many of these children, in the following article:

"Throughout my life I have witnessed devastation, slaughter, epidemics, fires, revolutions, wars and floods. But what struck me most was children's hunger. Hungry children are identical in Asia, Africa and Latin America, they all have the same big heads of hollow bone, the same frail and flabby necks of the hanged, the same thin chests of mummy skeletons, the same scrap-iron feet and hands, the same skin covered with red, purple, yellow pustules, the same drum-shaped bellies, ready to burst, the same enormous eyes, full of a mournful seriousness that flames the universe.

"They are the curse of creation, the appalling fault of the "laziness of hearts" of the developed peoples and countries and they can, with amazing power, remind the developed countries of the existence of starving people, in particular, of starving children, all over the world".

A few cents in the orange and black UNICEF boxes which will be at your door during the period October 25-30 inclusive can do so much. Six cents buys penicillin to cure infections, twenty-seven cents buys a thermometer which could save a child's life — so little for us but so much for them!

Suggested Solution

Montreal historian Jean Palardy says Canadians of all ethnic origins must abandon petty nationalistic feuding and pull together against impending threats which could spell disaster for all of them.

"Nationalism is passe because of the much greater threats from pollution, drought, food and fuel shortages," said the 71-year-old author.

"In the next 10, 15 or 20 years, we human beings will have to join hands to save our skins and humanity itself from natural calamities."

Mr. Palardy said in an interview that French and English-speaking Canadians should learn from Europeans about mutual understanding and respect.

He was commenting on anti-French sentiment exposed in a series of articles in The Montreal Star on the bilingual backlash in Western Canada.

Mr. Palardy, who is in charge of major historical restoration projects for the federal and Quebec governments, said he has visited various European and Canadian cities in the last 15 years.

"Everytime I go to Europe I see young Englishmen and Englishwomen trying desperately to learn French in France. They see a second language as an enrichment."

He said he cannot understand Western Canadians who claim that French is being "shoved down their throats" by Ottawa's official languages policy.

"What an unbelievable opportunity this is for them to learn and have access to another culture. What a heritage they can leave their children by encouraging them to learn French.

"In the past, only the rich could afford to learn French and hire French governesses for their children. But today this privilege is extended to everyone."

He added that people who delight in using the expression about French being shoved down their throats should remember "that about 50 per cent of English words are derived from the French."

"And Westerners should be reminded about their history and the fact that it was thanks to French-Canadian and Scottish fur traders that the West wasn't claimed by the Americans."

"They set up little outposts all over the West and this Canadian presence served to claim the West for what later became Canada, thus preventing it from falling into American hands."

Mr. Palardy added Canada's current gruntlems over bilingualism could be solved if the federal government spent more money on cultural exchanges between French- and English-speaking Canadians.

Old Way Best?

A task force of administrators and faculty at the University of Toronto has recommended that all high school graduates be required to write a university-administered entrance exam before being admitted to university. And, it argues, if other universities refuse to co-operate the U. of T. should go ahead with the test on its own.

Full circle. Province-wide Grade 13 examinations have not been offered in Ontario since 1967. They were dropped because it was felt that they constituted a rigid imperative to succeed which detracted from the process of learning, that they had become a hurdle to university admission rather than a filter. There may, however, have been other, more practical considerations, such as the cost of administering the exams.)

The past nine years have shown that the withdrawal of departmental exams has not been a complete success. The hurdle to university admission may have been removed, but it was replaced by a slide in academic standards. The number of high school graduates seeking and gaining entrance to university has grown by leaps and bounds. Many of these students, however, are simply not adequately prepared for studies at the university level.

The generosity of scores of friends who donated jams, jellies, preserves, pickles and other food items at a tea last Thursday at the Gloucester Hospital has profitted the institution's larder to a great extent. Members of the Ladies' Aid efficiently handled all arrangements. Mrs. O. Fenwick and Miss McKenzie received the donations while Mrs. Percy Miller and Mrs. P.C. Austin acted as ushers. Refreshments were dispensed by Mrs. S.R. Shirles, Mrs. Amos Eddy, Mrs. C.J. Vernot, Mrs. Allie Macintosh, Mrs. Claude Buraglia and Miss Nellie Elliotton. The servers were Mrs. A.E. Loosen, Mrs. W. H. Coffyn and Mrs. A.E. Frenette, assisted by the Misses Evangeline Melanson, Violet Burbridge, Irene Bishey, Violet Hinton and Geraldine Doucet. General convenor was Mrs. O. J. McKenna.

At the Boys Pig Club Contest team Clinton Payne and William Lindsay of South Tetagouche coached by J. E. McIntyre placed first in the New Brunswick judging contest with 17 teams represented. They tied with Nova Scotia for the Maritime Cup, and finally won by a small margin in a cross-examination. The St. Isadore team, Ossas Comeau and Jos. Gautreau coached by E.F. Pineau placed second.

Comments On New Industry

Shippegan, N.B.
October 26, 1976

Just a week ago, the Jiffy Products N.B. Ltd. plant was officially opened at Shippegan by Premier Richard Hatfield. This new business venture in Shippegan and area will contribute to further utilization of our valuable and natural resources. It is also a new source of employment of the region.

It is to be noted that this new company of Norwegian capital and assisted by the Province of New Brunswick is the result of several years of study by company experts. The decision to choose Shippegan to locate its plant is because of the quantity and quality of peat moss to be found in this region.

This should not be considered by any of our soapbox politicians as a political achievement or favor. It is true, however, that the provincial government has made a loan to Jiffy of $3,118,000. The federal and provincial governments are involved and interested in a program to assess and determine the potential for fuel peat development in the region.

Regardless of the governments and their political colors, these are things liable to happen any time any place at the right and due time.

THE GOLDEN LAND

Where Eskimos once lived, wandered, prayed and forsakingly died, there is a majestic and of animals, ice and snow.

The glorious polar bears rule his spacious, glowing, golden and. Their hated foe, man, raids their land for minerals and meat, leaving oil slicks and garbage to mark his retreat.

Must man drive the animals and fish from the polar bears' domain?

Must they leave their unwanted calling cards?

Must they destroy the whole animal population of the North?

No Free Lunch

It was the custom in ancient times to slay the messenger who brought bad news. Understandably, there were few applicants for the position, and eventually the practice died out.

In the intervening two thousand years, however, we have become more civilized (at least in some things) and today's messengers are treated more kindly.

The bearer now of unhappy tidings often receives our sympathy, and may even be invited in for a cup of tea or something stronger. The exception is the politician, who is invariably blamed for the conditions on which he reports and may meet his own bloodless execution at the polls.

The fact is, of course, that politicians, in the role of governments, are often responsible for the problems they deplore, or at best they contribute substantially to them. Governments are against inflation while at the same time they are one of its primary causes.

They warn against energy shortages after years of non-conservation. They enveigh against the rising costs of social services after encouraging their expansion, and ask for moderation in wage demands after they have set an extravagant example in their own emoluments.

The messengers from Parliament Hill and elsewhere are the frequent authors of their own tidings.

It would be a mistake, however, to regard governments as the sole source of economic problems. H.L. Mencken, who spared no one, once described politicians as a gang of men. It was an unflattering description, but it contained an element of truth.

Certainly, politicians are human and include among their motivations a desire to stay in office. Few feel safe in a passive pose and are prone to take initiatives which bring them into conflict with established ideas and practices.

Yet, they are elected on the basis of promises made (e.g. to reduce unemployment, increase old age benefits, provide more housing, build more schools and hospitals) and the news they bring back is that promises are hard to keep, without, in the process, creating still greater problems (e.g. inflation, rising interest rates, wage and price controls, high taxes, unrestrained social spending).

There is a close link between the promises and the results, which should not surprise the electorate.

The real message is that there is no such thing as a free lunch. Someone pays for it, and in a national economy it is the people as a whole. Usually they pay through taxes; more recently they have paid through inflation as well.

Canada is not alone in this - our inflation rate over the years has been modest compared with many countries - but we have perhaps been slower than others in recognizing our economic limitations.

The euphoria has been heightened by our ability to borrow very large amounts of capital in world markets, and especially the United States, creating an illusion of strength which our currency does not deserve and leaving our confidence unscatched.

In a young and growing country this is understandable, but it should not be surprising that problems arise and the news turns bad.

There is a danger that will attempt to resolve the problems by simply beheading the messengers. In some instances this may be highly desirable but the only lasting solutions are nearer at hand.

They involve decisions by all Canadians to keep their demands within their capabilities and to look at the free enterprise system not as a place for plunder but as a mechanism for investing capital, talent and energy in ways which will produce maximum returns for all.

The alternative, as the C.D. Howe Research Institute recently pointed out, is a selfish, defensive and socially divisive attitude, in which economic progress becomes increasingly less certain, and free enterprise as we know it may eventually disappear.

MRS. JOHN F. SCOTT

O.E.S. Representative At Triennial In Ohio

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Scott, Bathurst, attended the 35th Triennial Assembly of the General Grand Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, held at Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 25-30.

All sessions were held at Cleveland Convention Centre and representatives from every province in Canada, every state in the United States and nearly every country in the world were among the over 18,000 present.

Many delegates were wearing the traditional costumes of their respective countries, adding to the colorful pageantry of special functions.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott were among 42 representatives from New Brunswick. They were joined at the Bond Court Hotel in Cleveland by their Texas friends, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Herrins, whom they had met in 1964 at the General Grand Chapter event in Dallas.

Mrs. Scott, as a representative of the New Brunswick OES of which she is past matron and is president of the Grand Representative Association of New Brunswick. She is also a past matron of Bathurst Chapter No. 22 OES. Mr. Scott is current worthy patron of Chapter 22.

In a special message to the assembly, President Ford welcomed the opportunity to salute the order for their "effective initiative in so many worthwhile civic and humanitarian causes dedicated to heart and cancer research which has assisted national efforts to find cures for these illnesses. Estral program has in the finest spirit of our cherished freedom aided students in the ministry," the president's message also noted, and "The sessions were dedicated to the members of the OES throughout the world who have manifested enthusiasm in the art of living and the art of giving."

At the Triennal event, Mrs. Scott was an Assembly Page whose special duties were to carry out the wishes of the Most Worthy Grand Matron. At the closing session, the Assembly Pages were presented jewels of award.

Special functions included the "small world" reception Sept. 6 (5,800 present) and the grand representative luncheon with over 4,200 seated, both of which Mrs. Scott attended.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Scott were present for the Centennial Harvest banquet on which occasion the Philadelphia Mummers String Marching Band were the entertainers; and the Star of Tomorrow banquet on which occasion the Ohio Youth Choir rendered many selections.

After the assembly concluded Mr. and Mrs. Herrins who had travelled to Cleveland via plane, accompanied their friends to Bathurst by motor and remained as their guests for two weeks.

During this time, the Herrins who were on their fifth trip to the province and Bathurst, were taken by their host and hostess to Florenceville and all were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Summerville.

For the benefit of their friends who have become more and more attached to New Brunswick in the past decade, they toured other parts of the province including Moncton and vicinity and through the Red Bank area. This afforded the visitors an opportunity to see the countryside in yet another aspect - the contrast of evergreen and colorful fall foliage, a new scenic panorama for Mr. and Mrs. Herrins.

Fewer People Going To Church

It is time for United Church leaders to face the unpleasant truths about declining membership. The United Church Observer says editorially in its current issue.

"The United Church has done well in facing national issues and social concerns," The Observer says. "We fear that we (are) not prepared to deal with the realities of declining membership, Christian education, lay activity and evangelism.

"We may enjoy emotional discussions and pass countless resolutions on international affairs, and never ask ourselves what we should be doing about the fact that the most privileged, the most affluent and at one time the best organized church in Canada has been declining steadily."

Bargaining For Mill Underway

Natural Resources Minister Robert Boudreau announced October 25 that the government of New Brunswick has agreed to negotiate for the purchase of Brunswick Mills Ltd. and subsidiary companies from the present shareholders.

Over the last two months the government has examined various alternatives once the present owners indicated that future financial assistance was required and has decided that a sawmill is an important industrial element in the Bathurst Pilot Project, and that control should be maintained over it until it can be returned to private hands on an economic basis.

As part of the effort to enhance the potential viability of the sawmill by reducing the wood handling problems, negotiations will now begin on the construction of a sorting and chipping facility on the industrial site next to the sawmill. This facility will provide additional wood residue for Consolidated-Bathurst as part of their planned expansion programme mentioned earlier.

In making the announcement, the minister reiterated the premier's recent statement, that in basing the recommendations of the Forest Resources Study in the Bathurst area Pilot Project, there would be problems in learning to gear our production facilities to the forest and obtaining the best end use. The minister went on to say: "We still think the basic concepts are sound as demonstrated by our decision today to take the time, effort and money needed to perfect these applications in the Pilot Area."

Anniv. Event At St. George's

Another highlight of the 150th anniversary celebrations this year of St. George's Anglican Church was a congregational gathering at which Mr. and Mrs. Colin Smith were special guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith gave an informative and interesting travelogue, illustrated by beautiful, colored slides, of Vancouver, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Hawaii, Samoa, Fiago Fiago, Australia and New Zealand. Their presentation was enjoyed by all.

Hallowe'en Saturday

Deputy Chief Maurice Hershey stated that Hallowe'en was being observed Saturday, Oct. 30.

He urges motorists to be extra careful as many youngsters will be out on City streets with masks and costumes making their visibility almost nil.

City policemen will also be out in full force that evening.

Mr. Hershey also said that by observing Hallowe'en Saturday, it would coincide with the Lions Club skating party at Bathurst Arena.

Assets Now Over $-Billion Mark

In a letter to shareholders, H. B. Rhode, president, Central and Eastern Trust Company, advised that "the integration of the operations of the two predecessor companies, Central and Nova Scotia Trust Company and The Eastern Canada Savings and Loan Company, is proceeding smoothly."

He also stated that the costs relating to the amalgamation are being charged to expense as they occur, and the income statement for the period has therefore been affected by these non-recurring items.

Mr. Rhode reported that "the Company's assets continue to grow at a satisfactory rate with company and guaranteed account assets showing an increase of $120.8 million to $976,775,000 in the twelve month period since September 30, 1975." As of September 30, 1976, mortgage and other loans amounted to $863,000,000 representing an increase of $97,000,000 or 13 per cent. Total assets under administration amounted to $1,235,413,000 an increase of 12 per cent during the year.

Net income for the nine months ended September 30, 1976, amounted to $5,015,000, 93 cents per share, an increase of 12 per cent over the net income of $4,470,000, 83 cents per share, for the corresponding period last year. In the current period, securities gains amounted to $80,000 as compared with $1,000 in the previous year.

The company continues to expand in the Atlantic Region by opening their 34th branch this month at St. Stephen, N.B.

At the directors' meeting in Moncton, on October 18, 1976, the directors declared a dividend of 17 cents on the company's class "A" shares and a dividend of 14.45 cents on Class "B" shares, both payable on January 1, 1977, to shareholders of record on December 9, 1976.

Chamber Of Commerce Is Voice Of Small Business

The Canadian entrepreneur has friends count to count. There are many organizations which combine to give a united voice in the small business community. One such group is the local Board of Trade or Chamber of Commerce. The two names are synonymous.

These local associations are only part of the total structure. The chamber is an autonomous body which functions as a separate unit but has affiliation to both provincial and national organizations. A typical Board of Trade membership includes business and professional men and women, bankers, lawyers, manufacturers, doctors, advertisers, clergymen, teachers, retailers, wholesalers, salesmen, farmers — people from all walks of life. They represent local business and other interest groups in the achievement of various commercial and social objectives.

The majority of community boards or chambers belong to their respective provincial or territorial Chambers of Commerce. These include the Atlantic Region, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, British Columbia and the Northwest Territories.

The provincial chambers work to promote economic and social development of their province or territory. They are concerned with provincial legislation as it applies to their members.

On the national level the Canadian Chamber of Commerce is a federation of 135,000 people made up of local boards and chambers, national associations, corporations and individuals. The 700 local boards and chambers are known as organization members. The national trade, business and professional associations (Associate Members) represent their specialized groups in Canada while 1,000 corporate members, including firms and partnerships, participate in policy-making by their involvement in local board projects. These corporate members also contribute in a considerable way to the financing of the national association through annual membership fees. Individual membership is also extended to any business and professional people who may wish to join on their own.

The majority of the national board of directors represent small and medium size businesses. At the annual meeting in September, the Canadian Chamber's membership reviews current issues and decide their position by vote. Given the cross-section of members and their democratic processes, the Chamber speaks as a credible voice of the business community.

As an entrepreneur, a person is more likely to become involved with the local Board of Trade or Chamber of Commerce. Local chambers as well as being involved in community affairs, are the small business manager's link to a provincial and national voice in Canada's economic planning and development.

Members of local chambers emphasize what they regard as the flow of information in a Chamber of Commerce is a two-way street. A small business owner can benefit from others ideas the same way they in turn can benefit from his.

Membership fees for the small business are modest. Consult the telephone directory to see where the local board or chamber is located, then follow up with a visit or phone call.

The Toyota Corolla is the best-selling car in the world. And while it is not quite the lowest-priced car you can buy, it costs many hundreds of dollars less than the average car sold today.

It is so completely equipped that the only available options are a radio and radial tires.

It is so meticulously built, so thoroughly tested that more than 9 out of every 10 sold in this country over the past 10 years are still on the road.

It is additionally tested for winter toughness in Northern Canada (one more reason why it retains such a high re-sale value).

And right now, you can take advantage of special factory trading allowances on Toyota Corolla 1200 so the car that's already one of the lowest priced in Canada could cost you even less.

Think about all the reasons why you buy a car, then think about Toyota Corolla, the car bought by more people than any other model in the whole wide world. TOYOTA

Van Club Holds Successful Wash

The Nor-Coast Van Club of Bathurst sponsored a highly-successful car wash over the weekend in support of the Bass River Adult Workshop for the Mentally Retarded.

All expenses for the wash, which was held at the Main Street Texaco, were covered by Texaco Canada Ltd. The ten members of the club, along with wives and girl friends, were kept busy throughout Friday evening and Saturday by a steady stream of customers.

The van club would like to thank all those who supported the project and, in particular Texaco Canada Ltd., without whose co-operation the wash could not have taken place.

Winner of the lottery on the picture was Elaine Mueller of Munro Street. The ticket was drawn by Diane Blackett, a student at the school.

All proceeds from the car wash will go toward the purchase of new material and equipment for the CNIB-affiliated school. Approximately 15 adults attend regular classes at the workshop under the instruction of Mrs. Geraldine Warren and Kenny Hay.

The next event involving Nor-Coast Vans will be this coming weekend when Paul Thibodeau's winning van, Yellow Canary, travels to Saint John to take part in a car show.

Wins Award At Mount A.

A second-year New Brunswick Science student, Paul Joseph Bourque of Bathurst, has been awarded a $400 Parliament Scholarship by Mount Allison University. The scholarship, awarded from the will of John Parliament to students interested in either mining, engineering or agriculture.

Mr. Bourque, son of Mr. and Mrs. Basil J. Bourque, 140 Bertram Ave., graduated from Bathurst High School and enrolled in the Science course at Mount Allison last year.

He was a most valuable hockey player in high school, won an Hockey Canada Scholarship and he is a member of the Varsity hockey team at Mount Allison.

Mr. Bourque is also a goal-getter at soccer and was on the dean's list and scholarship winner last year. His father is a staff nurse at Brunswick Mining.

PAUL BOURQUE

It's Hard Work But It Pays Off

Operating a McDonald's restaurant can be pretty profitable, particularly in Canada where sales per store last year averaged $860,000 (vs an average of $730,000 for the U.S.).

But, John Partridge reports in The Financial Post Magazine, operators go through the mill to make it: a minimum of 300 hours of in-store training, plus study at what the company calls the Canadian Institute of Hamburgerology, plus further study (and exams) at Hamburger University near Chicago.

Partridge, who attended both while researching the story, reports that tight standards must also be met. Marketing strategy dictates precisely how each franchisee is run - right from the order in which the onions and pickles go on the burger to how many shakes a gallon of mix should yield.

Despite all this - and the sizeable initial investment (upwards of $200,000) and the long hours most licensees put in - enthusiasm for the system runs high.

McDonald's offers its licensees something other than hard work. Operators reap the benefits of know-how perfected from the operation of almost 4,000 stores plus the advantages of brand identification, uniformity of appearance, menu and service.

Enthusiasm Is Mark Of New Berton Book

By DON EVANS

"Canada is a live country," Dupert Brooke, the British poet now best remembered for his World War I battlefield verses, once declared, "live, but not like the States, kicking."

That assertion appears without comment on the title page of the book that Pierre Berton has produced for this year's pre-Christmas publishing season, My Country: The Remarkable Past (McClelland and Stewart, 315 pages, $12.95), but it's clear that Berton's own contention is that Canada can kick with the best of them.

My Country consists of 19 yarns, all of them true in essence, though spun with a touch of exaggeration here and a dramatic flourish there, in the time-worn manner of the best camp-fire story-tellers.

A mixed bag, the book is sometimes engrossing, sometimes not), usually depending on how much interest the raconteur himself shows in a particular story.

It is history and geography of an informal kind that Berton delivers here, and though there's some slight attempt to inter-relate the stories, the real connecting thread—aside from their common nationality—is the story-teller's unabashed, if uneven, enthusiasm.

EXPEDITION IN TIME

The tales range across several centuries, from the story of "the first commando raid" in 1696 to a recounting of the violent events of "Bloody Sunday" in Vancouver, June 21, 1938. And they're not arranged in chronological order, which permits Berton to lead his readers on a dizzying, willy-nilly back-and-forth expedition through time.

They are set in many widely scattered parts of the country, as well: in fact, one of the best describes a cross-Canada hiking contest in the first six months of 1912 which took the five surviving competitors, hoofing it at a literally lasting pace, from Halifax all the way to Vancouver.

Nor are they restricted only to those familiar shores. The most gripping concerns the adventures of Joshua Slocum of Yarmouth, N.S., who in a vessel that Berton calls "peculiarly human", set sail on July 2, 1895, from Yarmouth, arriving back in North America on June 27, 1898, having sailed along around the world.

Another tells of the deadly exploits over France and Germany during World War I of Canadian flying ace Billy Bishop.

RECYCLED YARNS

Each of these twice-told tales was first related by the ubiquitous Berton on a half-hour, weekly television show, also called My Country.

And though each has been rewritten for the book and is almost three times as long as the televised version, it's easy to see why playwright and novelist W.O. Mitchell, himself no slouch at finding new uses for old material, recently called Berton the king of the recyclers.

This ability becomes even more remarkable when you consider that most of the source material for these stories must not have been particularly difficult to come by, consisting as it typically does either of the published journals of the participants themselves or of contemporary newspaper accounts.

Yet Berton can't be blamed if the rest of us no longer want to take the trouble to browse around the silent stacks of Libraries, so mesmerized are we by our rocketing TV sets.

Of course, when you let somebody else do your browsing for you, you shouldn't complain when his research is occasionally sloppy, as when Berton breezily suggests that "Isaac Hayes had his Johnny Cash, Hot Gun-in-case), who vanished for 10 years, eluding all efforts to capture him, has yet to find his balladeer."

The name of the Indian who helped raise the U.S. flag at Iwo Jima in World War II, and had a song written in his memory was Ira, not Isaac, Hayes.

ART OF BALLYHOO

Another problem is that, though the basic and unadorned facts in most of these narratives are fascinating enough without such Barnum-and-Bailey treatment, Berton sometimes feels the need to crank them up with extra fillips of suspense, tension and wide-eyed exclamation of amazement.

In his tale about Blondin, the tightrope artist who skipped, charmed and somersaulted above Niagara Falls several times on the summers of 1859 and 1860, our author announces that Blondin "strutted to and fro at the Falls. Over a century later, he himself is doing his part to keep that nefarious art alive."

In many respects, the most interesting chapter in the book is about Robert Service, that other writer of miniature epics. What makes it so much more successful is Berton's personal involvement in the story and his willingness to let it stand on its own.

"His log cabin," the yarn begins, "stood directly across the dusty road from our own home in Dawson City."

There's nothing extra there, just the plain, unvarnished facts.

If it included a few more stories like "The Man Who Invented Dan McGrew", My Country would be a better, more entertaining collection

More competition favored by bankers

The president of the Canadian Bankers' Association (CBA) says the chartered banks agree with the general thrust of the federal government's recent white paper on banking legislation.

But Rowland C. Frazee said that the banks have reservations in some areas and it is far from true that the proposals "give the banks all they wanted."

Mr. Frazee, executive vice-president and chief general manager of The Royal Bank of Canada, said the basic aim of encouraging more competition in the financial system has long been advocated by the banks as a means to improve service to all customers.

In his first major public assessment of the white paper, Mr. Frazee told a panel discussion at the annual conference of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants in Vancouver:

"The government recognizes that any changes in the Bank Act must be directed towards opening up the financial system to competition rather than corralling existing financial institutions with artificial barriers and restrictions." This was something the chartered banks had long supported.

He said he found it encouraging "that even though we have heard so much discussion over the past year about planned economies and the possibility of government playing an increasing role in them, the white paper appears to reaffirm Ottawa's faith in the ability of market forces to achieve economic objectives."

Mr. Frazee said there are some recommendations in the white paper with which the banks do not entirely agree, and others where more information is required before a full assessment can be made.

But in summary the banking industry views the white paper as a constructive beginning for the discussion leading up to revision of the Bank Act in 1977.

"The Canadian Bankers' Association recognizes that the new proposals for the revision of the Bank Act could have some negative impact on the existing chartered banks in the short run.

"But in the longer term, the benefits of a broader competitive market operating under common regulation across the country will probably more than offset short-term disadvantages."

Finnish Sticks Big On Canadian Market

When the Russians almost beat a Canadian professional all-star hockey team in 1972, Canada's national pride was bruised.

But in firmly establishing their hockey credentials, the Russians also established the quality of their European-made sticks, and that may have dealt an even more severe blow to the $12-million wholesale Canadian hockey stick industry.

From $500,000 in sales at the wholesale level in 1971 European sticks, mainly from Finland, have risen to $2.8 million, a 24 per cent share of the Canadian domestic market.

In an effort to stave off the imports, Ottawa passed an order-in-council Sept. 28 lifting the 25-per-cent customs duty on imported Finnish plywood used in hockey stick shafts. But while the tariff removal is designed to increase manufacturing and jobs in Canada, it would severely damage the business of the Ontario mill that is the biggest supplier of hockey stick plywood in North America.

The principal advantage the Finns have is plywood technology. Faced with diminishing supplies of quality ash, the traditional wood used in making hockey stick shafts, the Finns developed techniques for making plywood shafts with as many as 60 laminations.

Canadian firms also began making plywood shafts but the main supplier of hockey stick material in Canada, Multiply Plywood Ltd., at Nipigon, Ont. subsidiary of Macmillan Bloedel Ltd. of Vancouver, is unable to produce wood with more than 19 plies.

For medium-priced sticks, the bulk of their business, Canadian manufacturers have been content to buy the Multiply product. For expensive sticks such as professionals use, however, they import 41-ply or greater wood from Finland.

Lifting the 15 per cent tariff, although an advantage to the stick makers, could cost Multiply sales. "If they can get Finnish plywood with more laminations for 15 per cent less," said Multiply mill manager William Miller, "many will be able to improve stick quality without increasing their costs."

If the manufacturers do buy Finnish plywood for their medium-priced sticks, he adds, "it could have a serious effect on our business. We are the biggest supplier of hockey stick plywood in North America."

Phone Company Requests Increased Service Rates

The need to expand and maintain the province's telephone system is underlined in an application for higher rates and charges filed October 20 by The New Brunswick Telephone Company, Limited.

It was filed with the New Brunswick Board of Commissioners of Public Utilities which is responsible for approving rates and charges for NBTel's services.

The company asked that most of the new rates become effective on January 1, 1977.

In making the announcement, company president Kenneth V. Cox said the adjustment in rates would generate an estimated eight per cent increase in 1977 revenues.

Mr. Cox said an estimated $46 million will be required next year just to maintain present standards of telephone service, and provide for some improvements. Without a rate adjustment, the company would not be able to support a program at this level.

"If plant expansion and renewal is postponed, telephone users in New Brunswick will eventually be facing a serious deterioration of service levels," he said.

Mr. Cox said about one-half of the money must be obtained from outside sources, and he said this can only be accomplished if a fair return is provided to the investor.

If the application is approved, the rate for monthly residential service would go up by $1.50 for one and two-party service. The increase for four-party and rural service would be $1. The rate for individual and two-party business service would increase $3. Four-party and rural business service would go up by $2.

Other changes in rates and charges sought by the company include:

—An increase from $25 to $30 for the installation of residence telephone service. If no visit is required, the charge would be $14, up from $12.

—An increase in the charge for a local call from a coin telephone from 10 cents to 20 cents.

—Increase in mileage charges, by a maximum of $1, for one and two-party service outside the base rate areas. Four-party service would not be affected.

—Increases for long distance calls made to points within New Brunswick. The first minute of a customer dialed call would increase three cents, the initial three minutes of a operator handled call would increase 10 cents and the first three minutes of a person-to-person call would increase 20 cents. Overtime minutes on all calls would increase by three cents each.

—An increase of 15 per cent in the monthly charge for Touch Tone service.

—Increase of 15 per cent for most other services of miscellaneous equipment offered by the company.

There are a number of items that would not receive rate increases including extension phones, color telephones, Bellboy service and Number Information Service.

Funeral Held At Bertrand

BERTRAND — The death of Mrs. John Theriault, the former Cecile Duguay, occurred Oct. 12 at Infant Jesus Hospital at Caraquet. She was 66.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Edmond Godin (Lea), with whom she resided, Mrs. Omer Roche (Angelina) of Bertrand and Mrs. Daniel Godin (Flora) of Marathon, Ont., and two sons, Heleodore of Montreal and Medard of Bertrand.

Mrs. Theriault rested at Le-Gresley's Funeral Home, Paquetville.

The funeral was held at St. Joachim Church, Bertrand, Oct. 15 at 4 p.m. followed by interment in the parish cemetery.

Ladies Curling Club News

By JOYCE CONLEY

The malfunction of ice-making facilities delayed some of the activities planned for "open house week" at the curling club, unfortunately, but the ice now is ready.

The Tony Ansaff bonspiel, a mixed event, officially opened the new curling season Monday evening of this week.

The ladies section held a get-acquainted curling day on Tuesday and members, old and new, enjoyed two four-end games followed by a potluck lunch.

The club's opening dinner and dance set for Saturday, October 30, will highlight the weekend's activities. A roast beef supper will be served, after which an evening of dancing to the music of the Mystics has been planned.

The next meeting of Bathurst Ladies Curling Club will be held in the ladies lounge at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, November 9.

Broomball Meeting Set

There will be a meeting at the St. Anne Recreation Centre on Thursday evening, October 28 at 7 p.m. for all those interested in joining the St. Anne Broomball League. Anyone interested in entering a team in the league is asked to call 548-3484.

FROZEN SANDWICHES

Keep frozen sliced bread on hand for sandwiches. It is easy to spread, and sandwich fillings, when wrapped tightly, will stay moist between slices of frozen bread. The busy Canadian housewife (or husband) can prepare a two-week supply of school lunches in one session. Peanut butter, meat, fish and cooked egg yolks are fillings that freeze well. Moist fillings, raw vegetables, egg white and mayonnaise do not.

Cause And Cure Of Cat Diseases

By Marguerite Morrison

Canker of the ear: An irritation of the outer ear, usually due to the presence of ear mites. Clean daily for about two weeks with a cotton-tipped stick dipped in mineral oil or baby oil. If it persists, call you vet.

Mange: This is rare in cats, and is due to a different mite than that which causes it in dogs and man. Call you veterinarian as he is the only one who can cure it.

Ring Worm: An infection of the skin and fur caused by fungi and very difficult to diagnose and treat. It is commonly seen as a fine dandruff-like particle clustered about a clump of hair and when pulled out leaves a bare spot. Due to the extreme contagiousness of this disease, found in cats, dogs and people, treatment should never be attempted except under the guidance of your veterinarian. Sometimes it is necessary to have the animal put to sleep for the protection of the family.

Leigh Neille needed a nursery.

Niagara said: Pink or blue?

Last month, Leigh Neille received an eight pound, three ounce baby boy, dozens of best wishes and a husband with a non-stop smile. What she needed was a nursery. Niagara thought so too. That's because Niagara knows a lot about people's needs. We also know a lot about money. That's our business at Niagara. Mortgage money, money for a new car, money for home improvements, for your child's education, or, if you're like Leigh Neille, money to welcome the newest member of your family. If what stands between you and what you really need is a thing called money, come in and sit down with the people you've come to know at Niagara. We know that one way to fulfill a need is to put money into action.

Local Psychiatrist Is Deported From Country

A native of England who was employed by the Province of New Brunswick as a psychiatrist in the Bathurst Community Services Mental Health Clinic since July 1975, has been deported by immigration authorities.

Dr. Alan Grenville-Wood, 35, left Canada on British Airways Tuesday, Oct. 12 from Montreal International Airport in Montreal. He had been taken into custody approximately one-and-one-half months prior to that time to attend an inquiry as to whether he had been convicted of criminal charges 15 years ago in his homeland.

Maurice Ouellette, manager of the Moncton Manpower and Immigration office, said Dr. Grenville-Wood was released from custody following the inquiry in progress for his departure from Canada.

The president of the New Brunswick Medical Council, Dr. F. H. George of Saint John, said Dr. Grenville-Wood will probably be removed from the council's list of physicians licensed to practice in the province although at this point nothing has been done about it.

Dr. George added that if a person is deemed as being undesirable by immigration authorities, he is deemed undesirable by the council.

An inquiry by the New Brunswick Medical Society revealed Dr. Grenville-Wood is "still licensed" to practice in the province.

A spokesman for Chaleur General Hospital said Dr. Grenville-Wood was only associated with the hospital on an outpatient of the Department of Health and was only responsible to Fredericton. The spokesman said the doctor, who was paid an annual salary of $35,000 a year by the province, worked in the hospital as a lecturer and was associated with the mental health clinic. "We did not hire the man", the spokesman said.

Mr. Ouellette said Dr. Grenville-Wood could return to Canada if special permission in the form of a visiting permit were granted by the minister. "He was a prohibited person... a non-immigrant who had an extension granted to him", Mr. Ouellette said.

Mr. Ouellette could not give specifics concerning the doctor's criminal charges convictions or whether the doctor was guilded. "There's a lot of suspicion in life", he said, adding that any comment concerning Dr. Grenville-Wood's qualifications would have to come from the Department of Health.

Deputy Health Minister Dr. R. J. Wilson said he would have to have the "usual qualifications" pending and that Dr. Grenville-Wood, although not a specialist, was bilingual in French and English, which would benefit him on the North Shore. The deputy minister said the psychiatrist also practices in Newcastle and Chatham.

"We try to get the most highly qualified persons to work for the department," Dr. Wilkinson said, adding, "It's exceedingly hard to hold and attract psychiatrists everywhere."

Says 'Phone Co. Seeks Return On Investment

The president of The New Brunswick Telephone Company, Limited says it is the company's intention to operate a financially responsible company providing good service at reasonable cost.

Addressing Canadian investment dealers last week at meetings in Toronto, Montreal and Saint John, Kennedy G. Allen said this can only be achieved if the company provides a rate of return to its shareholders that is sufficient to attract the money needed to carry out its construction programs.

"The management of NBTel does not intend to spend capital without having the confidence that it can earn a reasonable return on its investment. We intend to safeguard the viability of the company," he said.

J. A. Costello, vice-president of finance for NBTel, said the investment dealers that at least one-half of the money needed to finance future construction activities must be financed externally. The rest would be generated internally from the company's revenues.

Mr. Costello said the company's annual construction program has grown almost 20 per cent since 1965 when expenditures were $16 million. He predicted that at least $65 million will be required in 1977 to maintain present levels of service and provide for some improvements.

As part of the company's 1977 external financing program, Mr. Costello said $17 million in debentures have been privately sold in the United States.

Said with the approval of the New Brunswick Board of Commissioners of Public Utilities, Mr. Costello said NBTel will open nine new common shares. This major issue of common stock will be the first by the company since 1967.

"Bell Canada, which was built up approximately 40 per cent of NBTel's common stock, will have its ownership reduced to about 42 per cent with the proposed issue," he said. "This will considerably broaden the ownership base of the company."

Mr. Gas said 1976 has been a successful financial year for NBTel despite a slowdown in the rate of business growth. He said the company has been close to meeting its earnings objectives for the year.

However, Mr. Gas said current projections for 1977 indicate that without an additional rate increase, the company will not be able to adequately support next year's construction program.

Mr. Gas said the company could make application for an increase in rates and charges. He said the company expects to file an application for increased rates "sometime next week."

"NBTel provides a level of telephone service that is as good as you find anywhere in the world. To maintain and efficiently meet the service requirements of our customers," he said.

LOTTERY LAUNCHED FOR NEEDED EQUIPMENT

Gaston Therrien (right), of Alexis Furs, presents on behalf of Jacques Savoie, the firm's owner, a fur hat to Charles Cormier, student of Flowers of Hope School. Looking on from the left are Betty Smith and Richard Dube. The school's personnel is very pleased with the donation and they are now selling lottery tickets on the hat. Proceeds will go towards the purchasing of gym equipment. The winning ticket will be drawn by Santa Claus Dec. 15 during the school's Christmas party. The school is also saving Save-Easy and Dominion Stores grocery slips in order to help in the purchasing of this equipment.

Association To Examine Public Transit Report

A report on public transit in New Brunswick's major municipalities from the Montreal consulting firm of Peat, Marwick and Partners was accepted by a meeting of the Six Cities of New Brunswick Association in Fredericton Oct. 16.

The report, funded by the New Brunswick government, recommended a provincial-municipal split in public transit funding for bus services in Moncton, Saint John and Fredericton and suggested a similar financial arrangement to subsidized taxi operations in Bathurst, Campbellton and Edmundston.

The report stated that in the three northern cities of the province, almost 98 per cent of travel needs are provided by private automobile. Taxis handle most of the remaining travel needs.

Bathurst residents, the report continued, used taxis the most, although Campbellton residents generally utilize taxi transportation more regularly. Taxis are used the least in Edmundston because of that city's more compact physical nature.

It noted the three cities are "underserviced" because of the lack of public transit even though there would be problems introducing such a service because of the comparative smaller sizes of the communities and active taxi systems.

In preparing a recommendation, Peat, Marwick and Partners used three levels of service as a criteria. The first, to stabilize the existing systems of taxi operation, was basically a system that would establish a fixed route and provide service with a 60-minute frequency.

A second alternative available for the three municipalities was to improve the service level, a scheme to add a 30-minute frequency of service of service at peak hours in addition to the 60-minute service on fixed routes.

Finally, each of the three could receive service under the upgrade proposal which would add areas to be serviced and provide a dial-a-bus or shared ride taxi operation.

In both Campbellton and Bathurst the "upgrade" alternative was considered to be the most efficient. In both communities, the dial-a-bus proposal would not present a problem for taxi operations already underway, the report stated.

Either city would be used as a model for future implementation of the proposed services, at a deficit subsidy rate of 75 per cent, with the second city to start the year after under a similar arrangement.

For other municipality the subsidy rate of 75 per cent would apply only for the first two years of the systems' operation.

After that, the losses subsidy rate would drop to 57 per cent for Bathurst, 63 per cent for Campbellton and 56 per cent for Edmundston. Under the proposal, Edmundston would join the scheme if it proved viable in the other two municipalities.

Now Studying For Masters

Mrs. Ruth Whitney nee Assaff of Fredericton was awarded a Bachelor of Arts degree in anthropology philosophy, with second class honours, from the University of New Brunswick at fall convocation exercises held at Fredericton Oct. 16.

Mrs. Whitney attended Bathurst schools and Mount St. Vincent Academy in Halifax, and is at present in her first year of studies towards a masters degree in anthropology at UNB. She is the daughter of Mrs. A.J. Assaff Sr. and the late Mr. Assaff, 386 St. Patrick St.

Mobile Home Losses Soar

If some of Canada's 700,000 mobile-home dwellers seem a little jumpy these days, it's because reports by Insurers Advisory Organization and Co-operative Fire and Casualty Co. indicate their homes are not as safe as conventional dwellings, writes Richard Culler in The Financial Post.

Specifically, their lives and homes are three to five times more prone to hazard compared with persons who live in conventional housing. Their chances of dying in a fire once it starts are 2½ times greater and most importantly for claims-shocked insurers, average claims are at least double ($2,400 vs $800) those in similar priced conventional homes.

The reports define "mobile homes" as housing units as large as 10 x 48 feet and which have to be moved by trucks. Recreational trailers are not included.

The reports come in the wake of demands by insurers for countrywide statistical information on losses so they can more accurately set rates. Currently, insurers don't have a wide enough base of experience to reflect countrywide loss results accurately.

While you read this sentence six children will be born in the developing countries. One will soon die, left will know hunger and disease, and one may become a teacher, a scientist or a leader who could make a difference in the future. UNICEF is trying to help these children. You can help the United Nations Children's Fund in its job by buying UNICEF cards and during calendars this year.

1. MILEAGE

The Dodge D100 rates competitively on mileage with any other North American full-size pickup. Based on the results of tests approved by Transport Canada, a '77 Dodge D100 powered by the popular 318 V8 with automatic is rated at 25 miles per gallon on the highway, 17 in the city. You can maximize economy by ordering the optional overdrive manual transmission and the 225 Slant Six, a combination that delivers 32 mpg on the highway and 23 in the city. The actual mileage you get will depend on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your truck's condition and optional equipment.

2. PRICE

The Dodge D100 is one of North America's lowest-priced full-size pickups. Did you know that? If you know trucks, you'll know all about the way Dodge builds a smooth riding truck. And how it offers passenger car options like automatic, AM/FM radio, even air conditioning. Now you know Dodge trucks have got it on price too.

3. PAYLOAD

The Dodge D100 has the biggest standard payload of any full-size pickup of the Big Three. The kind of payload that makes small work of the biggest loads. Without beefing it up one bit, you can haul off a whopping 1,500 pounds. With optional equipment, you can go up to 2,535 pounds payload on a D100 pickup. Not bad, eh? Getting to be best is getting to be a habit with Dodge. Catch the habit.

The Dodge D100 shown is equipped with the optional Adventurer SE package: styled road wheels, white-side-wall tires, and pickup box grip rails.

POLITICAL SCENE

Nothing Exciting In Throne Speech

By STEWARD MacLEOD
Ottawa Bureau
Thomson News Service

Traditionally, a throne speech outlines the government's legislative program for a new session in Parliament and reflects the mood of the country as MPs return from their ridings for another season of debate.

But this latest offering doesn't tell us very much. And, as a result, no one seems to know what Parliament faces in the months ahead. And I suspect that this includes the government.

There has always been a certain amount of vagueness in throne speeches, but this one appears to be a prime winner in that respect. As a result, you can interpret it just about any way you wish.

There is little information on specific legislation.

Take the now-burning issue of national unity as an example. There are two pages on that subject and in that space you would expect to learn something about what the government has in mind. But the most significant paragraph from that says the "government will place a very high priority upon the promotion of better understanding among French-speaking and English-speaking Canadians."

OLD HAT

Other comments on that subject could have been quoted from any previous throne speech over the last 10 years.

"Canada is a diverse country," we are told. "Unity can result only from a recognition of that diversity, and not from any attempt to impose rigid conformity. In matters of language and culture, it is important to recognize the personality of the various parts of the country without departing from fundamental principles of justice and generosity, which should apply everywhere."

Even when the speech makes an attempt at specifics, the government writers can't resist the temptation to throw in a bit of poetry about Canada. In mentioning minor forthcoming amendments to the Immigration Act – a very practical document – we are told they will be designed to accomplish all of these things.

"Promote Canada's regional and urban development goals, promote family unity, achieve a balance between immigration levels and employment opportunities, and preserve Canada's reputation as an open, tolerant society which welcomes the energy and cultural diversity of people from all parts of the world."

If all this can be achieved with one batch of amendments, we'll be in good shape.

DON'T ATTEND

In previous years, I attended all the background briefings associated with the throne speech – that's where officials actually talk about legislation. But this time I deliberately avoided attending, just to see what I could learn from listening to the speech and later reading it.

That's when I decided it didn't tell us very much.

"The government attaches continuing importance to meeting the aspirations of Canada's native peoples and, in particular, to the just settlement of their land claims," was one observation.

"Of equal importance to the social well-being of Canadians is an adequate supply of affordable housing in a satisfactory community environment," was another.

"It is not in Canada's economic, political or social interest to allow the gap to widen between the wealth of the few and the poverty of the many," was still another.

And "there is a growing awareness among Canadians of the need for more careful conservation of vital energy resources such as petroleum and natural gas."

Matter of fact, the throne speech contains about a dozen of obvious statements which could have been read by any cabinet minister on "The Nation's Business." Then the previous session of Parliament could have endured without all the trappings of an official opening.

Membership of Bathurst High and J. Gordon Dickson Home and School association increased last year from 46 to 98 members.

UNICEF Week Is Proclaimed

Premier Richard Hatfield Oct. 25 issued the following statement endorsing the week of Oct. 26 - 30 as UNICEF Week in New Brunswick.

"The United Nations Children Fund – UNICEF – was founded 30 years ago to assist children ravaged by the effects of the Second World War.

Today, it continues to serve the unfortunate children of the world by providing food, accommodation, schools, hospitals and medical supplies.

Since 1960 a UNICEF committee has been very active in New Brunswick winning the support of our citizens through its enthusiasm and effort.

The committee is seeking our support again this year. During its annual Halloween campaign thousands of school children will be calling on us to help them assist other children in less developed countries.

Hundreds of hours of volunteer work by adults and children in your community are devoted towards this annual campaign. Their enthusiasm and concern is worthy of our support during UNICEF Week Oct. 26 - 30.

Fisheries Services Extended To County

In a positive move to improve direct relations between individual Nova Scotia and New Brunswick fishermen, fishermen's organizations and industry, federal and provincial fishery officials, the federal Fisheries Service has initiated a two-year pilot project to assist at the community level.

R. Douglas Johnston, Director-General for the Maritimes, federal Fisheries and Marine Service, announced last week that Fishermen's Community Service Officers have completed an extensive training program and are now working directly with fishermen in their own home ground. These new community officers were chosen, said Mr. Johnston, from fishing areas, through competition, for their knowledge of the fishery and related problems. He explained that the two-year federal pilot project is designed to improve the communications between the fishing industry and government so that the problems of fishermen can receive early attention and that the proposed policies are understood.

The Federal Fisheries Marine Director-General further explained that these Fishermen's Community Service Officers will involve themselves with innumerable projects within their respective areas, such as circulating general information, organization, meetings, guidance and assistance, in general to promote the well being of fishermen economically and socially, or the community being served and the fishing industry in general.

Mr. Johnston said that the nine community Service Officers are working out of the Nova Scotia areas of Digby Neck, Clark's Harbour, Lockeport and Canso and in New Brunswick at Grosgaut, Lameque, Richibucto, Cap Pele and Grand Manan Island and added that the pilot project was due to terminate at the end of March 1978, but if successful could develop into a nation-wide federal Fishery Service program.

Calendar To Keep Public Informed

The Cultural Development Branch of the Department of Youth, Recreation and Cultural Resources publishes a calendar of cultural events. This project was undertaken at the request of many individuals and organizations, and fulfills two basic needs: 1) to keep the public informed of events, 2) to assist in co-ordinating, on a long term basis, cultural events of all types within the province (music, theatre, exhibitions, etc.)

In order to meet these needs, the calendar will contain seven dates for concerts, theatre, festivals and art exhibitions. It will be published quarterly on the 15th of June, September, December and March. The deadline for receiving information is the first day of the month preceding publication (i.e. November 1st for the December calendar). If your organization has already programmed for the 1976-77 season, please send the following information:

For concerts, theatre, dance etc.: Name of town and city, name of artist or company, date of activity, title of program, time, place (name of hall, theatre, school, etc.), name of sponsoring group.

For exhibitions: name of town and city, name of gallery, title of exhibition, name of artist, dates of exhibition.

All organizations or individuals in Gloucester County who wish to publish their activities in the "Calendar of Cultural Events" are requested to forward information to the following address:

Ford of Canada proudly announces

THE FORD DURAGUARD SYSTEM.

Including a new, 36 month, unlimited mileage warranty against rust perforation.

THE FORD DURAGUARD SYSTEM.

Here's what it's all about.

The new DURAGUARD SYSTEM is what goes into every 1977 North American built Ford and Mercury car to give you more corrosion resistance measures than ever before.

The DURAGUARD SYSTEM is built in at the factory. And it's standard equipment on every model.

Read how new anti-rust processes and the increased use of other measures have enabled Ford of Canada to offer an unprecedented 36-month, unlimited-mileage warranty against rust perforation.

Then read the warranty. And believe.

Greatly increased use of precoated steel.

The average use per car of precoated steel for the 1977 cars built by Ford is more than doubled over 1976.

Precoated steel is a well-recognized rust inhibiting technique. You'll find it in many key areas of our cars, providing an effective defense against the moisture and other corrosive elements with which every Canadian car must contend.

New protective vinyl coating.

For the first time, all Ford and Mercury cars will feature a newly developed vinyl coating behind the wheel house openings. Look for it. It's a special, resilient coating that goes on under the paint to reduce the effect of stone chipping and road abrasives kicked up by the tires.

It's standard equipment. And, of all North American manufacturers, only Ford of Canada has it on all models.

Every car gets vinyl sealer.

On seams between panels. Inside wheel housings. On the underbody. Strong vinyl sealer creates a plasticized barrier against rust in many important areas of each and every 1977 North American built Ford and Mercury car.

It works.

And asphalt coating.

It's tough. Tough enough to help protect your car. That's why all 1977 models have a specially formulated asphalt coating on the rear wheel house areas.

You can depend on it.

Galvanized steel.

Ford and Mercury cars have this well-known rust inhibitor where it matters most. In rocker panels, antenna, underbody parts and other extra-vulnerable spots.

Zinc Rich Primer.

Think of Zinc Rich Primer as an undercoat of protection. It gets hand-sprayed onto key surfaces of all North American Ford and Mercury cars during assembly to assist in rust prevention with its well known protective qualities.

Aluminized wax.

Aluminized wax is a protective compound that goes into places where moisture may accumulate, such as inside the lower portions of doors and tailgates.

It goes on thick and stays on to isolate the steel from corrosive elements in the moisture.

The finishing touch.

The finish of Ford and Mercury cars plays an important part in the total corrosion control system. But it starts long before the finish coat is baked on. The bare sheet metal of each car body is cleaned in a phosphate bath that cleans it and leaves a treatment that enhances paint adhesion. Then the body is covered with a primer, (power-primer, rather) by dipping or spraying.

Then just a film of acrylic enamel on those exposed and hard-to-reach places, durable weather-resistant and sheet metal.

And there's testing. Tough testing.

The effectiveness of these rust resistance processes is determined at Ford's leading North American proving ground. Typically, the car is to be tested is sprayed with a salt solution, driven through salt baths and muddy roads such as the one you see here, and placed in a heated humidity chamber for 22 hours. This grueling process is repeated 60 times to simulate prolonged exposure to the kinds of conditions we experience in Canada.

In addition, car bodies are selected at random from every North American plant, including Oakville and St. Thomas, and subjected to other rigorous salt tests.

Only Ford of Canada offers a warranty like this.

To reflect our pride and confidence in the quality, durability and corrosion resistance that are built into every 1977 Ford of Canada automobile, we are proud to announce this new change in warranty. It goes into effect for 1977 cars we build, including [illegible] policy cars.

And it goes to show just how good the DURAGUARD SYSTEM really is.

WARRANTY

This warranty, transferable to succeeding owners, covers the cost of both labour and materials for repair of perforation of parts caused by corrosion. The basic 12 month/12,000 mile warranty covers corrosion, other than perforations, that is due to defective factory materials or workmanship. Ask your Ford or Mercury dealer for details.

THE FORD DURAGUARD SYSTEM

See your Ford or Mercury dealer for the cars with the DURAGUARD SYSTEM.

All Ford North American built 1977 cars receive all of these processes in the DURAGUARD SYSTEM. Every car receives a combination of anti-corrosion processes which is appropriate to its design, although not all cars receive the same processes in corresponding areas. Every car has the DURAGUARD SYSTEM.

Ford

Quality. Reliability. Durability.
At Ford of Canada, it's a lasting commitment.

Tracadie To Apply For Loan

The Town of Tracadie will make application to the Municipal Capital Borrowing Board for a loan totalling $100,000, it was decided at the Oct 14 meeting of town council.

The money, to be reimbursed through federal government assistance programs, will be used in the installation of a storm sewer from Route 11 to the causeway connection at George and Arseneau streets.

Mayor Henri Thomas said the project has been under consideration for some time in conjunction with the Economic Expansion Commission of the Peninsula.

The proposed project is near the landfill site in the centre of town, which has created a great amount of controversy in the past several months.

A citizens' committee approached council on the same subject prior to the September monthly meeting of council protesting the landfill operation because of mud pileup on their property.

More Seeking Church Careers

Canada's theological colleges report a sharp increase in the numbers of students preparing for the ordained ministry, according to the current issue of The United Church Observer.

The Toronto School of Theology, which includes Roman Catholic, Anglican, United Church and Presbyterian communities, has twice as many students this year as almost was formed seven years ago. First year enrollment at Atlantic Theological College, Kingston, Ont., has doubled since last year. Similar increases are reported from elsewhere in Canada and from seminaries in the United States.

The Observer says the reasons for the increase are not known, but that "a study of the experience, motive, commitment and objectives of the candidates will be very valuable information."

Many Views Presented At Six Cities Meeting

Mayor Eldridge Wilkins of Fredericton was elected president of the Six Cities of New Brunswick Association at the annual meeting in the capital city Saturday, Oct. 16.

Elected first vice-president was Bathurst Mayor John A. Duffy while Edmundston Mayor Gerard Thibodeau was chosen second vice-president.

Included in business discussed at the meeting was a decision to have the association executive represent the views of the municipalities on a provincial-municipal finance committee with proposals to have the populations of outside areas worked into unconditional grant formulas to the municipalities on a per capita basis. It was also suggested that municipal goods and services be exempted from the provincial social services and education tax.

The association also passed a resolution to have the province define essential services in municipalities and to have those services and the employees that provide them come under the public service labor relations act instead of the industrial-labor relations act as they do at present.

The association will also ask for proper consideration of the assessments on undeveloped lands within a municipality and an equitable policy on the provision of street lighting in municipalities as a result of two other resolutions.

The association approved the Allen report summarizing the findings of the task force on non-incorporated areas and called for its adoption.

In another issue, the group will push for the government to ban non-returnable bottles along with cans.

Policemen and firefighters should not be employed as private investigators or security guards, the association decided on a motion.

An active participating membership is essential to the life of all organizations, and Home and School is no exception. Join Home and School today.

Several motions on the federal Neighbourhood Improvement and Residential Rehabilitation Program were also approved including one to have the federal government sign another NIP agreement with the cities currently involved in the program in New Brunswick.

Additionally, the association moved to have the province designate the program as a major priority to municipalities and provide support staff to the program, to give the municipalities a greater say in administration and to have NIP areas enlarged in some municipalities.

MRS. MacKNIGHT

Wed In Ohio, Residing Here

Two seven-branch candelabra decorated with white pompoms and greenery and an arrangement of mixed fall flowers formed the background at Wooster Mennonite Church, Wooster, Ohio, for the marriage of Marie Erb and Iain William MacKnight on Oct. 16 at three-thirty o'clock.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. David S. Erb and the late Mr. Erb, Route 1, Apple Creek, Ohio. Mr. MacKnight of Bathurst is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer W. G. J. MacKnight, Saint John.

Rev. Dale J. Long officiated at the double-ring ceremony. One-half hour of traditional wedding music and hymns preceding the ceremony was presided over by the organist, Miss Vera Jean Nussbaum, and the soloist was Freeman Lehman.

The charming bride wore a long, off-white matching coat and dress ensemble, the sleeveless dress featuring an empire waist and highnecked line. She carried a Colonial cascade of tangerine roses, white poms stephanotis, baby's breath and greenery, and wore matching flowers in her hair. The bride also wore a gold bracelet which had been given to the groom's mother by the groom's father on their wedding day. The bride's garter was designed and made by the sister of the groom, using a piece of the MacKnight tartan.

Miss Violet Erb was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a long gown of avocado green. The bodice was covered with a matching flowered chiffon and feature long chiffon sleeves. She carried a Colonial bouquet of mums with pom-poms in mixed fall colors and wore matching flowers in her hair.

The best man was R. Currie Ferguson and the ushers were Bruce Fulford and Omer Erb.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Erb was wearing a street-length dress of dusty rose and an orchid corsage.

RECEPTION

After the ceremony, a reception for approximately sixty guests was held at Church Fellowship Hall, where the bridal table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake decorated with mums and fern.

Host and Hostess for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Erb, assisted by Mrs. Mike Erma Edwards and Miss Orpha Glick.

For travelling on their wedding trip to Kentucky, the bride chose a two-piece green dress with brown accessories. Her corsage was of mixed-colored mums.

The bride is a graduate of Riverside Hospital School of Nursing, Newport News, Virginia, and University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa. Prior to her marriage, she was employed as training and education co-ordinator at Wooster Community Hospital in Wooster.

The groom attended Acadia University and graduated from Business School in Saint John.

Mr. MacKnight is employed as an accountant with Brunswick Mining and Smelting Corp. Ltd., Mining Division, and he and his wife reside in the city at 143 Dawson Ct.

Out-of-town guests were from various cities in Ohio, Indiana and Iowa, also from Ontario, Nova Scotia and Manitoba.

A rehearsal dinner was held at the Wooster Inn on Friday evening.

STALE BREAD

For a nutritional, economical use of leftover bread, try a Canadian bread pudding. Pour boiling milk over bread pieces. Combine with sugar, eggs, spices, and/or raisins, and bake it. Serve with a cold lemon sauce or good Canadian maple syrup. Stale bread can also be conveniently chopped and rolled into bread crumbs for addition to meat loaves or to be used in poultry stuffings.

Former Pastor Shown On Film

The Catholic Women's League of St. John the Evangelist Council held its regular meeting at the Parish Hall in Belledune Oct. 20 with 10 members in attendance. President Mrs. Theresa Landry was chairman.

Plans for the Christmas party were discussed.

Mrs. Hectorine O'Neil read an item contained in Women Of Action concerning the time of Jesus. The article noted the Blessed Virgin was the most prominent woman in the New Testament. She was a listener, rather than a speaker. Mary thanked God for choosing her as His mother; her humility should remind us not to want to be the first, or to have our talents recognized.

A film entitled "Women of Action in the 70s" was shown. A familiar figure seen on the film was Rev. Omer Parker, a former pastor at Belledune.

Mrs. Landry, Mrs. O'Neil and Mrs. Barbara O'Brien attended the Diocesan semi-annual meeting in Dalhousie Oct. 24.

The meeting opened and closed with a prayer. Lunch was served following adjournment.

ANN LANDERS

Rand Theory Wrong Say A.A. Members

By ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We, the undersigned alcoholics, just left a group therapy meeting where the Rand Corporation's statement on alcoholics was discussed. The Rand theory is that problem drinkers may safely resume drinking "like normal people" if they do so in a controlled basis.

When your column blasting them "you exalted the Rand statement "idiotic and dangerous" was read, Everybody cheered.

The 11 signers of this letter know from experience that no true alcoholic can tolerate even one drop of alcohol. He will not touch it unless he wants to get drunk. There is no way a problem drinker can "resume drinking like a normal person," no matter who says what.

All alcoholics would love to believe they can drink "socially," take one or two and stop. Most of us have tried it and learned to our sorrow that it cannot be done.

Here we are in this rehabilitation program, fighting for our lives, and a prestigious company like Rand comes out with this garbage.

One of our members answered when reading the Rand release that he was toying with the idea of taking a drink just to see if he could handle it.

Now we wonder how many more of our brothers and sisters will find themselves back on the bottle as a result of Rand's ludicrous and irresponsible statement.

She can again, Ann, they're still moving. — T.E., J.B., N.P., B.C., R.J., P.B., A., C., E.L., A.E. AND R.M.

DEAR FRIENDS: I've been flooded with calls and letters from recovered alcoholics who are furious with Rand's dangerous and misleading statement. When Rand prints a retraction I will be happy to grant it.

In the meantime, any alcoholic who is "toying with the idea" that he can drink on a "controlled" basis had better forget it or he'll find himself back on the sauce.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 12 years old and very inquisitive about everything. Do cats make acrobatic leaps because of their species or is this something only humans do? I know this is a dumb question but if I like an answer and can't find it in any of the encyclopedias. Thanks for you favorite letter today.

DEAR WIND: Your symptoms are curable. And don't worry about your question being dumb. The best way to learn is to ask.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Most working people take their two weeks of vacation during July or August. My husband and I take ours in November. Frankly, I believe this is the best time of the year.

We plan to go to Florida. Orville says we are going to spend only one week in Florida and the second week we're going to visit his mother who lives in Vermont. Boring around his mother is no vacation for me. I'm home whenever I'm around the woman. What's more, I am very sick of doing the cooking and cleaning while Mama and Orville just sit somewhere taking everybody in the family apart. I'm willing to spend the first three days with his mother and then I think we should head for Florida and enjoy ten days of sunshine. And I mean that. Don't find me the sticks.

Dear Sticks: Since you've said every word, Orville should let you call the tune. Next year, let HIM win. Alternate, honey.

Don't limit your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction, you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How To Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents in coin to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chgo., Ill. 60611.

Unbelievable But True - Warts

Port Cartier, P.Q. July 9, 1976

Like many young boys, my son André was plagued with warts and his face and hands were literally covered.

On June 18, 1976, he had an appointment with Mr. Desfossés. Only 5 days later, June 22nd to be exact, the blemishes had entirely disappeared.

André, of course, is very happy with the quick results of Mr. Desfossés' treatment and grateful, as well. He had not even used the prescription given him by a dermatologist the same day.

Many thanks, dear benefactor, from André's father.

UCW Meeting Ends With A Hymn Sing

President Mrs William Oliver chaired the monthly meeting of South Tetagouche United Church Women held at the home of Mrs. Erwine Good Oct. 20.

The meeting opened with members repeating the UCW purpose after which the devotional period was conducted by program convener Mrs. Good, the theme being "Thanksgiving". Scripture reading, Psalm 118, was by Mrs. Donald MacDonald.

The hymn Sing To The Lord Of Harvest, was followed by collection of the offering. A poem entitled Thanksgiving was read, after which a prayer and the Lord's Prayer concluded the worship period.

Bible study was led by the president.

Roll call was answered by nine members and three guests were present. The minutes were approved and the treasurer's report given by Mrs. D. MacIntosh was adopted.

Correspondence read by Mrs. Hugh Smyth included an acknowledgement of a sympathy card Mrs. Oliver read a letter from Mrs. Winston Knowles, corresponding secretary of Miramichi Presbyterial, regarding fall rallies.

Money was turned in from the sale of cookbooks, spoons, and an "In Memoriam", as well as "pennies for peace".

The president read a letter from M. Jetitt-Parr, secretary for the department of stewardship services, Toronto, concerning stewardship.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Gordon Vance, with Mrs. Harvey Murchie and Mrs. Sanford Smyth assisting with the lunch. The meeting closed with members repeating the creed.

This is one source of heat you can always count on.

We're the other.

MR. AND MRS. GORDON HOPKINS

Hopkins-Caron Nuptials Solemnized At Rothesay

Baskets of mixed flowers adorned the altar of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church in Rothesay for the marriage of Michelle, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Caron, of Rothesay, former Bathurst residents, to Gordon Hopkins, Riverview, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hopkins Sr., Barrington Passage, N.S.

Rev. John Mooney officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. W. Wright was organist and Dr. A. C. Billard, Bathurst, was the guest soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Donna Doucet, Bathurst, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Jeannine Caron, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Betty Stewart.

The groom was attended by his brother, Stephen Hopkins of Edmonton, Alta. as best man. The ushers were Richard Caron, brother of the bride, Herbert Hopkins, the groom's brother, and Brian Newall.

For her wedding, the bride chose a floor-length gown of silk jersey styled on empire lines and trimmed with white lace and featuring a chapel train. A bank of artificial flowers held her elbow-length veil. She carried a cascade of daisies, Sweetheart Roses and baby's breath.

Her attendants wore gowns of silk jersey, with cape sleeves and empire waists, in shades of peach, pale blue and mint green. They each carried a large chrysanthemum to match their gowns.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Caron chose a gown of burnt orange jersey with navy accessories and a corsage of daisies.

Mrs. Hopkins, mother of the groom, chose a floor-length gown of pink jersey with dark accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Shirley Lawn, Rothesay. Major J. E. Caron, uncle of the bride, proposed the toast and Miss Georgette Hopkins, sister of the groom, circulated the guest book.

For her wedding trip to Northern Maine, the bride chose a beige pant suit with a multi-colored silk blouse and brown accessories. Her corsage was of Yellow Sweetheart Roses.

The bride who attended Bathurst schools, is a graduate of Acadia University and the Halifax Infirmary Dietetic Department, Halifax. She is employed in the Moncton City Hospital dietetic department.

The groom graduated from Acadia University, Wolfville, N.S. and is employed by School District 15 of Moncton.

Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins have taken up residence in Moncton.

Out-of-town guests were from Alberta, Quebec, Nova Scotia, Maine, and various centres of New Brunswick. Those present from Bathurst included: Miss Donna Doucet, Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Billard, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred M. Doucet, Mrs. H. Crutchfield, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dempsey, Dr. and Mrs. D. Keating and James Grant.

Debates Are New Phase Of Xi Delta's Programs

Xi Delta Beta Sigma Phi members met at the home of Judy Losier for their Oct. 19 meeting.

A new service project, in the form of sing-outs for senior citizens, was discussed. The matter will be taken up again after more information on the subject is procured.

Geraldine Mason and Kumari Sundaram will attend the Red Cross friendly visiting program as representatives of the chapter at a gathering at Donald Eddy Memorial Hall Oct. 26.

Social Committee Chairman Margo Greenough informed members of the luncheon to be held at her home Oct. 22.

An invitation was extended to all members to attend the music appreciation night at Nepisiguit Centennial Library Oct. 20.

The programs which are the highlights of Beta Sigma Phi meetings are being presented in the form of debates this year, a new idea over which most members were rather apprehensive.

The first program, on communication, presented by Pat Meahan and Jane Richard, got off to a roaring start and encouraged the other members to give the idea a good try.

Choosing television as a means of communication, Mrs. Meahan discussed its negative aspects. Feeling rather strongly against it, she explained the ill effects of excessive television viewing such as the abuse to physical fitness, the addiction it causes, psychological abuses leading to frustration and disillusionment, and why television is termed "a source of poor character formation."

In conclusion, Mrs. Meahan said that television can be beneficial only as a momentary escape from pressures of day-to-day life.

Mrs. Richard, on the other hand explained, the positive power of television actually has no bounds. It can, if used prudently and constructively, help build more social relationships between parent and child.

Television can reach out and touch the lives of millions, she said. To argue whether the medium be positive and vital, or negative and destructive, is as futile as debating the pros and cons of air, water or fire, the speaker concluded.

Mrs. Richard was winner of the debate, a decision which resulted by voting.

Should I Borrow is a question we all ask ourselves at one time or another. But now it's a lot easier to come up with the right answers. The "Interest Reduction Loan" in effect reduces your first years mortgage payments to what they would be at an 8 percent interest rate.

Church Services

In The Bathurst District

The following notices of service are printed as a courtesy of The Northern Light from information supplied by the churches concerned.

BIBLE DIGEST - "But when they saw him walking upon the sea, they supposed it had been a spirit, and cried out . . . and he went up unto them into the ship, and the wind ceased: and they were sore amazed in themselves beyond measure, and wondered." Mark 6:49-51

The lessons here are obvious. Stop trying to be the captain of your own ship, the choppy waters are too much for you . . . don't let your pride keep you from calling for help . . . and there will be no real peace and calm until He comes aboard!

SMELTER EMPLOYEES RECEIVE AWARDS

Safety achievement awards were recently presented to employees in the Plant Engineering Department at Brunswick Mining and Smelting Corp. Ltd. Smelting Division, Belledune. From left, Lloyd Culligan, Aurele Bley and George Kilburn are congratulated by department superintendent, A. Lesebellmer, on completion of ten consecutive years without lost-time injury, testifying to their ability to perform work in a safe and efficient manner.

LIP Allotments Are Announced

Federal constituency allocations for the 1976-77 Local Initiatives Program (LIP) totalling $80.1 million were announced Oct. 5 by Manpower and Immigration Minister Bud Cullen.

Allocations are based on an estimated unemployment rate for each constituency, and the totals by province are as follows: Newfoundland $7,718,000; Prince Edward Island $1,638,000; Nova Scotia $3,707,000; New Brunswick $7,701,000; Quebec $28,591,000; Ontario $16,305,000; Manitoba $2,449,000; Saskatchewan $1,784,000; Alberta $1,798,000; British Columbia $16,171,000. The Northwest Territories has been allocated $535,000 and the Yukon $305,000.

Now in its sixth year of operation, L.I.P. is designed to create jobs during peak times of seasonal unemployment in Canadian communities. This year's program is expected to produce over 20,000 extra jobs this winter.

Allocations are based on the unemployment estimates for each constituency. The department derives these estimates using 1971 Census data, the monthly Labour Force Survey and CMC statistics. Each constituency is guaranteed $75,000. The remaining funds are then distributed to the constituencies in proportion to the number of unemployed exceeding seven per cent of the labour force, but ensuring that no constituency receives less than one-third of last year's allocation.

In the Yukon and Northwest Territories, there are no labour force and unemployment estimates and therefore, these allocations are the same proportion of the total budget as last year - Northwest Territories 66 per cent and the Yukon 34 per cent.

"This year, even more than in other years, funds are being directly targeted to areas of high unemployment within each riding," Mr. Cullen said.

The application deadline was September 30, 1976. The majority of approved projects will be starting between November 1, 1976 and January 31, 1977.

To improve the health conditions of the rural population in Bolivia, UNICEF Canada is directly funding the cost of improving and expanding the coverage of potable water supplies and sanitation facilities in villages having fewer than 2,000 inhabitants, some 90,000 rural persons will benefit. The sale of Greeting Cards is one of the major fund-raising activities of UNICEF Canada which makes support of projects such as this possible.

Unveil Statue Of St. Laurent

A statue of former Prime Minister Louis St-Laurent was unveiled in Ottawa October 15 by Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

The statue, commissioned by the federal government, and sculpted by Elek Imredy of Vancouver, is a near-and-a-half life-size bronze seated image of the late Prime Minister and is located on the lawn in front of the Supreme Court of Canada on Wellington Street. The Prime Minister announced during the ceremony that the area surrounding the statue will be named in honour of Mr. St-Laurent.

Mr. St-Laurent, who died in 1973, was Prime Minister of Canada from 1948 to 1957 during his term in office, he took a leading part in the political, constitutional and general development of Canada. He was prominent in negotiations that led to the entry of Newfoundland into Confederation in 1949 as Canada's tenth province and he was instrumental in the abolition of appeals to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, and in the evolution of the Supreme Court of Canada to its present status as a court of final appeal. He sought agreement with the provinces on some method whereby constitutional amendments could be made in Canada rather than through the action of the British Parliament.

The St-Laurent family, along with members of the four major political parties, Justices of the Supreme Court and the Diplomatic Corps, attended the ceremony.

Exhibit Promotes Fish, Potatoes

Agriculture and Rural Development Minister Malcolm N. MacLeod and Fisheries Minister Omer Leger met with members of the press October 22 to preview a special potato-seafood display for the International Salon of Food Agriculture November 3 - 7 at Place Bonaventure, Montreal.

The press conference was held at the New Brunswick Agriculture and Rural Development facilities on Lincoln Road.

The purpose of the display, jointly sponsored by the two provincial departments, is to stimulate greater consumption by Montrealers of New Brunswick fresh potatoes, fresh fish and other fish products prepared or packaged in the province.

According to Mr. MacLeod, the participation in the International Salon exhibit is just one of many initiatives we are taking to more widely introduce quality New Brunswick food products to Canadians. He emphasized that the government must increasingly concern itself with the marketing of New Brunswick products.

Mr. Leger pointed out that there are 1,000 fishermen in the province. "We want to promote the eating of New Brunswick seafood within our own country, increasing our market share."

Specially prepared information pamphlets will be available at the exhibit to explain the varieties, nutritional value, preparation, availability and storage of the products. Home economists and marketing officers will also be present to answer questions.

Mr. MacLeod and Mr. Leger will host a reception for brokers, wholesalers and retailers from the Montreal area to mark Atlantic Provinces Day, November 1.

Private producers and representatives of the fishing industry are providing samples of New Brunswick potatoes and seafoods which will introduce Montreal consumers to the products.

What's Another Word For Drunk?

What do the words "loaded", "pickled" and "plastered" have in common? Aside from meaning exactly the same thing, they happen to be part of the longest list of synonyms in Webster's Collegiate. The source.

Dr. Mauve Weir Kay, editor of the volume just published by G. and C. Merriam Co. of Springfield, Mass., says "intoxicated" has more synonyms than any other entry in the book.

The 46 listed included "blind", "boiled", "fried", "juiced", "oiled", "pickled", "pegged", "polluted", "smashed", "stinking", "stinko", "sozzled", "tanked" and "zonked".

There are the polite words like "giddy", "squiffed", "lit", and "tight" and some not so nice. And there are the odd ones: "papernoted", "delerious", "half-seas over" and "spifflicated".

Idiomatically there is "full as a tick", "three sheets to the wind", "under the table" and "in the bag".

"It is an odd fact of linguistic life that a word with many synonyms adds more as time goes on", Dr. Kay said, "you would think it might be the other way around. Each generation makes up new adjectives for intoxicated, for instance and the list grows."

And a close runner-up for the synonym race? Well, there are 41 synonyms for "insane", including "batty", "bonkers", "bugs", "crackers", "cuckoo", "loco", "non compos mentis", "nuts", "teched", "wacky".

You can be "around the bend", "crazy as a hoot", "off your onion" and "touched in the head".

And if you're "boiled" as well, as "batty", then you're really in trouble.

Lost Air Service

City Determined To Bring It Back Alive

Bathurst City Council will coordinate efforts to send a delegation to Ottawa in the near future to press for an immediate ruling on an application by Atlantic Central Airlines for additional routes in the Maritimes.

Monday's meeting of City Council found all councillors very concerned over the loss of air service to the city, and all expressed the opinion that nothing would be accomplished without the aid of the federal government.

Asked if he had heard any further developments, Mayor John A. Duffy said he had contacted the Prime Minister's office several times in an effort to put off the airline's closure, but he had not met with success.

"I've invited them here - even invited them to close the Ottawa airport to see what effect it has on a community but to no avail", said Mayor Duffy.

Councillor Jean Paul Lavoie suggested that the city pool its efforts with other organizations and communities. He made a motion calling for a delegation to go to Ottawa to exert pressure on the chairman of the Canadian Transport Commission for a ruling on the application - a delegation to include members of the Chaleur Regional Industrial Commission, the Airport Commission, Chamber of Commerce, citizens of Green Point, Nigadoo, Beresford, etc.

The motion received unanimous approval.

Reunited After 61 Years

They say absence makes the heart grow fonder. Well, if that's the case Ruth Watts of Seattle, Washington must be one of the most welcome visitors to Bathurst in quite some time. She arrived in the area October 20 to visit friends and relatives after an absence of 61 years.

Mrs. Watts, a cousin of George Hussey of Big River, last visited Bathurst in 1915 when she spent the summer with cousins George and the late Molly and Joseph Hussey in the old Hussey homestead. At that time, she recalls, young men were enlisting for service in World War I. In fact, one of her neighbours for the summer months was none other than the Reception Request Denied

A request from the Legion Ladies Auxiliary that council host a small reception at City Hall for Command Officers and distinguished guests on the occasion for the group's 50th annual convention June 3, 1977 was not entertained by Bathurst City Council Monday night.

The initial motion by Deputy Mayor Patrick McLaughlin that the request be left for the next council (to be elected in May) was defeated by a vote of 5-2.

The next suggestion, by Coun. Jean Paul Lavoie, was that a committee of council co-ordinate efforts to find sponsors for the convention, thus eliminating any cost to the city. He suggested the same committee be used that organized the entertainment for a recent Six Cities Association meeting.

However, a member of the committee, Coun. Joe MacNeil, said he had not run for council in order to work with a ladies auxiliary, and indicated he would not serve on the committee.

The motion was defeated by a 4-3 count, with Councillors Val Saulnier, Pat McLaughlin, Doug Williamson and MacNeil against. For such a committee were Couns. James MacLaggan, Jean Paul Lavoie and Terry Lenihan.

Councillors Robert Hodgins and Henry Murphy were absent.

In other business, Council received a letter from the City Planning Advisory Committee protesting a recent decision allowing the installation of a mobile home in Ryan Ward for use in the Neighbourhood Improvement Program. It was noted a mobile home did not conform to the city zoning bylaw.

Coun. Joe MacNeil pointed out that while the council is a democratic one and the committee did have the right to disagree, the people of the area were very happy with the arrangement.

As if to complement the councillor's statement, the next letter on the agenda was from the secretary of the ward's citizens committee, Mrs. Joan Blanchard, thanking council for the setting up of the office.

The City of Bathurst will not be entering a float in the 1976 Greater Moncton Santa Claus Parade, and a letter to this effect will be sent to the chairman of the parade committee.

Province Proposes Change In Designated Highways

Bathurst City Council is awaiting further information on proposed changes to the designated provincial highways within the City of Bathurst before dealing with proposals contained in a letter from the N.B. Highways Department.

At the regular meeting of City Council Monday night, council heard a letter from Deputy Highways Minister E. G. Allen containing recommended changes to Routes 134 and 430 in the central portion of the city.

The department recommended the following changes:

1) Route 134 be changed from Murray Avenue to King Avenue by extending Maple Street through the mill yard to intersect Bridge Street at Murray and then have Route 134 follow Bridge Street, Maple Street and King Avenue to Main St.

2) Main Street remain the designated route from King Avenue to the bridge until the parking along Harbourview Boulevard is rearranged so that Harbourview Blvd. traffic is not affected by parking.

In conjunction with this change, the city would eliminate parking along King Avenue and a program be undertaken to make King Avenue a four-lane street using the funds for work on designated streets.

Councillors felt more information on the subject should be forthcoming before any action is taken. the Councillor Valmond Saulnier suggested a letter be sent to the minister of highways requesting more details.

However, City Manager Pierre Marquis said the city's own engineering department could supply all the necessary information, and council agreed to wait for the November 15 meeting to deal with the letter as City Engineer Geoff Greenough was absent.

TO PAY SHARE

It was agreed to pay the city's share of the annual budget of the Chaleur Regional Industrial Commission, an amount of $5,196. This figure is 60 per cent of the total budget, with the remaining 40 per cent being shared by the incorporated villages on the basis of population and tax base.

Members of the board of directors for the City of Bathurst are Terry Lenihan, Pierre Marquis and Joe MacNeil.

Council was advised that an application by Fundy Line Motels Limited for a dining room and lounge licence will be heard by the Liquor Licensing Board November 5, and any objections to the granting of the licence will be heard at that time.

Bridge Repairs Are Requested

Bathurst City Council will direct a letter to the Deputy Minister of Transportation for New Brunswick, R.G. Allen, asking when action will be taken to replace or at least repair East Bathurst Bridge. Councillor for Bathurst Ward, Valmond Saulnier, said the bridge is in "A sad state of affairs", and it is very easy to lose control of a vehicle on the bridge, especially in early morning.

A report on the rash of vandalism over the Halloween weekend will be presented to members of council this week.

The committee set up to choose a police chief will interview six applicants on Thursday, November 4.

PEOPLE-PROTEST

A citizens' group protesting the recent discontinuance of Atlantic Central Airways service and demanding its renewal will be in action around the local shopping centres Fri. evening and Sat. morning.

Numbering about 30 people, representing area business organizations and various levels of government, those assembled will distribute pamphlets. They will also be prepared to discuss the situation and possible ways of remedying it.

ANOTHER FIRST

For the first time, the N.B. Branch of the Canadian Restaurant Assn. is holding its annual meeting and education sessions in Bathurst. Danny's Motel is the locale and next Tues. and Wed., Nov. 9 and 10 the days and dates.

Don Cutler, CRA's national president, will attend and also invited are cabinet ministers and members of several government departments. Among other personalities on the program is Canada's top bartender, Rene Villeneuve, from the Hotel of Seagram, Montreal, who has produced films and written books on his profession.

Entertainment during the sessions will be by leading local performers, Cyrille Buchey and The Misfits. The official dinner will be prepared by the N.B. Chapter of the Chefs de Cuisine.

EAST DOES IT

From all reports, area television viewers are pleased with the alternate channel which went into operation at Sunday-Except for the snow. That is.

But it's all a matter of having the right type of antenna correctly installed or adjusting the one you already own, according to Mac Thibodeau,

POPPY CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED IN CITY

Wearing the traditional beret, Patrick E. McLaughlin, a past president of Herman J. Cowl VC Branch No. 20 Royal Canadian Legion, officially launches the 1976 Poppy Campaign in Bathurst by pinning emblem on lapel of Mayor John A. Duffy. Mr. McLaughlin, incidentally, is also the city's deputy mayor.

Although poppies have been much in evidence in local shops and clubs, etc. in recent weeks this replica of the flower of Flanders really becomes prominent Friday and Saturday, November 5 and 6.

On the weekend before Remembrance Day (November 11) the annual street and door-to-door canvass takes place. In this connection there are two important facts to remember:

Both the individual poppies and the wreaths being sold by the Legion and Auxiliary members are made in Canada by handicapped war veterans.

All proceeds from the sale of poppies are relegated to a special fund, and, according to the Legion constitution, this money can only be used for the welfare of disabled, sick or handicapped war veterans or their dependents.

Staff Wages Rolled Back

The Anti-Inflation Board has rolled back a wage increase granted to supervisory personnel employed by the City of Bathurst, City Council was informed Monday.

City Manager Pierre Marquis, responding to a query from Coun. Joe MacNeil, said of increases granted by the city to non-union, supervisory and clerical staff, only the raise for supervisors had been vetoed. The city had granted hikes of ten per cent, while the Anti-Inflation Board had rolled back the figure to eight per cent.

Mr. Marquis stated that steps are now being taken to get the difference of two per cent returned. He noted the staff in question is very upset over the turn of events, and council agreed to hold an in-camera session with the group.

First reading was given to a bylaw which would close that section of Burns Drive between Munro Street and St. John Street to all vehicular traffic. Objections to the bylaw will be considered at the Nov. 15 council meeting.

The city will meet with the Cyclomet company of Moncton in the near future to get more information on its major carshredding operation in the province.

Council welcomed the new television channel to the area and news reporter Ian Cheverie, of CHSJ-TV, Saint John, to the council meetings.

In other words, the general consensus is that the majority of people should be experiencing satisfactory viewing.

FROM FAR WORLD

Nice hearing from former well known residents and Northern Light readers, Mr. and Mrs. Aurele Lolly Doucet, now living in Benisar (Almeria) Spain.

Their letter, dated Oct. 25, which reached us Oct. 30, said in part:

"We are very contented with our life here. It is simple, but not dull. We seem to be busy constantly. We do what we can to repay the natives for their generosity.

"The cost of living here is at a minimum although the Spaniard is suffering from a rise in prices and there is less exportation of fruit into France, which makes things very discouraging for the farmer."

"Trucks full of melons were dumped rather than sold for the miserly price offered. So it seems conditions are the same the world over."

VICTIM OF HALLOWE'EN VANDALISM

Members of Bathurst Detachment RCMP, who have been conducting an investigation into the destruction by fire early Sunday morning of the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, a mission affiliated with the Parish of St. Peter, are expected to close the case by the weekend.

The 42-year-old wood frame building in the suburban community of South Newcastle was reduced to rubble as residents and neighbours of other denominations looked helplessly on.

The loss, estimated at over $80,000, includes 31 old pews installed 70 years ago at an investment of $5,000, an organ, the church bell and other accessories including a chalice. The church owned had special sentimental value since it had been donated by the late Angus Christie, a diocesan priest, who had conducted services there.

Rev. Noel Cormier, pastor at the Parish, who administers St. Mary Magdalene's, said the loss was partially covered by insurance. He stated that the fire, believed deliberately set, was discovered by the caretaker, Simon Pitre about 2:00 a.m., or seven hours before the scheduled Sunday mass.

Mr. Pitre, who had checked the premises after midnight and found everything in order, was awakened by the barking of a dog. The flames were then so far advanced that nothing could be done and there is no fire protection available to the area at this time of year.

There are no immediate plans as to rebuilding the church which had been internally redecorated several years ago. In the meantime, arrangements have been made with Community Improvement Corporation (CIC) to hold services in the former Patrick's Landing School located nearby which has been used recently for social and recreational pur-

YOUNGER LOOK FOR DRY SKIN!

Dry skin is an awful liar! It makes any woman look much older than her real age. When you rid your face of skin dryness and its deceitfulness, you immediately look younger than your birthdays are often willing to admit. If your skin is really dry and flaky and uncontrollable under make-up, take immediate steps to raise its moisture level and lubricate its surface effectively. Then suppose that your appearance is up-dating is still... COLGATE DRY SKIN CREAM... dispenses of dryness completely, leaves your skin feeling soft, smooth, delightful to touch. Then, after a sleep, COLGATE DRY SKIN CREAM... the person you'll see in the mirror looks younger.

St. George's Anglican Church, King Avenue

Anniversaries Observed At St. George's

St. George's Anglican Church this year celebrated two special events in its history as a parish, the 150th anniversary of the arrival of the first resident rector, and the 140th anniversary of the consecreation of the first St. George's Church in the parish.

Throughout 1976, a number of events have been held, starting in March with a pancake supper supervised by the church corporation.

There was a fashion show presented by the Young Adult Group, a song festival by the Junior Choir and a congregational picnic in June.

In September, Mr. and Mrs. Colin Smith gave an illustrated talk on the South Pacific and, in October, Saint Goerge's Guild held a bazaar, the theme of which was "Anniversary Year."

The 150th anniversary year was further marked by a family and children's services featuring the Junior Choir and presentation of awards, and installation of Girls' Auxiliary officers on Sunday, Oct. 31.

A chicken salad tea is to be held by Saint George's Organ Guild on Nov. 13.

The special year will conclude with a "service of thanksgiving" to be followed by a parish social. Both events will be held Sunday, Dec. 5, beginning with the church service at 7 o'clock.

SPECIAL SPEAKERS

Special speakers have included Rev. Lloyd MacFarlane, Rural Dean of Chatham who is rector of the Campbellton parish; a former rector of St. George's Canon B.J. Buckland who was present in September, and Bishop H.E. Nutter of Fredericton on Oct. 24.

Archdeacon R. H. Murphy, rector of St. George's since 1968, officiated at all the special activities and at smaller functions as well.

Under Archdeacon Murphy's ministry in the parish, a number of renovations and additions have been made. These include complete renovation of the church interior and installation of a new pipe organ and new seating facilities during 1968 and 1969.

In 1961, a new Religious and Organizational Centre was added as an extension of the church hall, adding greatly to facilities for Sunday School work, as well as providing a large lounge for the use of the church organizations.

Rooms in the basement were later renovated for regular use of the nursery and primary departments of the Sunday School, and more recently, the church entrance and choir room were enlarged and painting of the church and rectory completed.

The earliest mention of an attempt at missionary work in Gloucester County, as recorded in the history of the church is the visit of Rev. G.D. Gray to Bay Chaleur in 1814.

Later, in a report by Rev. Robert Willis, Ecclesiastical Commissionary for New Brunswick, submitted in 1823, it was written that at St. Peter's (the old name of Bathurst) on the Bay Chaleur, the people were making exertions to built a church.

BUILDING STONES

In 1825, Rev. George Best wrote "a church is building at St. Peter's on the Nepisiguit River but the people are destitute of a clergyman."

It was also noted "The settlements of New Bandon and Innishannon (presumed to be the present Palestine) lie on Bay Chaleur and are entirely peopled by Irish Protestants and num number 576 persons in all. They have been visited by Rev. Mr. Suttherl from Grape, Que., who baptised some of their children and administered holy communion."

The same year, Rev. Mr. Bacon, resident missionary of the Miramichi, reported the church at Nepisiguit was enclosed.

In 1826, Rev. Alexander Somerville was sent to Bathurst as the initial resident missionary of the first St. George's Anglican Church which was located on the plot of ground now known as St. George's Town Cemetery on Douglas Avenue.

Lt-Gov. Sir Douglas Howe visited Bathurst Aug. 29, 1825, in a sailing vessel called the "Chemmarre". He visited the school and the English Church the following day, "admiring its picturesque situation."

It was not until Aug. 9, 1826, that Bishop John Inglis of Nova Scotia consecrated the old St. George's Church which, though enclosed in 1825, was not proved until 1834. In 1826, William End and Richard Carman were present as lay delegates from Bathurst at the first meeting of the Diocesan Church Society. At this meeting, 20 pounds was granted to the church at New Bandon which was completed in August, 1861 and consecrated in 1862.

Mr. Somerville remained as rector until 1844 when he was succeeded by Rev. Mr. Russell until 1846. Rev. Noah Disbrow was the next rector and his missionary field included the counties of Gloucester and Restigouche until 1857 when Rev. C. G. Street began his service in the parish until 1862.

During his period as rector, Mr. Street reported "there are two churches in the mission besides one nearly completed at Dalhousie. A church is much needed at Salmon Beach and the church at Bathurst is in such a state that it must be replaced by a new one."

CORNERSTONE LAID

About 1863, a site for the new church on King Street was purchased from the late Miss Waite. The next year, during the rectorship of Rev. LeBaron McKiel, the cornerstone of the new church was laid and building operations began in 1863. Services continued to be held in the old church.

The new church was consecrated Sept. 27, 1865 by Rev. Bishop Medley. In 1885, the rector, Mr. Street removed to Campbellton. He was succeeded by Rev. G.D. Peters in June, 1885 and resigned in 1890. During his incumbency was begun the Church of the Ascension at South Tetagouche.

From 1890-94, each of the following served in the parish: Rev. G. Lutz, R. Simonds, J.S. Reid and D. Richards. After a vacancy of one year, Rev. T.W. Street took charge of the parish from Aug. 16, 1895 to 1902. He was followed by Rev. Hooper, 1902-07; Rev. R.W. Carson, 1907-10; and Rev. P.G. Francis, 1911-12.

Rev. J. A. Cooper was inducted rector of St. George's on May 22, 1912 and continued to serve the parish for 46 years. He was made a Canon of Christ Church Cathedral by Bishop W.H. Moorhead in 1954.

Fire destroyed St. George's Hall and part of the church on Feb. 24, 1924. A new hall was built and joined to the church. The church itself was repaired and rededicated Aug. 19, 1928.

Canon Cooper was succeeded by Canon B.J. Buckland who remained for two years. Rev. R.H. Murphy was inducted as rector in December 1968. He was made a canon of Christ Church Cathedral, as well as Archdeacon of Chatham, by Bishop A.H. O'Neil in 1968.

Teachers Adopt Constitution

A general meeting of the Bathurst Branch Retired Teacher's Association was held October 18 at 7:30 p.m. in Room 24 of the Bathurst High School with president Mrs. Rena Scott in the chair.

The minutes of the general meeting of March and the executive meeting of September 13 were read and approved. Roll call followed.

The financial report was presented by Mrs. Rosalie Hachey. Dr. Ernest Picot presented the proposed constitution for the Bathurst branch, following its discussion and acceptance of the constitution. One additional by-law was added to the original document.

Mrs. Dorcas Woodside, provincial director, read a letter from Ken Gillis of the NBTA concerning a newspaper, "The Normal Light" which was published by Normal School students of 1910. A copy of the paper was displayed.

Mrs. Woodside spoke on a meeting of the Central New Brunswick Retired Teachers Association which she attended on June 3, and went on to report on the annual meeting of the New Brunswick Society of Retired Teachers which she attended along with Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Gertrude Jamieson on June 4 in Fredericton. At the meeting, the proposed constitution for the society was adopted.

Other items of business dealt with at this meeting were terms of affiliation with the NBTA, group insurance for retired teachers and a brief concerning improved pensions for retired teachers.

Following Mrs. Woodside's report, it was agreed that future meetings of the branch should be held in the afternoon rather than in the evening.

The resignation of Mrs. Scott as president was accepted with regret. Vice-president, Mrs. Jamieson will act in that capacity until a new president is elected.

It was moved and seconded that a membership fee of two dollars be paid for the coming year.

Following adjournment of the meeting, a lunch was served by social convener Mrs. Irene Ramsay.

SET GOAL

Winner Third Time Around

Dugray, who crossed the finish line a mere ten seconds ahead of Patrick Duval, covered the distance in a fast 31 minutes. He was presented with the Sir L. D. Tweedmuir Trophy by Wilbur Elliottan, president of the Herman J. Gaul, V.C. Branch No. 10 Royal Canadian Legion, sponsor of the event.

The other competitors were Paul Allain, Leo Desjardins, Doug Dube, Kenneth Legrow and Lloyd Sweet in order of finish.

Popular Stage Group To Return

News that the North Shore Shrine Club is bringing the Miramichi Sanatoria Entertainment Club back to Bathurst after many years is learned with keen interest, pleasure and approbation by many old fans.

The troupe, booked for Sunday, November 21 at Nepisiguit High School Auditorium, with the entire proceeds going to the Shriners' crippled children's cause, is assured of winning many new friends and followers, as well.

A longtime admirer and promoter of the talented group, The Northern Light carried the following report on its edition of December 3, 1953, under the caption "Miramichi Entertainers Thrill Local Audience". (Further details concerning the show and the performers will appear in this local newspaper between now and the actual playdate):

"There was standing room only Sunday night at the Kent Theatre as the Miramichi Sanatoria Club scored a tremendous hit in an after-church presentation.

"From the opening chorus to the national anthem, the show went along at a rapid pace, the program featuring songs, tap dancing and comedy numbers. Highlighting the affair were piano renditions by Nan Bardsley, of Cleveland, Ohio, originally from Chatham, who played the accompaniments for the evening.

"The silver collection taken up, inadequate in this writer's opinion from an audience of 700, for such a good product, amounted to $282.76. The money will be used to defray the expenses of the trips the club makes to give their show at various tuberculosis sanatoria in the province, and the cost of the welcome gifts they take with them.

"This, and the fact that the troupe had given three performances of the same show at Val-Comeau-Lourdes earlier in the day, were made known by Dr. L. L. Pinsonnette in introductory remarks.

"Director of the effort was Joe Currie, who performed himself to show that the vocalart, for which he has been noted for many years, is not diminishing. Vincent A. Moar, capable master of ceremonies and typical in his role, kept the audience in an uproar throughout the program.

"Towards the close of the entertainment, Mr. Moar lauded J. Harper Kent for having placed the theatre at the disposal of the Miramichi group free of charge. Also for his assistance and cooperation in other ways. After the show, Mr. Kent entertained the entire ensemble in the theatre's "Birch Room".

"Old troupers all of them, for they must have been tired doing their fourth show, which was flawless, they are assured of another tremendous ovation when they return to Bathurst." (end of review)

And that forecast in the last paragraph is a certainty. For Vince Moar is still at the helm as emcee and guiding light, and he will be joined here later this month by some of the other old stars, plus a galaxy of new ones.

Vaulting Vandalism

As revolting as it may be, vandalism continues on the increase in the Bathurst area. Both its growth and its spread are now way out of control.

In the Western World, generally, however, vandalism has come to be considered one of the most repugnant of common social diseases and heavy losses are suffered annually from this cancer. Some blame the situation on the leniency of the courts, but where would accommodation be found for incarceration of this growing group of offenders, others will ask."

Far be it from our minds to condone such a policy and perish the thought. But there have been some sufferers who have taken the law into their own hands and they have never been bothered again.

What is most tragic about the whole situation is the fact that until recently few people seemed to care. Many of us would say "too bad" and echo all the pious phrases. It was only the police and the injured parties who shouldered the responsibility of investigating and restoring what had been destroyed.

In some cases, even, there are people who have actually witnessed desecration and then shrugged off any involvement.

Now, however, recent acts of vandalism before, on and after Hallowe'en have made certain people and groups sit up and take notice. Breaking windows and doors is serious enough, but burning down churches and houses is a major crime for which very severe penalties are provided.

First there was the Downtown Merchants Association, who, fed up with repeated acts of aggression, appealed to City Council for some sort of relief. Then came the Board of School Trustees of District No. 4, who after being faced with $33,500 worth of damage within a year are requesting the N.B. Dept. of Education to appoint security guards. In Addition, they are soliciting the support of parents.

Finally, Monday night city council went on record as ordering an appraisal of the losses through vandalism up to the present, as well as research into the manner or means of combatting the menace.

Neither public or private property is sacred today. Too few people have a sense of values or pride. Although much of the vandalism is caused by youths, some of those involved have long since seen their 21st birthday. All of this is a sad commentary on a world said to be civilized. As long as such acts are tolerated, society will retain acute marks of primitivism.

Missing Link

Somebody out there somewhere just doesn't want Bathurst to have an air service and is making mighty sure it doesn't happen.

This situation has surfaced since Diefenbaker times, when as a member of a delegation to Ottawa - K.C. Irving lent an aircraft for the trip, we were assured by the minister of transport at the time that Bathurst had all the natural or physical requirements. This included being a central North Shore location, an active expanding industrial centre, a minimum of fog, and, last but not least, the potential traffic. Yet Charlo got the nod.

Yes, the termination of service by Atlantic Central Airways is a severe blow to the hopes of a province-wide commuter service. The Canadian Transportation Commission might have saved the situation had it moved more quickly on route applications filed by two carriers some months ago.

At that time, Atlantic Central appeared to have been facing discriminatory opposition by the Council of Maritime Premiers and other official bodies. These opponents had placed their support behind the application of Eastern Provincial Airways, the region carrier of the Atlantic Provinces.

While both carriers are reputable and well-run, it would have seemed fitting for Atlantic Central to be encouraged in line with stated government policy in the formation of a third-level carrier service. The government's repeated failure to communicate with Atlantic Central finally resulted in the company throwing in the sponge.

But how about the area itself and the people it serves. Could not there have been a closer alliance so that pressure could have been exerted in an attempt to save the day. Not lock the barn after the horse in stolen, then make a shock announcement throwing everybody into a turmoil.

The greater loser, unfortunately, is the traveller, who almost had a new way to get around the province. The operators of Atlantic Central are to be commended for their attempt to provide commuter service and they will be missed by many businessmen and air travellers.

However, as the saying goes, it is never too late to do good. And everybody, but everybody should cooperate in the present effort by public and private bodies to get the show back on the road.

Hunting Rules Are Criticized

Bathurst, N.B.
October 28, 1976

My opinion on the hunting season is that moose and deer licenses should be issued at the same time, in the same period so everyone would have a chance.

As of now, when the moose season is over, there is nothing left in the woods for deer hunters, also bear shooting should not be allowed during the deer and moose hunting period.

Another thing: In many places, signs stipulate "No Hunting Allowed", supposedly for the benefit and protection of woodsworkers and/or wood cutters. However, these workers have licenses to hunt in these areas. They should not be allowed to hunt in these places either.

For the sake of all hunters, I hope the government will look into this program and do something about it soon.

Mayor's Remarks Are Censured

Bathurst, N.B.
November 1, 1976

With all due respect to Mayor John Duffy's concern over the recent loss of air services and its impact upon the city, province, early and province generally, I was astounded to hear his uncomplimentary remarks over the radio Sat. in connection with our prime minister and premier.

There is no excuse for rudeness and, in my opinion, it is a reflection upon our fair city to hear its chief magistrate speak in this derogatory manner. Truly, I was shocked and dismayed.

So Pride

Criticizes Mayor's Remarks, Inaction

Bathurst, N.B.
November 2, 1976

Last week I along with many other citizens of Bathurst listened to an interview on our local radio station involving Mayor John Duffy and Don Hutton.

The mayor rattled on at length about the loss of air service out of Bathurst. But he rattle on! Also about the political poker for Trudeau which some people at city hall could use also.

Our chief magistrate has got his priorities all screwed up. The handful of people affected by the loss of air service does not nearly compare with the large numbers of our citizens abused to vandalism and destruction in our city streets because the mayor and city council have all but forgotten our city police.

Stop these senseless interviews about things over which you have no control and get your own house in order at city hall. Never mind the airways. The time wasted on all this aircraft nonsense would better be spent in getting support and assistance for our understaffed and overworked police force.

And that's not all that's been neglected. We still haven't appointed a police chief, and still haven't named a replacement for George Jardine, former city treasurer.

I guess we could say your administration will be remembered more for what it didn't do. And that includes the arenas we haven't got but were promised.

Yes, Mr. Mayor, I heard your two years or so ago were your opinion on closed door meetings. My sources of information tell me you have held just as many and more than the previous administration.

Anyway, Mr. Mayor, get your priorities straightened out. Then you can go on the radio and tell us all about the wonderful things you are doing for the city.

School Board Acts To Stem Vandalism

The following press release was issued October 29 by the Board of Trustees of School District No. 4, Bathurst:

"A meeting of the committee on vandalism was held October 28, to discuss the ever-increasing incidence of vandalism in the schools of District No. 4. It was brought to the attention of the committee that for the last school year alone in excess of $33,500.00 in willful damage was done in the District Schools.

"It is to be noted that this amount of money represents the salaries of two full-time teachers or the cost of much needed equipment for which there is no money available.

"The committee would like to emphasize the fact that some parents of the District repeatedly request improvements in our educational system and would like to suggest that possibly if all parents would know the whereabouts of their children at all times and take an active interest in their behaviour, funds would be available for the improvements they seek.

"The committee requests the cooperation of parents and students to eradicate this undesirable problem.

"In the future, in order to arouse the public awareness, a press release will be issued after every act of vandalism in the schools.

"A letter will be sent to the Minister of Education requesting the appointment of security guards in the schools and a plan worked out by the committee, if accepted by the Department, would permit the hiring of these guards at a minimal cost to the Province."

First Season For Ski Club

Is this the winter that cross-country skiing comes to Bathurst in a big way? A group of local enthusiasts thinks so, and they have a public meeting and clinic scheduled for Monday evening next at Bathurst High School in an effort to expand membership in the Bathurst Cross-Country Ski Club. The president is Clair Hodgson.

Other officers are Ray Barbe, vice-president, Gordon Kane, secretary-treasurer, and three directors Marianne Schwarz, Paul Shibley, Eldon McLean.

Mrs. Hodgson says the local club is getting support from two provincial government agencies, the forestry department and the youth and recreation department. A representative from forestry, Norman Henry, has told the club that assistance this winter will include men and machines to prepare and maintain ski trails.

The youth, recreation and cultural resources department will assist in providing speakers and films for seminars and training sessions. Another source of support will be local retailers, for a start, they will provide displays of equipment at the Monday night clinic.

Scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday at Bathurst High, the clinic and meeting will feature equipment, films, a special guest instructor, and an opportunity to enroll in the club. Members-ships are $5 single and $5 family.

FLASHBACK — LONG AGO AND FAR AWAY

St. Luke's Court, a choice residential area overlooking Princess Dr., derives its name from St. Luke's Presbyterian Church and manse, both of which have long since disappeared from the site.

When this Protestant place of worship, one of the city's earliest, was destroyed by fire in 1903, it was rebuilt on St. Patrick St.

After a lapse of years the congregations of St. Luke's and Trinity Methodist merged to create First United Church, which status continues. In the meantime, the Continuing Presbyterians rebuilt St. Luke's at the corner of Murray Ave. and St. Andrews St.

St. Luke's Court was previously known as Hospital Hill because of a medical institution known as the James Hamet Dunn Hospital endowed by Sir James Dunn, established there. Consequently St. Luke's manse became a nurses' residence.

The hospital was gutted by fire in 1932 and the ruins removed. Later Armand E. Roy bought the land and built an elaborate home there. These same premises are now owned and occupied by the Brothers of the Sacred Heart.

In 1962 the then obsolete nurses' home was acquired by H.O. Schryer and razed. A new home was constructed in its place by Mr. Schryer and following his death the property was purchased by Tom Riordon. He and his family now are in residence.

Still in the same area and perpetually cared for is St. Luke's Cemetery. Among pioneer residents resting there are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dunn, parents of Sir James Dunn, the internationally-known Bathurst-born industrialist and financier.

Chaleur Wheelers Suffer 2 Losses

The Nova Scotia Flying Wheels won their two opening games stopping Bathurst Chaleur Wheelers in Atlantic Wheelchair Basketball conference action over the weekend.

In the first game, Saturday, the Wheelers fell behind 26-12 in the first half, but came back with a strong performance in the second half to lose a tight 48-45 decision.

John Crawford was the top point getter for the winners with 18. Camille McGraw led the Bathurst squad with 16 while Michel Arseneau netted 11. Leonard Bryar added 10 points and Clarence Bastarache dropped in 4. Lucie Raiche and Raymond Mercerolle completed the Bathurst total with 2 points each.

In Sunday's encounter, the powerful Nova Scotia team simply played a near-perfect game in drowning the Wheelers by a 74 - 32 count. The Bathurst club fell behind 33 - 15 in the first half.

Top scorer for the winners was John Stubbard with 10 points while Camille McGraw was top-scorer for Bathurst and the game with 18.

The Chaleur Wheelers are in desperate need of a coach and anyone interested in coaching the team is asked to contact Clarence Bastarache as soon as possible.

Alpines Impressive In Pair Of Wins Over Fredericton

Lou Ouellette has regained brother Paul and the pair, along with newcomer George Willett, have developed into a strong attacking unit which should add even more firepower to the already potent attack of the Bathurst Alpines.

This was evident in a pair of exhibition victories the North Shore Hockey League champions produced at the expense of the Fredericton Chevies of the Southeastern New Brunswick Hockey League.

The Ouellette line led the way in Bathurst's 6 - 4 win over the Chevies in Fredericton Sunday for their second win in as many starts against the SNBHL club. The Alpines topped the Chevies 9 - 4 here last Friday.

Paul Ouellette led the way Sunday with a pair of goals and picked up an assist on brother Lou's marker. Linemate George Willett drew assists on two of the Ouellette goals.

Bathurst led 5 - 2 after two periods and pretty well controlled the play enjoying a 40 - 23 margin in shots on goal.

In the game here last Friday, last year's NSHL scoring champion Mike Brophy registered a pair of goals as did Mike Martin and Michel Hamel. Lou Ouellette, George Willett and Don Roy fired singles. Keefe paced the Chevies in this game as well with two goals while Gerry Grant and Randy Bath tallied the others.

Slightly over 600 fans saw the Alpines build up a 5 - 2 lead after 40 minutes and then outscore the visitors 4 - 1 in the final period.

According to a spokesman for Jacquet River Detachment RCMP, the victim was pronounced dead on arrival at a Campbellton hospital following discovery of the mishap by a cousin.

Coroner Walter Thompson of Campbellton said that young Duivenvoorden had been working on a self-propelled harvester when a piece of his clothing became caught in the power train assembly. He was working alone when the accident happened and died of multiple injuries.

HUBERT DUIVENVOORDEN

Mr. Duivenvoorden, who was Canadian-born was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Duivenvoorden, who came to New Brunswick from Holland in the early 50's. Surviving also are five sisters, Trudy, Cathy, Pauline, Jane and Yvonne, and two brothers, Nickie and Carl, all at home; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Duivenvoorden, and Maternal grandmother, Mrs. Verschie, all of Holland.

Mr. Duivenvoorden was an honors graduate of LeBlanc High School, Bathurst, in 1971, and in his youth was very active in the 4-H and cadet movements. Much sympathy is being extended to his family in their great loss under such sad and sudden circumstances.

The deceased rested at the home of his parents, from where the funeral was held at 2.00 p.m. Tuesday to St. Gabriel's Church, Jacquet River.

Skating Seminar November 5-7

The Bathurst and Beresford Figure Skating Clubs will be hosting the first regional development seminar and mini-camp, November 5, 6 and 7th. Clubs participating are Bathurst, Beresford, Dalhousie and Campbellton. The seminar gets underway on Friday evening at 7:30 in Beresford, with an administration meeting followed by a judges clinic on Saturday and mini-camp for the skaters on Sunday in Bathurst.

The purpose of this seminar is to acquaint newly-elected directors with the operational procedures of figure skating clubs as well as broaden their knowledge of this sport. It is hoped that this will encourage group co-operation by getting the clubs in the region together to discuss all aspects of this well-organized sport.

A good turn out is anticipated for the judges clinic on Saturday. There is such a demand for a sufficient number of trained judges to fill the need of the Clubs in the Region. It is hoped that the northern part of the province can soon be self-sufficient in supplying their own judges, thereby cutting down the cost of importing judges from other centres of the province.

The mini-camp is intended to encourage the skaters to upgrade their competitive level, to explore those who might not otherwise have a chance to participate in development camps of any level, and to expose young skaters and their coaches to programs of conditioning.

Betty Thomas, regional coordinator and organizer of this seminar for the North is looking forward to a good attendance and keen participation.

Other regional seminars will be held throughout the province during the coming winter months.

Beresford Bees Belt Tracadie

All six teams saw action Sunday as the North Shore Junior B Hockey League opened its second season.

Beresford Bees, Shippegan Merchants and defending champion Dalhousie Rangers all opened with victories.

Roger LeBlanc scored a pair of goals to lead the Beresford Bees to an 8 - 3 win over Tracadie Save-Easy. Holland Lavigne, Blaise Dubois, Claude Lavigne, Marc Vienneau, Clair Blache and Michel DeGrace completed the Bees scoring. The Bees held a period leads of 2 - 0 and 4 - 1. George Sivret, Paul Ferguson and Denis Lanier tallied for Tracadie.

Jaques Noel counted three times to spark Dalhousie Rangers to a 5 - 2 win over the visiting Campbellton North Stars.

In the other contest, Raymond Mallais turned back 35 Caraquet shots as the Shippegan Merchants blanked the Acadians 4-0. Bert Goupil fired a pair for the winners with the others coming off the sticks of Allain arsenau and Marcel Hache.

A Milestone For Baxter's

Nova Scotia Premier Gerald A. Regan October 27 officially opened the new Baxter Dairy plant at the Burnside Industrial Park in Dartmouth, N.S.

He was joined by a number of prominent members of the business community of Atlantic Canada in dedicating this newest and modern addition to Maritime industry.

The new Baxter Dairy Limited plant is the latest addition to a farm industry whose total milk production in 1975 was 220,250,000 pounds with a farm value to the milk producers of Nova Scotia of close to $35,000,000 during the production year.

For the 761 milk producers, and the 388 cream producers in Nova Scotia, their products help meet the daily needs of more then 800,000 residents of the Province.

Baxter Dairies Limited joins the ranks of new industries to Nova Scotia as one of the largest processors and manufacturers of dairy foods in Atlantic Canada.

Baxter Dairies Limited established a foot hold in Nova Scotia in 1971, when it acquired the business of General Dairies Limited; and in 1974 when it purchased the dairy business of L. Boss and Son, a long-established firm in the Springhill-Amherst-Oxford area, setting up a dairy distribution center in Amherst.

With the construction of a completely modern milk processing plant in the Burnside Industrial Park, in Dartmouth, the company's newest phase of expanding its Nova Scotia market has been accomplished.

In addition to being one of the largest processors and manufacturers of dairy foods in Atlantic Canada, Baxter Dairies Limited, is a large distributor of frozen foods in the area. The Company markets its products throughout the Provinces of New Brunswick, including Bathurst, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia.

Baxter Dairies Limited had its beginning in 1881, when Robert William Baxter, the founder, by horse and wagon in the manner of the times, began his door-to-door delivery of milk products to homes of New Brunswick residents. Over the years, the business prospered and through its expansion program has reached the point where its products now reach the homes of Atlantic Canada.

Mr. Baxter is now chairman of the board. His son, Malcolm Robert, is president and general manager.

Says Airline Should Wait For Decision

The office of Herb Breau, Member of Parliament for Gloucester, released the following statement October 27 on the announced intention of Atlantic Central Airlines to cease its services on the Bathurst-Fredericton-Saint John - Bangor Maine route.

"I regret the decision taken by Atlantic Central Airlines. I have supported their applications in the past and I intended to do so in the future in view of the importance of the service they were providing to Bathurst and the area. I wish they would reconsider their decision and wait for the decision of the Canadian Transport Commission to be made before they terminate their service.

"I spoke yesterday with the chairman of the air transport committee of the CTC and I was told that the question of intra-regional air services for the Atlantic Provinces is receiving top priority and that officials are working on it full time.

"The decision on Atlantic Central will not be made in isolation from the others. There will be one decision made and announced which may contain licences for various carriers. Atlantic Central has received the support of the people of Bathurst as well as their representatives at the municipal, provincial and federal level and in my view they owe these people at least to wait until the decision is made so that we can be assured that our efforts have not been in vain."

Mr. Breau indicated he has sent a telegram to Atlantic Central asking the company to reconsider its decision and to wait for the decision of the CTC.

War Veterans Meet In Lamèque

The North East N.B. Veterans' Association held a regional meeting at the Canadian Legion Bldg. in Lamèque on Sunday, October 26, at 2 p.m.

J. Leo Hachey, who was elected president at the recent annual meeting, was accompanied by the association's executive director, Romeo Thériault, and the director for Shippegan and the Islands, Lavaie David of St. Raphael-sur-Mer.

Attending the meeting were 85 veterans and their wives. Forty-one new members joined the association, including wives of veterans as provided for in the new incorporated constitution adopted at the annual meeting in October 30, 1976.

A bilingual copy of the new constitution was presented to each of the members and over 200 pamphlets were distributed.

It was duly moved and seconded and unanimously adopted that recipients of disability pensions be considered on an equal basis with other federal pension recipients in having their pension adjusted to the cost of living index every 3 months.

Another resolution was passed pertaining to holders of veterans Blue Cross cards, whether they be pensioned for disability or War Veterans Allowance. It is stipulated that these veterans be considered for the same benefits for their wives.

It was also resolved that the next meeting of the association for this region be held in Shippegan. Veterans attending the October 25 session were from Shippegan, Lamèque, St-Raphael-sur-Mer, Pigeon Hill, Miscou, Inkerman, Shippegan Gully and Inkerd River.

Mr. Boudreau was a frequent visitor to his native community throughout the years.

Higher Power Rates Explained

NB Power announced Oct. 26 that two reasons lie behind a power rate increase to be reflected on the Commission's bills to customers in November: last month's withdrawal of part of the federal subsidy on imported oil costs and higher costs of replacement energy from Hydro Quebec after a favourable five-year price purchase contract expires Oct. 31.

Commission Chairman Edison Stairs said, however, that every effort will be made to purchase power from other systems to replace expensive oil fuel for the benefit of New Brunswick customers.

In November the fuel adjustment charge will be approximately 0.370 cents per kilowatt hour, up from the present 0.280 cents. Future changes in fuel subvention will be affected by fuel cost changes and the federal oil price policy.

Expiry of the Hydro Quebec contract on Sunday means that future available energy from that source will be purchased on a shared savings basis as it is with the other utilities with which N.B. Power is interconnected. Under this arrangement, the costs of purchased power will increase, but there will still be significant savings to the customers over the cost of generating that power from oil fired plants.

The fuel adjustment clause is designed to recover unforeseen changes in the cost of fuel used to produce electricity and energy purchases when these costs exceed a base price. The base price is the price paid for fuel on April 1, 1972, when the fuel adjustment principle was first introduced.

Mr. Stairs emphasized that there would not be any changes in the general rate schedules of the Commission at least until next spring, even though such changes were being considered by other provinces at this time.

Atlantic Loto Not Far Away

Fifty thousand tax free dollars. That is the first grand prize that will go to a lucky $1.00 ticket holder in the initial draw of Atlantic Loto, the Atlantic Provinces own lottery program.

Details of the lottery game called "A ONE" were unveiled at a news conference in Moncton November 1 by D. E. Roberts of St. John's Newfoundland, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Atlantic Lottery Corporation.

The game will offer 10 grand prizes including $50,000 as first prize, $25,000 as second prize, third prize of $10,000, fourth prize of $5,000, fifth through tenth prizes of $1,000, and thousands of other prizes ranging from $1,000 down to an award of five free tickets on the next draw.

All prizes are tax free. Tickets valued at $1.00 each, will go on sale later this month at retail establishments throughout the region.

The first draw has been tentatively scheduled for mid-december. It will be televised throughout New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

Subsequent draws will be held every other Wednesday at the same time and will be televised from the community where they take place.

There will be 10 separate numbers drawn for the 10 grand prizes and the other thousands of prizes.

Tickets will be issued in series of 10,000 tickets each numbered from No. 10,000 to No. 19,999. In addition to the five-digit ticket number, each ticket will have a series number and the date of the draw printed on it. Each five-digit ticket will be repeated in every series issued for a draw.

A committee of representatives from each of the four provinces was established to formulate plans for an Atlantic lottery in April of this year following the initial pursuit of the idea by the Council of Maritime Premiers.

In August, the four provinces signed two agreements confirming their decisions to jointly establish a lottery and to set up a Crown corporation to manage and operate it on their behalf.

At the first meeting of shareholders of the Atlantic Lottery Corporation on September 7th, an eight-member board of directors was appointed with two directors from each province. That meeting also confirmed the appointment of Jean-Marc Lafaille as General Manager of the Corporation.

Mr. Lafaille, former legal advisor to Loto-Quebec, had been serving as a consultant to the lottery implementation committee.

The firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Company has been retained as the corporate auditors, the Bank of Nova Scotia as the corporate bank, and the Halifax based firm, Wilshar Advertising Ltd., as the advertising agency.

Attend MS Conference

Delegates from 15 countries attended the first Multiple Sclerosis World Conference to be held in Canada. Over 300 people participated in the five-day meeting held in Toronto in October, including Jean White, Doris O'Neil and Lucille Jewesson, all of Bathurst.

The conference brought together experts in multiple sclerosis research, patient service and public education for a discussion of what is new and what can be expected in the future for those who have the disease.

Medical speakers concentrated on the two major areas of investigation, the search for a virus which may be the cause of MS, and the field of immunology. Immunologists suspect that the damage to the central nervous system caused by multiple sclerosis may result from the body becoming allergic to itself.

In the area of patient services, there were obvious differences between some of the European countries and North America with a much greater emphasis on government support for housing and transportation in Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland and Great Britain.

Multiple Sclerosis is the most common disease of the central nervous system among young adults. The disease may cause loss of the ability to walk, talk or see. It usually strikes men and women who are between the ages of 20 and 40.

The World Conference was co-sponsored by the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada and the International Federation of Multiple Sclerosis Societies based in Vienna.

Formula Budgeting Said Misunderstood

Education Minister Gerald Merrithew told a gathering of District 16 teachers in Saint John Oct. 27 that his department's new system of formula budgeting has been badly misunderstood. However, said the minister, it is already paying dividends.

The education minister was speaking to the opening session of "Professional Development Days," three days of workshops aimed at in-service teacher training in District 16.

Mr. Merrithew said substantial savings in energy are already being recorded due to decisions made locally by district school boards. The money saved may be re-assigned to educational programs within the districts.

The minister stressed that the total amount of money available to education would not have been any different if the old budgeting system had remained. Only its distribution would have varied, he said.

Mr. Merrithew said, "I maintain and I can prove that the school boards are stretching those educational dollars further than ever before." He continued that history will look at right as outstanding formula budgeting.

The new budget formula distributes money to the individual school districts on the basis of their enrolled number of students. A "weighting" factor gives 20 per cent more money for a junior high student than for a elementary pupil, and 30 per cent more for a senior high student.

The minister told the District 16 teachers that a basic program of education is presently being developed. He defined a basic program as "that which a municipality and province feel all school children in the province." It is not intended to be the complete education program, as each district may introduce additional programs that are important at the local level.

Mr. Merrithew listed "special education" as one of the achievements of this department. Pilot projects for the education of handicapped children are underway, he stated, and education for cerebral palsy and mentally retarded children has been extended downward to start as young as age three.

Mr. Merrithew also said second language education is expanding rapidly, both in quality and quantity. There are now 10 total immersion classes operating in New Brunswick.

"They started as an experiment eight years ago," he stated, "but they are no longer an experiment."

Liberals Force Open Session

The legislature's select committee on renewable resources met last week with the doors open to the public and news media following a devotional boycott by Opposition members.

Liberals Adjutor Ferguson Traccuite, Alma Graham, Rene Cormier and John Morton walked out of the committee's first meeting Oct. 20 after Chairman Charles Gallagher, PC-Carleton North, was planning an in-camera session.

Mr. Gallagher said Oct. 27 the meeting would be open, though he had originally planned a closed-door session to discuss how the committee would proceed in future meetings.

The Liberals were expected to raise the matter of the Oct. 25 announcement that the provincial government will purchase Brunswick Mills, the sawmill operation near Bathurst that has experienced problems in recent months.

Opposition leader Robert Higgins has urged a full disclosure of the government's plans prior to any takeover of the mill. He said the purchase would involve a possible $6 million to $8 million expenditure.

Natural Resources Minister Richard Hatfield said the government intends to buy the mill and keep it operating until new owners can be found, but maintained a price. Last month he said the mill, now owned by Cheshire Timber Ltd. of British Columbia, would probably cost $4-5 million.

You can't consider experience a good investment until after it has paid dividends.

A sunny disposition convinces most people that today is the best time of the year.

Is Awarded Scholarship

A swimming scholarship valued at $500 has been awarded to Pam Matthews of Bathurst by the Student Development Awards Committee at Mount Allison University, Sackville.

Pam, a 1976 graduate of Bathurst High School, is presently enrolled in the Bachelor of Science program at Mount Allison, majoring in biology. She has been employed for the past five years as a swimming instructor at the Bathurst High pool.

Superior H & S Group Formed

A group of concerned parents and teachers of students attending Superior School met Oct. 20 to determine interest in forming a home and school association.

Mrs. Alma Lagace, Mrs. Kathleen Brown, Albert Lavigne, school principal and Mrs. Doreen Brown of the Belledune Home and School Association spoke to the organization and gave reasons why Superior School would benefit from such a group.

Approximately 30 persons in attendance then asked questions and gave opinions on the formation of a home and school. All were in favour.

Mrs. Lagace then asked for volunteers to form the first executive of the Superior School Home and School Association. Offering their services were Mrs. Alma Lagace, Mrs. Pauline McBride, Mrs. Joyce Thibodeau, Jim Packard, Hugh Campbell, Vadi K. Radha-krishna and Alan White. School representative will be Albert Lavigne.

The group's first project will be to bring a book fair for the school library to the December meeting.

Remembrance Day To Be Observed

An afternoon church service and parade will mark Remembrance Day ceremonies in the community of Robertville this year.

Scheduled for Sunday, November 7 rather than for November 11, the service will take place at St. Theresa Roman Catholic Church at 2:15 p.m., followed by the parade forming up at 2:45. The procession will then march to the cenotaph, where the laying of wreaths will take place. The Last Post and Reveille will be played by Alcide Maisonville, and a moment of silence will be observed in honor of Canada's war dead.

Following the ceremony, the parade will return to the church and disband.

Parademaster this year will be G. W. Buffalo. Parade order will be an RCMP contingent, colour guard, president of the Robertville Veterans Association, invited guests, members of the veterans' association, regimental band, Boy Scouts, Robertville Ladies Auxiliary, Canadian Legion colour guard, Legion members and the North Shore regiment.

Lions Seeking Used Glasses

Bathurst Lions and Lionettes Clubs will be conducting a campaign to collect used or discarded eye glasses during the month of November 1976 in Bathurst and adjacent communities.

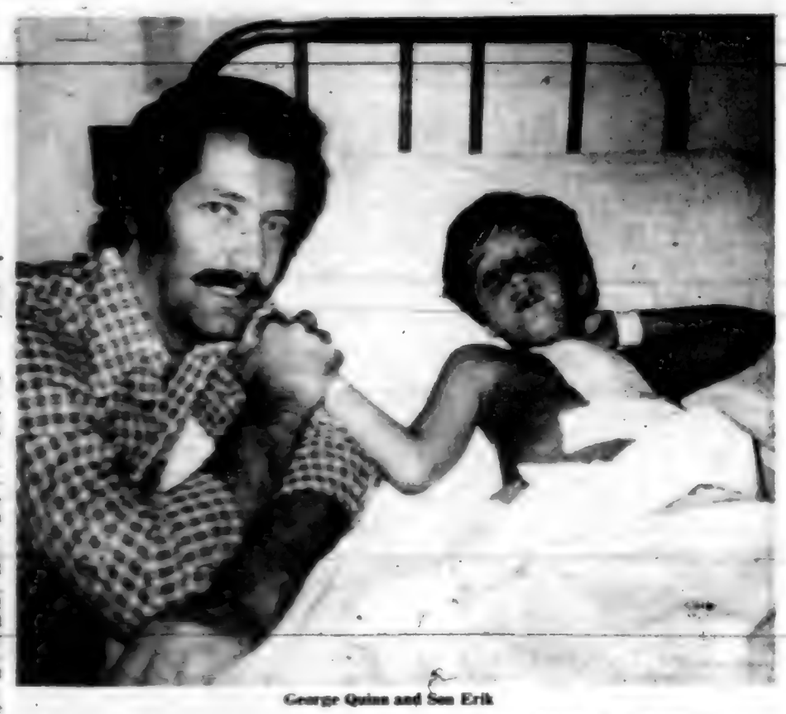
Depots will be set up in 8 to 10 establishments in Bathurst for the receipt of these glasses. Those unable to get to one of these depots, should phone either 546-6944 or 546-5600, evening calls only, and arrangements will be made for a pick up. Glasses may also be given to any Lion or Lionette.

Glasses collected are packed in Bathurst and shipped to Lions International office in Chicago. They are registered and published, frames repaired and then forwarded to one of the underdeveloped countries such as India, Pakistan, Ethiopia, etc.

Clinics have been set up in these places, manned by Lions, with doctors, optometrists, and eye specialists donating their services. People are taken to the clinics, given the proper examination and treatment where necessary. Finally they are fitted with the glasses that suit their needs.

The unique project offers the opportunity to clean out the drawers and shelves in local homes of any old or discarded eye glasses.

The donation of these now obsolete items as far as their owners are concerned, can mean the difference between light and darkness for thousands of people in these underdeveloped countries.



George Quinn and Son Erik

Same Surgery For Dad, Lad Performed In Montreal

Having gone through the same heart surgery 22 years ago, a former Bathurst man, George Emile Quinn of Montreal is relieved and happy that his son Erik has the operation over with and now is back home.

Surgery for an atrial septal defect, commonly known to the ordinary layman as a "hole in the heart", was performed on the youngster Oct. 22 at Montreal Children's Hospital.

The picture of Erik and his dad, above, was taken on his seventh birthday, Oct. 23. The boy was "very happy that his picture was being taken," writes Mr. Quinn.

The boy's father admitted it was "somewhat of an experience", personally. He was 20 years old when he went through the operation.

This surgery gives young Erik a normal life expectancy. Otherwise, the lad's life span may have continued until perhaps 40 years of age, 45 at the most, doctors advised the father.

It was known that Erik was afflicted with a hole in his heart when he was about one year old. In the past couple of years, the normally active youngster has been limited in playing, running and varied sports.

It is interesting to note that, due to advances made in surgical procedures, there are several differences today which would naturally benefit the patient.

George Quinn writes that at the time he went through the same operation at the age of 20, "it took six hours, today it takes four hours.

"Years ago, they took a hammer and chisel to split the sternum (the bone in the middle of the chest, joining the two rib cages); today they have a sophisticated jig-saw. This is the best way to get at the heart, instead of having to crack some ribs.

"The sternum is stitched with wire. It is permanent and the bone mends into one piece. There's no worry if the child is hit in the chest later on.

"Like myself, Erik was born with the atrial septal defect, a hole in the heart as big as a fifty-cent piece in the wall between the two atrium chambers.

"During the operation, Erik was on the heart and lung machine for about 20 minutes, so that the heart could be slit and the hole patched with a 'dacron patch'.

"There are about seven or eight different heart operations weekly at the Montreal Children's Hospital. Erik entered the hospital on Oct. 19 for pre-surgery preparations.

"The nurses ordered a cake from the hospital kitchen for Erik's birthday on Saturday and he celebrated with the other children on the floor."

Five days later, Oct. 26 Erik was discharged from hospital to recuperate at home for a few weeks before going back to school, possibly after his medical checkup on Dec. 10.

MP Defends AIB Program

Gloucester MP Herb Breau, speaking in Shediac recently, reminded the Liberal party's stand that price and wage controls are "undesirable" but said that Canadian workers despite the controls are achieving more at the bargaining table than their American counterparts.

"We would face a very serious crises if this inflation rate is not brought down. Not because we don't want the workers to get more, but the worker can't take more in Canada than the worker does in the States", he said.

In 1975 the worker in the United States was accepting a wage increase that was one per cent below the cost of living index, but in Canada, despite the controls' program you've still got an increase of four per cent over the cost of living".

Concerning labor's allegations that the AIB program only attacks salaries, Mr. Breau said "Wages are more visible, they're more explosive, they're more visible to the public whereas prices are not as visible to the program of the price rollbacks.. that's the difficult thing."

"The prime minister is a person of very strong character," Mr. Breau responded to speculation of discontent with party ranks in light of the resignation of James Richardson as Defence Minister.

"It is therefore normal, that he would attract a lot of reaction but in my opinion there is no discontent within the ranks. I personally feel that if an election would have been held three months before the last election, the Liberals would have lost.

Local Students On UNB Team

Dirk Kiy, Tom Kiy and Ivan Smith, Bathurst students at the University of New Brunswick, will be playing on the UNB Red Rebels volleyball team for 1976-77.

The Red Rebels open their schedule against Dalhousie University on November 12.

Coach Malcolm Early is optimistic that the team will make the playoffs again this year. He expects the main opposition in the Atlantic Universities Athletic Association to come from Saint Francis Xavier University of Antigonish, N.S., Acadia University of Wolfville, N.S. and Dalhousie University of Halifax, N.S.

The Red Rebels show 17 returning players and four rookies on the roster for the season.

WINNER OF MONTHLY SMELTER DRAW

Winner of the monthly Brunswick Mining and Smelting Corp. Ltd. (Smelting Division) draw for a fire extinguisher was Della Baker of the purchasing department. In the photo, she is congratulated by Bro. Firlotte (centre), supervisor of purchasing and warehouse, and Frank Stokoe, chief accountant. Della is now qualified to enter the yearly draw which offers a weekend round trip to Montreal for two and tickets to an NHL hockey game.

Loss Of Service Said Unfortunate

The decision by Atlantic Central Airlines to discontinue air service to Bathurst has been termed most unfortunate by the president of the Chaleur Regional Industrial Commission, Aubin Doucet.

"The Industrial Commission sees the loss of air service as a major setback for the greater Bathurst area and another in a series of impediments to development in the Northeast", said Mr. Doucet. "The severance of air links with other parts of New Brunswick and the rest of the country further isolates the Chaleur region and renders the task of industrial promotion all the more difficult."

"The Chaleur Industrial Commission has, ever since its inception two years ago, been actively promoting the improvement of air service to Bathurst and is prepared to give full support to any initiative leading to the resumption of air services to our region."

Deposit Value Is Increased

The Brewers Association of Canada, Maritime Division, with the approval of the New Brunswick Liquor Corporation, announced last 21 that effective October 25, 1976 empty beer bottles, other than foreign imports, will be worth approximately 40 cents per dozen. Presumably, consumers receive additional 8 cents per dozen.

The increase in the value of empties was necessitated by three factors: the continuing increases in the cost of new glass; the recent increases in the deposit value in the provinces outside the Maritimes, resulting in large quantities of empties going to those provinces; and thirdly, the environmental problems resulting from discarded bottles.

The higher payment for empties will encourage people to return them to a bottle dealer rather than throw them away. It is estimated that in excess of 1,625,000 dozen beer bottles are not returned each year. An improvement in the return rate would go much to reduce the environmental problems and reflect substantial savings in energy and materials used to make new bottles.

MacWilliam Boyd, managing director of the Brewers Association of Canada, Maritime Division, advised that an advertising campaign and posters in liquor stores will appear shortly. The objective of the campaign will be to publicize the increased value of empty beer bottles and thereby encourage people to take them to the near bottle dealer.

The increase in the deposit value is part of the increase in the price of beer announced by the New Brunswick Liquor Corporation.

A man may be the architect of his fortune, but he's also the designer of his misfortune.

Book Captures Spirit Of Prairies Settlement

By ROBERT STONE

Barry Broadfoot calls himself a chronicler, a gatherer of stories, a collector of reminiscences - before it's too late.

In his third collection of edited tape-recorded memories, this time of settlers who opened the Canadian West, The Pioneer Years 1885 - 1914 (Doubleday Canada; 481 pages; $12.50), he has once again applied the technique so successfully employed in Ten Lost Years 1929-1939, the Six War Years 1939-1945 to create a moving and unforgettable slice of living Canadiana, indeed just before it may have been too late.

This hard-cover first edition (with 24 pages of glossy black-and-white photos) captures the spirit of Prairie settlement which reached a peak of 400,000 newcomers in the year 1913 alone.

Broadfoot's work disclaims any pretension to the discipline of historical writing - yet without works of this kind history is a decisive loser.

Mr. Broadfoot spares us the minefields of footnotes that so often ensnare a reader's train of thought. The storytellers remain anonymous, to us anyway, and the usefulness of an index for reference purposes is ignored. (Regrettable.)

Prejudice is reflected separately from these pages. Ten Against the English, so many of whom could not or would not adapt the manners and customs of their own green and pleasant land to the harsh reality of sod houses, boiling summer heat, death-dealing blizzards and the near-total absence of civilized amenities on the Prairie.

There was prejudice against the Indians; against the Americans, and against the East, for was it not Timothy Eaton's Catalogue (as recently defunct) that nipped local artisans and small business in the bud?

And resentment (still echoed to-day by those from Eastern Europe) that Ottawa - in policy and in fact - categorized them as second-class settler material. How wrong that was!

Yet regardless of origin, the Canadian West obviously got first-class work from all of them - or else they went to the wall, as so many did.

LURE OF CHEAP LAND

Instead of that, as in the two previous books, Mr. Broadfoot has simply organized his stories into sections by subject matter.

Each section is introduced by a fragment of descriptive history, establishing a coherent reference point which places a social and economic context and recollections that follow.

Thus the reader is led naturally from the commerical recruitment of settlers from all over the world who were enticed by the promise and the reality of cheap land and individual freedom, through the exploitation of immigrant passengers in fearfully overcrowded ships, to a host of first impressions and subsequent events in the empty and frequently hostile Prairie.

The price of success and the cost of failure are recorded faithfully - the appalling ignorance of Prairie conditions and of the demands of agriculture, the work-or-die ethic, and the reliance on community for barn raisings, threshing gangs, church construction and school buildings.

Throughout these stories, the loneliness of life on the Prairies comes through to us - solitary homesteads, peddlers absurd - even eccentric - individuals and the quick but lasting marriages.

LIVELY IDIOM

The perceptive reader may find reason to criticize some of the anecdotes, all of which were recorded three generations after the events described.

But the lively idiom of the oral tradition English as it was and is spoken in the Canadian West, the nest of colloquial speech, and the fact that all of the reminiscences were chiseled on the malleable but relentive memories of the once-young, provide an authority that breaks the barriers of skepticism.

Total Weight Down In Aug.

Fisheries Minister Romeo Leger announced last 26 that New Brunswick fishermen landed 31,206,777 pounds of fish for a total value of $2,240,400 in August.

The value of landings increased 37 per cent while the total weight were down 33 per cent over August, 1975. The total average price was down for all species, the number said.

Herring, scallop and cod fish catches accounted for the largest weight increases, by 1,000, 1,275 and 338 per cent respectively. Oyster, cod and lobster catches decreased by 96, 59 and 47 per cent respectively in relation to August, 1975.

Herring and cod fish catches showed an increase in value of 2,400 and 300 per cent, respectively. Oyster and lobster values decreased the most, 96 and 51 per cent respectively.

Herring, scallop and oyster landings showed the highest increase in quantity, by 179 and 114 per cent respectively, while the largest price decrease was for cod and lobster, at 19 and 18 per cent respectively.

From January to August the current cumulative value of landings totalled 106,877,400 pounds, down 15.9 per cent from the same period last year when it stood at 126,939,100 pounds. The cumulative value for the same period in 1975 was $10,937,200 while in 1976 it was $10,000,000, an increase of 4.38 per cent.

Figures on fish landings were supplied by the fisheries and marine branch of Environment Canada and variations compiled by the provincial department of fisheries, Mr. Leger said.

Restigouche MP Likes His Life In Politics

By CHARLES CLIMO
for The Telegraph-Journal

Although he has only been a member of Parliament for a year, Maurice Harquail (L-Restigouche) has something of the electoral politician about him.

He was not one of those MPs, like Mike Landers (Liberal John Carruthers) who finds himself suddenly shoved unexpectedly into public life.

While Mr. Landers had an obvious suppression about his new role and whether he was really suited to it, Mr. Harquail embraced it like an old friend.

He knows what he was getting into, he says, and there is every reason to believe he wanted to get into it very badly. In the summer before the Liberal convention resulting in the Pet. to MP Mr. Harquail got some 2,000 miles on his car campaigning and support.

He won the nomination on the second ballot, defeating four Restigouche candidates from the largest Francophone riding (Shippagan-Gloucester is the largest in terms of voters in any Francophone riding). The only Francophone ridings that Liberals have captured since the 1974 election.

When he took his seat in the House of Commons he quickly went about making friends and establishing the groundwork. From the press gallery he could be observed consulting among the others, often shaking hands, passing out cards.

That sort of activity comes naturally to Mr. Harquail, who is a former deputy mayor of Campbellton and a lawyer (also deputy for the Liberals in a provincial by-election Mr. Harquail was defeated two years ago by Tourism Minister Fernand Dubé).

He long seemed to gather from just the media, the impression that he was a partisan supporter of the party's leader-now-turned-to-pariah Maurice Harquail denied about what he's been doing since coming to Ottawa, he answered:

"I've met the challenge. I've provided effective representation. I understand the problems of Restigouche and my understanding has led to action."

A conversation with Mr. Harquail involves a lot of that.

He says he is "still up on the job" and frequently refers to it as "interesting and exciting." It has involved the hall, handshaking, dressing, day-to-day parliamentary life that some people complain about.

"Ottawa is the pulse of the nation. Things blow up here, so naturally it's been very interesting" he says.

His West Block parliamentary office is neat, well-organized and filling up with pictures and memorabilia from experiences as an MP. On the wall there are three pictures of him with Prime Minister Trudeau and several others with cabinet ministers who have visited his riding.

Talked about the highlights of his first year in the House of Commons, Mr. Harquail replied with a parliamentary committee to Vancouver, attended a session of the Law of the Sea Conference in New York, went to Quebec with a parliamentary delegation, spent a week studying French.

"The highlight of all highlights was being asked to make the speech from the Throne", he says. The press secretary called them four days before the speech was to be delivered. He prepared three or four drafts before settling on the final version.

Delivered to a full House, it was a three-quarter speech that contained nothing really for the Tories to grasp for government-like words and the Liberal Party. Although he could have given it for an extension, he finished in less than 20.

"I didn't feel I would have any opportunities or recall any other. I really believe that a most important MP's don't need to remember."

He felt himself at something of a disadvantage when he first came before because the parliamentary system was already a year old, having gotten under way after the 30th election. Now a new session has started and Mr. Harquail feels a "fresh" experience is what he calls "the music" of government, feels he will know this way around.

Earlier, most MPs, he has decided, change the formality look in the ceiling, the corners in the ceiling are their wallpaper, the rugs. If you family were in Ottawa for both he would and get to spend much more time with them anyway.

Since his arrival in the Commons things have gone rather badly for the party. There have been a few scandals, cabinet resignations, debates in backbenches and a growing opposition in the polls.

Potato Case: Risks Are High

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

When the cartel of oil-producing countries succeeded in quintrupling the world price of crude oil three years ago, they gave other governments similar ideas about the prices of their natural resources.

One of the many governments that developed exaggerated ideas about what the market could bear was Saskatchewan's.

The province is the only place in Canada where potash is mined, and its deposits may be the largest in the world.

Last year some $350 million worth of Saskatchewan potash was produced, to supply 23 per cent of the world market (for use as a fertiliser). That makes potash the fifth most important non-fuel mineral produced in Canada, although less than five percent of Canadian potash production is used domestically.

Last November, the Saskatchewan government announced that it would be taking over at least 50 per cent of the province's potash industry, from controlling shareholders mainly in the United States.

This was the culmination of a simmering fued with the investors who had developed the mines.

SHARE THE WEALTH

Both government and industry sought a "fair return" from potash. In the government's case, that meant, first, a prorationing fee, and second a "reserve tax".

The producers retaliated with court actions against the government, to protect their interests.

The premier's position is that if you taking over the potash industry to ensure continued expansion, and retention of Saskatchewan's share of the world market.

But the politicians and bureaucrats may find that success in the potash industry doesn't come as automatically as they had assumed.

A new study by the C. D. Howe Research Institute in Montreal suggests that Saskatchewan may encounter some marketing problems - especially in the United States, which takes 70 per cent of the province's potash production, and where consumers have been alienated by the premier's tactics.

On the world market, potash inventories are excessive, and high production rates keep adding to the stockpiles and depressing the price of the commodity.

Under the circumstances, returns to the provinces are unlikely to justify further expansion.

RESERVE TRUST

Richard Stauffer, the C.D. Howe associate economist who wrote the study, advises the Saskatchewan government to state publicly and soon how far it expects to go in potash, outlining the industry, and then work on restoring good relations with the remaining private companies, so that they may be able to plan for the future.

The potash case, as Mr. Stauffer correctly notes, is an example of a general shift in the attitude of governments toward Canada's resource industries.

Instead of pushing the emphasis on maximum growth, governments now emphasize maximum public revenues.

That may have worked for the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries - but it's hardly likely to work where monopoly conditions don't exist.

Obviously, the clock can't be turned back. It's the spirit of the times for the public sector to be extended and the private sector diminished, especially in natural resources.

But governments ought to be willing to deal firmly with business, and to be as coldly realistic as business people in assessing the potential market for those resources.

English Language Training Expanded

English language training, offered for the past 22 summers by the University of New Brunswick in Fredericton, will now be taught during the academic year beginning this fall.

According to Mary Murray, acting director of the program, the new course will be three weeks in extensive, total immersion similar to that used since 1964 in the summer program.

Formal classes, conducted entirely in English, will occupy most of the day while informal social gatherings, excursions and films will provide continuous language exposure during the evenings and weekends.

The first session is underway now. Other sessions begin Nov. 1 and Nov. 29. The fee for the program, including tuition, room and board, books, excursions and special activities, is $1,400 per three-week session.

Class enrolment will be limited to six to ensure maximum personal attention. Where possible, participants will be housed in private homes.

Students will be required to sign a pledge to speak only English for the three-week duration, a rule which has been abandoned during the summer program.

According to Mrs. Murray, the pledge accounts for the terrific success of the summer program. By enforcing the pledge, she says, the program provides more than just language training.

"We offer a cultural experience that reinforces the formal classroom teaching and makes it come alive. The students live what they are learning. They actually live in English."

UNB's decision to expand the summer program into the academic year was made in response to the public's request. UNB is the only total immersion English language program east of Montreal.

Elizabeth McDonald, the Minor of Commerce, English language teacher, has been asked UNB as the English language field training centre of Canada, and during the past two summers five members of parliament have successfully completed the program.

Mrs. Murray reports requests for an expanded program from other officials and expects the new program will allow greater participation from secretaries and administrators from both government and industry.

Further information in registration is available from the UNB department of extension and summer sessions, Fredericton, N.B.

Kidney Seminar Set For Nov. 5

Two Montreal and Halifax doctors, renowned for their work in kidney removal and kidney transplantation, will be guest speakers at a one - day seminar for New Brunswick doctors on November 5 at the new Dr. Everett Chalmers Hospital in Fredericton.

Dr. Douglas D. Mawhinney, a native of Hartt's Corner and urologist in charge of kidney transplantation at Montreal's Royal Victoria Hospital and McGill University, and Dr. Phillip Belitsky, the head of the transplant unit at Victoria General Hospital in Halifax, will deliver papers and lead discussions.

The one-day seminar, sponsored by the New Brunswick Kidney Foundation, is aimed at acquainting the medical professions with the newest techniques and procedures associated with kidney removal and kidney transplantation.

Dr. Georges Levesque, chairman of the New Brunswick Kidney Foundation's Medical Advisory Board, has indicated that the seminar is one of the necessary steps being taken to set up both organ removal and organ transplantation teams in the Province. New Brunswick he said needs such teams before it can successfully assist with the implementation of a delivery system of kidneys for the many New Brunswickers who are waiting for a kidney transplant.

At present, transplant operations to serve Atlantic Canada are carried out in Halifax and Montreal.
